YANKS ATTACK SWISS CITY BY ERROR; KILL 36

Hit Wrong Target in Raid on Germany.

LONDON, April 1 (AP).—American Liberators bombed industrial and communications targets deep in southwest Germany today and some accidentally dropped incendiaries on the border city of Schaffhausen in neutral Switzerland, causing 36 to 50 deaths and heavy damage.

A United States army report on the day's operations announced some bombs had hit Swiss territory, blaming navigational difficulties induced by bad weather and clouds. It did not further identify the area or the German targets. It listed American losses at 13 bombers and four fighters.

Air Fields Also Attacked.

The Liberators of the 8th air force, perhaps 250 strong, were escorted by fighters which shot down five enemy fighters. The number of German planes shot down by the bombers has not yet been tabulated. Diving to strafe enemy air fields, the American fighters also destroyed several Nazi aircraft on the ground.

Other Thunderbolts attacked air fields in Bremen and Hanover, and shot up 16 locomotives and damaged tugs and barges.

The city of Schaffhausen is near Lake Constance, on the German-Swiss frontier. Across the lake lies Friedrichshafen, a previous allied target. Located in a canton of the same name, Schaffhausen is surrounded on three sides by German territory.

Great Fires Reported.

Broadcast Swiss reports said a large part of historical Schaffhausen was destroyed and described the scene "like a war zone," with the entire populace of 25,000 laboring frantically to extricate victims.

A dispatch from Schaffhausen put the death toll to at least 36 and said 150 persons were injured. An official Swiss report said 30 American planes participated in the accidental bombing.

The incident undoubtedly will involve an investigation and result in apologies by the United States government, which also may pay indemnities.

Today's operations followed night jabs by the R. A. F.'s swift Mosquitos, which bombed western Germany without loss.

The day also marked the 26th birthday anniversary of the R. A. F.

DAMAGE IS HEAVY

SCHAFFHAUSEN, Switzerland, April 1 (AP).—War touched Switzerland directly for a bitter 20 minutes today when this industrial city at the German frontier was bombed by American planes.

Heavy damage was caused in the industrial district and in a section noted for old buildings and a museum. Both districts are close to the railway station, where bombs killed 12 persons.

Most of the bombs were incendiaries. Five square blocks in one district were burned out. The museum burned down. At least 1,000 persons were made homeless.

15 Feared Buried.

While 36 persons were listed as definitely killed, officials believed 15 more were buried beneath one building.

In the industrial section, the well known International Watch company and Jeztler silverware factory were hit, along with six other plants.

While two districts suffered heavy damage, it would be an exaggeration to suggest they were mainly destroyed. Actually, it is possible to drive thru the town and not notice much beyond traces of a roof fire or broken windows.

Some witnesses said 60 planes attacked the city and that two crashed. Townspeople expressed grief at the casualties and damage, but showed no anger, saying simply that they hoped it would not happen again.

Milder Offer Drops Claim to Naval Base

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 2 [Sunday]—(AP).—Russia was understood in reliable quarters today to have expressed a willingness to allow Finland to retain the Hangoe peninsula and the city of Viipuri, in a modification of the soviet armistice terms handed to Dr. Juho K. Paasikivi, of Finland.

Dr. Paasikivi, who has been in Moscow since Wednesday, was reported to have obtained the modifications after Finland rejected the original Russian terms.

The Finnish parliament was called to meet Monday to hear what was described as "an important government announcement."

Demand Reparations.

While reported to be willing to forgo claims on Viipuri and Hangoe the Russians were said to have set a high reparations claim for Finland to pay. Several Finns expressed fear that the Helsingfors government might regard the price as too steep.

The conditions are "milder in many vital respects," according to a reliable account from Helsingfors, and were considered by the Finnish cabinet in a secret session last night.

It was not known here what the modification details provided with regard to the problem of German troops in northern Finland—a problem on which the earlier peace negotiations were said to have snagged.

May Isolate Germans.

The theory was discussed when the original terms were under consideration that the Germans might be isolated instead of interned. In Finnish eyes this is among the major hurdles to an armistice.

Reports from Helsingfors said the public was unaware of the developments.

A naval base is located on the Hangoe peninsula, in southern Finland. Viipuri, on the Karelian isthmus, was taken by the Russians under the treaty ending the 1939-'40 Finnish war.

Information Chief Quits.

The new concessions were regarded as going a long way to pacify Finland, because the Finns attach great sentimental as well as economic value to Viipuri.

Finland rejected the terms March 17 as too harsh.

It was announced officially that Kusta A. Wilkuna, head of the Finnish information office, had resigned and been succeeded by Maj. Gen. Kakoni, close friend of Field Marshal Mannerheim.

Palau Attack Called One of Navy's Biggest

San Francisco, Cal., April 1 (AP).—The assault on the Japanese naval stronghold of Palau by powerful American task forces was described as "one of the greatest surface and naval bombardments ever staged by the navy," said a New Guinea Air Base dispatch received today from Olen Clements, Associated Press war correspondent.

This was the first intimation that the armada, which opened the attack Wednesday within 530 miles of the Philippines, had moved near enough to Palau to shell that stronghold.

Coördinated Attack.

Clements mentioned the nature of the attack in a dispatch dealing with a supporting raid by planes of Gen. MacArthur on the enemy air base of Hollandia, New Guinea.

"The attack on Hollandia [Friday]," Clements wrote, "was all a part of the widespread attack on the Japs at Palau, far west of battered Truk.

"The smashing blow by MacArthur's airmen pinned down the Jap attack planes and enabled Adm. Nimitz' great task force of carriers and heavy warships to carry out its mission, described as one of the greatest surface and naval bombardments ever staged by the navy."

Use Carrier Planes.

Clements did not differentiate between "surface and naval bombardment," but apparently by the latter he meant carrier planes.

Adm. Nimitz announced Thursday that strong task forces began attacking Palau, known as "Japan's Singapore," 1,175 miles west of Truk, Wednesday, but gave no details.

REDS 24 MILES FROM ODESSA AS NAZIS FLEE

LONDON, April 2 [Sunday] (AP).—The Red army smashed to within 24 miles of Odessa yesterday, racing thru nearly 200 villages on a 175-mile front above that imperiled naval base and inflicting "tremendous losses" on axis troops retreating toward the Black sea, Moscow announced today.

Axis columns caught on the east bank of the Tiligul estuary northeast of Odessa were wiped out, said a midnight soviet bulletin, as the Russians swept on over roads littered with hundreds of German and Rumanian dead and axis equipment.

In one sector an entire Rumanian battalion deserted the Germans and "came over to the Red army," Moscow said, and large groups of Rumanians also were surrendering in other areas as soviet forces moved to cut off the last rail escape routes into Rumania.

Fight Way into Town.

In the northwest, the Russians fought their way into Khotin, capturing the southern and central parts of that town astride the last German escape route out of the Kamenets-Podolsk pocket just above the middle Dniester river. A total of 3,300 Germans died or surrendered in that area during the day, the Russians said.

Driving southward in Bessarabia and western Russia toward Kishinev and Tiraspol, the Russians gained 17 miles on a 75-mile front, and moved closer to the rail junction the Germans must hold if they are to withdraw their forces from the Odessa area.

A Berlin broadcast also said soviet spearheads had broken thru to the Tatar pass leading thru the Carpathian mountains into former Czecho-Slovakia, now Hungary.

Reds Gain 14 Miles.

Koblevo, 24 miles east of Odessa, fell to Russian forces striking along the Black sea coast from Ochakov, fortress city captured Friday. That represented a 14 mile gain.

Upwards of 200,000 enemy troops were threatened with disaster in lower Russia, Moscow dispatches said. Swarms of motorized Russian infantrymen, tanks, and Stormovik fighter planes were reported attacking in the Odessa area.

In old Poland the Russians captured Podganets, a district center 27 miles southwest of encircled Tarnopol and 65 miles southeast of Lwow, big railway junction.

The Ankara [Turkey] radio also quoted a Turkish newspaper editorial as saying that "fighting is taking place in the streets of Jassy," Rumanian rail city seven miles west of that country's Prut river border where the Red army holds an 85 mile section of the east bank. The Vichy radio also said Russian "pressure on Jassy is serious."

Kill 30,000 Axis Troops.

In a week of swift advances the Russians killed more than 30,000 Germans, Rumanians and Hungarians and captured 10,000, on the basis of Moscow announcements.

The German high command reported "heavy fluctuating fighting" in old Poland at Stanislau, Brody, and encircled Tarnopol, as well as at Kowel and north of that strategic rail city 170 miles southeast of Warsaw.

Berlin also again announced strong Russian tank and air attacks south of Pskov.

YANK DOWNS HIS 1ST GERMAN BY DROPPING GAS TANK ON PLANE

HDQ. OF 15TH AIR FORCE IN ITALY, April 1 (AP).—Lt. Robert Zirkle, 24, of Venedocia, O., who has flown 47 missions over enemy territory in a P-38 fighter, chalked up his first victory yesterday—by dropping his auxiliary gasoline tank on a Messerschmitt.

He accomplished the feat while alone on weather reconnaissance. He was 300 miles from his base when one motor began acting up and he could not gain altitude. He had decided to turn back when he spotted two German planes. One fled, but the other accepted his challenge. His speed reduced by the cranky engine, Zirkle maneuvered as best he could while bullets from the Nazi plane grazed his ship. Then, Zirkle said:

"The two planes actually touched each other. There is a dent in my stabilizer and I felt a bump when we hit. I pulled around immediately to turn into the Nazi again and saw him below. I also saw a stream of gas spraying back from my plane and thought it probably was from the belly tanks, so I dropped them. I must have hit the German with one, because he dropped down into the clouds and I saw the pilot in a parachute."

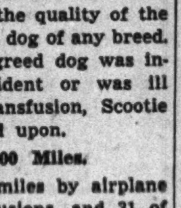
Share in Life of Life Saving and Its Joys

BY GENE GRIFFIN.

There was not another dog in Elgin more famous than Scootie—registered in the pedigree books as Wee Death Valley Scootie—a grayish black little fellow with cinnamon colored whiskers beginning to turn white.



Scootie.

Miss Floy K. Appleby, a nurse, bought Scootie in New York in 1934, when he was 3 weeks old. Almost before he had outgrown his puppyhood he was giving his blood to help save the lives of some of the country's most valuable pedigreed dogs.

Scootie had blood type No. 2, of a royal Scottish terrier strain that would not lower the quality of the most pure blooded dog of any breed. Whenever a pedigreed dog was injured in an accident or was ill and needed a transfusion, Scootie usually was called upon.

Flies 32,000 Miles.

He flew 32,000 miles by airplane to give 39 transfusions, and 31 of the other dogs recovered. Two tablespoonsful would be taken from a vein in Scootie's right hind leg for each transfusion.

Scootie possessed a talent for howling in three tones, which his friends called singing, and sometimes he got away with this on the radio. Bob Becker, THE TRIBUNE'S outdoors editor and dog expert, once had him as a "guest" on W-G-N.

Miss Appleby and Scootie lived at 706 McBride st., Elgin, with Mrs. Arthur McGuire and Speckle Tino, a registered toy Boston just about Scootie's age.

To Miss Appleby, Scootie was above all a friend. They shared a fondness for playing together, and walking in all kinds of weather.

Miss Appleby, gravely ill, called Mrs. McGuire to her bedside one day last week and told her Scootie must be spared any grief if she did not recover.

Friday night Miss Appleby died.

The veterinarian went to the home yesterday before the terrier discovered his mistress was dead. Scootie, yelping and jumping in the best of health, hardly felt the needle.

APRIL 1, ALL RIGHT, BUT PACKAGE FOOLS ONLY THE SKEPTICS

When Willis Herman reached the intersection of State and Adams streets on the way to his tailor shop at 209 S. State st. yesterday, a package lay on the sidewalk. Many had passed it by and a few had waited for the April fool climax.

Herman picked up the parcel and tore the wrapping enough to disclose to those who had waited to see who would be the chump—two T-bone steaks, three pounds in all.

"One time," Herman said, "I picked up a wallet that had $2 in it and another time I found a head of cabbage."

188,000 TONS OF SUPPLIES SENT WAR PRISONERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 1.—One hundred eighty-eight thousand tons of relief supplies for prisoners of war in Europe were carried in the last two years by Red Cross ships, which made 218 trips between Lisbon, Portugal, and Marseilles, France, it was learned tonight. The supplies totaled 22,259,701 food parcels and 829,941 next of kin parcels up to February, 1944.

While most food parcels are packed in Britain, contributions were made by all the dominions, Argentina, and Brazil in the form of either packing, financial aid, or bulk food supply.

The ministry of economic warfare persists in refusing to relax regulations to permit shipping supplies to starving children in occupied countries, particularly Belgium and Holland, altho an exception was made to Greece.

Bullfighters' Union Tries to Cow Owners of Arena

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, April 1 (AP).—Rivalry between two unions of bullfighters threatened today to close a suburban bull ring. The union of picadors and banderilleros—the men who spear the bull from horseback and stick beribboned darts into his shoulders—said that if the management did not cancel a contract with another union of bullfighters' assistants they would go on strike.

CROWD HAILING YOUNG NAZARENE ENRAGES HEROD

(This is the first in a series of stories on the dramatic events of Holy week as observed by Cornelius, a Roman centurion or army captain. The centurion, long stationed in Judea and Galilee, describes the events from the point of view of a Roman and in present day newspaper style. The series of six stories was envisioned and written by John Evans, religion editor of The Tribune. The second article will appear in tomorrow's Tribune.)

BY CORNELIUS

[A Centurion.]

JERUSALEM, April 2, Fourth Year of the Military Governorship of Pontius Pilate.—[Special].—Our journey up to Jerusalem for the feast of the Passover in the company of Herod, Rome's puppet king of Galilee and Perea, was uneventful, except for a single incident late today just outside the city gate. As military aide to the king, it was my duty to clear a way thru throngs en route to the feast, and I felt I had succeeded well.

We departed four days ago from Tiberias, the king's capital, on the sea of Galilee, and proceeded southward thru Perea, east of the Jordan river. Hastening groups from the king's own realms made way for him without unpleasantness, but some from the Decapolis and beyond, who were not his subjects, grumbled wrathfully at him. Judeans everywhere detest Herod, because of his paganism.

Passover Quickens Harvest.

The sun is warm and the rainy season is about over. Farmers are making ready for the barley harvest in lowlands. With the Passover only six days away, they must hasten with their harvest because they must present the first tenth of the crop to the temple before the feast, else they will find trouble and delays in marketing the balance. Olive trees are in full leaf, and flower covered hills are celebrating spring time almost breathlessly before the torrid summer sun bronzes them into barrenness.

Yesterday, the Sabbath, we rested in Jericho after crossing the Jordan Friday night into Judea, with its broken rock land. Passing the night in Jericho, we set out early this morning, the first day of the week, determined to complete the long climb up, up, to Jerusalem by midafternoon. Judea's history, which I have been trying to understand for many years, has been as tumultuous as its mountainous contours.

Prey to Race Hatreds.

At present, Judea is ruled by Pontius Pilate, a Roman military governor whose title is procurator. He has made many mistakes during the four years of his rule, but despite his unpopularity with the people generally, he manages to keep the peace and to get along with those temple authorities who are his stooges.

But Herod and Pilate are at outs, largely because Herod hates anything Roman, and Pilate hates anything Judean. Herod's attitude is not surprising because years ago Rome washed nearly all authority out of his title of king and reduced his powers to those of a subordinate prince, or tetrarch, which is his official designation in Rome. Fanned by his hatred for Pilate, Herod seems to find ironical pleasure in recounting Pilate's mistakes. One blunder especially amuses him.

To get Herod's point, which is hard for us Romans to understand, it must be realized that for the Judeans there is only one God, and statues or pictures of His likeness are never to be made. But with us, we have many gods, with every emperor beginning with Caesar Augustus also a god.

Pilate's 1st Act a Blunder.

On nearly every corner in Rome, and in all the cities of our vast empire, images of various gods receive obeisance of their devotees. But among Judeans, this is the worst of sins. Unaware of this—and it should be remembered that Rome pledged religious liberty to Judea—the very first official act of Pilate was to post the image of Emperor Tiberius, together with the sacred eagles of the Roman legions, in a tower a stone's throw from the temple in Jerusalem.

With ironical laughter, Herod recalled this blunder just as we set foot in Judea from the Jordan river which bounds the country on the east.

"The crazy Roman," Herod roared. "Erect an image of the emperor in the tower of Antonia, will he? Yes, but was his face red when he had to jerk it out again. Roman emperor and eagles backing out! Pfui! And the fool used temple shekels to build the new Jerusalem aqueduct. He made some kind of a

MISS KELLEMS HITS NAZI LOVE STORY AS PLOT

Dares Rep. Coffee to Come Out in Open.

TORONTO, Ont., April 1 [Special].—Vivien Kellems, 48 year old Westport, Conn., war contractor, accused yesterday by Rep. Coffee [D., Wash.] of being the sweetheart of Count Frederick Karl von Zedlitz, an alleged Nazi spy, today challenged Coffee to "come out in the open and fight clean" by waiving his congressional immunity. She declared Coffee's charges were part of a New Deal plot to smear her because of her fight for lower income taxes.

Miss Kellems asserted that Coffee is using his immunity from prosecution to act as a stooge for Drew Pearson, radio gossip, whom she named as the source of letters read to the house by Coffee in his efforts to link her with the purported Nazi agent.

Will Ask Dies to Act.

Miss Kellems, who is 5 feet 2 and often has been designated as America's outstanding woman industrialist and one of the nation's 10 best dressed women, said Pearson previously has read excerpts from the same letters in attacking her over the radio and demanded an inquiry to find out how they came into his possession.

She will go to Washington within the next few days, Miss Kellems said, to renew a request to Rep. Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the house committee on un-American activity, that he subpena Pearson and force him to reveal where he got her letters. She said she is in Toronto for a conference with British naval engineers regarding war work for the British fleet.

Regarding Pearson's use of the radio to assail her, she said she believes his actions have entitled her to radio time from the Blue network to defend herself. She is planning to make such a request to the network, she said.

Miss Kellems' Statement.

Her formal statement in reply to Coffee's house speech follows:

"The perfect coördination and teamwork among Secretary Morgenthau, Mr. Pearson, and Mr. Coffee is a joy to behold. On March 28th I sent a letter to the secretary in regard to the income tax. Apparently he didn't like it.

"As immediately following its receipt little wooden headed Charlie McCarthy Coffee bounds to his feet on the floor of the house, froths at the mouth and drags out that same old Nazi spy. Now everybody please stand by Sunday for Mr. 'Shrew' Pearson.

Calls Him Smerking Coward.

"Tut, tut, boys. Fun's fun and all that sort of thing, but why don't you come out in the open and fight clean? Come off the floor of that house, Mr. Coffee, where you are protected by your congressional immunity, and try to act like a man, instead of the sneaking coward you are. Make those same statements outside where I can hale you into court, force you to prove them, or put you in prison, where you belong.

"Before the New Deal destroyed the last vestige of decency and ethics in our country, any man who would do what you have done would be publicly horsewhipped.

Regrets She's Not a Man.

"For the first time in my life I regret I am not a man so that I could take on the job and land you in the hospital all wrapped up in bandages.

"Until now I have refused to make a statement regarding Count Zedlitz because there are some things that cannot be said until this war is over. Also what I have to say is so important that I refuse to say it until I am before a congressional committee or in court where my testimony will be a matter of record.

"However, since Mr. Coward Coffee and Mr. 'Shrew' Pearson are so insistent, I will refer them both to the FBI. After my return from South America in the spring of 1941 I made a complete report to the FBI and again late in 1943 I gave the FBI additional valuable information regarding Count Zedlitz. I also submitted to the state department a comprehensive report on his activities both before the war and up to the present time.

"Since these brilliant detectives, Pearson and Coffee, have access to confidential state department files, as well as to the United States mails, why don't they give that report to the public? It will provide interesting reading.

"I have recently had two conversations with Congressman Dies and after he has made mincemeat of Walter Winchell, a job well under way, I am hopeful he will subpena 'Shrew' Pearson, and give me the excruciating pleasure of testifying at the same time. If the FBI will consent I will make a full statement regarding my conversations with them.

"Perhaps Mr. Dies can discover for the American people how letters from the United States mails come into the hands of a second rate radio commentator and a popgun congressman. If those letters are authentic, the last time I saw them was when I put them in a mail box.

"Your vicious Nazi smear technique of the New Deal has been successful in silencing other American citizen who have dared to differ with the views of the present administration. But since I have nothing to conceal, I am not afraid and all your fulminating and personal abuse will not swerve me from my purpose, which is to effect the repeal of the income tax and to persuade congress to pass some sensible tax laws.

"While our boys are being slaughtered on foreign battle fields because they haven't enough weapons, you are taking our tax money and throwing it away in silly boondoggling not remotely connected with winning the war.

"The American people are sick of the boondoggling, they are sick of the income tax, they are sick of you—and you're all on the way out. We will exterminate the Japs and the Nazis with bullets, but you traitorous New Dealers will get yours with votes next November.

"Now boys, why don't you think up a new one; why don't you say I'm married to Mr. Hitler?"

Value of the work Miss Kellems is doing for the British navy was attested by her Canadian agent, Stewart Watson, of N. Slater & Co., electrical manufacturers, of Hamilton, Ont.

After reading of Coffee's attack on Miss Kellems he issued a statement describing her as a top authority and expert on certain cable handling problems and said, "Since 1939 she has given valuable help to use for the allied armed forces."

In Washington, D. C., Coffee said after reading Miss Kellem's statement that he does not care "to engage in an adjective fight with her." "The public can judge the case by the nature of the adjectives already used," he asserted.

4 AGENCIES BACK 48-HOUR WEEK OF WORK, SCHOOL

Washington, D. C., April 1 (AP).—The army, navy, war production board, and maritime commission today indorsed a combined 48 hour maximum work-and-school week for students 16 and 17 years old who are working part time.

Standards set up by the war man power commission, United States office of education and the children's bureau of the labor department include a combined work-and-school day of not more than nine hours, a maximum of four hours of work on school days and eight when school is not in session, and a weekly maximum of 28 hours of work when school is in session and 48 otherwise. There is a 10 p. m. curfew on evening employment.

Katherine F. Lenroot, chief of the children's bureau, said high school enrollment has dropped 14 per cent during the war and that some of those still in school put in a work-and-school week of 72 hours.

FOUR IN STATE POLICE GIVEN HIGHER RANKS

Lt. Clayton B. Hamlin of Lake Villa, Lake county, supervising officer of state highway police district No. 2, was promoted yesterday to the rank of captain, and assumed supervision over a second district, No. 5.

He succeeds Capt. Herman Nof of Elgin, who was advanced to the rank of supervising captain over all districts. Nof will serve directly under State Police Chief Harry Yde of Springfield.

Hamlin's former post will be filled by Sgt. James H. Fitzgerald of Aurora, who in turn is replaced by Patrolman Albert Pearson of Woodstock.

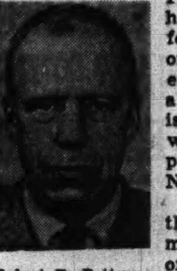
PATTERSON FITS HAND-IN-GLOVE WITH NEW DEAL

He's Tireless Worker for Fascist Projects.

(This is another in a series of articles describing the Fascist tendencies of men high in the New Deal.)

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Robert P. Patterson.

Washington, D. C., April 1.—Undersecretary of War Robert Porter Patterson, spearhead of the drive for forced labor of men and women in industry and agriculture, is a tireless worker for perpetuation of the New Deal.

As director of the vast procurement machinery of the army and as the war department's representative in the allocation of raw materials and industrial facilities to various uses, the 53 year old former federal judge has zealously projected Fascist concepts of planned economy and militarism upon the United States.

Recently he appeared before a house military affairs subcommittee to urge all 4-F's between the ages of 18 thru 37 be ordered into essential work at civilian rates of pay or be drafted into a special army surplus labor corps and receive army pay for the same work.

For Draft of Labor.

At the same time he emphasized he is still for national service legislation, which would sidetrack the 13th amendment of the Constitution outlawing slavery and permit the New Deal to shift men and women about the country at will, ostensibly for essential work in industry and agriculture.

Patterson is one of the group of New Dealers who were for conscription before the war started, both for an army and for industry and agriculture. His position was an outgrowth of his violent interventionism.

Patterson's interventionism, according to intimates, was an outgrowth of a fierce pro-English attitude, which in turn was the result of a Harvard education and a Wall street law office.

Immediately after the outbreak of the present war Patterson, then on the federal bench, joined with a small group of kindred spirits to build an American army which would some day go to the rescue of Britain. The group is known in Washington as the Harvard club group because it met in the Harvard club in New York City to plan for conscription before the United States entered the war.

Conscription in Reverse.

For the post-war world Patterson has a reverse conscription program on the fire. He has proposed that the draft system be worked in reverse at the end of the war so that men will be released gradually as they are placed in civilian jobs.

The proposal was denounced by American minded members of congress as an indication of what the New Deal Fascists have in store for this country after the war is over should they be successful in their war against the American mind.

The reverse draft would entail the organization of a vast new bureau to handle the placing of 13 million or more men in civilian life, it was said. Such a bureau would have a huge pay roll. The burocrats would have Fascist power to place soldiers where they wished upon release and thus shape the social and economic design of the nation.

As a reward for his efforts in behalf of conscription Patterson was brought into the war department by Supreme Court Justice Frankfurter, chief of staff of the White House palace guard, who had secured Patterson his first job with a Wall st. law firm. Patterson, who served with distinction in the last war, was emptying garbage pails at Plattsburg, N. Y., where he was taking an army refresher course, when he was notified of his impending appointment.

He Goes to Work.

Once in his job Patterson went to work for the universal draft, contemplated by the Wadsworth-Austin bill. He had a part in the formation of the legislation, introduced a year ago, and in the revival of the proposal by President Roosevelt at the opening of this session of congress in January. Patterson has appeared before committees urging enactment of the measure as an essential to victory.

From the day he took over his duties in the war department, Patterson pressed vigorously for totalitarian power for the New Deal such as is wielded by leaders in Italy and Germany. He has exercised his power in such a fashion as to be labeled a Fascist in the American wing of congress.

Patterson has been arbitrary and highhanded in dealing with business. Whenever management has attempted to argue against various New Deal schemes, he has threatened to take over plants or shut down on raw materials.

Largest Hotel Operator.

He directed the hotel buying and rental plan, under which the war department became the largest hotel operator in the world. Some 500 hostelries were acquired. Civilian guests and managements were abruptly moved out to make way for trainees in various branches of the service.

Final figures on the cost of this program have not been disclosed, but at one time rental for hotels was running at the rate of 12½ million dollars a year. Gradual abandonment of the program was begun when protestations that the plan was inefficient as well as wasteful proved to be true.

Patterson was the prime mover behind Lt. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, chief of the army service forces, for the 134 million dollar Canol oil project, which was assailed in congress as unnecessary and a mistake from beginning to end. The project called for the construction of a 4 inch pipeline from oil fields at Normal Wells, Northwest territory, to refineries at White Horse, Yukon, in Canada. The line and refineries were to be turned over to Canadian oil interests after the war.

Proposed Tire Seizure.

A year ago Patterson proposed the seizure of 7 or 8 million civilian automobiles, not because the government needed the cars, but so that they might be stripped of their tires. The cars were to be scrapped and the rubber salvaged for war purposes.

A short time later he engaged in a bitter wrangle with the then rubber czar, William Jeffers, the only man to complete a federal project on schedule and up to advance notices. Patterson charged that Jeffers' employment of strategic materials to build synthetic rubber plants had hampered the conduct of the war, because the strategic materials should have gone for the construction of plants to make aviation gasoline. Friends of Jeffers charged Patterson had attacked the railroad executive merely to hide his own inefficiency and blundering.

Patterson began working for the elimination of all passenger car production in the summer of 1940. He was not successful in halting production until after Pearl Harbor.

Obsolete Weapons.

At the same time he began accumulating huge stock piles of strategic materials. It was charged that this was done as much to make civilians war conscious as it was to acquire materials needed for the war.

Patterson countenanced the production of obsolete weapons to justify his demands for raw materials. He condoned the production of 37 mm. anti-tank guns long after it was known that these weapons would not stop a tank, as well as a number of other useless weapons.

The undersecretary halted the construction of new homes for workers, promoting the building of barracks, on the ground that if barracks are good enough for soldiers they should do for civilians.

Patterson was gracious to labor, particularly left wing labor. Capitol hill observers suspected he was entertaining hopes of running for President in 1944 as the labor candidate. Whatever personal ambitions he may have had, he has buried to plug for the fourth term.

He also has been mentioned as Frankfurter's choice for chief justice of the Supreme court if Chief Justice Stone hands in his expected resignation in June. Frankfurter is said to cherish ambitions to dominate the court over opposition of Justices Black, Murphy, and Douglas.

Boy Scouts sold $972,113.75 worth of war bonds and stamps in Chicago in the 4th war loan drive, C. A. Koehler, secretary of the war service committee of the Chicago council, reported yesterday. Among the most diligent workers, Koehler said, were Scouts in southwest units, who canvassed families in lower income groups.

JUDGE REFUSES TO WITHDRAW IN SEDITION CASE

Rejects Mrs. Dilling's Plea of Prejudice.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 1.—Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher of the federal court for the District of Columbia declined today to disqualify himself from presiding at the sedition conspiracy trial which is scheduled to start April 17.

Justice Eicher issued a decree asserting he had concluded he is "without the discretion or the obligation to rescue the court" from the sedition trial.

Answers Plea of Prejudice.

The ruling was made in answer to an "affidavit of personal bias and prejudice" filed by Atty. Maximillian St. George in behalf of Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling of Chicago and a motion for a change of venue filed on behalf of Joseph E. McWilliams, also of Chicago, two of the 30 defendants in the sedition case.

Mrs. Dilling and McWilliams charged in their motions that Justice Eicher was biased and prejudiced against them and therefore could not give them a fair and impartial trial. Mrs. Dilling asked Justice Eicher to disqualify himself from presiding at the trial and McWilliams asked transfer of the case to another court.

Long Trial Expected.

The trial of Mrs. Dilling, McWilliams, and 28 others named in an indictment returned Jan. 3 by a special grand jury is expected to last well into the summer.

The defendants are charged with conspiring with Hitler and his Nazi chieftains to aid in the establishment of a Nazi form of government in the United States thru undermining the morale of American soldiers and sailors with allegedly seditious literature.

VANISHING EGGS HATCH TROUBLE FOR POSTAL AID

George W. Rowe.

George W. Rowe, 18, of 2212 Eastwood av., a temporary employe in the Lake View postoffice since November, yesterday pleaded guilty to charges of rifling the mails when he was arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. He was held to the federal grand jury in $500 bond.

Postal inspectors told the commissioner that packages began to disappear mysteriously about the time Rowe, who carried mail in the afternoons and worked inside the postoffice at nights, started to work.

At the time of Rowe's seizure, they said, he was in the basement of the postoffice readdressing a package so that it would be delivered to him.

Also, they asserted, they found in Rowe's locker nine dozen eggs which had been taken from crates in postal transit. Rowe's tastes, they said, ran to candy and other confections when he first began work but shifted to eggs, which he sold to other postal employes.

Minnesotans Honor the Stassens

STASSEN TO GET MINNESOTA VOTE AT CONVENTION

'No Issue'—Willkie

Lincoln, Neb., April 1 (AP).—Wendell Willkie said today in an interview that he believed no issue existed between himself and Lt. Comdr. Harold E. Stassen, his opponent in Nebraska's April 11 Republican Presidential preference primary. Willkie described Stassen, who is former governor of Minnesota, as "one of the coming young men of the Republican party." Willkie said that in campaigning in Nebraska he would not attempt to capitalize "on the discontent of carrying the burdens of war" and added that "if I were President I would call on the American public for even greater sacrifices to win the war."

St. Paul, Minn., April 1 (AP).—Minnesota Republicans in biennial convention, tonight put forth Lt. Comdr. Harold E. Stassen as the "man who can lead the party to victory in the November Presidential election."

Approximately 700 delegates approved a resolution which said "Minnesota is proud to offer to our party and our nation former Gov. Stassen who possesses to the highest degree those attributes of leadership that the party and the country needs today."

The indorsement came after the keynote address by Sen. Ball.

With the election of seven delegates at large who will support Stassen at the Republican national convention, 23 of Minnesota's 25 delegates now are pledged to support the former governor. Eighteen delegates—16 instructed for Stassen and two uninstructed—already had been picked at district conventions.

The party went on record as "pledging itself to a realistic program of coöperation with other nations to assure the future peace of the world. A comprehensive program, taking a position on agriculture, conservation, education, defense, social walfare, labor, and industry, also was adopted.

DEMOCRATS NOT TO DELAY DATE OF CONVENTION

Washington, D. C., April 1 (AP).—Democratic committee officials said today it will be impossible to postpone the starting date of the party's national convention in Chicago because arrangements have been completed for July 19.

They made this known in commenting on reports from the west coast that the date conflicts with the California state party conventions, fixed by law for July 20, and with the July 22 primaries in Texas. Atty. Gen. Robert W. Kenny of California had asked that the convention be postponed to July 24.

Committee officials here pointed out that the proximity of the dates would not interfere with the selection of California's delegation to the national convention, which will be elected in a May primary.

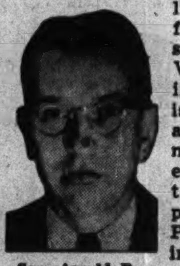
BENSON BLASTS WILLKIE AS FOE OF OWN PARTY

Accuses Him of Spoiling G. O. P. Harmony.



Sen. Arnold P. Benson.

Peoria, Ill., April 1 [Special].—State Sen. Arnold P. Benson, Republican candidate for secretary of state, denounced Wendell Willkie in a statement issued here today and warned that many Illinois voters will desert the Republican party if he is the Presidential nominee.

Benson said that he will exert every effort to see that the Republicans do not repeat their fatal mistake of 1940 and nominate Willkie. He asserted that the people of Illinois are tired of Willkie's 'campaign oratory,' his New Deal alignments, his attempts to purge loyal Republicans, and his program for 16 billion dollars in new taxes.

"Any one but Willkie" is the repeated admonition of Republicans thruout the state, Benson said. Terming Willkie a "pseudo-Republican" candidate, he said that he is convinced that not one delegate of the 59 from Illinois to the national convention will support Willkie's candidacy.

Calls for "True Republican."

"Because I have been asked on every hand to give my position on this all important subject, I feel impelled to state publicly and unequivocally that, as the Republican nominee for secretary of state, I shall use every effort and influence to prevent our party from repeating the disastrous mistake of 1940," Benson said. "I will join with the leaders of our party in our effort to give the people a Presidential candidate who is a real American and a true Republican.

"Since the launching of the Republican primary campaign, I have spoken at meetings in every downstate county, in nearly every Chicago ward, and in practically all the townships in Cook county outside Chicago. Everywhere the meeting halls have been crowded with eager listeners, many of them erstwhile Democrats who now realize that the Republican party is the only agency thru which the people may rid themselves of the New Deal. Next to winning the war, that thought is paramount in their minds.

United Against Willkie.

"Everywhere the question is asked of me: 'Whom will the Republicans nominate for President? It must not be Willkie. We will win with any one of those prominently mentioned, except Willkie.' County chairmen in every section of Illinois have told me that they know of hundreds of voters in their counties who expect to vote Republican but who will deliberately refrain from voting if the party nominee is Willkie.

"My campaign thruout the state convinces me that not a single delegate to the Republican national convention of the 59 to be chosen in Illinois will vote for the pseudo-Republican candidate, who was the nominee in 1940. They will have no more of his 'campaign oratory,' of his unwarranted attempts to purge loyal Republicans from our party, of his New Deal alignments, or of his program for 16 billion dollars in new taxes.

"There is but one discordant note in our entire national party and Illinois is determined to help eliminate that disturbing influence."

COURTNEY TOPS CAREER WITH GOVERNOR RACE

Has Support of Machine, Despite Kelly Break.

This is the eighth article in a series discussing candidates seeking nomination for state offices in the April 11 primary.

BY GUY GENTRY.

An elimination process that took on the aspects of a draft movement made Thomas J. Courtney, racket fighting state's attorney of Cook county, the unopposed candidate for governor in the Democratic primary.

While demands for his candidacy from downstate party leaders were based largely on Courtney's independence of machine politics, the gubernatorial aspirant always has had the support of the regular Cook county Democratic organization with the sole exception of his attempt to unseat Mayor Kelly in 1939. That ended in inglorious defeat.

Needs Kelly Machine Votes.

While emphasizing his political independence, Courtney still does not disdain the Kelly machine votes in Chicago, which he must have to overcome downstate Republican majorities.

Courtney, the only son among seven children of James R. Courtney, Chicago policeman, was born Dec. 23, 1894, at 29th and Wallace sts. He attended St. Rita's High school, worked at the stock yards, and then became a clerk in the police department, later being chosen sergeant at arms of the city council. He also served as secretary to council committees.

Elected Senator When 30.

Courtney served in the navy in World War I., returning to his civil service job after peace, and began studying at Kent College of Law. He was admitted to the bar and elected state senator in 1926. He went to Springfield when 30 years old, the youngest member of the upper chamber, and served six years, finishing as minority leader.

The late Mayor Cermak placed Courtney on the ticket for state's attorney in 1932. He was an easy victor. At 37 he was the youngest state's attorney ever elected in Cook county.

Fights Chicago Gangsters.

He started an independent administration of law enforcement directed principally at gangsters and racketeers.

Courtney was reëlected in 1936, and again in 1940. He was placed on the 1936 Democratic slate after rumors of attempts to keep him off. Courtney, never as close to Mayor Kelly as he had been to Cermak, drew even further away from the mayor when, in 1937, he publicly attacked city and county officials for their failure to stop gambling. This was followed by his race against Kelly for the mayoralty in 1939.

G. O. P. CENTERS CLOSING WEEK IN CHICAGO WARDS

The final week of the Republican primary campaign will be highlighted by a radio broadcast Tuesday by Sen. Brooks and a business men's luncheon for Arnold P. Benson, candidate for secretary of state, in the Palmer House Wednesday noon.

Brooks will speak on station WROK from 6:30 to 6:45 p. m.; KXOK, 9:15 to 9:30 p. m.; WENR, 9:45 to 10 p. m., and WCBS, 10 to 10:15 p. m., all on Tuesday. More than 1,000 persons are expected to attend the Wednesday meeting in honor of Benson.

Gov. Green and Richard P. Lyons, candidate for United States senator, will speak this afternoon at a Negro mass meeting at the 8th Regiment armory. Lyons and Lt. Gov. Cross will be the featured speakers at an Italian-American rally in St. Jerome's hall, 2801 Princeton av., after the Negro meeting.

Tomorrow all Republican state candidates will appear at meetings in the 4th, 5th, 7th, and 8th wards.

FARMERS TO AID IN DRAFTING OF G. O. P. PLATFORM

The committee on agriculture of the Republican post-war advisory council, one of the special committees appointed at the Mackinac conference last September, will hold open meetings in the Stevens hotel tomorrow and Tuesday to receive proposals of farmers and farm groups as to the recommendations it will make to the Republican platform committee.

The farm groups to be heard represent all shades of political opinion, it was pointed out. The National Farmers' union, which, with its president, James G. Patton, has been predominantly Democratic, is one of these groups.

Others are the National Grange; the National Council of Farmer Coöperatives; the American Farm Bureau federation, and the National Coöperative Milk Producers federation.

Birthday's Today

Triplet sisters, June, Joan, and Jean Kubovy had an April Fool's day birthday party in their home at 1508 Cuyler av., Berwyn, yesterday. Actually, their birthday is today—but anything goes on April Fool's day. They are 7 years old. To add to the day's pranks the blue eyed, blonde sisters, who closely resemble one another, each wore an identical blue knitted dress, gifts from their mother, Mrs. Laddie Kubovy. After they had confused their 17 guests with their amazing likeness, the girls unpinned handkerchiefs which covered their breast pockets, revealing their names embroidered in white upon their dresses. The girls have an older sister, Carol, 9, who also strongly resembles them.

DEMOCRAT BOSS ASSAILS G. O. P. IN INFLATION TALK

Boston, Mass., April 1 (AP).—Rep. McCormack of Boston, house Democratic leader, tonight accused the Republican leadership in congress of seeking to "undermine controls against inflation" while giving "lip service" to them.

In an address prepared for a radio broadcast, McCormack said it was "shocking" that the opposition party leadership has taken "the political course" of attacking the mechanics of price control for "political advantage."

McCormack asked his listeners to keep an eye on the developing congressional battle over renewal of the price control act, due to expire June 30, and to be "especially alert" for an amendment that would limit price control to basic commodities and "exempt so-called luxury items."

"Such an amendment," he charged, "would encourage our farmers to grow less corn and wheat and potatoes . . . and more of the high priced foods we can get along without while the war lasts. It would fill our stores with dress shirts instead of work shirts. It would give us orchids when what we need is cabbage. It would tell us, when our people want bread to let them eat cake."

G. O. P. 'ATHLETE' CALLS ON PARTY TO LOOK AHEAD

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Olympia, Wash., April 1.—There's lots of young blood among 26 Republican governors who will oppose the old men of the White House palace guard in the campaign this fall, but Washington's 44 year old Arthur B. Langlie probably can top them all as an athelete.

Ailing Harry Hopkins, White House intimate, and the enfeebled members of President Roosevelt's cabinet can look to the northwest and see a G. O. P. party leader shooting golf in the 80s and serving a tennis ball with a bang and a whiz.

"All the Republican party needs to do is to adopt a forward looking program," Langlie told an interviewer today. "Then the G. O. P. can take Washington and the nation in November."

Restores City's Credit.

Langlie, as mayor of Seattle before his election to the governorship in 1940, was known as a conservative. In a debt burdened city torn by CIO strikes and radicalism, this conservatism meant that he quieted labor violence and restored the credit of the municipal treasury.

Now, as a national leader and as a likely candidate for reëlection, the youthful governor is becoming known as a progressive politically. By "progressive" is meant that he is part of a movement which has rejuvenated the old elephant.

"The old line republicanism wouldn't carry Washington and it wouldn't carry the nation," Langlie said.

Willkie's Stock Falls.

The governor is expected to lead an uninstructed delegation to the national republican convention June 26 in Chicago. His friends insist that no significance should be attached to the fact that his former campaign manager, Fred Baker, is campaign manager for Wendell Willkie. This insistence has become stronger in the last couple of months while Willkie's stock on the west coast has been slipping and the popularity of Gov. Dewey of New York has been growing.

Willkie promoters—he is the only candidate with a well organized promotion on the west coast—also have tried to link Langle with the Wall st. lawyer because the governor introduced Willkie for a speech here several weeks ago.

Friends Disavow Link.

In disavowing any such link, Langlie's associates say the governor plans to introduce Gov. Bricker of Ohio here soon.

The Republican trend in this northwest state was noted here in 1942, when the party won three congressional seats previously held by Democrats.

Then, last month, Seattle elected William F. Devin as mayor by a vote of 3 to 2. It was a nonpartisan election, but Devin, formerly police judge when Langlie was mayor, was known as conservative, almost synonomous with Republican in this city's politics, and he was opposed by the New Deal Democratic organization.

TRIBUNE OFFERS DRILL TROPHIES TO MILITIA UNITS

Awards Will Be Made for Attendance Records.

BY GEORGE SCHREIBER.

Appropriate trophies will be given by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to those units of the Illinois Reserve Militia which have attained the best records of drill attendance between June 1 and Dec. 1, 1944, it was announced yesterday. The Reserve Militia is the state military organization that replaced the National Guard called into federal service on March 5, 1941.

Attendance at drill always has been a problem, both in the National Guard and the Reserve Militia, especially in the latter, whose men are not paid. In order to spur the attendance efforts of the citizen-soldiers at weekly drills, THE TRIBUNE is offering eight cups or other appropriate trophies to the reserve units in Chicago and downstate cities.

Seven Regiments of Militia.

In the militia there are seven infantry regiments—three in Chicago and four downstate—composed of 80 rifle companies. One award will be made to the company in each of the seven regiments with the best attendance record between June 1 and Dec. 1. In addition the regiment with the best total attendance record of both officers and enlisted men also will be awarded a trophy. The collection of the attendance records is under the direction of Brig. Gen. Leo M. Boyle, the state adjutant general and head of the Illinois military and naval department. Gen. Boyle has published a general order outlining the procedure.

The rules of the contest are simple. A count of both officers and enlisted men present on the drill floor at roll call will be made each drill night and the count certified to the adjutant general. In the final computation the average attendance will be taken.

Ribbon awards to be worn on the guidons also will be made to the companies placing first, second, and third in each regiment.

Mainly Above Draft Age.

Each infantry regiment is composed of approximately 1,500 men. The civilian occupations of the citizen-soldiers range from truck drivers to bank presidents, all drawn together by an attraction for the military and a patriotic duty. Most are above the draft age, but the militia also has proved beneficial to younger men facing induction.

"Members of the militia drill one night a week in the old National Guard armories," said Gen. Boyle. "The entire militia or any part thereof, is available for the use of the governor in a state of emergency just as was the National Guard."

The state troops are clothed and armed partly with federal and partly with state funds. The uniform is a duplicate of that worn by the regular army, except that members of the militia wear "Ill.," the abbreviation of Illinois, on collar ornaments instead of the army's "U. S." Militiamen wear the uniform only at drill or on emergency duty.

Paid During Active Duty.

Enlistments are for two years, but unlike the National Guard members of the militia are not paid for attendance at drill. They are, however, paid for any active duty periods.

The 1st, 2d, and 8th regiments, the latter with Negro personnel, are the Chicago units. The 3d, 4th, 5th, and 6th regiments are downstaters. The 7th regiment has not been organized.

2,500 DEMOCRATIC WOMEN LISTEN TO CANDIDATES

More than 2,500 Democratic women, gathered in the Stevens hotel for a card party yesterday afternoon, heard State's Atty. Courtney, candidate for governor; Sen. Lucas, Mrs. Paul Douglas, candidate for representative at large, and those others on the party's state and county ticket in a brief speaking program.

Courtney said the Republicans had no woman candidates, even tho woman voters, he said, will exercise their greatest power this year. Mrs. Douglas complimented the women on their interest in the party and urged the necessity of winning the war first and then winning the peace.

Sen. Lucas said he believed the people would insist that President Roosevelt run again and he felt sure the President would win. The President, said Lucas, knows more than any other man about the world's problems.

Casimir Griglik, candidate for clerk of the Supreme court; William J. Touhy, candidate for state's attorney, and Sheriff Mulcahy, candidate for that office, also spoke.

NEW DEAL'S FOE MEETS BATTLE AS REPUBLICAN

Hubbard, Who Quit Democrats, Opposed.

BY LEE SHASSERE.

Among contests for state legislature seats, a battle attracting wide attention is that between Sen. Nicholas L. Hubbard of Mount Pulaski and Lawrence Rotz of Decatur for the Republican nomination in the 28th senatorial district.

Hubbard is the anti-New Deal Democrat who after several years of hard punching at what he considers the sins of his life long party, literally carried his desk over to the Republican side of the senate chamber. His reputation for integrity made this action convincing to many Jeffersonian Democrats now reviewing their political affiliation, his friends say.

G. O. P. Leaders Back Rotz.

Altho Rotz has the indorsement of district Republican leaders, Hubbard and his supporters have been lining up votes for him at such a rate that he is accorded a good chance April 11. Hubbard served two terms in the Illinois house and is winding up his fifth senate year.

Political observers yesterday declared that Republican optimism and the pessimism of Democrats had been reflected in the legislative entries. They could not recall when there was such hot competition for Republican nomination in some districts where Democrats hold senate seats.

Republican Aspirants Numerous.

For example, in the 18th district, seven G. O. P. candidates have filed for the senate nomination, altho the incumbent is a Democrat, Thomas E. Madden of Peoria. In the 40th district, three Republicans are battling it out for the chance to fight in November against Sen. John W. Fribley [D., Pana], who is unopposed for renomination.

Sen. Martin B. Lohmann [D., Pekin] is unopposed in the 30th district, but there is a contest for the Republican nomination.

NOMINATION OF BONE TO APPEALS COURT IS CONFIRMED IN SENATE

Sen. H. T. Bone

Washington, D. C., April 1 (AP).—President Roosevelt appointed Sen. Homer T. Bone, 61 [D., Wash.] a a judge of the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals today and 12 minutes after the nomination was received the senate confirmed it unanimously.

Bone's acceptance of the appointment and subsequent taking of the oath of office to succeed the late Judge Bert E. Haney would remove from the senate one of the President's stuanchest supporters and open the way for the appointment by Republican Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington of a new Republican senator. This would reduce the Democratic strength in the senate to 58, with 37 Republicans and one Progressive.

The appointment came just after Bone entered the hospital here today for one of a series of treatments he has undergone since he fractured his hip in a fall at his home more than a year ago.

PICK WISCONSIN DELEGATES AT POLLS TUESDAY

Milwaukee, Wis., April 1 [Special].—Wisconsin voters will go to the polls Tuesday to select 24 Republican convention delegates and 26 for the Democratic national convention.

The two extra delegates to the Democratic convention are in the nature of a political plum because President Roosevelt carried the state against Wendell L. Willkie in 1940.

There are four slates of Republican delegates pledged to Gen. MacArthur, Gov. Dewey of New York, Lt. Comdr. Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, and Willkie. In the Democratic column there are two slates, one for President Roosevelt, and one headed by William R. Callahan, which is running under the slogan: "Stop politics and win the war."

Justice to Be Selected.

Voters also will select a justice of the Supreme court. Justice Oscar M. Fritz is running for the 10 year term. He is opposed by Peter F. Leuch, a Milwaukee lawyer who has run unsuccessfully for many offices. Leuch has the indorsement of William T. Evjue, editor of the Madison Capital Times.

In the same election Milwaukee voters will select a mayor, aldermen and other city officials, county supervisors, and a circuit judge. Judge Gustave G. Gehrz, a candidate for reelection, has no opposition.

Bohn Opposed by Seramur.

Acting Mayor John L. Bohn, who succeeded Lt. [j. g.] Carl Zeidler, reported missing by the navy more than a year ago, is being opposed by John Seramur, who resigned as police bodyguard in the mayor's office to make the run.

The only issue developed by the campaign is that Bohn, who has been alderman from the 23d ward since 1916, is 76 years old. Seramur is 38 and his supporters claim that the city should have a young mayor.

50 INDEPENDENT UNIONS TO PUSH FOR WLB VOICE

Delegates representing 58 independent unions affiliated with the Confederated Unions of America, will meet in Hotel Sherman today to map plans for demanding representation on the national war labor board, Mathew Smith, president of the organization, announced yesterday. The meeting was scheduled to be held March 19 in New York, but was postponed, Smith said, to permit the delegates to learn more of the wishes of their local memberships. A four day work stoppage in 44 Michigan and Ohio war plants in protest against the nonrepresentation was conducted in February by members of the Mechanics' Educational society, an independent union, of which Smith is secretary.

NAZIS LONG WAY FROM DEFEAT, LANZA WARNS

Allies Winning, but Enemy Army Still Stands.

[This is the first of two articles reviewing and analyzing the progress of the war.]

BY CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and recognized authority on military matters.]

The long and uninterrupted series of allied gains has led many to take it for granted that the war is nearly won, and that no one need worry about it longer.

It might be well at this time to recollect a saying of the Roman poet Horace: Non secus in bonis ab insolenti temperatam laetitia. [When things are going well do not rejoice excessively.]

Wars are full of uncertainties. Surprises are common. In this war there have been many surprising events. There is no justification in celebrating the approaching end of the war until the enemy's main forces have been decisively beaten.

Russia was badly beaten in 1941 and the first half of 1942. The allies were badly beaten in the Pacific theater of operations in the winter of 1941-1942. In each case a dark and seemingly hopeless situation has been transformed to a rosy one. Let us hope that this will continue. But it is better to provide against any possibility of allied reverses by devoting all energies to keeping eternally after the enemy's main forces.

Safe from Invasion.

The Americans and British have the great advantage of control of the air and sea. Regardless of whether they win or lose in their various campaigns against the axis in Europe or in Asia, their own homelands appear to be safe from invasion.

Even if all campaigns should fail, the allies yet remain unbeatable. If they do not succeed the first time, they can take their time and try again whenever they consider the circumstances propitious.

Russia is not in this position. The axis can get at Russia, has done so, and conceivably might do it again. For Russia, time is an important factor. If she, with the help of her allies, cannot wipe out the German armies within a reasonable time, she runs the risk of being again invaded by new German armies.

Choice for Germany.

Germany has the choice of adopting an offensive, or a defensive, strategy against Russia. She has no choice against the Americans and British at this time. She must remain on the defensive until they choose to attack. If she should repel the allies, Germany would not have won the war. She would only have prolonged it. She is involved in a war with two unbeatable nations, which she can not get at, and who refuse to stop the war.

Germany's one chance, and a slender one, is that she will be able to repulse the allied attack, and then be able to turn swiftly against Russia and overthrow that country before the allies could be ready to commence some new operation.

Count on Invasion.

In recent months the German strategy has been to yield space in the east to obtain reserves. The Russians have been seeking to break thru the German lines. So far they have been able only to drive them back. Whether the Russian advance has been swifter than the Germans expected, or whether it has been slower, is not yet known.

The Russians claim complete satisfaction with the rate of their advance, altho naturally they like to see the German line disintegrate, and the road to Berlin left open. They expect the latter result under allied pressure from various directions.

German commentators assert the retreat in Russia has been in accordance with a secret strategical plan. There is no way of verifying this now.

YANKS SET RAID MARK IN MARCH AT RECORD LOSS

Heavy Bombers in 23 Attacks; 293 Lost.

LONDON, April 1 (AP).—The Britain based United States 8th air force lost 293 heavy bombers in March—more than any other month in the history of its operations in the European theater—but its loss was a measure of its strength rather than weakness.

Operational losses of the United States strategic air force in Europe have a tendency to remain steady in the economical neighborhood of 5 per cent, increasing or decreasing in proportion to the size of the month's operations.

Thus the March losses—43 more than the previous high of 250 in February—reflect more bombers in the air over the reich, and more bombs dropped, rather than more expensive missions.

6,000 Heavy Raiders in Action.

On the basis of 5 per cent, the loss of 293 planes would mean approximately 6,000 sorties by American heavy bombers were flown against Europe last month, accompanied by about the same number of fighter escorts—a thundering armada of 12,000 warplanes.

In March a record number of 23 heavy bombers missions was executed. A total of 134 fighters was lost, also a record for a month's operations.

The most expensive day for the Fortresses and Liberators was March 6—date of the first heavy daylight raid on Berlin—when 68 bombers failed to return.

Thirty-eight More Lost at Berlin.

Other days on which heavy losses were suffered were March 8, Berlin, 38; March 16, Friedrichshafen, Ulm, and other targets, 22; March 18, Augsburg, Friedrichshafen, and other targets, 43; March 23, Brunswick, Hamm, Muenster, and other targets, 37.

The losses during March represent an investment in planes of at least $73,250,000 and a regiment of 2,930 highly trained airmen.

GOOD WEATHER PUTS ALEUTIANS YANKS ON GUARD

ON THE NORTH PACIFIC FRONT, April 1 (AP).—This region is on guard with the arrival of an Eleutian "good weather" period for possible Japanese attack. Recent alerts at some of the island chain bases which stretch a thousand miles from Attu and the mainland of Alaska is evidence that the sky and sea are being closely watched.

This seasonal period of good weather, particularly for flying, extends thru April and May.

Japanese bombers last struck at Attu last Oct. 13 during a corresponding period of weather transition. Eight Mitsubishi bombers that made the raid came from Paramushiro, the enemy's Kurile base 700 miles from Attu. The bombs all fell wild. The enemy no doubt wants to retaliate for United States bombings of the Kuriles

Report Vichy Seizes 40 De Gaullists as Hostages

MADRID, Spain, April 1 (AP).—The Vichy government's decision to exact reprisals for the execution of collaborationists in North Africa already has been placed in operation, the Paris correspondent of the newspaper ABC wrote today. He said that 40 De Gaullists had been arrested in France, forming the first "list of hostages" and added that "antagonism between Algiers and Vichy will lead to a clear and manifest civil war."

HIGH COMMAND SHAKEUP URGED IN ITALY FIASCO

Army Journal Criticizes Allied Blunders.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 1.—A shakeup in the allied high command in Italy as a result of the failure to advance and the heavy losses suffered was suggested today by the Army and Navy Journal, unofficial but authoritative spokesman for the military services.

"Since our army's Stars and Stripes and the Canadian Maple Leaf were permitted to denounce the latest Cassino assault as a failure, a denunciation which could have been directed only at the high command, it would seem to end crimination and recrimination, and the responsible officers should be required to collaborate more efficiently or be succeeded," the Journal said.

The publication said that following the vote of confidence he forced on a minor parliamentary issue, Prime Minister Churchill is firmly seated in office and will have an opportunity to review the Italian campaign with President Roosevelt and perhaps decide on changes in the high command to restore public confidence.

Another Meeting Possible.

It was held possible that Churchill and Roosevelt may shortly meet, possibly with Stalin, to discuss the conduct of the war, particularly the opening of the second front.

The Journal found that the Italian campaign has had suffered thru a series of blunders and that while it has provided the allies with lessons, it has also furnished the enemy with them. It also criticized the entire Mediterranean strategy.

"But in London as in Washington, the rebuff suffered at Cassino is not the only phase of the Italian operations which have aroused criticism," the Journal said. "There was, first of all, the delay in connection with the plan, reported by Churchill, to land an air borne division in Rome. It was not executed because the Germans had time to seize the air fields.

Force Called Inadequate.

"There was the decision to enter Italy by the toe of the boot. This called for an advance along the mountain range, which offered ample opportunity for German defense as we, unfortunately, have learned. In executing the decision, there was inadequacy of force, and our artillery lacked the heavies required.

"There was the old story of too little and too late at Anzio, with the result that altho the landing was a surprise, which is always possible thru naval support, the troops, instead of moving to cut the Via Casilini, the supply line of the German forces at Cassino began consolidation of the beachhead where they are besieged.

"Had we invaded southern France which the Germans at the time were still working to make impregnable, or into the upper Adriatic sea where contact could have been made with Tito's forces in Jugo-Slavia, critics of the strategy followed insist a radically different situation would exist.

Enemy Encouraged.

"As it is, southern Italy has not only provided us with lessons, but has furnished the enemy with them. Unquestionably the latter is convinced by his successful containment of our forces that he will be able to defend the western coast. And more than this, in spite of the occupation of Hungary, the practical occupation of Rumania, and the prospect of like action with respect to Bulgaria, there will be people in the Balkans who will believe there is a chance that Hitler will not be vanquished. The fear they have is less of Anglo-American operations than of the Russian advance, and probably they will pay more heed to Stalin's latest appeal to fight the Germans than what we are saying.

"So far as southern Italy is concerned, we cannot withdraw because of the use that would be made of such withdrawal. So we must continue our efforts to advance on this front, and thereby lessen the strength that could be employed more favorably on the western front."

NAZIS SAY NEW NIGHT FIGHTER PLANE IN ACTION

LONDON, April 1 (AP).—A new German singled engine night fighter plane which provides only a small target and places the pilot in a more protected position has been in action against British bombers, the Berlin radio said today.

The broadcast said mass use of the fighter—called the "Wilde Sau"—was proving very successful, but made no claims that it was responsible for the R. A. F.'s record loss of 94 planes in Thursday night's Nuremberg raid.

"Dark nights and cloud cover, under which conditions the British carry out their raids, are no longer a problem to the new fighter," Berlin said.

5TH ARMY TAKES MILE HIGH RIDGE IN CASSINO AREA

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, April 1 (AP).—Fifth army troops, attacking under heavy artillery support, have punched forward one mile and sized 5,500 foot Mount Marrone, 15 miles northeast of Cassino, partially straightening the allied line above that battle deadlocked town, it was disclosed today.

Besides assaulting Mount Marrone—"Chestnut mountain"—the troops, whose nationality was not disclosed, also attacked the towns of Pizzone and San Michele, two miles to the northeast.

New Zealanders in Cassino threw back two German thrusts—one by 40 men attacking near the railway station—and allied heavy guns hammered the wrecked Benedictine monastery atop Mount Cassino.

A sharp German attack on British positions on the left flank of the Anzio beachhead also was repulsed.

Patroling and artillery fire were reported on the 8th army front.

REVEAL PLANS FOR CONTROL OF FREED FRANCE

Backs Up Warning by De Gaulle.

ALGIERS, Algeria, April 1 (AP).—The French committee of national liberation disclosed today it has drafted a complete blueprint providing for immediate administration of the liberated areas of France by French military and civil officials.

The allies, who will determine the form of government for the liberated areas, are not expected to approve the French plans.

An Answer to Roosevelt.

The plans were approved more than two weeks ago, it is understood. They thus pre-date and in effect answer President Roosevelt's statement that supreme authority behind the lines in France after the invasion starts would be invested in Gen. Eisenhower.

Text of the decisions have been transmitted to Washington, London, and Moscow.

They dovetail with Gen. De Gaulle's recent declaration to the assembly implying that the French are not disposed to have the allied military government—or anything resembling it—sent into France.

Dependent on Big Three.

Application of the French plan depends upon approval of the big three governments, and French official quarters frankly admitted that they doubt that approval will be given. The plans, as summarized, stipulate that:

1. The committee of liberation will appoint a delegate for each area of France, as it is cleared of Germans, to represent the committee to allied military authorities and to assume administration of such areas.

2. Such a delegate will be responsible for reconstituting civil and military administration and for the speediest possible resumption of economic activity in his area.

3. He will act as a liaison between the allied command and combat elements of French resistance groups, and as a liaison for French civil authorities for meeting the needs of the allied armies in the field.

George Tishler, 64, a clerk in the Buena Oaks hotel, 940 Cullom av., reported to police yesterday that two bandits armed with revolvers robbed him of $30 in the lobby of the hotel. A year ago he also was robbed of the same amount, Tishler said.

REDS IN ITALY GIVE UP FIGHT TO OUST KING

NAPLES, Italy, April 1 (AP).—The Communists in Italy announced a new party line today, expressing a willingness to collaborate in a "new war government" headed by Marshal Pietro Badoglio and abandoning the party's fight for the abdication of the king.

Freshly returned from Moscow, the party's chief in Italy, Palmiro Togliatti, declared that King Victor Emmanuel "is not a person, but an institution" which could not be changed until after the war.

Asks Others to Join.

The Communists asked the five other political parties in the hitherto anti-king, anti-Badoglio National Liberation committee to join in their policy, which is designed, Togliatti said, to bring about formation of a strong "war government" with authority as well as power.

Asked if the Communists would collaborate with a satisfactorily enlarged government headed by Badoglio, Togliatti replied that the party "has no prejudice against Badoglio."

The new Communist line is a four point program adopted at a three day party council held upon Togliatti's return from Moscow, where he had long been in exile. The program calls for:

1. A united front of "democratic, liberal, and anti-fascist forces."

2. Formal assurances to the country that the "institutional problem" of the monarch would be freely solved by the entire nation thru convocation of a national constituent assembly to be elected immediately after the end of the war.

King May Abdicate Anyway.

3. Creation of a "new government of a transitory character but strong and authoritative thru the adherence of the large mass parties."

4. Assurance to all Italians that "whatever their political, social, and religious convictions or faith," there "is a place for all who want to fight for the liberty of Italy and that tomorrow all will have the possibility of defending their positions before the people."

ARMY WORK FOR 2 CHICAGOANS IS JUST LIKE HOME

One Is Attorney, Other Postal Finance Chief.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, April 1.—Two Chicagoans are doing the same sort of work here as they did at home, but with some variations in technique. Lt. Col. William C. Burns, 3905 Lake Park av., an attorney in civilian life, investigates personnel and supply matters for the inspector general, and Capt. John P. Harrington, 6732 Ridgeland av., who was assistant superintendent of the 22d street branch postoffice, now is in charge of postal finances in this theater.

Burns, in one of his inquiries here, had to take testimony from an Arab.

Taking Oath Is Different.

"Another Arab translated the statement into French and I translated the French into English," Burns explained. "Taking the witness' oath was a lot different from any experience I ever had in a Chicago court. The witness swore by 'the beard of the prophet and the good health of his first born' that he was telling the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. I still have my doubts."

Harrington is the brother of Circuit Judge Cornelius J. Harrington. Another brother is Lt. James A. Harrington, USNR, executive officer of the naval training station at the University of Wisconsin.

"A big portion of my business is money orders," Capt. Harrington said.

Sends Home $5,500.

"We've sold some big money orders in this theater. One corporal cleaned out a crap game. His first stop after that was the postoffice from where he sent home $5,500."

Another Chicagoan here does not have much play for his civilian occupation. He is Pvt. Nathan Wertheimer, 854 Prospect av., Winnetka, Ill., who was in the wholesale grass seed business. Wertheimer, assigned to a headquarters detachment, occasionally surveys the North African barren lands. It is with a dubious eye, however, and he does not believe he will set up as a seed seller here after the war.

Bags 22d Nazi Plane; Ties for Lead of Aces in Britain

LONDON, April 1 (AP).—Capt. Don S. Gentile of Requa, O., a Mustang pilot, downed a Messerschmitt today to boost his total to 22. This moved him into a tie with Capt. Robert S. Johnson of Lawton, Okla., a Thunderbolt pilot, for first place among American fighter aces in Europe. In a tie for second place is Maj. Walker Mahurin of Fort Wayne, Ind., a Thunderbolt pilot.

NAZI AIR FORCE ON RUN, CITED YANKEES TOLD

U. S. BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, April 1 (AP).—The end of the air war over Europe "is in sight, but we must keep on going hard," Col. Frederick W. Castle, veteran Flying Fortress group commander, said today at a party honoring men of his station cited for outstanding unit achievement. "We haven't won yet, but we can be proud of what has been done," said Col. Castle, whose home is in Washington, D. C. "Our accuracy in bombing has steadily climbed. There is plenty of fight in Germany yet, but we have the luftwaffe generally on the run."

LAND PLANES HIT 3 ISLES AT TRUK; BOMB AIRFIELD

Only 2 Jap Craft Rise to Attack Yanks.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., PEARL HARBOR, April 1 (AP).—Brushing aside Japanese night fighters, army bombers gave Truk its fifth pounding in less than 72 hours, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

This time it was in a night attack Thursday that set off explosions, damaged an air strip and barracks. It was the first time the enemy has been reported using night fighters from the Truk bases. Liberators bombed Dublon, Moen, and Eten islands in the Truk lagoon, hitting the Moen barracks areas and air strip.

The Liberators, making their third night strike at Truk, encountered only two Japanese night fighters. They failed to bring down any of the raiders.

The report that the Japanese were using night fighters was taken as an indication that the night strikes have been having a damaging effect. The big Japanese stronghold has now been caught in a squeeze play by the same flyers who have been so successful in the Marshalls and in New Guinea.

MacArthur Bags 82 Planes.

ALLIED HDQ., SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, April 2 [Sunday]—(AP).—Eighty-two Japanese planes were destroyed in the air and on the ground as Gen. MacArthur's bomber squadrons again smashed Japanese strongholds at Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, and Truk, in the Caroline Islands.

One of the strongest force of heavy bombers ever sent out smashed 57 enemy bombers and fighters on the ground at Hollandia Friday, and shot down 14 intercepting fighters. Eleven planes were shot down in the new raid on Truk.

"Only one-third of the enemy aircraft gathered at Hollandia now remains serviceable," Gen. MacArthur said after the raid.

Bombard Greenwich Isles.

The allied bombers have rained destructive loads on Hollandia, Aitape and Wewak frequently in recent days. In a raid on Hollandia Wednesday, 108 grounded planes were destroyed and 10 planes shot down.

An American destroyer force Tuesday bombarded the Greenwich Islands, also known as Kapingamarangi Islands, 335 miles northeast of Kavieng, New Ireland. The Japanese had a seaplane base and weather station in the group. The destroyers centered their attack on Nunakitsu and Neru Islands and their broadsides caused heavy damage, the bulletin said.

"Will Neutralize Truk."

AN ADVANCED BASE IN THE MARSHALL ISLANDS, March 30 [Delayed]—(AP).—Brig. Gen. Truman H. Landon, 40 year old chief of the 7th army air force bomber command, announced today that American land based bombers intend to neutralize Truk by a campaign of steady air bombardment.

The general disclosed the possibility of using three separate air forces—the 7th, 13th and 5th—for the first time to hammer Japan's central Pacific stronghold. He said the campaign of attrition against Japanese in the eastern Marshalls will be continued. Gen. Landon said Truk has been placed within easy striking range of both bombers and fighters thru the establisment of new facilities.

JAPS ADVANCING ON IMPHAL; ONE COLUMN HALTED

NEW DELHI, India, April 1 (AP).—The Japanese have advanced from the northeast in their offensive into India to within 12 miles of Imphal, but allied troops have battled the enemy to a standstill in other sectors of the north Burma front and are inflicting heavy casualties, a southeast Asia bulletin indicated today.

In the vicinity of Ukhrul, 32 miles northeast of Imphal, the Japanese made advances, the extent of which was not specified, in their drive against the Manipur plains road above Imphal.

Fierce Battle Raging.

At the same time, the allied bulletin said, there was severe fighting in the hill tracts east of Kohima, 60 miles north of Imphal, where British Indian troops were fiercely engaging another strong Japanese column.

[The Berlin radio, quoting a Tokio dispatch, said Imphal was evacuated by the British Thursday.]

A statement from general headquarters said prolonged and desperate attempts by a Japanese force estimated at 1,000 strong to surround and overrun one of the allied defensive positions on the Ukhrul-Imphal road were resisted by Indian troops, Punjabies, Maharattas, and Gurkhas over a four day period.

A Chinese announcement from Chungking said that 5,000 Japanese were killed up to March 29 by Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's American-Chinese forces in their drive thru Hukawng into the Moguang valley in the thrust toward the main enemy base of Myitkyina.

HDQ. OF GEN. STILWELL IN INDIA, April 1 (AP).—Ground troops cheered as 26 Japanese bombers and fighters one after another fell flaming into the Assam jungle Monday in an air battle.

More than 30 Japanese planes were shot down Monday and Tuesday, with the principal triumph the destruction of 13 bombers and 13 fighters out of 38 that attempted to raid the Chabua-Ledo area. To this toll were added another bomber probably destroyed and three damaged, and three fighter planes probably destroyed, leaving only one bomber and four fighters that escaped unscathed.

The Americans lost three fighters. Top scorer was 2d Lt. Herbert H. Goughty, Ladysmith, Wis., credited with a bomber and two fighters.

WIFE OF F.D.R. PILES UP MILES ON AIR TRAVELS

Flies 58,467 Since Gas Rationing Began.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has traveled at least 58,467 air miles by army bomber and transport and commercial air lines since gasoline rationing first was imposed on May 15, 1942, an examination of newspaper files showed yesterday.

Her numerous air jaunts ranged from a mere 448 mile round trip by plane from Washington to New York City to attend an executive meeting of the International Student service to a 23,145 mile tour of the South Pacific and Australia.

Embarrassing for ODT.

Mrs. Roosevelt's constant travel has resulted in embarrassment for the office of defense transportation because of its repeated appeals to civilians to stay home.

On May 15, 1942, the day gasoline rationing went into effect on the eastern seaboard, Mrs. Roosevelt and her personal secretary took a plane to Miami Beach, Fla., for a pleasure week-end. The following Oct. 21, she flew by army bomber to London, England, and toured the United Kingdom before returning Nov. 16.

Earlier, she and her secretary flew by air lines from Washington to Los Angeles, Cal., then to San Diego and Seattle, Wash., and back home via Chicago. The trip covered 6,544 air miles. The purpose was to visit hospitals and see members of her family. In April of last year, she made another plane trip to the coast to visit with wounded soldiers.

10,000 Miles in Caribbean.

Her latest tour, begun March 6 of this year, was an estimated 14,000 mile trip thru the Caribbean area for the announced purpose of inspecting army and navy bases. Traveling by army transport, she touched Puerto Rico, Surinam, Brazil, Venezuela, the Canal Zone, Colombia, and Ecuador.

When she announced that she was considering the Latin American jaunt, Mrs. Roosevelt said she wanted to make the trip to boost the morale of American soldiers and sailors and "because my going might give them the feeling they're doing an essential job."

List of Trips by Air.

The following is a list of air trips taken by Mrs. Roosevelt since the advent of gasoline rationing. Unless otherwise noted, the air miles totals comprise commercial air line flights between the points covered.

When.	Where.	Total air miles.
May, 1942	Miami Beach, Fla.	2,072
May, 1942	New York City	448
Sept., 1942	West coast	6,544
Oct., 1942	England	*7,216
April, 1943	West coast	5,042
Sept., 1943	South Pacific	†23,145
Mar., 1944	Caribbean	*14,000
		58,467

Grand Total of 385,000.

Acquaintances of Mrs. Roosevelt who make a hobby of tabulating the miles she travels reported recently she had gone 385,000 miles from the time she entered the White House in 1933 to and including her South Pacific tour. This figure is for all forms of travel. She also has planned trips which so far haven't been made, including ones to Russia and North Africa, and Sicily.

MRS. F. D. R. TOUR BECOMES ISSUE IN TUGWELL ROW

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 1.—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's recent tour of the Caribbean area came under the scrutiny of congress today when a demand was renewed in the house for the removal of Rexford Guy Tugwell as governor of Puerto Rico.

Rep. McGehee [D., Mass.] told the house that the President's wife has been credited with friendship for Tugwell and admiration for his policies. He raised the question of what influence her visit to Puerto Rico during her tour might have on Tugwell's chances of remaining as governor.

Charges Oppressive Rule.

McGehee in a brief session before the house and senate recessed until April 12 introduced a resolution demanding that Tugwell be ousted by President Roosevelt. He told the house that Puerto Rico is suffering from "an oppressive lordship of government far worse than any which existed in the balmiest days of colonial exploitation."

The Mississippi congressman charged that Tugwell's administration is "obnoxious and detrimental" both to Puerto Rico and the United States.

Telling of the revolutionary economic and political policies that he said Tugwell has imposed upon the island, McGehee asserted there is grave fear among the Puerto Ricans that they will be unable to hold free and impartial elections unless Tugwell is ousted.

Curious About Trip.

McGehee said he believes President Roosevelt favors fair elections for Puerto Rico, but added:

"I am not informed as to what report his wife might make to him regarding the information she may have gained on her recent trip which took her to Puerto Rico.

"It has been charged, however, that Mrs. Roosevelt is a friend and admirer of Gov. Tugwell."

Tugwell was one of the original Roosevelt "brain trusters."

Puerto Ricans long have been demanding Tugwell's removal, and congressional leaders have joined in the demand, but Tugwell has remained in his position.

FIND WOMAN'S BODY IN LAKE.

Nude and bearing signs of a chest injury, the body of a woman identified as Mrs. Margaret Linne, 47, of 4170 Drexel blvd., a Puerto Rican fortune teller missing since March 18, was found wedged between the rocks in Lake Michigan at the foot of 42d st. yesterday.

CHICAGOAN GOES THRU 'HELL' TO BRING WOUNDED

HILL 129, BOUGAINVILLE, Solomon Islands, March 24 [Delayed]—(AP).—Pvt. Edward York, 6937 S. Maplewood av., Chicago, a hospital corpsman, says emphatically "There's no more hell on earth than a long litter haul thru machine gun fire."

Hospital corpsmen made scores of trips thru that hell today, bringing out wounded from forward lines while tanks and infantry broke up the deepest penetration by Japanese of this perimeter outpost at Empress Augusta bay.

"They really got in close last night," said York. "They pinned us down near a wounded man. He called for us to bring him in, but machine guns were firing only six inches over our heads so we called to him to come on in. He made it and plopped down at our feet. When the firing let up, we managed to get out of there with him."

Maj. William T. Holladay, of Amboy, Ill., is the outfit's surgeon.

FATALLY STABBED BY HOODLUM.

Reginald Wilhite, 15, of 750 E. 46th st., a Negro, died yesterday of a stab wound inflicted by one of a group of young Negroes who police said attacked him as he left a dance at Du Sable High school, 4943 Wabash av.

private deal with High Priest Caiaphas, foxy old Caiaphas, to do it!

Herod Banks on Caiaphas.

"That's a team for you! Pilate and Caiaphas! When Caiaphas' nose itches, Pilate sneezes. Both are in bad with most people, and they'd better pull together, but I'll bet my money on Caiaphas in the long run."

The elevation of Caiaphas to the high priesthood by a predecessor of Pilate's a decade ago was a scandalous affair. Annas, father-in-law of Caiaphas, still influential in the temple hierarchy, was then the high priest, but because he would not give in to Roman demands the military governor threw him out and named Caiaphas in his place. Caiaphas' appointment was unpopular from the start and it is probable that most Judeans still regard Annas as the high priest.

Thus, if the political scene is a mess in Judea, the religious situation is not much better. And now comes the crisis—a crowded Passover season!

Man on Donkey Hailed.

Vengefully foreseeing Pilate's troubles during the week, Herod had sought more and more speed thru the lower faultlands. As higher country was reached, and Bethany passed, I had increasing trouble in clearing a way thru the crowds. Finally, just below the ascent to the east portal of Jerusalem, known as the Gate of the Lily, we appeared to be stalled.

A vast throng had surged down from the city singing a joyous welcome to another group which was proceeding toward the city. When the two met and refused to give way for the king I dismounted and forced my way into the crowd to find the cause of the demonstration. This I soon learned, for all were singing hallelujahs for One who was mounted on a donkey. Palms were waved over His head and flowers and bright garments were strewn in His way.

Chant Beseeches Salvation.

Hailing Him as the new king, the son of David, the entire throng then struck up a chant beginning with the ancient word, hosanna, "Save us now!" They sang:

Save us now!
Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord;
Blessed is the approaching kingdom of our father David.
Save us in the heights of heaven!

Pressing closer, it startled me to see who was receiving the regal welcome as one anointed of the Lord! It was that strange young man of Nazareth of whom I had heard much in Galilee. I saw Him first in Capernaum where I was garrisoned until about a year ago. Altho I never had actually met the young man, I had heard Him speak in the new synagog where I was always welcome, Roman that I am.

Cornelius Holds Back.

I am unable to describe the power of His personality other than to say that to be near Him made me realize the unworthiness of my life. The people of Capernaum, and many in nearby Magdala, held him in deep reverence. Despite His great kindliness I could not persuade myself to greet Him.

On pressing closer to the center of the crowd I was amazed to discover that Joanna, wife of Chuzas, steward of Herod's household, was in the young man's attending group. Also, that street woman of Magdala, Mary, as well as a number of fisher folk I had seen with Him in Galilee. I recall that when Demetrius, my orderly, was stricken, and the doctors could do no more for him, Joanna had asked the young man, who had great power over sickness, to heal him.

When I learned that the young man was on his way to my house I felt that I could not induce myself to admit Him, due to the curious spell He holds over me. I sent word to the young man, begging Him to do what He could at a distance. Demetrius improved at once and still serves me.

Detour Vexes Herod.

Here in the shadow of Jerusalem's gate the young man appeared to have aged. He accepted the crowd's enthusiasm, but the verve of other days was replaced by what seemed to be either fatigue or serious trouble. He started to make His way toward me, but I could not withstand His glance. With a catch in my throat I turned aside, routed the royal retinue around the young man's throng, and reported to the king.

He was first to speak:

"A fine day we live in," he exclaimed sarcastically, "when a king must turn aside for rabble. But Pilate will have plenty on his hands this week, mark my word."

Route of Herod's Jerusalem Trip

Broken arrows mark route of Herod from Tiberias to Jerusalem, and captions tell of developments on Holy week trip in which his party met crowd strewing palms in path of a lowly Nazarene on a donkey.

DISCHARGED MARINES WILL BE AIDED, SAYS REHABILITATION HEAD

Lt. Col. C. B. Rhoads.

Coöperation and assistance of the marine corps to men of that service will continue after their discharge, and until they have adjusted themselves to civilian activities, Lt. Col. C. B. Rhoads, director of the corps' rehabilitation division, announced yesterday.

"To discharge a man without some adequate preparation for civilian readjustment may be as fatal to his future as sending him into combat without teaching him how to shoot," declared Col. Rhoads. "We want to avoid the mistakes of 25 years ago."

The rehabilitation division, established last November to serve as a link between discharged marines and civilian service agencies, will help them get jobs or resume their education, acquaint them with their rights, and assist them in planning their future lives.

Capt. Oscar B. Kaufman, with offices in the Marine barracks at Great Lakes, will be in charge of rehabilitation for the 9th naval district.

PACIFIC GUNNER, AWAITED BY 9, REPORTED LOST

Gunner E. B. Healy.

Naval notification that Edward Brennan Healy, 39, aerial gunner, was missing in the South Pacific, had reached his wife and their eight children yesterday just as they were expecting word that he was about to come home from 15 months' service.

Mrs. Healy, who lives at 1043 Altgeld st., said that only the day before she had a letter from him saying he would "pop in with the Easter bunny." He had written in January, she said, that he had completed 40 missions and his leave was overdue. Three of the children were at home with her. The five others have been at St. Mary's Training school in Des Plaines since she became ill several months ago.

Kidneys May Need Help to Clean Out Excess Acids

If you're feeling out o'sorts, Get Up Nights or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles.

Worry, Colds, working too hard, or over-eating or drinking may create an excess of Acids and overload your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids

Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess Acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters through which the heart pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when overloaded.

Seventeen years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To palliate burning and smarting of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, which may easily make you feel years younger.

3 Day Trial Offer

To prove that Cystex may be the very medicine you need make this fair-play trial offer: Get a three-day supply of Cystex from your druggist today for only 35c. Take it exactly as directed and see the results in your own particular case—if not delighted and really surprised, or if not satisfied for any reason at all, simply return the empty package, and your money will be refunded in full. This is guaranteed. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose, so start your Cystex 3-day trial today.

AUTHOR'S NOTE: Cystex is produced under the direction of a licensed physician for The Knox Co., one of the largest drug companies in the world with laboratory connections in the U.S.A., Canada, England, Australia and South America. CHICAGO PILOTS TELL OF BATTLE IN RAID ON TRUK

Jap Planes Attack from 'Everywhere.'

BY HAROLD SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT AN ADVANCED SOLOMON ISLANDS AIR BASE, March 30 [Delayed]. — Vivid stories of the first land based air raid from the South Pacific on the Jap air and naval base at Truk were told by Chicago and midwestern flyers upon their return to the bomber base last night.

Lt. Leroy H. Gehrke, 27, son of J. Herman and Agnes Gehrke, 4156 Overhill av., Chicago, Ill., a former bookbinder in his father's shop, was co-pilot of the lead ship in one flight. The formation plowed thru intense Jap fighter opposition to drop their bomb loads on Eten Island, one of Truk's main air fields and plane staging areas.

"We took off before daylight, flew thru three bad weather fronts but found fair weather over the target," Lt. Gehrke said. "Jap anti-aircraft fire started immediately and continued until the bombs were away.

100 Jap Planes Attack.

"The anti-aircraft fire, apparently of heavy caliber, was moderate. Soon it quit and in came the Jap fighters who, by then, had climbed above us. They hit from everywhere, dashing out of the sun and clouds from all sides above and below. There were more than 100 and they came in in waves, sometimes so close it looked like they would bump into us.

"Tech. Sgt. Chester Grabiec, 22, of Cleveland, O., our engineer and top gunner, shot down one Nip; Staff Sgt. Oscar Loper, our ball turret gunner, another. We took one hit on the left wing tip.

"This was my 31st combat flight over Rabaul, Nauru, and Bougainville. We thought Rabaul was tough, but after today it was a push-over."

Survive 10 Bursts.

Lt. Rojland Goodlander, 26, 7445 Calumet av., Chicago, co-pilot of the Liberator Mary Marie, piloted by Lt. D. B. Willock of Kansas City, Mo., said his ship flew thru at least 10 anti-aircraft fire bursts and that there was plenty of ack-ack behind them. Goodlander described how Jap aerial bombs released over the Liberator formation were timed to explode above them. He said they watched streamers from the bombs trail harmlessly past behind them.

"The Nips were plenty tricky today," Goodlander said. "They pulled dummy passes out in front at the edge of our range trying to lure us to exhaust our ammunition. But we waited them out and Mary Marie got one confirmed and two possibles."

Officials of the combined army, navy, and marine air forces here said this was the first land based daylight raid from a South Pacific area. The recapitulation showed that all the 49 planes on the ground upon our arrival probably were destroyed and that at least 20 were shot down over the target. The flight route was approximately 2,000 miles.

Nazi Partisans Behind Red Lines, Berlin Says

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 1 (AP).—The Germans now report they have Partisans working behind the Russian lines. Aftonbladet's Berlin correspondent reported that for the first time Partisan warfare which the Germans had to combat thruout their Russian adventure was now being directed against the Red army "west of Cherkasy and east of the Pripet river."

MAN-MADE HELL DRIVES OUT JAPS ON BOUGAINVILLE

BY HAROLD SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOUGAINVILLE, Solomon Islands, March 29 [Delayed].—In a steady tropical drizzle I got a closeup today of the devastation wrought by our concentration of artillery last Saturday night that may have broken the back of the Japs' Bougainville resistance.

We entered the shelled area thru the outer wires within a stone's throw of the pill-box from which I watched the fire delivered on several hundred Japs poised to attack at a point where large numbers of their compatriots had broken thru by infiltration the night before. This attack was halted by a former Illinois national guard unit which has absorbed the brunt of the ending phases of the Japs' most determined challenge against our beachhead, which opened March 8.

At this point our line runs along the edge of a high cliff fringing a small stream which the enemy waded, hauling mountain artillery along the creek bed to avoid our mine fields. The ruin caused by our shells began near-by on the opposite bank of the stream and extended far outward on a wide front.

Tall Trees Destroyed.

Where once the dense jungle growth had provided perfect cover, now nothing remains but tall, battered tree trunks frayed by bursts from the thousands of rounds of ammunition. Some direct hits sheared great trees off near the roots, and they lie askew over heaps of their fading foliage clipped from tops that towered 200 feet into the air.

But great as the forest desolation appears, it is overshadowed by the human wreckage below. Of the 200 yard strip which we traversed scarcely one room-sized patch was without a shell crater, showing the deadly precision with which the gun crews delivered their merchandise. It is inconceivable that any Jap within the area could have escaped alive.

Scores of bodies, most of them badly mangled, were sprawled where the shell bursts had caught the enemy in darkness relieved only by the eerie light of exploding shells. Arms, legs and heads protruding from the freshly turned earth were a reminder that the bombardment had interred many of its victims.

Too Many to Count.

The stale stench of rain-washed carnage overhung the scene like a curse, and swarms of flies marked many bodies invisible beneath the matted leaves and branches. Enemy small arms, clothing and equipment enough to turn a souvenir hunter's head were scattered about in profusion.

Patrol estimates placed the enemy dead in this small area at from 400 to 1,000. I counted 21 dead Japs in one area the size of a city lot. An exact count probably never will be made.

Maj. Gen. Oscar Griswold of Elko, Col., the corps commander here, said unequivocally that this concentration was the coup de grace for the Japs' supreme March attempt to dislodge us from Bougainville.

Find Japs Withdrawing.

Far out in the shelled area we met returning patrolmen stepping gingerly in each other's footsteps to avoid the land mines sown by Jap patrols after the bombardment lifted. They reported counting scores of dead Japs and encountering 100 live ones a quarter of a mile ahead, apparently withdrawing.

Off to our right small arms fire still crackled. We hightailed it back when our cannoneers began laying in more shells, which swooshed overhead with a rising note of warning, crashing thru the forest just before they quaked the sandy jungle floor with Gargantuan claps.

Fleeing Enemy Pounded.

BOUGAINVILLE, Solomon Islands, April 1 (AP). — The Japanese are engaging in fierce rear guard actions daily while their remnants withdraw across the Emperor range from the American-held Empress Augusta bay sector. Pounding of the retiring enemy continues as artillery, destroyers, and dive bombers lay barrages on troops and installations.

DARRAH TELLS INSIDE STORY OF DUCE'S CAPTURE

Useful as German Tool, but Prestige Is Gone.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Tribune correspondent who has returned to the United States after 16 months' interment in France and Germany.]

The inside story of how and why Marshal Pietro Badoglio and King Victor Emmanuel were able to kidnap Mussolini last July 25, the day of the famous anti-Fascist coup, and keep him locked up for several weeks, leaked out in Germany altho some of the details were never disclosed.

No one could understand why the wary Mussolini, following the all night sitting of the Grand Fascist council, should have gone openly and unguarded to the king's residence to offer his resignation. The Germans called it another instance of Italian treachery and intrigue in which Mussolini hoped to play still another dramatic role.

A New Conspiracy.

The grand council session had broken up at dawn with 13 of 18 members, including Dino Grandi and Count Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law, calling on Mussolini to quit. Il Duce, the five council members who remained loyal to him, and several other Fascists, then retired to Frascati, a town in the Alban hills, near Rome.

Here they canvassed the situation anew and plotted to gain time. In accordance with the conspiracy, Mussolini was to call on the king next day and resign, as the grand council had voted, but at the same time the others were to mobilize the fascist militia in Rome, seize power again, and restore Mussolini to the dictatorship. They counted on the connivance of the Germans.

But there was a traitor among the early morning conspirators. He informed the royal palace and accordingly, when Mussolini arrived the next afternoon to pretend he wished to resign, King Victor Emmanuel was aware of the plot and arrangements had been made to put Badoglio in power.

Held Until Rescued.

As Mussolini left the palace, military police seized him and shoved him unceremoniously into an ambulance in which he was whisked away. He was kept locked up in various places until the German parachutists rescued him from Campo Imperatore, luxurious resort on the Gran Sasso peak on Sept. 11.

Mussolini since has been the German army's most effective tool in keeping the German grip on northern Italy, tho Italian workers in Germany with whom I talked said that whatever prestige Mussolini may once have had with the Italian people because of his domestic program had been lost.

The Italians were deeply shocked at the later execution of Count Ciano. They said the feeling of family relationship and solidarity is strong among the Italian people and that they would never forgive Mussolini for shooting or failing to protest or interfere with the shooting of the father of his own grandchildren whatever his offenses. Ciano married Mussolini's daughter Edda. They had two children.

The German attitude toward the Italians was always one of contempt, even before the allied invasion and conquest of Sicily. After the Badoglio disaffection, the Germans erected a barrier between their people and Italy. All Italian newspapers which had circulated in Germany were barred. Italian workers were not permitted to return to Italy on leave.

Feared Public Reaction.

The Germans' fear that the Badoglio armistice would have a disastrous effect on public opinion at home prompted Hitler to give Himmler increased powers, making him minister of the interior as well as head of the dread S. S. [elite guard] and Gestapo [secret police].

The situation was relieved by the dramatic rescue of Mussolini and the fact that the divisions of Marshals Rommel and Kesselring were able to evacuate Sicily and keep their hold on Italy despite the collapse of the Italian armies. But for a short time in September they were deeply worried.

By November, the Germans were asserting that the situation in northern Italy had returned to normal and that railways and communications which had been taken over by the Germans had been partly restored to the Italians.

Chicago Children Enjoy Balmy Saturday Outdoors

Walks Thronged

A balmy Saturday and some sunshine was a combination that gladdened the hearts of Chicago's children yesterday. The air over vacant lots and parks was starred with kites, roller skates were given their first workout of the spring season, skipping rope was a popular sidewalk pastime, and cries of happy children resounded thruout the city. Among the devotees of rope skipping were Mary Fiorito of 1936 Grand av., and Mary Spadavecchio of 1948 Grand av. Mickey Fiorito helped turn the rope.

NEW ROUND SET IN BATTLE FOR HABEAS CORPUS

Worker Freed at 1st Hawaii Hearing.

BY JAN JABULKA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, T. H., April 1.—The second round of the latest attack on martial law in the Hawaiian Islands is scheduled to be held here April 5. The Pearl Harbor defense worker who is the principal in the case won the first round of his test of the law's legality and the battle for his freedom yesterday when Federal Judge Delbert Metzger ruled that the writ of habeas corpus is not suspended.

The worker, Lloyd C. Duncan, who allegedly struck two Pearl Harbor marine sentries on March 2 and was sentenced to a six months' term by a provost court, now is free under $500 bail pending the April 5 hearing on his habeas corpus writ.

Metzger's ruling on the writ and admitting Duncan to bail was strongly protested by Edward J. Ennis, special assistant to the United States attorney.

Heavy Term for "Trivial" Offense.

Duncan's counsel, Garner Anthony, former territorial attorney general, said the defense would attempt to show that Duncan was sentenced heavily for what ordinarily would be a trivial offense because the "government enlarged the degree of the offense because, it says, he violated the rules of the so-called 'military governor,' who is not only minus authority in such cases, but, as a matter of fact, does not exist under the Constitution."

Yesterday's hearing, held before a courtroom packed with army and navy officers, opened with Ennis pleading that the suit should not be an issue as it would jeopardize the whole provost system and create a flood of other petitioners.

Anothony urged the immediate issuance of a writ and admittance of Duncan to bail, as he feared the government's delays might cover the length of Duncan's jail sentence. Anthony, commenting on the support of martial law by Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr., military governor, and Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, central Pacific naval commander, who said in affidavits filed by Ennis that Hawaii is liable to Japanese attack, pointed out that the Duncan case did not involve a question of military law or security.

U. S. Court Has Authority.

"This is a simple offense," he said. "My client is charged with assaulting two marine guards. This federal court for the last year has exercised full criminal jurisdiction over assault and battery committed on the military reservation. If Duncan has done anything to warrant his arrest for assault, he could be brought to this court and tried.

"What objection is there to a trial in the manner guaranteed by the Constitution? How could the government be injured by such a trial? The admirals and generals say there is danger of a Hawaiian invasion, but I say this is an invasion of the petitioner's civil liberties when he is denied the trail that the Constitution says he should have. Duncan is charged with an offense such as is tried daily in the Honolulu police courts, where the defendants usually are fined $10, and which list this offense as trivial.

"There was no threat to the power and dignity of the United States and, unless Duncan is freed and admitted to bail, these would be irreparably injured."

Metzger thereupon ruled for a writ of habeas corpus, commenting that he believed the privilege of the writ was restored by a proclamation by Hawaii's civil governor a year ago.

THEATER OF AIR PAYS TRIBUTE TO U. S. EMPLOYES

The Chicago Theater of the Air last night dedicated its production of Sigmund Romberg's operetta, "New Moon," to war department civil service employes, 3,000 of whom were among the 4,600 persons who filled Medinah temple to hear the show broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, was speaker of the evening. [The text of his address is on the editorial page.]

Marion Claire sang the starring role of Marianne, ship owner's daughter who falls in love with Robert Misson, a pirate who steals her father's favorite ship, New Moon. The role of Misson was filled by Bruce Foote. Leading dramatic roles were played by Laurette Fillbrandt, Everett Clarke, and Beryl Vaughan.

Maj. Wayne King, assistant to the director of personnel of the 6th service command, produced the post-broadcast show, which included entertainment from Camp Ellis, Fort Sheridan, and other service bases in the command.

THE MIDDLE WEST IN THE WAR.

The number of people at work in the factories of metropolitan Chicago dropped 2/10 of 1 per cent in February according to the monthly survey of the Illinois department of labor. This was the third consecutive decrease. The peak of employment for the war period and in fact for all time came last November.

The decline is involuntary for there are thousands of jobs going begging. Thruout the middle west employment has been receding moderately. Thus in Detroit the index of the number of workers was down to 175 at the end of January from 177.9 last November.

The explanation is the draft. At the hearings of the Murray senate subcommittee on contract termination, it was brought out that by July 1, when the armed forces reach the peak, 700,000 will have been taken into the army and navy from Illinois. The drain this makes upon our production facilities is not perhaps generally appreciated. In 1939 there were 688,803 persons employed in the factories of the state. The war has taken as many persons as were employed in all our manufacturing establishments when the war started.

From Michigan 452,000 will have gone into the army and navy by mid-year, from Indiana 271,000, from Wisconsin 237,000, and from Iowa 192,000. The five states are supplying 1,852,000 soldiers and sailors. This leading industrial area had 1,906,162 factory employes at the start of the war. The war has drained off man power from this section equal to 97.2 per cent of the total number of midwestern factory hands.

This area is the leader in the production of many kinds of civilian goods, especially foods, the production of which has been curtailed on account of the war. The total value of all goods manufactured in these five states in 1939 amounted to 11 billion 700 million dollars in 1939. However, in the year ended Jan. 31, 17 billion dollars' worth of car contracts were awarded in this section. That is 45.3 per cent more than was produced here before the war when our factory staffs were intact.

Meanwhile, Illinois coal production reached the rate of nearly 7 million tons a month in February, up 50 per cent from the pre-war level. Farmers in this section have indicated that they will increase their plantings of corn in the coming year by 7 per cent in Iowa and Illinois and 14 per cent in Michigan tho their man power needs are not being met, tho the supply of farm machinery is inadequate, and tho they are mad at the Roosevelt administration for the way prices have been handled. The war record of the "isolationist middle west" is unequaled.

COMMUNIST VICTORY IN NEW YORK.

The Communist cell in the American Labor party in New York state won more than 600 of the 750 seats on the party's governing committee in the recent primaries, thereby assuring it control of the A. L. P. in the November election. The A. L. P. has polled as high as 500,000 votes in New York state which may not sound like a very significant bloc in contrast to the 1,250,000 votes the Republican Presidential candidate rolled up in 1940. But the A. L. P. has held the balance of power between Democrats and Republicans in more than one election and if this condition still obtains in November, the Communists might be able to elect their candidate for President. Their candidate, of course, is Mr. Roosevelt.

The New York Communists joined up with the A. L. P. in 1938 when their party lost its place on the ballot. There are said to be only about 10,000 of them in New York county, which is the party's Communist stronghold, but their influence has been amplified thru the skilful tactics of their leaders until they now control the entire state organization. Chief of the Communist brain trust in the A. L. P. is Vito Marcantonio, the opportunist congressman, who started out as a Republican candidate in 1932, and wound up as Republican, Democratic, and A. L. P. candidate in his district 10 years later, polling 19,049 votes with only a single write-in vote tallied against him. Marcantonio denies he is a Communist, but he talks and votes the party line as faithfully as any political commissar in the soviet.

Along with Marcantonio, Sidney Hillman, the director of the CIO's political action committee, and Earl Browder share the Communist leadership in the A. L. P. They attempted, apparently with success, to make the reëlection of Mr. Roosevelt the issue in their fight for A. L. P. control. All of them belong to the band of fourth-term faithful. Their opponents in this election were men like Dr. George Counts, A. L. P. state chairman; Alex Rose, party secretary, and Dean Alfange. These fellows like to be called "liberals." They and men like them founded the A. L. P. to provide political representation for themselves and fellow socialists and laborites. When the Communists began to infiltrate, they were welcomed. In the 1938 gubernatorial election when Gov. Lehman got only 1,971,307 Democratic votes against 2,302,505 Republican votes for Thomas E. Dewey. Lehman won because the A. L. P. nominated him, too, and with Communist help delivered 419,979 votes for him.

The sad fate of the Socialists in the A. L. P. is a good deal like the fable of the young lady from Niger. It should be a lesson to other so-called liberals and to any who feel that they have to traffic with the Communists, not because they believe in communism, but because they dislike conservatism. In the end, the Communists never fail to turn on their Socialist and "right wing" friends and gobble them up.

The Communist victory in the A. L. P. primary also clears up a few points as to Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy. He will be the A. L. P. candidate in November because he is the Communists' candidate. The Communists nominate only those who are helpful to the Communist international and the world soviet and who are willing to betray America for that support.

THE GREAT SCANDAL OF THE PEACE FRAUD.

The personages responsible for the growing scandal to international good faith are beginning to take notice of the consequences of their extraordinary conduct. They have created a moral confusion, as a preliminary to peace, which will yield disillusion, bitterness, reproach, and new enmities. The reckless rhetorical promises, beginning with the Atlantic Charter, were taken at face value by people who could be deluded into putting their trust in a new world. They have been deceived and now know it.

Many of the promises, in view of what was bound to happen, ought never have been made. Some of the agreements, in the light of what could be expected, were practical and should have been honored. However, no detail of understanding was too prudent to be disregarded, and no pledge to the unprivileged was too momentous to be ignored. The thunder was all in the index.

There are a dozen guesses why Stalin bolted the advisory council on Italy to recognize the king. One guess is that it tickled his sardonic sense of humor. Another is that he traded with Mr. Churchill—the Italian crown for the Communist Tito in Jugo-Slavia. Mr. Churchill took a comrade to his arms; Mr. Stalin embraced a king. Mr. Hull observed that there seemed to be a lack of confidence and coöperation.

If the allies were to work together they could well use, as was proposed, a consultative medium and clearinghouse. Interchange of views was possible without it, but it could facilitate matters, examine difficulties, and help in avoiding contradictory decisions. The teamwork broke down before it got started, not because it encountered unforeseen difficulties, but because of the apparently incorrigible habits of the participants.

A realist might ask what else to expect of elements so incongruous and persons so incompatible. Stalin is the autocratic head of an amalgam of czarism, communism, and pan-Slavism, Churchill is the child of Blenheim, Plassy, and Mafeking, the always thoughtful servant of crown and empire. As a man who knows his way about the White House, he has almost reversed the decision at Yorktown. Mr. Roosevelt obtains his authority from what is still a republic opposed to the subjugation of peoples.

Infidelity in smaller details of the desired accord follows naturally in the wake of bad faith in the major principles enunciated for the war and peace. In other times rulers at war have done many things in secret which astonished the world when disclosed. It is the distinction of our war chiefs to have been caught at it so early. How they could expect to hold any one's faith or avoid a degeneration of confidence into cynicism is unimaginable. Certain expectations of betterments following the war could be entertained. People are entitled to some hope. The conduct of our principals in this war is destroying reasonable expectations.

Let's take the best known instance. All "peace loving nations, great and small," have been guaranteed inclusion in a new system of world government which would protect their freedom and security. If this promise was not to be kept it was not necessary to make it. The Russian frontier demands, against which there can be no effective protest, will extinguish the independence and liberties of small nations whose misfortune is to be neighbors of the soviet union. The ground for that is Russia's need of frontier security against future attack. The guaranty to the small nations was independence in a system which would prevent such attacks.

Two systems thus are conceived: one in which Russia must have other peoples and their lands, regional arrangements and guarded frontiers; another in which organized international force will protect the small against the strong. There will be no war until the next one. These contradictions solemnly persisted in are scandalous. There could have been moderation in councils and promises and fidelity to attainable purposes.

Mr. Churchill might explain that he couldn't help himself when the thing started. Altho he was almost assured that America would be in the war when he met Mr. Roosevelt off the Newfoundland coast in August, 1941, and accepted the Atlantic Charter, the final step had not been taken. Mr. Roosevelt was cherishing the illusion of major prophecy, throwing his words at history and hearing his voice bounce off the wall of the past into the well of the future. Mr. Churchill had to take it, knowing that as an empire man he was engaged in a fraud. He has been hedging ever since.

The charter of freedoms should have been recognized in the beginning as a hoax on the many subject peoples who for a while might think it applied to them. That was bad enough. It was worse when the hoax spread into Europe. The architects of this house of pretense should have much on their conscience. They know now what a moral confusion they have created. They have cheapened the ideals they professed. They have already polluted the next peace and very likely have set up the next war. Already that war creeps into their calculations.

LINCOLN'S WARNING

[Following is the address delivered last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, on the Chicago Theater of the Air, over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.]

BY COL. ROBERT R. McCORMICK.

My reading of Lincoln began with the Douglas debates. It has been my impression that, with his lack of opportunities, Lincoln was long in acquiring the literary style which made him the greatest prose writer of all times, but a listener, Mr. George McKay of Battle Creek, Mich., has sent me an address of Lincoln in January, 1838, when he was 29, which shows that his style was that of native genius rather than long application.

He said:

"As a subject for the remarks of the evening, 'The Perpetuation of Our Political Institutions' is selected.

"In the great journal of things happening under the sun, we, the American people, find our account running under date of the 19th century of the Christian era. We find ourselves in the peaceful possession of the fairest portion of the earth as regards extent of territory, fertility of soil, and salubrity of climate.

"We find ourselves under the government of a system of political institutions conducing more essentially to the ends of civil and religious liberty than any of which the history of former times tells us. We, when mounting the stage of existence, found ourselves the legal inheritors of these fundamental blessings.

"We toiled not in the acquirement or establishment of them; they are a legacy bequeathed us by a once hardy, brave, and patriotic, but now lamented and departed race of ancestors. Theirs was the task [and nobly they performed it] to possess themselves, and thru themselves us, of this goodly land, and to uprear upon its hills and its valleys a political edifice of liberty and equal rights; 'tis ours only to transmit these—the former unprofaned by the foot of an invader, the latter undecayed by the lapse of time and untorn by usurpation—to the latest generation that fate shall permit the world to know.

"This task of gratitude to our fathers, justice to ourselves, duty to posterity, and love for our species in general, all imperatively require us faithfully to perform.

"How then shall we perform it? At what point shall we expect the approach of danger? By what means shall we fortify against it? Shall we expect some trans-Atlantic military giant to step the ocean and crush us at a blow? Never! All the armies of Europe, Asia, and Africa combined, with all the treasure of the earth [our own excepted] in their military chest, with a Bonaparte for a commander, could not by force take a drink from the Ohio or make a track on the Blue Ridge in a trial of a thousand years.

"At what point, then, is the approach of danger to be expected? I answer, if it ever reaches us it must spring up amongst us; it cannot come from abroad. If destruction be our lot we must ourselves be its author and finisher. As a nation of free men, we must live thru all time, or die by suicide.

"But it may be asked, 'Why suppose danger to our political institutions? Have we not preserved them for more than 50 years? And why may we not for 50 times as long?'

"We hope there is no sufficient reason. We hope all danger may be overcome; but to conclude that no danger may ever arise would itself be extremely dangerous. There are now, and will hereafter be, many causes, dangerous in their tendency, which have not existed heretofore, and which are not too insignificant to merit attention. That our government should have been maintained in its original form, from its establishment until now, is not much to be wondered at.

"It had many props to support it thru that period, which now are decayed and crumbled away. Thru that period it was felt by all to be an undecided experiment; now it is understood to be a successful one.

"Then, all that sought celebrity and fame and distinction expected to find them in the success of that experiment. Their all was staked upon it; their destiny was inseparably linked with it. Their ambition aspired to display before an admiring world a practical demonstration of the truth of a proposition which had hitherto been considered at best no better than problematical—namely: the capability of a people to govern themselves. If they succeeded they were to be immortalized; their names were to be transferred to counties and cities and rivers and mountains; and to be revered and sung, toasted thru all time. If they failed they were to be called knaves and fools and fanatics for a fleeting hour, then to sink and be forgotten. They succeeded. The experiment is successful, and thousands have won their deathless names in making it so. But the game is caught; and I believe it is true that with the catching end the pleasures of the chase.

"This field of glory is harvested, and the crop is already appropriated. But new reapers will arise, and they too will seek a field. It is to deny what the history of the world tells us is true, to suppose that men of ambition and talents will not continue to spring up amongst us. And when they do, they will as naturally seek the gratification of their ruling passion, as others have done before them.

"The question then is: Can that gratification be found in supporting and maintaining an edifice that has been erected by others? Most certainly it cannot. Many great and good men, sufficiently qualified for any task they should undertake, may ever be found whose ambition would aspire to nothing beyond a seat in congress, a gubernatorial or a Presidential chair, but such belong not to the family of the lion, or the tribe of the eagle. What! Think you these places would satisfy an Alexander, a Cæsar, or a Napoleon? Never! Towering genius disdains a beaten path. It seeks regions hitherto unexplored. It sees no distinction in adding story to story upon the monuments of fame erected to the memory of others. It denies that it is glory enough to serve under any chief. It scorns to tread in the footsteps of any predecessor, however illustrious.

"It thirsts and burns for distinction; and if possible it will have it—whether at the expense of emancipating slaves or enslaving free men. Is it unreasonable, then, to expect that some man possessed of the loftiest genius, coupled with ambition sufficient to push it to its utmost stretch, will at some time spring up among us? And when such an one does, it will require the people to be united with each other, attached to the government and laws, and generally intelligent, to successfully frustrate his designs.

"Distinction will be his paramount object, and altho he would as willingly, perhaps more so, acquire it by doing good as harm, yet, that opportunity being past, and nothing left to be done in the way of building up, he would set boldly to the task of pulling down.

"Here then is a probable case, highly dangerous, and such an one as could not have well existed heretofore.

"Our ancestors were pillars of the temple of liberty; and now that they have crumbled away that temple must fall unless we, their descendants, supply their places with other pillars, hewn from the solid quarry of sober reason. Passion has helped us, but can do so no more. It will in future be our enemy. Reason—cold, calculating, unimpassioned reason—must furnish all the materials for our future support and defense. Let those materials be molded into general intelligence, sound morality, and, in particular, a reverence for the Constitution and laws; and that we improved to the last, that we remained free to the last.

"Upon these let the proud fabric of freedom rest, as the rock of its basis; and as truly as has been said of the only greater institution, 'the gates of hell shall not prevail against it'."

THE SIMPLE LIFE AND ROBUST HEALTH.

LONG impressed with the remarkable physiques of certain plains Indians—Cheyenne and Sioux—familiar to my boyhood, I have often wondered why civilization is beset with so many maladies. In their native habitats these tribes exhibited great prowess. Slender of build, they could endure privations far beyond the ken of the trained soldier. Red Cloud, the famous chief, was stalwart, erect, and forceful at 80, altho nearly blind from trachoma.

Only when they were herded on reservations, supplied with food and raiment and all the necessities of life—did they become logy, fat, and diseased. The white man brought to them measles, smallpox, and venereal infections.

Some years ago McCarrison reported on a race living in northern India—the Hunzas. He asserted that they surpassed any group with which he was acquainted. They were vigorous in youth and in age and remarkably free from ailments.

Where do they live? They inhabit a mountainous region where India meets Afghanistan and the Chinese empire. Other observers are astonished at their physical powers and their primitive but sanitary mode of living. Their houses are well built and water supplies are carefully safeguarded against contamination. Their food is the product of their own agricultural efforts. The span of life is extraordinarily long and disorders of the digestive tract are practically unknown. Subsequent to a long interval of study, McCarrison wrote that he never saw a case of peptic ulcer, mucous colitis, or cancer.

The diet consists of grains [chiefly wheat, barley, and buckwheat], leafy and green vegetables, potatoes and other roots, peas and beans, fresh and buttermilk, butter, and cheese. Fruits are mainly apricots and mulberries. Their homemade wine is prepared from grapes. Infants are breastfed, sometimes for as long as three years.

Wheat is the preferred nutriment and peas may be ground up with the kernels. In other words, bread is made from whole grain meal which is pulverized between stones. This includes the germ. When it comes to vegetables, they eat the protective skins. Furthermore, they do not leech out the essential salts as we do. All cooking is over a slow fire and the edibles are allowed to simmer in closed vessels.

Fruits—both in the fresh and dried states—are popular. Every household has a generous quantity of the "cured" article which has been exposed to the direct rays of the sun. During the winter the proportion of meat is larger. In fact, they may use it sparingly during the warm season.

Perhaps we can take a lesson from the experiences of the Hunzas. Vegetables need not be soaked until their minerals have been lost. They clean them only to get rid of soil. Neither do they scrape them until the valuable elements which lie in the outer covering have been destroyed. There is virtue in freshness [a few hours out of the ground] which may well be recognized. The merit of dairy products must not be overlooked. Rich gravies and highly spiced and peppery sauces have no place in the menus of these people.

When we think of our ancestors sitting down to a meal consisting of half a dozen species of game upon which they feasted to the point of surfeit, the simple dietary program of the Hunzas looks pale indeed. And yet it is far more conducive to robust old age than are our vaunted ultra-scientific combinations.

EYE INFECTION.

R. D. G. writes: A disease called pink eye is spreading thru our local school. What is this disorder?

REPLY.

The disorder is acute conjunctivitis, associated with a discharge. The causative organisms vary—commonly, the pneumococcus. The condition usually follows or accompanies a cold, is highly contagious, and easily spread. Proper hygienic precautions should be observed. Affected children should be kept out of school. Antiseptic solutions will be helpful.

CROWD IT OUT.

L. G. writes: What causes some trivial incident to attach itself to a person's mind and refuse to vanish?

REPLY.

Can it be that there is too much room for nonsensical notions? If the mind is filled to the brim with worthwhile thoughts, episodes of this character should be infrequent. We hear a tune or a catchy expression and when we are relaxed it will keep recurring over and over again. Nothing to worry about.

AFTER APOPLEXY.

A. K. writes: I suffered a stroke last spring and my speech is still very poor. Is there any help for me?

REPLY.

The tendency of nature is toward recovery. Scarcely enough time has elapsed to determine the extent of improvement. In the meantime, observe the rules of good hygiene. Practice the pronunciation of words.

ALWAYS DRY.

M. A. J. writes: What causes an 84 year old lady to be thirsty all the time, even after she has had her coffee and beer?

REPLY.

Diabetes [mellitus or insipidus]. In the former, sugar is present in the urine.

FEDERALIZING EDUCATION.

Wilmette, Ill., March 28.—Both Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt agree in the retraining of men and women coming out of the army and war industry. Mr. Churchill said last Sunday that his program was well on its way. Mr. Roosevelt's communication last October to congress supported a committee plan for a billion dollars for service man education. That plan envisaged control of administration of such education within the states and by the local communities. The burning issue among professional educators concerns how this shall be brought about.

On March 3 and 4, Mr. Studebaker, the United States commissioner of education, called to Washington the representatives of about 30 national and state pressure groups which are concerned with educational legislation. Here he propounded the threefold problem of how to distribute to schools and colleges thruout the country the huge stockpiles of educational material now used in service training but to be liquidated with the peace; how to parcel out the hundreds of millions of federal money to erect educational buildings when, as, and if the old PWA is revived in some modernized form, and how actually to give the ex-service men and women possibly a year of common school education and a large, selected number up to three years of college education. The stumbling block in the deliberations of the pressure people was the total lack of uniformity of legal agencies within the 48 states to deal with the federal government. Comment from people who attended the sessions emphasizes the likelihood that states like Illinois which have no state board of education or other adequate agency of control over all education in the state, cannot possibly reorganize themselves "within several months." As a result there is dread that the federal legislation soon to be prepared to implement the administration ideas on education must necessarily, by default of the states, be framed to put a very large degree of federal domination over this seemingly planned educational expansion.

During the economic depression, the inability of the small independent school districts and all the states to rise to educational needs of the unemployed paved the way for the CCC camps, the NYA cash allotments to pupils and the establishment of about 625 federal "boarding schools," of which there were 18 in Illinois, and the adult educational programs of the WPA. The bureau devotees of Washington learned these patterns. Such people are essentially separatists, tho working for federal centralization. There are now, so it is reported, 93 separate federal agencies working in education. The army wants to train its men its own way, as does the navy, the veterans' bureau, child welfare, family workers, and so on.

Now there are 115,000 separate local school districts and school governments in the United States. Of these about 12,000 are in this state, the record. In turn, about 1,600 of these Illinois school governments have closed their schools. The professional people would like federal money to aid in such circumstances, but the local "grass-roots" seemingly will not adjust school administration sufficiently to please the Washingtonians. Last fall the senate had a lot to say about maintaining local control of the schools. There is no clear picture of what will be forced upon the national educational scene by mere time and circumstances. But the greatest dread now being expressed by school leaders in Illinois is that necessity once more will build up a group of federal emergency agencies which, in turn, may mean a parallel system of secondary and particularly vocational schools to compete for support and loyalties with what we have long known as our public schools.

It is quite surprising that political parties have not singled out these matters for consideration, for there is a very good chance that public education may soon be a national issue.

WOULD DROP THE GAS TANK.

Winnetka, Ill., March 27.—With reports of airplane disasters now a daily routine and the ratio of lives lost growing with the size of planes, perhaps this simple suggestion would reduce casualties. If transport planes were equipped with detachable engines and their fuel tanks provided with facilities for quick drainage to be used in case of final emergency, planes could be so lightened that landing speed would be reduced to comparatively safe limits and the bailing out of the passengers thereby be avoided. Incidentally, the fuselage would also be considerably less damaged, minus the fire hazard of a fully equipped crash landing.

JOHN A. HOFF.

THE NEW DEAL'S REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE.

Wittenberg, Wis., March 25.—The Willkie hullabaloo is merely a scheme to assure Mr. Roosevelt of a fourth term. Mr. Willkie's condemnation of the present administration, if it works, is a clever vote getter and intended to further befuddle the American people already under high tension as the result of the war, the unequaled burden of taxes, and foreboding of what the future may hold.

Not a principle for which Mr. Willkie campaigned in 1940 is now being extolled by Wall street's barefoot boy. On the contrary it becomes more evident daily that while the New Deal is working one side of the street, Wendell works the other. Insofar as the New Deal is concerned, its standard bearer will nominate himself, the convention notwithstanding.

As a Willkie worker and supporter in 1940, it is with keen regret that I must acknowledge these facts. In spite of my efforts, which I believe were equal to those of any layman, to help rid the nation of the New Deal in 1940, the defeat serves as an inspiration to labor and fight as never before, to the end that in 1944 we will nominate a leader, a great American, whose election in November will revive in all our people and renew faith in this republic, its institutions and the principles for which it stands. I believe that man should be Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

COMRADES AT HINES.

Chicago, March 24.—My late husband, a veteran of the first World war, was a patient at Hines' hospital. Never before had I realized the strong bond that exists between these ex-soldiers.

One young soldier of the present war was most trying, as his pain was great. The older veterans able to be around had the greatest of patience with this fretful boy. They were at his command, silently, quietly serving. It seems the natural thing to do as far as they are concerned.

Their wives are the same, always ready to encourage and cheer the wife of a new patient, sick at heart and worried.

My husband passed away after four days under an oxygen tent. I held my sad vigil all this time, my aged father keeping it with me. What should we have done without the silent, sympathetic actions on the part of the other patients. Their suffering has drawn them closer to one another.

THE SO-CALLED HUMAN RACE.

Riverside, Ill., March 28.—The picture in today's paper of the Sinatra fans makes one think that possibly Hitler, and another would-be dictator have something when they feel that the rank and file need some master mind like theirs to tell them to come in out of the rain.

Incidentally, why are men being drafted from vital war industries, whose loss will cripple production, when men like Sinatra are passed up on such flimsy excuses as a punctured ear drum?

WELDED SHIPS.

Chicago, March 27.—In partial refutation of the reports that occasionally appear of the failure of welded ships, it might be a good idea to get a little more enlightenment on the subject.

The few failures comprise a small percentage of the total output. No other section of the home front occupies a more vital position than that of shipbuilding, and when we consider the gigantic task that had to be undertaken, and the records already established, our losses due to construction defects and mechanical failures are small. In the year 1943, a total of 1896 ships of different designs were built, a total tonnage of well over 19 million deadweight. In this one year alone, our yards produced more tonnage than the whole merchant marine of this country prior to Pearl Harbor.

If it had not been for welding, to which we attribute the unprecedented production of shipping, our extended military operations would have been seriously handicapped. Altho some arguments may be presented in behalf of the riveted ship, this type of construction would have placed such a limit upon the construction that it would have been impossible to meet the urgent demand.

We have had some failures, but we have not had to go thru the numerous rivet failures such as were experienced in the last war. Some of our welded ships have withstood severe enemy action, damage, and bad weather conditions which would have resulted in many instances in total loss of a riveted vessel.

Where dry docking would of necessity have to be resorted to for certain repairs, the welded vessel frequently has been repaired by changing the trim, thereby saving time and expense.

SMIRKED LIKE A JAP.

Des Plaines, Ill., March 28.—Yesterday morning while I was trying to catch a street car at the North Western station, a large sedan came along in back of the street car which was slowing down to take on passengers.

The driver of this car saw six of us stepping off the curb, trying to avoid a huge puddle of filthy water. He stepped on the gas and shot ahead of the street car, driving right thru the puddle. The sight of six people vainly trying to avoid the deluge amused him greatly and he gave the best imitation of a smirking Jap I've ever seen on a white man.

There is no law to protect the mere pedestrian or street car rider. Unless a street car has come to a dead stop, the pedestrian has no legal protection whatever against any wild driver who happens almost to run you over in the course of his morning's sport. If you park 15 minutes overtime you can be liable to fine, but ruining clothes is apparently fitting and proper behavior under the law.

TAVERN HOURS.

Chicago, March 28.—I have been wondering why the tavern laws in this city are not enforced. Some places are open for business seven days a week. One is on the near north side, where the public can enter the front door, as I have seen, at 9 o'clock Sunday morning. Why should a few have that privilege, while the big majority are compelled to abide by the law?

CITIZENSHIP BY MARRIAGE.

Chicago, March 24.—1. Is a woman of foreign birth married to an American citizen a citizen of the United States, and does she have the right to vote in elections? 2. After her husband's death does she retain her citizenship? 3. Is it permissible to include her name on her husband's business license, and would she be allowed to carry on the business after her husband's death?

J. P.

1. Yes, if the marriage was before Sept. 22, 1922.
2. Yes, on the same facts.
3. We see no objection.

ALIEN LAND LAW.

Chicago, March 22.—Is there a law in Arizona forbidding an alien from owning property?

W. P.

If eligible to citizenship, an alien may acquire, hold, transmit, and inherit real estate or interest therein, but an ineligible alien may not acquire or hold real estate except by treaty provision.

BIGAMOUS MARRIAGE.

Chicago, March 24.—Eight years ago my husband entered into a common law marriage in Ohio, and last fall we were married in Chicago. At present he is in the army. 1. Were we legally married? 2. Am I entitled to a wife's allotment?

L. B.

1. Common law marriages are permitted in Ohio. If he did not obtain a divorce, then his marriage to you is invalid.

2. We see no way for you to do it. Your husband is subject to prosecution for bigamy. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

Yes. We suggest that you write to the city clerk, room 107, city hall, for printed literature.

UNIT RULE ENDS; MOVE TO DRAFT MORE FARMERS

Washington, D. C., April 1 (AP).—Selective service today scrapped its system of judging farm workers by units of production and took steps to draft as many of these registrants as possible under existing legal restrictions.

The action restored to local draft boards discretion as to deferments in agriculture. Telegrams went to all state draft directors emphasizing that under the Tydings amendment a farm worker must show he is irreplaceable and regularly engaged in an agricultural endeavor essential to the war effort.

Stress Need for Men Under 26.

State directors were instructed to make certain that local boards understand the urgent need for men under 26 for combat.

Under "war unit system," a farm worker was supposed to produce 16 units before earning deferment. An elaborate scale of war units, in terms of various crops and kinds of live stock, was worked out by the war food administration.

Some members of congress from farm states called the system unfair, and Sen. Russell [D., Ga.] announced this week that Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey had agreed to withdraw it.

Today's order provided that men now in 4-F [unfit for service] or 1A-L [fit for limited service only], shall be given farm deferments in 2-C if they are now in agricultural work or they get into it.

Kept in Class 2-C.

Similarly, men now in 2-C who are given physical examinations and found to be 4-F or 1A-L material will be kept in 2-C.

These two provisions were designed to hold as many physically disqualified men in farm work as possible, tho under present regulations, a selective service spokesman said, the new provisions would not institute a complete measure of control over those men.

Hershey, meantime, urged all local draft boards to meet their calls for able bodied men from now on, regardless of the effect on industry and agriculture.

"We must meet our calls not only as a matter of duty but as an act of patriotism," Hershey said in the monthly selective service bulletin issued today.

The bulletin gave the statistical picture of selective service as of March 1, as follows:

The army and navy will call on selective service in the four months between March 1 and July 1 for about 1,008,000 men in order to attain their net strength of 11,300,000.

About 23 per cent, or 230,000 of these inductions, must come from registrants deferred in industry and agriculture.

The March 1 figure of men in those two deferred groups was 5,339,000, of whom 1,187,000 were under 26 years of age. Deferred in agriculture were 1,722,000 men, of whom about 613,000 were under 26, and of those young men 530,000 were not fathers.

Deferred for occupational reasons other than agriculture were 3,677,000 men. Those under 26 numbered about 574,000, of whom 330,000 were not fathers.

The bulletin said that about 450,000 of the required inductions probably would be obtained from among the 1,871,000 men already classified 1-A; about 200,000 probably would be found among registrants becoming 18 years of age before July 1, and about 128,000 inductions probably would result from the reclassification of the 1,432,000 men who are still in 3-A [nearly all of them fathers] on March 1.

PLAN TO RESCUE EUROPEAN JEWS IS STARTED HERE

8 Millions Allotted Thus Far in '44.

Hope for rescue of the remnants of the Jewish people in Europe was sounded last night by Paul Baerwald of New York at a dinner meeting of Jewish communal leaders from 10 midwestern states in the Standard club, 320 Plymouth ct. Baerwald disclosed that the joint distribution committee in the first three months of this year allocated approximately 8 million dollars for rescue and relief of Jews in Europe.

"I want to reassure you," said Baerwald, "that there is hope for the remnants. For a long while that hope has been dim, but it has never altogether died out.

Tens of Thousands Helped.

"Even in the darkest days, in the two years after the attack on Pearl Harbor, the J. D. C. was able to offer some measure of assistance to many tens of thousands of human beings."

The speaker forecast brighter days ahead as a result of efforts by the allied nations to help European Jews rebuild their lives.

Relief Program Planned.

Baerwald's address opened a two day conference to plan a Jewish relief program thruout the world. Jewish leaders from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, and Wisconsin are in attendance. Special guests at the dinner were members of the national executive board and of the national council of the joint distribution committee. Conference meetings are being held in the Stevens hotel.

NET OF CLOTTED BLOOD REMOVES KIDNEY STONES

Durham, N. C., April 1 (AP)—A rubberlike net, made of human blood, which easily removes stones from kidneys, was announced today at Duke university medical school.

The net, which substitutes for the surgeon's probe, is produced right in the kidney by injecting human blood treated with thrombin, the protein material that causes blood to clot.

The liquid flows in as freely as water and does not start turning rubbery for 30 seconds. During this interval, the blood has time to surround a kidney stone or stones in most of the areas where these stones develop.

Blood Turns Rubbery.

In five minutes the entire inflow of blood has turned rubbery. About 20 times stronger than a natural blood clot, it is a network so soft that, as a rule, it can be drawn out gently in a single piece. Enclosed in the net, like a pea in a pod, is the stone or stones.

The technique does not require as large an incision as the usual surgery. It is often quicker, and it brings out all the fragments even when a kidney stone breaks. This is important because a fragment left behind may grow into a new stone.

Developed By Surgeon.

This technique was developed by a young Duke surgeon whom the announcement does not name. He had some trouble finding a kidney stone, but located it finally inside a blood clot that had formed as the result of probing.

The stone came out still sealed inside the clot. This suggested the idea of using some sort of rubbery substance as a substitute for blood clots. A disadvantage of the human blood net is that its formation requires use of one to five quarts of blood.

If any of the human net fails to be removed from a kidney, it does no harm, being dissolved by natural body fluids within 6 to 18 hours and eliminated.

"These are the happy days"

"I USED TO have a lot of trouble with the faucets in my place. My plumber often told me I could end all that expense and bother if I'd replace the troublesome faucets with Chicago Faucets. Finally, I took his advice. He was right. I've had no faucet trouble since. And these days, with good faucets practically off the market, I'm sure happy I acted when I did."

TWIN CITY PLAN FOR GLOBAL AIR DEPOT IS JOLTED

Injunction Against Airport Transfer Granted.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 1 [Special].—Transfer of the municipal airports of Minneapolis and St. Paul to a newly created metropolitan airports commission, which had been scheduled for today as a major step in Twin City plans to develop a global air terminal, was delayed today by injunction proceedings.

A suit challenging the constitutionality of the 1943 state law establishing the metropolitan commission was filed in the District court here by Mart M. Monaghan, an attorney, who said he is suing as a taxpayer. Monaghan obtained a temporary injunction restraining the Minneapolis park board from surrendering control of the Minneapolis municipal airport, sprawling Wold-Chamberlain field, to the metropolitan body. A hearing was scheduled for April 10.

Altho the suit presented no legal barrier to acquisition by the commission of the St. Paul municipal airport, Holman field, the commission voted to postpone this step until settlement of the Minneapolis suit.

A Severe Blow.

The legal proceedings were viewed in aviation circles here as a severe but not necessarily fatal blow to the harmony program embarked on by the two cities a year ago in a flush of enthusiasm over the global airway possibilities inherent in the community's geographical location. The legislature voted the metropolitan commission as the first step in plans to make the Twin Cities the gateway to the top of the world.

Opposition to the plans of the commission have been simmering since it announced a comprehensive development program last September. Old rivalries between St. Paul and Minneapolis have been revived and the Minneapolis park board, which now holds title to Wold-Chamberlain field, has displayed a reluctance to give up its control.

Constitutional questions raised by Monaghan in his suit include alleged violation of franchise rights and tax provisions and a contention that municipalities now owning airports to be utilized in the program are entitled to rentals.

Major Passenger Terminal.

Under the commission's program, Wold-Chamberlain field is to be developed as the major passenger terminal for the Twin Cities. This airport, with its buildings, is now valued in excess of $10,000,000, and the commission's plans call for the expenditure of an additional $8,000,000.

The field now covers 660 acres and has four single, hard surfaced runways, 150 feet wide, and ranging from 3,300 feet to 5,900 feet in length. The commission plans to acquire enough additional land to lengthen the runways so that the shortest would be 6,850 feet long and the largest 9,900 feet long.

Expansion of Holman field in St. Paul and development of a series of secondary airports is also envisioned by the commission. Lewis G. Castle of Duluth is chairman of the commission and the other members include four from Minneapolis and four from St. Paul.

Via Top of World.

A peace time air business far in excess of the present military traffic is looked forward to by the commission, which believes the Twin Cities will be the terminus for American travel to Alaska, Russia, the orient, and the far east via the top of the world.

As a basis for this belief, enthusiasts over the Twin Cities air future point to projected activities of air lines which now are using or are eager to use the community's air facilities.

Northwest Air Lines has asked the government for authority to establish four routes from the United states to Alaska, two of them by way of Minneapolis. Engineers for this company have surveyed territory thru which the routes would proceed.

Vastly Expanded Service.

Mid-Continent Air lines, which now uses Wold-Chamberlain field, also is planning vastly expanded service after the war. American Air lines has sought permission to make Minneapolis the northwest terminal in a route which would include Rochester, Minn., Dubuque, Ia., and Rockford, Ill., and would give direct service to New York.

Chicago and Southern Air lines has filed two applications for routes which would use Minneapolis as a northern terminus. Transcontinental and Western Air has asked permission to establish a route between Mississippi river cities north of St. Louis, and Pennsylvania Central Air lines has asked a permit for flights to the Twin Cities.

While information about flights northward from Minneapolis is restricted by censorship, it is known that Northwest Air Lines has made flights over the top of the world to Calcutta, India. Alaska flights are routine and have included one feat of transporting a military hospital to Alaska.

Sisters Give Blood

Mary, Nellie, Rose, Katherine, and Alice Kensek (top to bottom) at blood bank. Alice is having blood pressure tested.

Five sisters, Mary, Rose, Katherine, Alice, and Nellie Kensek, 1147 Superior st., appeared at the Red Cross blood bank, 5 N. Wabash av., yesterday to donate blood because each has a "boy friend" who is soldiering abroad—in England or in Italy. Four of the sisters are war plant workers, but they wanted to do more for their country. Blood from three of the five volunteers was accepted. The fourth was told to come back when she recovers from a cold. The fifth was urged to wait awhile, because she had given blood three times previously.

COCKTAIL LOUNGE ROBBED.

Instead of paying for a drink of the best liquor purveyed by the Varsity Cocktail lounge, 110 E. Highland av., Elgin, yesterday, a stranger who ordered it produced a revolver, locked Charles Clifford, bartender, in the basement, and looted the cash register of $110, Clifford told police.

SENATE INQUIRY URGED INTO GAG ON WAR NEWS

Hoyt Calls for Probe of Censorship.

Omaha, Neb., April 1 (AP).—Palmer Hoyt, Oregon publisher and former domestic director for the office of war information, today urged the creation of a senate committee to investigate "the whole matter of war news."

Hoyt, in a speech before a chamber of commerce luncheon here, asserted that "outstanding and worthwhile service could be done now by a senate committee whose one job would be to find out why vital news is so often withheld and to find out the reasons for that practice.

"Such a committee could properly strengthen the efforts of Elmer Davis [head of OWI] to do his number one job."

Hoyt, publisher of the Daily Oregonian at Portland, Ore., said in an interview before his speech that he believed Davis should "sit with the high command" to review war news and "at least have a voice in deciding what should be released."

Suggests Truman Pattern.

Hoyt in his speech suggested that the senate committee could be patterned after the Truman committee, which he said has done "yeoman service to the country in raising and adjusting important issues."

"Since this war started, congress has investigated in one way or another virtually everything connected with the war effort," Hoyt added.

"But they have not sought to find out why vital news stories of the war have been withheld for unreasonable lengths of time or kept back entirely, and they have not sought to find out why Elmer Davis is not kept more fully informed by the high command."

Hoyt said there had been an improvement in reporting done by the government, notably in the occupation of Tarawa and in almost all the recent engagements in the Pacific.

Not All News Told.

"But the government would still take rank as a bad reporter because we are still not getting all of the story all of the time," Hoyt added. He said this was "particularly true in the European theater," citing the Patton incident, the bombing of Bari, and the death of 410 United States paratroopers shot down by allied guns.

Hoyt declared that "one of the basic things wrong today with the handling of war news is the permitting of censorship to be handled solely by the military without reference to either the OWI or the censorship bureau."

Hoyt urged "police beat reporting" of the war, in which "we feel vicariously the thrills of victory and the sorrows of death. This kind of reporting helps to build for America the kind of war morality that we require to do our job."

U. S. AND BRITAIN TO AIR POST-WAR RELATIONS SOON

LONDON, April 1.—Broad British and American diplomatic conversations embodying the first positive steps toward final determination of post-war relationships between the two countries will begin with the arrival in London soon of Edward R. Stettinius Jr., undersecretary of state, and Adolf A. Berle Jr., assistant secretary of state.

In his communications with American officials here, Stettinius placed no limits on the subjects he wishes to discuss with Foreign Secretary Eden and Prime Minister Churchill, and they are preparing for his visit on that basis.

Likewise, Berle, who is coming here to discuss the post-war civil aviation policy, has agreed that no problems, however, troublesome will be barred. The purpose of Berle's conversations with Civil Air Planner Beaverbrook, is to eliminate major points of difference before the allied nations civil air conference which is scheduled for this summer.

Berle's Visit to Be Short.

While Berle's visit is concerned solely with aviation and will be of short duration, Stettinius may range over the whole field of Anglo-American interests from French affairs to middle east oil concessions. In addition to bringing with him an expert on French affairs, H. Freeman Matthews, an expert on the middle east, Wallace Murray, and an expert on boundaries, Isiah Bowman, Stettinius also may bring back George F. Kennan who is Ambassador John G. Winant's ranking adviser on the European advisory commission which recently reported making progress in planning the post-war status of Germany. Kennan, a former secretary of the embassy in Berlin recently went to Washington, D. C.

Altho limited to one field, Berle's conversations concern probably the most controversial issue in Anglo-American commercial affairs. His talks will only be exploratory, since neither party is authorized to commit his government.

U. S. Best Equipped Nation.

The United States will bring to the bargaining table the fact that it is the only nation in the world ready to produce a large suitable stock of commercial aircraft for post-war operations and the fact that it built up during the war both the technique and the physical layout for a world-wide air transport system. Britain's trumps are her vast prestige and negotiating ability plus ownership of vital bases girdling the globe.

H. E. OVERSTREET, BUILDER OF 'L' ON LAKE ST., IS DEAD

Harry E. Overstreet, 81, of 210 N. Lombard av., Oak Park, a construction engineer and contractor who built the first sections of the Lake st. elevated railway and the Great Lakes naval training station, died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital.

He also built short line railways in Tennessee and Iowa.

Mr. Overstreet's wife, Martha Fleury Mann Overstreet, died in 1940. Survivors are six sons, Ralph M., Louisville, Ky.; Robert H., Washington, D. C.; Albert P., Chicago; Harry M., New York City; Edward Van K., Pontiac, Mich., and John S., of Oak Park; four grandsons, all of whom are in military service; five granddaughters, and two great-granddaughters.

JOSEPH C. BLAHA, ONCE 34TH WARD ALDERMAN, DIES

Joseph C. Blaha, 67, of 2437 Sunnyside av., former alderman of the old 34th ward, suffered a fatal heart attack yesterday in the Southport av. elevated station. He was taken to the Ravenswood hospital where he was pronounced dead.

He was a graduate of Loyola university, and was elected state representative from the 19th senatorial district in 1911 and two years later was returned for a second term. In 1915 he was elected alderman on the Republican ticket.

He is survived by his widow, Sue, and two sons, Pvt. Joseph C. Jr., and Sgt. Bert J. Blaha, both of the army.

A drive among the 500,000 workers in Chicago's loop will open tomorrow to augment contributions in the 12 million dollar annual Red Cross campaign, Martin H. Kennelly, general chairman, said yesterday. James F. Vanek, district No. 7, chairman, will be in charge.

Among large contributions announced yesterday was $100,000 from the Commonwealth Edison company and $45,000 from its employes.

Citing the urgent need of funds, Chairman Kennelly said he received a message yesterday from Corp. Edward Kaluso, a patient in the Lawson General hospital, Atlanta, Ga., who lauded the organization for its work. "Everything I've asked for, the Red Cross has given me," wrote Corp. Kaluso.

LACK OF GUAM DEFENSES LAID TO WHITE HOUSE

Brooks and Wheeler Answer Rayburn.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 1.—Blame for the failure to fortify the Island of Guam, which was captured by Japan four days after the attack on Pearl Harbor, tonight was lodged on the doorstep of the White House by Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] and Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.].

The senators took vigorous exception to an attack by Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.] on unnamed members of congress for failure to fortify the Pacific outpost. Rayburn made the charges during a Jackson day address at San Francisco Thursday night.

Rayburn, who was house majority leader at the time the question was raised in congress, asserted "the men in congress who refused to fortify the Island of Guam" will not be permitted to scrap the American fleet or military machine at the end of the war with Japan and Germany.

Opening of Smear Campaign.

Because Rayburn is a possible candidate for Vice President in the fourth term campaign, his assault against congressional colleagues was regarded as the opening of a smear campaign intended to purge those the New Deal would tax with the failure to fortify Guam and to hide the New Deal's guilt for the disaster at Pearl Harbor.

In simultaneous, independent statements Brooks and Wheeler emphasized that the administration never had asked congress to fortify Guam. The only request made to congress was for the dredging of Guam's harbor, which was first denied by congress and later approved.

"Ever since the tragic, humiliating defeat dealt the American people by the devastating attack made upon Pearl Harbor by the Japanese, the administration has used every device and means to divert all demands made for a complete probe and exposure that would fix the responsibility for the official bungling that resulted in the sinking of our fleet," Brooks said.

Improvement Fund Voted.

"In the meantime, various members of the administration, as well as members of communistic groups and others who wish to first smear and then defeat members of congress, have resorted to the charge that congress refused to fortify Guam."

In 1939 a request for 5 million dollars to improve the harbor was defeated in the house. However, on March 23, 1941, a $4,700,000 appropriation for harbor improvement at the island was voted by congress.

Sen. Wheeler called upon Rayburn to name the "culprits" who refused to fortify Guam, declaring that the real truth about the failure is that the administration did not ask congress to provide the island with defenses either thru the White House or the navy department.

Wheeler charged the administration is attempting to smear congress thru Rayburn's charge and demanded facts, not propaganda.

GENEVA WORKER KILLED; SEIZE HIT-RUN DRIVER

Budd E. Cummings, 42, of 428 Anderson blvd., Geneva, a war worker, was killed by a hit and run auto early yesterday at State and 1st sts., Geneva, and several hours later Albert Davidson, 34, of 327 N. 2d st., Geneva, was arrested at his work in a war plant. Cummings is survived by his widow, Mildred.

A broken radiator ornament which fell from his car led to Davidson's arrest. Malcolm Sanders, a Geneva city ash man, saw the damaged auto in the rear of Davidson's home and notified Chief of Police Reuben Anderson. Davidson admitted his car had struck Cummings, Chief Anderson said, and explained he drove away while frightened. Davidson was taken to the office of State's Atty. Charles G. Seidel in Elgin for questioning.

Other hit and run drivers struck Joseph Niedzwiecz, 56, of 1415 Walton st., who was internally injured at Chicago and Western avs., and was taken to St. Mary's hospital, and Oliver Bradley, 42, of 1732 W. Ogden av., a waiter, whose left leg was broken when he was struck at Ogden av. and Monroe st.

Illinois Flyer Honored by Jugo-Slav Air Force

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, April 1 (AP).—Five American officers of a 15th air force Liberator squadron who have been flying alongside Jugo-Slav flyers in missions against the Germans since last November, have been made honorary members of the royal Jugo-Slav air force, it was announced today. One is Lt. F. R. Sandberg, of Plano, Ill.

INVASION PLANS HAMPERED BY BRITISH STRIKES

LONDON, April 1 (AP).—Britain, heading for invasion day, is faced with a mounting handicap of strikes in vital industry which made March probably the worst month of the war in the number of men idle and working days lost. The time has been lost despite efforts of the labor unions to keep the men at work.

Three major strikes alone—two of which are continuing—involved at least 235,000 men and cost more than a million work days, according to unofficial but conservative estimates.

This was more than double the official total announced by the labor ministry today for February—272,000 working days lost in strikes involving 102,000 workers.

[In the United States 650,000 man days were lost in January because of strikes, the bureau of labor statistics announced. In February the total dropped to 470,000. Figures for March are not yet compiled.]

None Called by Unions.

None of the present walkouts has been union-called or the result of jurisdictional disputes. In every case, the labor unions have counseled against a walkout and have urged mediation to maintain war production while a settlement is being worked out.

However, the estimated March loss of man hours was greater than the strike total for the entire year of 1941, to which coal field disputes contributed about half of the 999,000 working days lost.

Worst Strike Since 1926.

This closed virtually every main colliery and involved 125,000 miners in Britain's worst walkout since the 1926 general strike.

By the end of March, this had involved at least 90,000 workers in 70 pits and little hope is seen of settling the dispute before Easter.

The coal field troubles were indirectly responsible for a simultaneous strike in the shipbuilding industry at Clydeside and Tyneside, where 20,000 apprentices walked out in protest over a government ruling that they were eligible for drafting for compulsory service in the pits. They refused union appeals to return to their jobs.

BATAAN SEALS WILL BE SOLD 2 DAYS THIS WEEK

Chicagoans will be asked to dig into their pockets Wednesday and Thursday to buy seals which will be offered for sale in the county building by the Bataan War Prisoners Relief of Illinois. Mrs. Agnes Hosford, known to radio listeners as Aunt Agnes will assist in the sale on Wednesday. The proceeds will be used for food and medicine for the soldiers and sailors who are prisoners of the Japanese.

FIRE ROUTS HOTEL GUESTS.

MIAMI'S GOUGE OF SERVICE MEN GOES ON APACE

Boom Tourist Season Nears End.

BY MARTHA MURPHY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami Beach, Fla., April 1.—The game of gouge-the-service men continues at a merry pace in Miami and Miami Beach and landlords, comforted by one of the best tourist seasons on record, are sitting back, patting their fat purses.

The season just concluding has been a terror for tourists and service men alike. Tourists, paying fabulous prices for a rollicking good time, have been beset by government restrictions on transportation and gasoline. The service man, working at war all day, drops to sleep each night to the lullaby of ringing cash registers.

Rents Continue to Climb.

Altho rent ceilings have been established by the office of price administration, prices jog ever upwards. A navy man saw his $75 rental almost double overnight. His landlady explained that she would rather use the apartment as a dressing room for the beach than continue to rent it at $75.

One army family is paying $30 a week for a room in a private home which rented for $10 last summer.

Most owners refuse families with children, but by paying $15 extra for his $90 apartment one navy man was able to bring in his 3 year old daughter.

A service man stationed in this area and granted a week-end pass or a short leave might just as well stay in his barracks. With a little luck he might find a $35 a day vacancy in one of the fancy beach hotels or an apartment which rents at $1,100 for six weeks.

Meanwhile the troubled tourist is marooned in Miami. Local ration boards are refusing gasoline to visitors who drove down.

Army Giving Up Hotels.

A faint light is beginning to glimmer thru the dollar signs. On April 15 the army air forces' technical training command will begin to evacuate 139 more of the 325 hotels and buildings it began to occupy on Feb. 20, 1942. This will bring the total released to 262.

The navy has announced that construction of 200 apartment units for enlisted men and their families will begin immediately. The units will be privately financed.

UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE
Provides Competent Medical Care for Rectal Ailments Without Pain or Loss of Time from Work
12th Year of Responsible Medical Care
MANY persons afflicted with rectal trouble find it difficult to obtain correct information about their condition. As a result these serious and painful ailments are allowed to go untreated, frequently with tragic consequences. Others delay treatment thinking relief is impossible without an operation and hospitalization. Rectal disorders are a major disease problem. If they are not corrected in the early stages by proper treatment serious results may follow. In the beginning piles or hemorrhoids are small blood tumors or varicose veins concealed above the anal opening. Symptoms are rarely recognized until they become large enough to obstruct the rectal canal. As they increase in size they often protrude at stool or when bending over, walking or similar physical strains. This is a very painful as well as a very dangerous stage. If treatment is neglected the condition grows progressively worse and further serious complications will follow.
Fistula & Rectal Abscess
A simple hemorrhoid or pile can cause a fistula or rectal abscess. These are perhaps the most dangerous types of rectal disorders. Abscess results from infections. The pus thus created forces its way through the tissues and produces a fistula. The first symptom is a throbbing pain in the rectal region. As the abscess gets larger the pain may become more intense. If the abscess breaks or is opened by a skilled physician immediate relief will follow. However, if the pus is allowed to burrow into surrounding tissue more abscess and more fistula tracts will form. Unless this condition is permanently corrected by proper and continued treatment a disastrous situation may develop. Fistula is pus forming, which in itself is a constant menace to health. If permitted to continue unchecked it will affect the general system through loss of blood, absorption of poisonous matter, obstruction due to swelling, etc. Arthritis is also a common result. Equally serious, however, is the danger of destroying the sphincter muscles which control bowel movements. For this reason fistula should be treated as early as possible. Medical science cannot repair tissue that has been destroyed, nor can it restore control of the bowels.

Other Rectal Diseases
There are many other rectal ailments, usually associated with hemorrhoids or piles, requiring special treatment which space does not permit mentioning here. These are fully explained in our literature, "Rectal Diseases," which will be mailed free upon request. There is, however, another danger which can develop as a result of an untreated rectal condition . . . cancer. Regardless of the fear and apprehension most persons have toward cancer we believe a timely word of warning against this disease should be expressed whenever possible. Cancer is curable when diagnosed early and properly treated. Despite this fact there are more deaths from cancer in this country today than occurred 25 years ago. More cancer is being diagnosed, but in too many cases the diagnoses were made too late. Cancer can be largely prevented by removing known tendencies such as constant irritation, inflammation or abnormal growth regardless of its location within or on the body. Many potential cancers have been prevented by such vigilance. Untreated rectal ailments are often a source if not a cause of cancer. Such conditions as bleeding piles, ulceration of the bowel or chronic dysentery are sometimes due to beginning cancer.
Our Methods and Facilities Insure Adequate Care
How do our physicians treat rectal ailments? In the great majority of cases our treatment is "ambulant." That is to say nearly all rectal ailments are successfully treated in our Department of Proctology without pain, hospitalization, or loss of time from work. Every person with a rectal disturbance is examined by a comptent physician before any medication or treatment is given. The success of subsequent treatment as well as the safety of the patient leaves no alternative. An accurate diagnosis of rectal trouble is not always a simple problem. Often it requires not only special knowledge and skill of a widely experienced physician, but institutional support, such as X-rays, clinical laboratory and other medical procedures. Our Department of Proctology is a complete rectal clinic in itself. In addition all medical facilities of the entire organization are available when necessary. Their use, especially in complicated cases, often makes the diagnosis more accurate and the treatment more certain. Treatment varies in accordance with the condition to be corrected. At all times it is cautious and conservative. It may take longer than the more radical type as we take full advantage of natural healing processes, and nature cannot be hurried. However, its freedom from pain with no loss of time from work and its permanency is worth the extra treatment necessary to effect a cure.

All Rectal Conditions Should Be Accurately Diagnosed
To be complete and fully protective, an examination of a rectal condition should be made by a skilled physician with special knowledge in this field of medicine. Examinations made here include an X-ray study of a barium filled colon and after evacuation, use of the proctoscope; urinalysis, blood and serological tests and a clinical laboratory examination of the stool for mucus, blood and parasites. The cost of these combined procedures and services of the physician is.............. $15.00
Complete medical facilities for the diagnosis and treatment of all ailments are available here. They include all departments of medicine under the direction of qualified physicians and surgeons, supported by X-rays, electrocardiograms, clinical laboratory tests and many other special medical procedures. Although many former members of our medical staff are among the thousands of physicians now serving our armed forces, we are completely restaffed and can provide any medical service. Our offices can be conveniently reached by railroad trains, street cars, buses, elevated and subway trains, and automobiles. Fees are moderate and the same to all. Further information upon request.

BILL SMITH WINS THREE A.A.U. SWIM TITLES

HIS FEATS GIVE TEAM LAURELS TO GREAT LAKES

Triple Victory First Since 1928.

Table of Points

Great Lakes, 54.	Olathe N. A. S., 5.
Michigan, 20.	Purdue, 3.
Columbia, 13.	Washington H. S., 3.
Bainbridge N. S., 10.	Lake Shore Club, 2.
N. Philadelphia Y., 8.	Princeton, 1.
Ohio State, 5.	Riviera Club, 1.

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 1 [Special].—Bill Smith, 19 year old Great Lakes star who holds more than half of swimming's world records, tonight scored the first national A. A. U. triple victory since Johnny Weissmuller turned the trick in 1928. He also accounted for his second new meet record and paced the Bluejackets to an easy team championship. Michigan was second.

Bill Smith.

The 205 pound sensation from Honolulu added the A. A. U. titles in both the 100 and 440 yard free style events to the 220 yard title which he won last night. His time of 4:42.1 for the quarter bettered by three-tenths of a second the old A. A. U. record set by Keo Nakama of Ohio State two years ago.

He had earlier cracked Alan Ford's two year old 220 record with a 2:08 performance.

Record for 100 Survives.

Smith won by two feet from a fast field in the hundred tonight, but his time of :51.6 was considerably off the meet record and did not approach the world mark of :49.7 registered twice in the last three weeks by Ford of Yale. Ford, A. A. U. hundred yard champion last year, was prevented from participating in this meet by a Yale travel regulation.

Smith's only rival for individual honors was Adolph Kiefer, chief specialist from the Bainbridge naval station and for a decade king of the world back strokers. Kiefer became a double winner tonight by adding the 150 yard back stroke title to the individual medley championship he gained yesterday.

Kiefer Wins by 15 Yards.

Kiefer, who had written new A. A. U. and American records in the medley Friday, missed equaling his own world 150 yard mark by six-tenths of a second. He finished in 1:31 flat after reaching the 100 mark in :58.4. He won by 15 yards with Ralph Knight, Massillon [O.] High school youth, second.

Great Lakes placed 1-2-3 in the hundred with Wally Ris and Jerry Kerschner finishing close behind Smith while Lt. Bill Prew of the army air forces was fourth. Prew was the 1942 titlist and holds the A. A. U. mark of 51 seconds.

Prew led in this race for the first 50 yards and Smith took over with about 30 yards to go. He finished strong while Prew faded.

Smith Leads All the Way.

After Kiefer had racked up his ninth A. A. U. backstroke victory in 10 seasons, having lost last year for the first time since 1934, Smith returned to the University of Michigan pool to lead all the way for his second straight national quarter mile championship.

He swam the first 200 yards in 2:00.2 but followed with a 66 second hundred, and dropped to 69 seconds in the next hundred yards. His time of 4:42.1 was more than 6 seconds behind the world mark of 4:38.5 which he set in 1941 and which he had hoped to break tonight.

Gene Rogers of Columbia nosed out Nakama for second place, five yards back of Smith.

Charles Batterman, former Ohio State diving ace who now is at Columbia, was the meet's third in-

ODT Restricts All Travel to Kentucky Derby

Train reservations to the Kentucky Derby, which will be run in Louisville, Ky., May 6, will not be available to the public prior to May 1, according to an announcement made by the office of defense transportation yesterday.

These restrictions, according to ODT, will not apply to service men and women, to holders of government transportation requests, or to other bona fide essential travelers.

Motor bus lines serving Louisville have also agreed at the request of ODT not to furnish additional service to Louisville during the Derby week-end.

BLACKHAWKS TO LEAVE TODAY FOR CUP FINALS IN MONTREAL

BY EDWARD PRELL.

At this stage of the Stanley cup play-offs, the Chicago Blackhawks, according to the sharp hockey followers, by rights should be indulging only in a spectator's role. But at 9:30 o'clock this morning, they'll be on their way to Montreal for their best-of-seven game series starting Tuesday with the Canadiens for the well traveled mug.

On form the Blackhawks were supposed to be inferior to the Detroit Red Wings. So they stepped right out and disposed of the Wings in five games. This also was par for the Canadiens, who topped off their conquest of Toronto with an 11 to 0 rout.

Hawks Underdogs Again.

The Hawks have the same underdog role against the Canadiens which they enjoyed against the Red Wings and it isn't bothering them at all. On the basis of what Montreal did to Chicago during the regular season the Hawks do not belong in the same rink with the champions. The Canadiens won eight of 10 meetings and the other two were tied. But—

The record conceals an important fact. Scores of the last four games were 1 to 1, 2 to 2, 3 to 2, and 3 to 2. It was during this stretch that the Chicagoans found themselves, with Mike Karakas stopping the flow of goals at the net, and Joe Cooper adding strength as a defense man. The worst beating Montreal handed Chicago was by 6 to 1, early in the season.

Throwing out the first six games, any visions of a Montreal walkaway disappear. The Hawks aren't bragging about what they're going to do to the Canadiens, but firmly believe they have a chance to write an even more surprising chapter to their 1943-'44 record than the one just completed at Detroit.

Well Balanced Team.

The Canadiens have no one to match the individual brilliance of Doug Bentley, the wraithlike sharpshooter. Rather, Montreal spread eagled the National Hockey league field because it had a well balanced team with most of the players at their peak. The Canadiens' personnel includes fellows from 24 to 30 years old, with, as Manager Paul Thompson of the Hawks said, good strong legs.

"Their defense is good," said Thompson in analyzing his opponents, "and their three forward lines are about on a par with each other. They're a good, tough club from top to bottom."

Beat Out Hawks in '43.

Last year the Canadiens, by a single point, beat out the Hawks for a berth in Stanley cup play. This will be Thompson's first time in the finals as a manager, but he has participated in the big show as a player.

Since the Stanley cup was first awarded for hockey excellence in 1893, Montreal teams have won it 15 times. The Hawks have cashed in twice, in 1934 and 1938.

The Hawks will arrive in Montreal tomorrow in time for a workout in the Forum, where the opening game will be played. Then the teams will return to Chicago for games next Thursday and a week from tonight. All remaining games then will be played in Montreal.

All reserved seat tickets for the two games in Chicago have been sold. At 6 p. m. on the days of each game, 5,500 unreserved seats will go on sale at the Stadium.

Yankees Beat Phils, 6-4, on Five Hit Total

Atlantic City, N. J., April 1 (AP).—The New York Yankees made only five hits today but defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 5 to 4, in the first exhibition game of the year at this resort. A crowd of 2,678 paying fans and 500 wounded soldiers watched.

Johnny Lindell cracked a home run for the winners with a mate on base and George Stirnweiss banged out a triple with two men on. Both hits were made off Charles Schanz.

Use Rookie Pitchers.

Rookies Floyd Bevens and Lefty John Johnson, both with Kansas City last season, pitched for the Yankees with the latter getting credit for the victory. Bevens struck out five in five innings but ran into trouble in the fourth when three hits and a hit batsman netted the Phils three runs.

The Yankees today purchased Larry Rosenthal, left handed hitter and thrower, from their Newark farm. The veteran outfielder, who had six seasons' experience with the White Sox and Indians, will be 32 years old on May 21.

May Get Draft Call.

He batted .272 for the Bears last year, hitting 11 homers. Rosenthal is en route from his St. Paul, Minn., home to join the Yanks here, but the length of his stay is dependent on his draft status, which Yank officials claim not to know, but which Newark sources say is 1-A.

NEW TRIER HIGH WINS OAK PARK RELAYS; HOST SCHOOL SECOND

New Trier High school added the Oak Park relays title to its list of 1944 athletic championships last night when it scored 66 points in the 14th annual meet held in Oak Park fieldhouse. The host school, defending champions, finished second with 47½ points. Maine Township High school was third with 46 points.

The title was the first for New Trier since 1939. Beginning in 1937 New Trier had won the crown three years in a row but Oak Park won the last four years. Big factor in the champions' victory was their one-two finish in the broad jump and in 60 yard low hurdles and their heavy scoring in the relay events.

One meet record was established when Ed Ulvestad of Oak Park cleared 12 feet, 9 inches in the pole vault. The former record was 12 feet, 8¼ inches, made by Westgate of Oak Park last year. Tommy Boswell of Evanston equaled the 50 yard dash record of :05.5 in the finals.

Johnny Spink of New Trier was the only double winner. He took the 60 yard low hurdles in :07.1 and the 60 yard high hurdles in :07.6.

North Siders Win, 10-9, in 1st '44 Game

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Evansville, Ind., April 1.—The Cubs, who don't boast of their power, especially when Bill Nicholson isn't giving them assistance, literally exploded today while getting on with the twice delayed spring exhibition opener in the first half of a two game series with the Tigers. The latter also exploded but in a slightly milder fashion, resulting in a 10 to 9 decision for Jim Wilson's National league entry.

Boss Wilson, in displaying his 1944 creation for the first time, saw a few things that caused concern but on the other hand witnessed others that created doubly upholstered comfort.

Rookies Hit Well.

The comfort was derived from the fact that the rookies who are tentatively billed for a regular showing thruout the summer disported themselves almost recklessly as hitters. The group was topped by Don Johnson and Bill Schuster who notched four hits apiece.

As proof that he is just about the best conditioned of the Cub staff, Ed Hanyzewski turned out a three hit, three inning job which was entirely too classy for Hal Newhouser, the lefty, who was glad to receive relief orders after four hapless innings. A dozen hits and five runs were recorded during young Harold's regime.

Wyse Has Stormy Time.

Next for the Cubs was Hank Wyse, who is figured to be a regular starter. He suffered three stormy innings but the going was even tougher for his successor, John Burrows, who southpawed only a portion of the seventh. He was relieved by Johnny Miklos, the Chicago policeman, who kept the Tigers in order to the finish.

While the Cubs amassed a total of 19 hits, not many of this batch could be charged against Emery Hresko, a 17 year old graduate of American Legion baseball. He took over in the seventh just after Bill Kasepchuk, a Canadian army dischargee, had presented the Cubs with five runs in a two inning stretch. While Hresko was present the Cubs accumulated only two hits and altho he tossed up five passes he didn't yield any runs.

First Run in Third.

Having gotten nothing from three hits in the first innings, the Cubs speeded up their tempo to four safe blows in the third and thus produced the initial run.

Johnson and Schuster started it with singles to left but Phil Cavarretta contributed only a fly to Don Ross and Ival Goodman a grounder on which Johnson was forced at third. Then Ed Sauer caromed a hit off Newhouser's glove and Schuster scored. This was followed by a single from Rookie Andy Pafko's bat but Tony York popped to Catcher J. Hack Miller in front of the plate.

Holm Starts Big Inning.

Bill Holm singled to launch the four run hilarity in the fourth. There was a pause while Russ Kerns, one of the Cubs' unlisted boy scouts, was being fanned by Newhouser. Then Johnson singled and an extra base was produced by Roger Cramer's fumble of the hit. The two men were driven home by Schuster's third single. After Cavarretta had walked, a single boomed

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 1. — The White Sox pennant bee, which has been buzzing right merrily in the face of the cold weather at their French Lick training base, buzzed plenty more today as the Chicagoans trounced the Pittsburgh Pirates, 16 to 3, in the opener of a two game series here. The Sox reached the height of their marauding when they scored nine runs in the third inning.

The Sox made 20 hits, nine of them doubles, in their bruising process aimed at three Pirate regular pitchers, Xavier Rescigno, Johnny Gee and Bob Klinger. Xavier bore the brunt of the plastering, and had to be replaced before he had completed his three inning assignment. Gee alone was a sound performer.

Hitting Well Distributed.

The Sox hitting was well distributed. Ed Carnett made two doubles and Jimmy Webb socked a single and a double. Johnny Dickshot bashed two doubles in the big third and Hal Trosky drove in the first run of the day with a single. Grey Clarke doubled with the bases full and two out to start the big parade in the third inning, and added a single later on. Clarence Difani smacked a double, Leroy Schalk bashed two singles and his successor, Pete Sharp, knocked a double. Mike Tresh was among the producers of doubles. Guy Curtright had two singles and was a factor in two double steals. The Sox, by the way, stole five bases.

Thornton Lee did nothing to dim his comeback promise. One unearned run was all the Pirates could produce in his three inning stay. Bill Dietrich took the second shift, pitched two faultless innings then yielded a pair in the third and last inning of his stint. Orval Grove, who held the Tigers scoreless in last Sunday's 10 to 4 Sox victory over Detroit, kept the Pirates away from the plate in the last three innings today.

Nine Runs in Third.

Altho they made only one run in the first inning the White Sox gave some hint of what they had in mind for Rescigno. With one down, Webb singled to left but was out trying to steal second. Dickshot was safe on second when Jim Russell dropped his fly near the fence in right center. Johnny scored on Trosky's sharp single to right. Ralph Hodgin singled to right, Trosky taking third. Schalk flied to Russell in center.

The Sox went out in order in the second inning and there were two out before the lads scored the first of the nine runs they made in the third inning. Rescigno got the third under way by walking Carnett. Webb flied out to Russell but Dickshot delivered the first of two doubles he made in the big session, Carnett stopping at third. The runners held on while Rescigno threw out Trosky, after which Hodgin was given an intentional pass, loading

SPORTSMAN'S TO OPEN '44 RACING SEASON APRIL 29

Expect First Stables to Arrive This Week.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Sportsman's Park, Cicero's popular half mile plant, which will open Chicagoland's 163 day racing season on April 29, unlocked its gates yesterday and prepared to welcome the owners and trainers of some 1,200 thorobreds which are expected to be on hand by the time the season starts. According to John L. Keeshin, president of the National Jockey club, operators of Sportsman's Park, many stables will arrive within the next few days.

The majority of the stables which have been competing at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, Ark., which closed yesterday, and Tropical Park in Coral Gables, Fla., which enters its final week tomorrow, already are en route to Chicago for the opening of the 14 day spring meeting.

Move from Tropical.

From Tropical Park comes the word that probably 20 stables will head for the Sportsman's Park meeting before the Florida track closes and among them will be 17 of E. B. Carpenter's barn; Joseph Purpura will bring five; Jack Bainton will ship 12; L. Dilger will send nine, and Otto Bagley promises 10.

Keeshin also reports that Track Supt. Ed Krummery has the racing strip in readiness and from now on horsemen will be permitted to try out their charges.

Accept Whitney Trophy.

In the meantime, Arlington Park and Washington Park officials continue to build up their rich program and prepare for their summer opening at Washington Park June 19 and yesterday Executive Director Benjamin F. Lindheimer announced the acceptance of the offer of a challenge cup for the Equipoise Mile from Col. C. V. Whitney.

Four years ago Arlington Park established a mile handicap event for 3 year olds and up as a permanent memorial to Equipoise, one of the greatest racers of all times, and immediately the Equipoise race became one of America's most popular events.

dividual standout. He added the high board championship to the low board title gained yesterday, decisively outpointing Strother Martin of Great Lakes.

The Bluejackets scored their fifth victory of the meet by winning the medley relay by 5 yards from Michigan. A second Great Lakes team was inches back in third place, while the Wolverine "B" contingent settled for fourth.

Gives Relay Team Lead.

Again Smith was an important Great Lakes factor, returning here to swim the back stroke leg of the race. He gave the winner a 2 yard edge at the end of the first 100 yards and it was never surrendered. The winning time was 2:59, nearly seven seconds back of the A. A. U. record.

The final team standings listed Great Lakes at the top with 54 points and Michigan second with 20. Other team scores: Columbia, 13; Bainbridge Naval Station, 10; North Philadelphia Y. M. C. A., 8; Ohio State, 5; Olathe [Kas.] Naval Air Station, 5; Purdue, 3; Washington High school, Massillon, O., 3; Lake Shore Club, 2; Princeton, 1; Riviera Club of Indianapolis, 1.

Ray Prim, 37 year old southpaw pitcher, has been released by the Cubs to their Los Angeles affiliate in the Pacific Coast league, General Manager Jim Gallagher of the National league club announced yesterday in Chicago. POTOMAC DAMS ARE OPPOSED BY WALTON LEAGUE

The executive committee of the Isaak Walton League went on record as being opposed to the construction of 14 dams in the Potomac river, at its meeting in the La Salle hotel yesterday afternoon. The committee contended that such construction was unnecessary, that it would be injurious to the river's natural beauty and that it would obliterate the Potomac's Great Falls, regarded as a national asset.

The Home Front

BY WILLIAM BAYLISS.

RECREATIONAL and industrial leaders from all parts of the country will be on the program of the fourth national conference of the Industrial Recreation association in the Edgewater Beach hotel, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of next week. The convention is expected to be one of the most cosmopolitan gatherings ever held in the United States and I. R. A. officials are confident it will set a new high mark in the history of planned industrial entertainment and physical exercise.

The program which has been arranged by Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood, president; Ed B. De Groote of Evansville, Ind., vice president in charge of the conference program, and Ray Millard, executive secretary of the I. R. A., reads like a Who's Who in industry and recreation. There will be numerous clinics and round table discussions, as well as two noon luncheon and two evening banquet meetings.

Rogers, Thurner to Speak at Wednesday's Sessions.

The board of directors will hold morning and afternoon sessions on Tuesday and the first open meeting will be held that night, followed by a reception and get together. Dr. Eastwood, who is professor of industrial recreation at Purdue university, will give the president's keynote address Wednesday morning. Ralph G. Rogers, production manager of Republic Aviation corporation in Evansville, Ind., will speak on "Recreation and Employe Relations," at the luncheon meeting that day and the speaker at the night session will be Harry S. Thurner, vice president of the New Process Gear company, Syracuse, N. Y., whose subject is "Post-War Industrial Recreation."

The Thursday noon session will be featured by a talk on "Management Looks at Recreation," by Harry Newcomb, vice president of Servel, Inc., in Evansville. The I. R. A. has gone outside of its own immediate ranks for speakers on the final program Thursday night. Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, will give the principal address at the annual banquet, his topic being "The Significance of Industrial Sports and Athletics." Dr. Eastwood will preside and Herb Graffis will be the toastmaster.

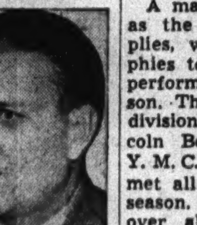
Speakers from 14 States Make It Real National Affair.

If any one wishes to question the nation-wide scope of the conference, a glance over the program should convince him, for not only will every part of the country be represented by delegates to the gathering, but 14 states, from New York to California and from Minnesota to Alabama, will provide speakers or discussion leaders. Other states so represented are Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Maryland, Kansas, Michigan, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Tennessee.

RECREATION PROGRAM LEADERS

Arch Ward (left), sports editor of The Chicago Tribune, will be the chief speaker at the banquet Thursday night which will close the national conference of the Industrial Recreation association in the Edgewater Beach hotel. Ray Millard (center), executive secretary, and Ed De Groote (right), vice president of the I. R. A., have been active in arranging the program for the meeting, which opens Tuesday.

MANAGERS of 18 industrial basketball teams which thru the winter have been rivals in the North Side Coöperative Y. M. C. A. basketball league will gather at the Lincoln Belmont Y Tuesday at 7 p. m. for the league's annual awards banquet. All told, there will be 100 guests, including, in addition to the managers, a large representation of personnel and recreation directors and executives of the industries which sponsored the different teams.



Dutch Lonborg

Arthur [Dutch] Lonborg, Northwestern university's basketball coach, will be the chief speaker on the program which will follow the dinner. Dutch recently returned from the national basketball coaches' meeting and may give the boys some first hand information on the rules changes which will go in effect when the next season opens.

Steve Barak Toastmaster; Committee to Curb Speeches.

Steve Barak, formerly of the Division st. Y. M. C. A. and now personnel and recreation director at Katzingers, will be the toastmaster and will introduce a number of executives and other guests. The committee in charge has given its word that there will be a minimum of speeches and has asked the special guests to remember this fact.

Exceptions to this rule of course will be Lonborg and Ray Millard, a second speaker on the program, who will represent the Industrial Recreation association. The I. R. A. will open a three day national conference in Chicago Tuesday [as reported in more detail elsewhere in this column] and Millard will tell about the convention plans and perhaps give something of an outline on the recreation picture from a national viewpoint.

Teams and Individuals Will Receive Their Awards.

A major feature of the program, as the name of the banquet implies, will be presentation of trophies to teams and individuals for performances during the recent season. The league operated in three divisions, at the Division st., Lincoln Belmont, and North avenue Y. M. C. A.'s, tho each of the 18 teams met all other members during the season. The top ranking team on an over all basis was Illinois Tool Works, which won all of its 17 games. The Thordarson Electrics were second, losing only one contest to Illinois Tool, followed by Elcor Inc. and Procter & Gamble, in third and fourth places.

On a sectional basis, the two leaders in each division were: Victor Adding Machine and Scott Radio at Lincoln Belmont, Thordarsons and Elcors at Division st., and Illinois Tool and Proctor & Gamble at North av.

Two Sportsmanship Trophy Winners Will Be Announced.

There will be a number of additional awards, winners of which will not be divulged until they are presented Tuesday night. One of these is the James McDonald Weber park team sportsmanship trophy for the quintet whose deportment on the court was considered the best thruout the season and another is an individual sportsmanship award. League officials and referees also will announce the all-star team of five players, picked from the more than 200 who appeared in league games.

Individual scoring leaders for the season in each of the three divisions were: at Lincoln Belmont, Tom Calt of Victor, 228 points; at North av., Phil Raso of Russell Electric, 244, and at Division st., Jerry Mugnolo of Elcor, 186.

Challenge Me First in Derby at Oaklawn

Hot Springs, Ark., April 1 (AP).—Challenge Me, the popular choice, led from wire to wire today to win the $10,000 added Arkansas Derby at Oaklawn Park in the fast time of 1:50 1-5, only one-fifth of a second off the track record for a mile and an eighth.

Given a hustling ride by Anthony Skoronski, 21, of Chicago, Oaklawn's leading jockey, the big brown colt from the Brolite farm broke into the front from his No. 6 post position and was never threatened.

Shut Up Is Second.

Three and a half lengths back of Challenge Me at the finish was the Erlanger stable's Shut Up, with Jockey R. Eccard up. Dave Ferguson's Bell Buzzer, with A. Craig in the saddle, finished two lengths farther back for the show, barely outlasting Mrs. F. D. Rice's Green Bush.

A favorite in the mutuels, Challenge Me paid $4.10, $4.00 and $2.70 while Shut Up returned $7.60 and $4.60 and Bell Buzzer $3.70.

Finishing behind Green Bush in the order named were Signals Bloke, Merry Sunshine, High Harp, Commanche Peak, Big Head, Valdina Period, Elissa B and High Fox.

In Repeat Performance.

In leading all the way in the race for three year olds, Challenge Me repeated his brilliant performance of last Saturday when he set a new track record of 1:42 3-5 for the mile and a sixteenth.

A son of Challenger II-Cash Book, Challenge Me is a Kentucky Derby eligible. He had previously started eight times as a 3 year old, winning twice and finishing second once, but really didn't come into his own until he started in races of more than a mile at Oaklawn. Owner of the Brolite farm is Oscar Breault, Chicago bakery head.

A near-record crowd of more than 8,000 watched the Derby, closing feature of Oaklawn's 30-day racing meet.

St. Hedwig's last half rally fell two points short as the Red Wings of Indiana Harbor won the final game of the 12 Annual Polish Roman Catholic Union basketball tournament, 42 to 40, last night in the Knight's of Columbus clubhouse in Gary. St. Louis won the consolation game, defeating Pullman of Chicago, 51 to 39.

Atlanta, Ga., April 1 (AP).—Pvt. Lucius [Luke] Appling, Chicago White Sox short stop and 1943 American league batting champion, has been assigned to the reconditioning service at Lawson General hospital, near here.

Appling, inducted after the completion of last year's baseball season, was transferred from Camp Lee, Va., where he had been assigned to manage Camp Lee's team.

Sgt. W. B. Malone, manager of Lawson's baseball team, said Appling reported for practice soon after his arrival yesterday afternoon and would see action this season with Lawson as an infielder.

JUG M'SPADEN SETS KNOXVILLE PACE WITH 135

Knoxville, Tenn., April 1 (AP).—Philadelphia Pro Harold [Jug] McSpaden maintained mastership of the field today by a back-nine rally that netted a 69, one under par, in Knoxville's first annual war bond golf tournament.

The winter circuit's leading money winner's two day card stood at 69, 66—135, two strokes better than the 137's posted by three pursuers, Jimmy Johnson of Detroit, Byron Nelson of Toledo, and Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind.

Wind Boosts Scores.

After losing two strokes to par on the front nine thru high winds that aided in boosting the scores, McSpaden found his range to shave three shots from the final nine par.

Nelson muffed his chance of jumping into the lead when his short irons and putter failed on the back holes. Out in 31, the Toledo star came home with a 37, his 68 bettering McSpaden's 18 hole effort.

Detroit's Johnson youngster continued his impressive play, adding an even par 70 to yesterday's 67 to stay within the running. Hamilton matched Byron stroke for stroke for the second day, carding a 69-68—137.

Alvin York on Hand.

Trailing were Tony Penna, Dayton, with 68-70—138; Dave Clark, Houston, Tex., 68-70—138; Jimmy Hines, Amsterdam, N. Y., 71-68—139; Craig Wood, Mamaroneck, N. Y., 68-72—140; Johnny Revolta, Evanston, Ill., 71-69—140; and Sam Byrd, Philadelphia, 70-72—142.

Tennessee's World War I. hero, Sgt. Alvin C. York, will present $6,666 in war bonds to the winner tomorrow afternoon.

SOCCER TEAMS TO OPEN SPRING SCHEDULE TODAY

BY OFFSIDE.

Topped by the battle between the Schwabens and Spartas in the Major division, 40 Chicagoland soccer teams, including those in the junior and juvenile sections, will swing into action today in the opening games of the spring season. The Schwaben-Sparta game is listed in Sparta stadium, 21st st. and Kostner av., starting at 2:30 p. m.

The schedule also includes a cup game between the Hansas and the Milwaukee Falks in Milwaukee. The contest, which was originally scheduled three weeks ago but postponed due to weather conditions, finds the teams battling in the semi-finals of the National Amateur competition.

Recall Two Oldtimers.

Altho out of the running for state and national honors, the Spartas hope to take the role of spoilers for the remainder of the league schedule and plan to start that campaign against the league leading Spartas this afternoon. Raymond Schwarzkopf, who recently took over the managerial duties, has been forced to bring two oldtime stars out of retirement due to losses to the services.

The pair, Babe Vlcek and Happy Borvansky, starred with the Spartas and the old Olympias, before retiring.

Lost Four Starters.

The Schwabens, who finished the fall season with an undefeated record, have lost four of their starters to the services including Kenny Bowman and Adolph Streng to the navy and Frank Janik and Bruno Zabko to the army.

BREEZING ALONG

THE scarcity of help around the Belmont Park stables has put Earl Sande in the saddle once more. . . . The famous jockey who is now a trainer has taken to his job as exercise boy in good spirit. . . . Sande has 16 horses in the stable owned by Maxwell Howard.. . . . Most of the horses are sons and daughters of Stagehand. . . . You may remember Stagehand. . . . He won the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap in 1938. . . . Remember? . . . California will be well represented at the Arlington Park-Washington Park meeting. . . . Among the west coast owners who have nominated their ponies for the rich races on the program are L. B. Mayer, Don Ameche, Charles S. Howard and Eddie [Rochester] Anderson. . . . Seeing Eye and Don Jose H., the two 3 year olds which have been burning up the track at the Hipodromo de las Americas park in Mexico City, will be shipped to Churchill Downs next week. . . . Both have been nominated for the Kentucky Derby. New York fans will see a new type camera when the ponies open the season at Jamaica Saturday. . . . There is no shutter action in the new camera, and only moving objects are registered on the film. . . . A finished print of the finish of the race is available 48 seconds after the horses hit the wire.

William Bailey Leads Jockeys with Total of 66 Winners.

William Bailey, the apprentice saddle smith who booted home winners like nobody's business at Oaklawn Park, has taken the lead in the jockey race. . . . Latest official standings show him leading by three with 66 winners since the first of the year. . . . Ted Atkinson is in second place with 63. . . . Jim Fitzsimmons, veteran trainer who has been connected with racing for 59 years, says he has a pair of fillies, Vienna and Thread o' Gold, that have a chance in the Kentucky Derby. . . . There is no Count Fleet in this year's running, says Fitzsimmons.

North Randall Park in Cleveland, O., will be the scene of running races May 11 to June 4, and trotting events from June 26 to July 15. . . . The first nomination for this year's renewal of the King's Plate race, one of the features of the Dominion of Canada season, was from the Province of Quebec. . . . The race is for 3 year olds foaled beyond the Province of Ontario and will be held in Woodbine Park, Ontario, Canada, May 27. . . . Note to fans who are looking for a long one to win the Kentucky Derby: Paragram, which won an allowance race at a mile and 70 yards at Tropical Park the other day, is listed at 100 to 1 in the winter book. . . . The colt was bought as a yearling for $400.

This department has received a number of inquiries for an explanation of pari-mutuel betting. . . . Here's how it works. . . . Let's say there are 10 horses in a race. . . . Four hundred and twenty-five $2 tickets are bought on the No. 1 horse, 415 on No. 2, 268 on No. 3, 184 on No. 4, 93 on No. 5, 105 on No. 6, 62 on No. 7, 315 on No. 8, 187 on No. 9, and 49 on No. 10. . . . That's a total of 2,103 tickets bought on the race. . . . Let's say for example No. 1 won. . . . Two thousand one hundred and three $2 tickets were bought on the race. . . . That amounts to $4,206. . . . Deduct 10 per cent for the track's share—$420.60. . . . Subtract $420.60 from $4,206. . . . That leaves a balance of $3,785.40. . . . Now divide $3,785.40 by the number of tickets sold on the winner—425. . . . That's $8.90. . . . Fractions of less than 10 cents goes to the track. . . . Each $2 ticket bought on the race therefore would be worth $8.90.

HOLZRICHTER IN THIRD ROUND OF TITLE MEET

St. Louis, Mo., April 1 (AP).—Billy Holzrichter of Chicago defeated William Ousley of Toledo in a second round singles match, 21-13, 21-13, as the United States table tennis tournament opened today, and also paired with Leah Thall of Columbus, O., to beat Phil Sarlata and Carlyn Blank of Milwaukee, 21-8, 21-13, 21-13, in the mixed doubles.

Ella Jenkins and Lavera Weber of Chicago were defeated earlier in the women's doubles by Miss Thall and Helen Jenkins, also of Columbus, 21-13, 21-12, 21-7.

OLD MEETS NEW FOR CITY BASKET TITLE SATURDAY

South Shore Founded 4 Years Ago.

Mount Carmel High school, old both in age and experience in basketball championship play, will meet South Shore, a young upstart, for Chicago's senior all-city title in the Chicago Stadium double header Saturday night.

The junior title game pits Marshall, winner of 98 of its last 99 games and defending all-city champions, as the City league representative against Weber, winner of the Catholic circuit crown.

First Major Title.

Only four years old, South Shore earned the first major sport emblem to grace its athletic trophy case in winning the city league basketball award. Before the Tars won that honor, however, South Shore broke into the list of league champions by taking the bowling crown last year. Since capturing the 1944 title, Tony Maffia's charges won third place honors at the state tournament. Forward Paul Schnackenberg was named on the all-star team at the state meet.

Mount Carmel, on the other hand, is appearing in Mayor Kelly's benefit double header for the second time, having defeated Kelvyn Park, City league senior champion's, 48 to 24, last year. In addition to the 1943 and 1944 Catholic league titles, Mount Carmel also won the crown in 1939, a year before South Shore was founded.

Marshall Record Good.

Mount Carmel is a member of the south section of the Catholic league, which has produced the league winner in nine out of the last 10 years. Since St. Philips defeated Catholic High of Joliet, 23 to 22, for the 1934 title, the north section's lone league champion is Fenwick, which turned back Joliet, 31 to 26, in 1937. Leo, with titles in 1938, 1940, 1941, and 1942; St. Mel in 1935, and De La Salle in 1936 are the other south section teams which have upheld this domination.

Weber and Marshall hold positions similar to Mount Carmel and South Shore in championships won, altho in this case it is the City league team which dominates the records.

The Commandos have led the City league junior race from 1940 thru 1943. Previously Marshall won the junior league title in 1916, 1917, and 1931 in addition to tieing with Englewood and Phillips for the 1923 crown.

Disqualified Two Teams.

Weber's acquisition of the 1944 Catholic trophy came after the Red Horde appeared in the 1942 and 1943 league championship games but finished as runner-up. Mount Carmel was the south section champion which turned the trick both times. This year, however, Weber stopped Catholic High of Joliet with what is believed to be one of the strongest junior teams ever to win the parochial school title.

Marshall is not appearing on the program this year as league champion. Parker and Hyde Park, the finalists, were disqualified for using ineligible players and no official award has been given by the league. Marshall was voted to represent the league on its outstanding record for the last five years.

Tommy James Meets Parsons at Marigold

Tommy James, 1942 city Golden Gloves welterweight champion, who was upset by Bill Parsons in New Orleans last year, will try to even the score with the Danville, Ill., boxer in a 10 round return bout in Marigold Gardens tomorrow.

James scored a ninth round technical knockout over Johnny Rozina of Milwaukee in his last Chicago appearance on Feb. 21. Since Rozina was winner over Parsons in the same manner in the seventh round earlier, it seems Tommy is in a good spot to obtain revenge.

Roy Lewis, 1941 Chicagoland Golden Gloves featherweight champion, who has not won a fight since beating Eddie [Kid] Carson in the Marigold arena on Jan. 31, will try his luck in a six round semi-windup on the card against Pvt. Dave Bruce of Baer field, Ind. Bruce made a successful debut in this city last March 6 by outpointing Gene Ward.

Walter Patrick, Bay City, Mich., middleweight, is paired with Francois De Tombeaux of Los Angeles in a four round event. Additional matches at this distance will bring together Pat Sheehy, Minneapolis junior lightweight, and Red Le Vasseur, also of Bay City, and Johnny Turner, Chicago light heavyweight, and Jesse Jackson.

CHICAGO ADDS 3 NEW TEAMS TO SEMI-PROS

Three industrial clubs and one from Indiana are the newest members of the Midwest Baseball league, oldest and largest semi-pro league in Illinois, President Mike Murphy said today. The teams which joined the circuit this week are Stewart-Warner, Bendix Aviation Corporation, and Admiral Radio, all of Chicago, and the Michigan City Cubs.

The old members also in the fold include Krier's Skokie Indians, league champions the last two years; the Chicago Firemen, the city's oldest traveling semi-pro club; Benda Coals of Berwyn, Oaklawn, and the Ace Fastners.

President Murphy expects to have 30 teams registered by the time the season opens, which is usually the early part of May. The league invites managers and players of new teams to attend its weekly Monday night meetings in Room 1400, 209 S. State st., league headquarters.

THEY HAVE THEIR EYES ON ALL-CITY SENIOR TITLE

John Tracy, coach of the defending championship Caravan, has a wistful look as he watches his proteges go thru a stiff workout in the school gymnasium.

Coach Tony Maffia of South Shore has a big smile as he sends his squad thru some plays that he hopes will give the Tars their first all-city prep basketball title.

SPRING WEATHER GIVES ANGLERS FISHING FEVER

BY BOB BECKER.

If there ever was a year when fishermen will develop extremely high fishing fevers, this ought to be the one. In the first place most of the anglers who are in this country have had their fishing programs severely curtailed since the war started and they already are dreaming about the days after the war when they can again reach their favorite fishing grounds hundreds of miles from home.

This situation alone is enough to send fishing fevers way up when the first days of warm spring weather make anglers think about pike, brook trout, white bass, lake trout, and other species which are taken in the spring. And when the average angler realizes how his war job demands most of his time and that no gasoline is available for carefree motor trips to fishing grounds, his fishing fever takes another jump.

Season Opens April 15.

The first big chance to reduce a fishing fever by means of a short train ride in the middle west comes April 15 when Wisconsin tilts the lid on wall-eyed pike, northern pike, crappies, and bluegills in just a limited fishing area. Starting April 15 it is permissable only to catch wall-eyes, pickerel or northerns, and panfish in the Wolf, Rock, and Fox [Kenosha county] rivers and in Lake Winnebago. In the rest of the state seasons open in May.

This opening date for the Rock, Fox, and Wolf rivers is timed to give the early season fishermen a whirl at the wall-eyes during the spring run. In the Wolf river many of these fishermen also connect with some pickerel or northerns. The limit is seven wall-eyes per day. The white bass fishing season also opens on April 15 but these fish do not go into action until May which is white bass month on the fishing calendar.

Landed 18 Kingfish.

It may be difficult to believe but some of the men in service, notably those in the South seas, are enjoying better fishing than the civilians at home. Many of the men stationed in the Pacific are right on waters with huge fish populations and the finny tribes certainly are not wise to lures.

Lt. William Haerther Jr. of Lake Forest, Ill., writes us that his gang went trolling recently and landed 18 kingfish with a combined weight of about 200 pounds. This can hardly be called poor fishing. He was using a big hook decorated with red and white streams of cloth.

Sox Defeat Pirates, 16-3, in Louisville

the bases. Clarke then busted a double to left, clearing the bases, and went on to third on Tom O'Brien's faulty return of the ball. Then followed successive singles by Schalk, Tom Turner and Lee and successive doubles by Carnett, Webb and Dickshot. This second double of the inning by Dickshot was off Gee, who was called in a third of an inning ahead of schedule to replace Rescigno.

Lee Yields One Run.

The lone run off Lee in the third inning was highly spurious. Gee bunted in front of the plate and Turner, in pursuit, kicked it out of his own reach, Gee loping safely to first. Frankie Zak singled thru the box. Then Gustine hit into a double play, Gee pulling up at third. Russell beat out a dribbler to Lee, Gee scoring.

The Sox grabbed their eleventh and twelfth runs after two were out in the sixth. The runs were scored on an error by Gustine but were set up by Schalk's single and Tresh's double off Gee.

Here's the record of how the Pirates mushed Dietrich's record of two perfect innings. Gustine walked at the start of the sixth and, after Russell had flied out Lee Handley, Babe Dahlgren and O'Brien knocked successive singles, all bloopers, for a net of two runs.

Play Again Today.

Singles by Curtright and Floyd Rightenberg, a double steal and an infield out in the seventh inning enabled Curtright to score the 13th Chicago run.

Three Chicago runs bloomed into the eighth with Klinger again the victim. A double by Sharp and a single by Curtright were the hitting elements in the onslaught.

The teams will play again tomorrow with Johnny Humphries, Ed Lopat and Lee Ross scheduled to pitch for the Sox. Manager Frankie Frisch has nominated Pete Strincevich, Preacher Roe and Rip Sewell.

WOMAN BOWLS 32 IN 2 GAMES, THEN LOSES AIM

Beaver Dam, Wis., April 1 (AP).—A young woman, competing in the novice division of the Wisconsin Women's State Bowling tournament, has the doubtful distinction of rolling perhaps the nation's lowest three games.

Here's what she bowled:

17-15-0—Total 32.

Her teammates added scores that brought their team's 3-game total to 732.

CUBS OUTLAST TIGERS, 10-9, IN SPRING OPENER

off Goodman's bat to score Schuster. Sauer's single promoted the fourth run.

Wyse's four run massage in the fourth began as soon as he had set down Rudy York. Ed Mayo doubled and stopped at third on Ross' single. Edward [Red] Borom tapped to Wyse who fumbled, Mayo scoring. After Miller had been retired, Chuck Hostetler doubled in behalf of Newhouser to score Ross and Borom. Hostetler counted on a single by Cramer, leaving the Cubs only one run ahead but they quickly took care of the business at hand.

Grief for Kasepchuk.

Tony York was the first to face Kasepchuk in the fifth and a single resulted. Holm followed with a pass but in an attempt to sacrifice, Wyse forced Cub York at third. Johnson singled again and Holm scored. Then Kasepchuk grasped Jim Outlaw's throw-in of the hit and made an attempt to nip Wyse off second. Unfortunately for the Tigers, Kasepchuk's aim was so bad that the ball wound up in deep right center, both Wyse and Johnson scoring.

The Cubs' two runs in the sixth brought additional grief for Kasepchuk. He plunked Pafko on the left elbow and this happening was followed by doubles from Holm and Wyse. The Tigers recaptured one of these runs in their half of the inning on singles by Ross and Pinch Batter Joseph P. Wood.

Burrows Fans May.

The pleasures of Burrows in the seventh were limited to three strikes for Mayo. Other incidents not so pleasant were singles by Outlaw, Ross, Borom and Miller and a pass to Rudy York. This blasting accounted for three runs and two of the men were still lurking on the bases when Policeman Miklos was summoned to subdue the disturbance. He did it on a double play grounder tapped to Tony York by Hresko.

The only Tiger run thereafter blossomed from Mayo's triple and an infield out in the ninth.

SPOTTING THE PINS

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

THE Bowling Proprietors' Association of America will hold its annual national meeting in Kansas City June 13, 14 and 15. The boys should be quite occupied, what with war time conditions offering a wide assortment of perplexities to plague their leisure as well as their working hours.

One matter which likely will receive no end of plain and fancy discussion deals with the association's annual five man tournament, currently titled the Victory, recently conducted on the lanes of the Service Men's center and won by Chicago's city champions, the Meister Braus.

Association Presents Three Big Tournaments Each Year.

The association presents three big tournaments each year. One is a singles event and its winner [now Ned Day] is proclaimed the national individual match game champion. It also stages a doubles tournament whose victors [now Frank Mataya and Nelson Burton] are declared the national two man match game champions. Then there is the Victory tourney for five man teams. The winner of this event is NOT rewarded with the title of national match game champion team.

There are those to hope to correct the situation, come June 13, 14 and 15, among whom is Louis P. [Pete] Petersen, Chicago tenpin luminary, chairman of the board of the B. P. A. A. Pete has some ideas on the subject, which, while not altogether irrefragable, may at least point the way to a solution.

Petersen's Proposed Changes Are Outlined.

According to Pete's plan, the current five man match game kings, the Stroh Bohemians of Detroit, led by Joe Norris, would be barred from the 1945 tournament or, if you prefer, seeded clear out of the event. The tournament would then be conducted for the purpose of determining in what order other teams might challenge for the title, the winner of the Victory having first call, with others to follow in order of their succession. Should a team waive its option to challenge, the next team in line might then exercise its privilege.

Pete contends that since it's a match game title, it should be won by a match between two teams, not thru a tournament for 30 or 40 or more. This is logical, but not sufficiently so to account for the existing method of determining the singles and doubles champions by tourney competition.

Champions Would Be Denied Chance at Prizes.

The champions, however, are apt to toss a bolt into such a mechanism because they doubtless believe they have a right to compete for the handsome prizes which the Victory offers.

They could compete, of course, on a basis of their score not to count except toward the prize money, but what would the other teams in the event say to that? The probability is they would require the champs to put their title on the line if they want to share in the money.

Start Competition in Illinois State Meet April 13.

A week from next Thursday the 47th annual Illinois state bowling tournament will open in Bowling Lanes, 5221 Broadway. According to Al Sindelan, secretary of the state association, as well as of the city, reservations have been received from Springfield, Peoria, Rockford, Moline, Peru, La Salle, Champaign, Metamora, Aurora, Elgin, Waukegan, Morris, Crystal Lake, Ottawa, De Kalb, Decatur, Dwight, Danville, and many other cities and towns.

ONE HUNDRED bowlers, representing 20 of the city's fastest quintets, will go to the line in the Chicago Classic league's Sunday sweepstakes tonight at the Windy City lanes, 2101 S. Cicero av. . . . Ten teams will begin bowling at 6 o'clock, one hour earlier than usual, and the other 10 will get to work at 8:30 p. m. . . . Prizes for teams, individuals, and an additional high game on a pair, are offered. . . . Only two more such sweepers remain on the season schedule. . . . They're set for April 16 at the Congress Arcade and for April 29 at the Pla-Mor Lanes. . . . A considerable suburban entry is revealed in the early lists for John McCue's individual classic at Milford Recreation, 3315 Milwaukee av. . . . He anticipates 1,000 entries by the closing date, April 17. . . . The meet runs from May 6 thru 19, and carries a fee of $12.50 for the five game task over 10 alleys. . . . $1,000 will be top prize. . . . Johnny Kelly, manager of Goldamer's 20th Century alleys, is again building up a full list of summer leagues. . . . Others wishing to join may contact Kelly at Mulberry 0444.

Pioneer Arcade Tourney Entries Close Today.

Bowlers hitting an average of 180 or less for 30 games or more, as of Feb. 15, may still enter the second Pioneer Arcade tournament, entries for which close today at midnight. . . . Walter Albrecht, manager of the Pioneer alleys at 1535 N. Pulaski rd., reports a few openings still left for the event, to be run April 28, 29, 30 and May 5, 6, and 7. . . . The fee is $5 and the estimated capital prize is $500. . . . Albrecht can be reached today at Albany 3033. . . . Entries for Jerry Peck's first annual individual classic at the Chicago Arena close April 15. . . . Zemla Bradley, 550, and Fred Harvey, 598, were high series scorers in the last session of the Sunday night mixed league at Schalk's Evergreen Towers. . . . First prize in Barney Hochstadter's fourth Junior Classic, one of the season's standouts, has been raised to $1,500 because of the huge entry. . . . Contributions to the Bowlers' Victory program have passed the $160,000 mark. . . . This sum, coming from 265 cities in 36 states, is used to send recreational equipment to service men overseas. . . . Billy Knox, Philadelphia veteran who rolled the first 300 game in A. B. C. competition in 1913, is retiring after 40 years of bowling. . . . Seventy-six year old Mrs. Roma Scott of Anchorage, Alaska, recently rolled an all spare game.

Schedule 32d Petersen Classic in Cleveland on April 29.

COMING EVENTS cast their shadows, of which the following are a few of the outstanding: The 32d running of the Petersen Classic at Linsz Recreation in Cleveland, April 29 thru May 7. Entries close April 10. . . . The 2d annual Radio Industries event at Congress Arcade [Milwaukee av.], April 8, 15, 16, 22, and 23. . . . Windy City's 31st annual handicap tournament for teams, doubles and singles, April 8. . . . The 4th annual over average tourney at the Turner Recreation, 7939 South Chicago av., April 8. . . . The 3d annual Irving Park junior individual sweepstakes for under 186 average bowlers, running April 13 thru 16. . . . The Indiana-Kentucky-Illinois women's tourney at Jensen's West Side Recreation, April 15-16, 22-23, 29-30. . . . Northtown Recreation's 5th annual handicap, April 22. . . . The 2d annual women's handicap event at Bob Perille's Crest Recreation, April 22, 29, and May 6.

CORN SET ASIDE ORDER BOOSTED TO 60 PER CENT

Trade Is Surprised by WFA Order.

The war food administration yesterday surprised the grain trade by ordering country and terminal grain elevators in 124 counties in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, and Nebraska to increase from 35 to 60 per cent the amount of corn set aside for sale to essential industries. The order requisitioning 35 per cent of the grain was issued March 24.

Warehouse men and brokers said the latest order would have little effect in increasing the amount of corn available for industrial purposes because not much grain is being moved from farms except by truckers who are said to be paying farmers the ceiling price for corn regardless of moisture content.

Efforts Failed Last Year.

Efforts by the government last year to increase the corn available for industries proved ineffective in inducing farmers to sell. On June 25 the government requisitioned corn in 96 terminal elevators in the midwest and on July 1 directed country elevators to set aside for industrial purposes 80 per cent of grain obtained from farmers. This last action led farmers to hold back their grain in expectation of an advance in ceiling prices.

Reports that the government will reverse its stand and authorize purchases of corn above the ceiling price of $1.16 a bushel for No. 2 yellow, Chicago, or pay a subsidy, have been current for several weeks.

Grain Prices Narrow.

Grain futures held within relatively narrow limits yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Trading in May wheat, oats, and barley was light and prices held at the ceiling. No sales of May oats or barley were reported, altho brokers said they had many buying orders. Active deliveries of wheat closed ⅛ to ¼ cent lower. Oats finished unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. Rye was ¼ cent higher to ¼ cent lower. Barley gained ⅛ to ¾ cent.

The lake grain shipping season opened yesterday. One steamer cleared for Milwaukee with 226,000 bushels of rye and other for Buffalo with 294,000 bushels. At the same time three barges with 116,000 bushels of wheat started down the Illinois river for an undisclosed destination.

GOLDBLATT NET PROFITS HIGHER; INVENTORIES UP

Merchandise and supply inventories of Goldblatt Brothers totaled $10,376,105 when the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, an increase of $75,579 over the previous year's inventories, Morris Goldblatt, president, told stockholders yesterday. Accounts receivable from customers on Jan. 31 were $1,719,921, compared with $1,836,307 a year ago.

Consolidated net profit for the year was $641,084, equal to 70 cents a common share, against $552,005, or 58 cents a share, the preceding year. Sales rose 6.52 per cent to $60,240,776 on substantial increases in apparel departments and other soft goods lines, Goldblatt said.

When the government took over the company's principal warehouse and bakery plant, the company was obliged to acquire five smaller warehouse units and a new bake shop, because it was impossible to obtain one location with sufficient floor space, the report said. This multiple warehousing combined with additional store functions brought higher operating costs and expenses. These should be reduced this year, Goldblatt said.

AIRPORT TRAFFIC IS 19.3 PER CENT ABOVE YEAR AGO

Passenger traffic at Chicago airport in the first three months of this year increased 19.3 per cent over the corresponding period of 1943, Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt said yesterday. A total of 157,680 passengers entered or left the field in January, February, and March against 132,155 last year.

Scheduled passenger plane flights in and out of the field increased 8.47 per cent, Hewitt said. Flights this year totaled 10,248 against 9,447.

Nonscheduled flights declined 50 per cent.

Mileage Cuts Fail to Reduce Bus Revenues

Mileage operated in Chicago and New York city last year by the motor coach subsidiaries of Omnibus corporation was 16.6 per cent less than in 1942, in compliance with conservation orders issued by the office of defense transportation, John A. Ritchie, chairman, and Benjamin Weintraub, president, said yesterday in their annual report.

"However, passengers carried and gross operating revenues remained substantially at the 1942 levels," they added, "principally because of increased employment and curtailed use of private automobiles."

Cost Increases Offset.

Marked increases in taxes and other costs were more than offset by savings resulting from the reduction in mileage, the report said.

The combined total of revenue passengers carried by Chicago Motor Coach company, Fifth Avenue Coach company, and New York City Omnibus corporation and its subsidiaries was 408,492,640 in 1943, compared with the high mark of 410,848,565 in the preceding year. The Chicago company carried 72,187,590, compared with 72,374,837.

Combined gross operating revenues were $25,318,333 against $25,258,919 in 1942. For the Chicago subsidiary they were $6,592,375, compared with $6,645,457.

Consolidated Profit Higher.

Consolidated net income was $1,331,453, exclusive of the parent company's equity in the undistributed profit of New York City Omnibus. The profit equalled $1.29 a common share. Including equity in the subsidiary's retained profit, the consolidated profit was $1,427,035, or $1.43 a share, against $1.13 a share the year before.

Total taxes of operating subsidiaries, amounting to $5,121,353, were equal to 20.23 per cent of gross revenues and $3,629 per coach operated, the report said.

The parent company alone reported a 1942 profit of $982,727, equal to 75 cents a common share, compared with $611,045, or 18 cents a share, in 1942.

Will Make Commercial Trucks.

Diamond T Motor Car company again will be producing commercial trucks during the latter half of 1944, C. A. Tilt, president, said in his annual report. The company has been awarded its proportionate share of the year's commercial truck allotment, he added. Since the close of last year some of the company's war contracts have been terminated, but new contracts have been received. The volume of business on hand is sufficient to engage all facilities of the company. Its net sales last year increased to $123,826,552, from $98,720,278 for 1942, after provision for a 4 million dollar refund to the government.

Diamond T's net income increased to $2,516,659, equal to $5.97 a share, from $2,043,439, or $4.85 a share.

Use Chicago Stoves

American submarine crews operating in many parts of the world eat hot meals cooked on electric ranges built by Chicago workers, it was learned yesterday. The ranges are important parts of the subs' galleys, which must be more efficient even in the saving of space than the trim kitchens on railroad diners.

A typical galley for a sub is 5½ feet wide, 8½ feet long and 8 feet high, according to officials of the Edison General Electric company, Chicago, which makes electric ranges for the navy. It is the common meeting place of all the crew members, as some one is usually to be found in it eating, because of the irregular hours crew members keep. Between 60 and 80 men get their "three squares" a day from the little galley.

Coffee is always on tap in a two gallon urn. An ice cube maker is operated in connection with the refrigerator. Perishable food is kept in refrigerating rooms below the galley. Meat is pre-cut and frozen before being taken aboard. All food is made as near ready for serving as possible before being put aboard to save time and work. Besides having regular electric ranges for ordinary cooking, some subs have deep fat fryers and hot plates.

One of the innovations of the sub galley is its moisture proof construction. There are several little conveniences, including a sink that has racks into which every size of dish used fits easily.

YOU ARE INVITED TO ACQUIRE WAR BONDS—R. S. V. P.

New York, April 1 (AP).—Using embossed, social-type invitations, the Colonial Trust company today offered its customers more war bonds.

Complete with "R. S. V. P.," the announcement said the bank "cordially invites you to lend to the United States of America a sum sufficient to provide any or all of the following: 300 dozen bandages, one aircraft cannon, 100 hand grenades, sulpha pills for 100 soldiers, 10 anti-aircraft shells, one hospital bed, 100 lifebelts, one collapsible lifeboat, eight flame throwers."

An enclosed acceptance card gave in dollars the amount of bonds necessary to pay for the various articles.

BEECH AIRCRAFT CONTRACTS FOR BIG CREDIT POOL

Wichita, Kas., April 1 (AP).—A contract enabling the Beech Aircraft corporation to borrow up to 50 million dollars from a pool of 36 banks in nine states was announced today by Beech and the Fourth National bank of Wichita, which heads the pool.

The fund has been set up in the form of a 30 month revolving credit, under provisions of federal banking regulations in which the government guarantees repayment of 90 per cent of the loan.

Ask Separate Action on War Work Windup

Washington, D. C., April 1 (AP).—The senate's post-war planning committee headed by Sen. George [D., Ga.] recommended today the immediate enactment by congress of a contract termination law, without waiting to settle other problems of demobilization. The proposed bill would set up a director of contract settlement in the office of war mobilization who would supervise contract terminations of government agencies.

This plan greatly modified the original demobilization bill of Senators George and Murray [D., Mont.] which would have created an office of demobilization with control over post-war plant and property disposal and other functions, in addition to contract termination.

Early Consideration Planned.

The committee's recommendation will be transmitted to the military affairs committee to which the original George-Murray measure was referred in February. George said he had been told the military committee would begin consideration of it immediately after the Easter recess.

George said contract termination legislation was the most pressing of legislative questions linked with the war-to-peace transition and that it should not be delayed by controversy over other issues.

Scott Russell, counsel for the George committee, said that in addition to prescribing policies on contract settlements, the director would take over inventories of government property in the hands of private contractors and channel them to the agencies that will dispose of them.

Would Scan Interim Financing.

The director also would be empowered to approve interim government financing for contractors whose contracts are terminated. This could take the form of advance payments or loans based upon amounts owed to contractors when their contracts are closed.

The contract settlement chief would be appointed by the President and confirmed by the senate. He would submit quarterly reports to congress.

John Hancock, associate of Bernard Baruch in the post-war adjustment unit of the office of war mobilization, attended today's closed committee session. George said previously the proposed termination legislation had the approval of the army and navy and other principal contracting agencies.

Alarm Clock Output Up, but Don't Be Too Hopeful

Washington, D. C., April 1 (AP).—More than 1,200,000 war model alarm clocks will be produced in April, May, and June, manufacturers notified the WPB today, but many must go to meet military needs. An unstated number of electric alarm clocks also will be manufactured.

We take particular pleasure in announcing that the following four employees who have held positions of great responsibility with us for many years have now been admitted as general partners of this firm.

CARRIERS JOIN CAMPAIGN FOR FOREIGN TRADE

Expect Post-War Business Gain.

Railroads are playing an important part in the search for new world markets after the war, and are shaping their plans in expectation of a substantial increase in exports and imports, Chicago railroad officials said yesterday.

Along with bankers and others interested in foreign trade, they view the countries south of the border as the most promising sources of trade, and already have contacted potential shippers in the middle west to build up post-war business.

Greater independence from the heretofore dominating influence of New York interests is a primary goal of Chicagoans in the foreign trade field, who view the war's disruption of normal trade as an opportunity to strengthen their position.

Decides to Move Now.

As an example of the railroads' efforts to stimulate export and import business, the Illinois Central has surveyed potential world markets "and has decided to put its post-war plans into effect now," according to Thomas E. Harris, veteran manager of the I. C. foreign freight department.

Trade associations thruout the middle west and south are being encouraged to devote more attention to foreign commerce for its benefits in the sale of manufactured products, and as a source of raw materials, some of which are not available in this country.

Bankers in cities served by the Illinois Central, Harris explained, are being encouraged to stimulate the manufacture of exportable products thru the financing of local enterprises. They also are being encouraged to handle the "paper work" incident to foreign trade, much of which heretofore has gone to New York bankers.

Traffic South Cheaper.

Altho the Illinois Central's primary interest in the port of New Orleans stems from the fact the road serves that port, Harris said that its use by exporters and importers thruout the middle west holds an advantage of economy in rail shipping rates over New York.

"Economic thinking of the country regarding foreign trade is undergoing a welcome change," Harris said. "We realize now that if we expect to sell abroad, we must be prepared to buy the products of our foreign customers. Many things that do not interfere with the proper marketing of our own production should be brought in."

New Orleans, normally one of the country's largest ports, handled a much larger volume of business during the height of submarine raids in the Atlantic. To further its export business, the I. C. maintains offices in Havana, Cuba, and Mexico City. A London office is to be reopened after the war.

Terms Prospects Bright.

C. M. Wynne, managing director of Overseas Industries and an active proponent of measures to improve foreign trade, said he considers post-war world trade prospects bright, particularly in Latin America and the western tier of European countries.

"Some of those who have studied the situation expect an increase of 50 per cent or more in foreign trade after the war," he said. "We already have the orders. The only difficulty will be to supply the demand until restrictions on the flow of raw materials are released.

"This country will end the war with half the world's shipping under the American flag."

Wynne expressed the opinion that England, having learned mass production during the war, will be the principal competitor of this country.

Egg Supply Far Above Needs; Farmers Resent Price Drops

Washington, D. C., April 1 (AP).—The United States has "more eggs than it knows what to do with" because production has soared 80 per cent above the pre-war average, war food administration officials said today.

Eggs are piling up in drying plants and outside crowded storage lockers and prices to farmers in midwest states are as low as 20 cents a dozen, WFA spokesmen told 12 midwestern senators.

Many Chicks Drowned.

Rep. Hagen [F-L., Minn.] said hatchery operators are drowning thousands of baby chicks each week because of low egg prices. Senators told of letters from midwest farmers in which they threatened to sell their chickens if prices do not rise.

Under questioning by the senators, WFA representatives said the agency shipped carloads of New England eggs into an overloaded Iowa market recently in an attempt to relieve eastern overproduction. They said "as many eggs as possible" had been unloaded in the east.

Ready to Pay Support Price.

Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.] said farmers had been led into overproduction by a WFA announcement that the average support price for eggs this year would be 34 cents a dozen. WFA officials said the price was an over-all estimate for the year and was not meant to apply to all farmers at all seasons.

They explained the agency is willing to pay support prices of 29 to 32 cents a dozen in Omaha, Neb., but admitted that prices to farmers in Nebraska now are 23 to 26 cents.

The senators asked that a relief program be drafted by WFA and presented for their consideration. WFA spokesmen urged passage of legislation giving the agency authority to buy perishable foods and resell them at less than parity prices. Earlier this week WFA said it was broadening its support operations because egg prices had dropped below the support level in some sections.

Storage Space Sought

E. O. Pollock, midwest regional food distribution director for the war food administration, yesterday asked the warehousing industry to coöperate in making additional storage space available for eggs. If WFA is to carry out its support price program, more storage space must be obtained, he said. A survey of storage warehouses showed suitable storage space is empty, but cannot be used because labor is lacking, he said.

6,233 Illinois Retail Food Stores Closed

A total of 6,233 Illinois retail food stores has been driven out of business by war time conditions, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday. Before the war started, 33,998 food stores were operated.

The figures, based on a study of the retailers occupational tax returns to the Illinois department of finance, would show a heavier toll except for a procedure by which the state designated chain store groups reporting from each county as single taxpayers.

Groceries Hardest Hit.

Groceries have shown the heaviest mortality. Between late 1941 and the end of January, 1944, the number of retail grocers in Illinois declined from 13,056 to 10,562. The number of failures of groceries and meat markets in Chicago and Cook county was set at 2,200 by Joseph Meek, executive secretary of the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations.

Meek said the situation is becoming more serious, especially in the meat markets, and principally because of lack of man power. Men can be replaced by women to wait on trade, but women are unable to lift carcasses or do other heavy work of butchers.

Draft Policies Studied.

Meek also said reports that Chicago and Illinois draft boards have been more demanding on butchers than boards in surrounding states caused him to confer with Rep. Dirksen [R., Ill.], who has promised to investigate. The recent announcement that persons classified 4-F may be drafted for war industries has caused concern among butchers, Meek added.

A butcher must know meats, he declared, and unskilled replacements could cause a serious wastage of the rationed amount available to civilians.

C. A. Livingston.

Charles A. Livingston retired yesterday as public relations director of the Illinois Manufacturers association after thirty years service with that organization. He had been editor of Manufacturers News and prior to that was assistant to the president of Chicago Railways company. Livingston came to Chicago in 1903 and worked as a reporter for THE TRIBUNE. He was a native of Kankakee, Ill., where his father started the first daily newspaper.

72 NEW ORDERS FOR WAR GOODS GIVEN CHICAGO

Chicago's prime war contracts were increased by $3,291,000 in the last week, the Chicago Association of Commerce announced yesterday. Seventy-two orders were placed with 53 companies, two of which appeared on government contract lists for the first time. A total of 14,955 prime contracts has been allocated to 2,256 Chicago area companies since the start of the war production program.

CHICAGO RAILS PLEADING FOR MORE WORKERS

Man Power Nears Breaking Point.

More than 6,000 men and women are needed by railroads in Chicago to help handle the record volume of traffic and expedite shipments of important war materials, Lester Brown, Chicago area war man power commission director, said yesterday.

An appeal for workers was made after the railroad retirement board, recruiting agency for the railroads, had asked WMC aid to obtain necessary employes. The office of defense transportation is coöperating in the recruiting campaign.

At least 100,000 railroad workers are needed in the country as a whole, Thomas C. McKeen, Chicago area transport personnel director for ODT, said. Present man power "is being stretched very close to the limit of its endurance," he said.

Kinds of Labor Required.

Women and men are needed as boilermakers' helpers, car and coach cleaners, cooks, laundry workers, and storehouse employes. Many jobs requiring skill are also available, he said. Railroad job seekers were asked to go to the nearest United States employment service office or field office of the railroad retirement board.

Workers on the nation's railroads, particularly those entering Chicago, are working as long hours as those in any other major industry in the country, WMC and ODT said in a joint statement.

"The congestion already has hit Chicago," McKeen said. "We are facing a 15 per cent increase in passenger traffic within the next few months, in addition to a rise in freight hauling that may reach twice that figure. The roads are doing a magnificent job in handling more traffic than ever before, but they must have help to take on a greater load."

Average 51 Hour Week.

Brown said reports indicated workers on class 1 lines averaged 51 hours a week and sometimes put in "84 or more hours weekly."

The ODT reported that many shop workers and track gangs work 10 to 12 hours a day for six or seven days a week. The roads, McKeen said, are simplifying their employment practises to make it easier for workers to get jobs, and are stepping up training programs.

"For the first time," the joint statement said, "the railroads are asking for women workers and have offered to put them to work anywhere they can handle the job, including work as boilermakers."

Independent Retailers' February Sales Increase

Independent retail sales in February in Illinois were 3 per cent higher than in February, 1943, but decreased an equal amount under January, this year, J. C. Capt, director of the census, said today.

POINT-CHEAPER PORK TO GRACE EASTER TABLES

If You Must Have Ham, Buy Part of a Big One.

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON.

Housewives next Sunday will be able to set a better Easter dinner table than last year's if the family likes pork, meat experts said yesterday. Supplies of nearly all cuts are plentiful and point values are lower. Persons shopping for the traditional Easter ham were advised to buy part of a large one rather than try to find a whole small ham. Lend-lease buyers have taken many of the lighter hams, but those from heavy hogs are in abundant supply, packers reported.

Altho smaller pork cuts are preferred by most purchasers, there is no difference in the quality or tenderness of the average ham properly handled because of the tenderizing process used by major packing companies, meat experts said.

Cheaper Cuts Go Begging.

The release of more pork to the public to relieve congestion in packing plants has enabled the housewife to be more choosey than at any time since point-rationing began. Cheaper cuts, such as pigs ears, snoots, feet, etc., which were bought readily some months ago by shoppers anxious to conserve meat points, now go begging for buyers in most stores.

Costs per pound of the Easter meat this year will be about as high as any year since 1920 and will average more than 60 per cent above the 1939 season, just prior to the war. However, the point value and the available supply in stores are the principal factors in determining what civilians will eat, rather than the price, and probably more people will eat pork this season than ever before.

Hog Prices Tumble.

Trading in the hog market late last week was badly upset by reports that buying of some kinds of pork for lend-lease would be suspended. The various classes of hogs closed mostly 25 to 40 cents a hundred pounds under a week earlier, with light stock down 50 to 75 cents, or even more. The six day average was unchanged at $14.05, against $15.80 a year ago.

Price trends in other classes of meat animals were uneven. The steer average for the six days, at $14.85, was 10 cents above the week before, but compared with $15.75 a year ago. The lamb average, down 20 cents at $15.50, compared with $16.10 in 1943.

March production of beef, veal, pork, and lamb under federal inspection was approximately 1 billion 625 million pounds, an increase of 27 per cent over March of last year, the American Meat Institute reported yesterday. Pork production, estimated at 985 million pounds, showed the sharpest increase, 40 per cent. Veal production was up 37 per cent over March a year ago, beef was up 11 per cent, and lard, 83 per cent.

Chicago Bank Clearings Rise to 512.6 Million

Chicago bank clearings last week aggregated $512,600,000, compared with $482,900,000 in the preceding week and $458,900,000 a year ago, the Chicago Clearing House association reported yesterday. The figures:

DIRECTORS' STOCK HOLDINGS.

A reader who owns stock in a widely known corporation complains of the small stock holdings owned by the directors.

Two of the 17 directors, he states, own no stock whatever, and the others have only a few shares each. "One must conclude," the reader asserts, "that these men have their money invested elsewhere, in some investment they consider safer." When difficult times come again, he adds, these men will bend all their energies toward safeguarding larger holdings in other companies.

Perhaps it would be desirable if every corporation director had a substantial financial stake in the enterprise, even at the risk that it would encourage the declaration of dividends when the money could better be used to maintain the company's financial strength.

The record in this particular case, however, offers abundant proof that a financial investment is not essential to valuable service from a board of directors.

Eleven of the 17 directors are "outsiders," that is, are not on the company's pay roll. They include outstanding industrialists, bankers, and business men with a broad range of experience, and most of them are directors or managers of other large enterprises.

Evidently the service of these directors in establishing the policies which the management carries out has been valuable. The company went thru the depression years with a loss only in one year, 1932, and that loss was relatively small. A major statistical agency rates the company's fundamental position as "outstanding," and its finances as "sound."

The character, reputation and ability of the men who constitute the board of directors is of utmost significance to the stockholders. Reputable directors take their responsibility seriously, regardless of their personal investment.

EXTEND WAR DAMAGE INSURANCE POLICIES FOR YEAR AT NO COST

Washington, D. C., April 1 (AP).—War damage insurance policies in force March 31, 1944, will be extended automatically for another 12 months without the payment of additional premiums or other charges, Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones said today. Any additional insurance written after today will be at the existing rates.

The War Damage corporation was created under the Reconstruction Finance corporation to provide insurance for persons or companies whose property might be affected by bombing, or other war hazards. Fire and casualty insurance companies share a limited portion of the risk.

Premiums collected thru 1943 totaled 218 million dollars after payment of all expenses, which Jones said had been unusually light.

STOCK MARKET STRONGER, BUT LOSES IN WEEK

Rails and Specialties Are Leaders.

New York, April 1 (AP).—The stock market strengthened today after a week of declining prices. Selected rails and specialties were the leaders.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.1 of a point at 52.2, but for the week showed a net loss of 0.4. Transfers for the short session totaled 322,730 shares, compared with 447,730 last Saturday, and were the smallest since Feb. 5.

At peaks for 1944 were Ex-Cell-O corporation, Consolidated Natural Gas, and preferreds of Santa Fe, Southern Railway, St. Louis-San Francisco, and Baltimore & Ohio.

Earnings and dividends were bolstering factors during the week. Selling began to dry up Wednesday with scattered recoveries appearing in rails and assorted industrials. Aside from the transport section, oils, liquors, gold mines, and blue chip chemicals received some attention.

RAIL BONDS GAIN.

New York, April 1 (AP).—Principal changes in bond market values today were in the rail division. Various issues gained fractions to about 2 points, including most obligations of the Baltimore and Ohio, Burlington 4½s, Cleveland Union Terminal 4½s, Union Pacific 3½s, Cotton Belt 5s of 1990, and Peoria and Eastern income 4s.

Foreign dollar bonds were a shade higher. United States government loans were steady. Dealings totaled $4,678,500 face value, against $5,985,700 the previous Saturday.

CHICAGO LIST UNEVEN.

Prices were uneven yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange on turnover of 11,000 shares. Chicago corporation, the most active issue, closed up ⅛. Other volume leaders were Commonwealth Edison, Standard Dredging, and Mickelberry's Food Products.

OPA LIFTS PRICE PEG ON LIGHTER NEWSPRINT BY $4

Washington, D. C., April 1 (AP).—The OPA announced today that effective immediately lightweight newsprint may be sold by United States producers at maximum prices of $4 a ton above ceiling prices for standard weight paper.

Lightweight newsprint qualifying for the extra charges is that bordered and made in a weight less than 31 pounds for 500 sheets 25x36 inches and generally is 30 pound paper. Standard newsprint generally is 32 pound paper. OPA pointed out that because the lighter paper is thinner, more yardage is contained in each ton sold.

"Thus, even with a $4 ton differential for light weight, little or no increase in paper cost will be incurred by publishers," OPA said.

New York, April 1 (AP).—Safeway Stores, Inc., reported yesterday that sales in the four weeks ended March 25 amounted to $47,829,807, an increase of 5½ per cent over the corresponding period of 1943.

HOW THOMPSON GOT HIS WEALTH TOLD BY FRIENDS

Friends of the late William Hale Thompson, former Chicago mayor, said yesterday that his wealth stemmed from real estate speculations and a close tieup with the late Samuel Insull, utilities organizer.

They attempted to explain the mystery of the $1,466,250 currency hoard found in the former mayor's two safety deposit boxes in the American National Bank and Trust company, 33 N. La Salle st.

The opening of two additional boxes in other banks, scheduled for tomorrow, was postponed yesterday at the request of James W. Breen, the former mayor's personal attorney. Breen informed James Galbaugh of the inheritance tax department of the state treasurer's office that the widow, Mrs. Mary Wyse Thompson, was ill and could not be present tomorrow.

Had $1,230,000 Stocks in 1915.

As an indication of Thompson's wealth when he became mayor in 1915 it was learned that he sold 10,000 shares of Commonwealth Edison company stock on the day he took over the mayor's office. The stock was then quoted at $123 a share, and therefore was worth $1,230,000. Thompson told associates that he did not want to be a listed stockholder in the company while mayor.

For two decades prior to becoming mayor, Thompson was engaged in real estate operations. He was closely associated with Eugene R. Pike and the late George F. Harding in some of these deals. Besides, he managed the family estate left by his father, William Hale Thompson Sr.

While Thompson was mayor many street widenings and improvements were put thru, booming the values of real estate in certain areas in skyrocket fashion. There was much opportunity for real estate profits in connection with these improvements for those with inside information on the improvements.

Tight Fisted, Friends Say.

With the possible exception of the 1927 campaign Thompson used his own money to pay campaign expenses. In his campaigns for the mayoralty the ward organizations gathered their own campaign funds.

While Thompson liked to pose as a liberal spender, his close friends said that, on the contrary, he was tight fisted with his own money. In later years he lived apart from his wife and was never overgenerous in the allowance he sent her.

Breen reported Thompson told him in 1929, before the depression, that he was converting most of his property into cash and advised Breen to do the same. Breen asserted Thompson sold two million dollars' worth of Middle West Utilities stock and put the cash into safety deposit boxes.

Breen said more assets should be found in the other deposit boxes and probably a will, drawn up nearly 10 years ago, which left most of Thompson's property to his widow. The federal income tax office is investigating the currency cache to determine whether proper income tax payments were made by Thompson.

TERMS SLASHED FOR TWO YANKS ACCUSED OF RAPE

Washington, D. C., April 1 (AP).—The court martial conviction of two American soldiers for the rape of a 17 year old New Caledonia native girl was upheld today by Undersecretary of War Patterson who, however, ordered their life sentences reduced.

The men are Frank Fisher Jr. of Texarkana, Tex., and Edward R. Lowry of Louisville, Ky. The army said both are Negroes.

Patterson held that the prisoners had received a fair trial and that the findings were "legal and supported by the weight of evidence," but that "because of the facts and circumstances surrounding the commission of the offenses and the records of the prisoners" Fisher's sentence should be reduced to 10 years and Lowry's to eight.

Patterson's review of the case reported that Fisher and Lowry, "together with an unidentified and unapprehended soldier," raped the girl after they found her seated in a jeep with a lieutenant.

The lieutenant, not otherwise identified in a statement, was deprived of his commission and discharged from the service "under conditions other than honorable."

Counsel for the prisoners argued that the girl consented to the act.

OPA PRICE SUIT ASKS $293,112 OF BEVERAGE FIRM

Three suits to collect triple damages for alleged ceiling price violations were filed in federal District court yesterday by the office of price administration.

Damages of $293,112 are sought from the National Beverage Laboratories, Inc., of 629 Washington st., which manufactures a substitute for hops. The OPA charges the firm raised its prices to $3 a pound from the $2 ceiling. An injunction to compel observation of the ceiling price also is asked.

The OPA also sued the Palestine Kosher Sausage Manufacturing company, 4500 Cermak rd., for $16,946, alleging that the firm sold corned beef over the ceiling price. In the third suit, for $13,519, the Thor Shackel Manufacturing company, 163 N. Aberdeen st., is accused of ignoring ceiling prices in its sale of horse radish.

South American Editors Are J. S. Kemper's Guests

South American editors and publishers touring the United States under the auspices of the National Press club and the office of Inter-American affairs were luncheon guests of James S. Kemper, chairman of the United States committee on Inter-American business policies, yesterday in the University club. Consular representatives of Latin American countries and representatives of business, universities, and the press attended.

OPA FIXES NEW CODE TO ISSUE SICK RATIONS

Lists Ailments for Local Action.

Revised procedure for granting additional food rations in cases of illness was announced yesterday by the office of price administration. At present, local ration boards handle applications for special allotments.

Effective Thursday, boards will issue extra ration points only for certain illnesses "generally accepted as requiring more food," the OPA said. In other cases local boards will refer applications to district offices.

Additional points for meats, fats, and oils will be issued by local boards in cases of pregnancy, or if a person is suffering from diabetes mellitus, active tuberculosis, chronic nephritis, cirrhosis of the liver, chronic suppurative diseases, gastrointestinal lesions, and severe burns. The boards may allot additional processed food in cases of diabetes mellitus or active tuberculosis.

A physician's diagnosis of the applicant's illness is required for any issue of extra ration points.

New point values for meats will remain virtually unchanged in the period beginning today and ending April 29. All frozen fruits and vegetables will be point free. Values of most other processed items are the same as last month. Butter likewise will remain at 16 points a pound. Shortening and salad and cooking oils are cut a point to four points a pound. Cream, Neufchatel, and creamed cottage cheeses are two points higher at 12 points a pound.

Housewives should continue to budget their purchases of rationed foods as in the past, tho expiration dates have been removed, Rae E. Walters, regional OPA administrator, said yesterday as the second series of blue processed food stamps —F8, G8, H8, J8, and K8—became valid. He said there would be no change in the rate at which food stamps are validated, with three red stamps worth a total of 30 points becoming good every second Sunday, and five blue stamps worth 50 points becoming valid the first of every month.

Chicago Aviation Cadet Killed in Training Crash

Thomas F. Schumacher, an army aviation cadet, stationed at a primary flying school at Coleman, Tex., was killed Wednesday in an airplane crash, Mrs. Marie T. Schumacher of 7020 Osceola av., has been informed. The cadet was piloting a plane on a routine flight 16 miles northwest of Coleman. He was graduated from Taft High school in 1939 and had worked for Sears-Roebuck & Co.

32d Exhibit Opens

Springtime flowers in the Easter motif are on display at the 32d annual Easter and spring flower show, which opened yesterday at Garfield park conservatory, 300 N. Central Park av. Exhibiting 600 Easter lilies and many other flowers, the show will run thru April 16.

Exhibits include white calla lilies, five varieties of narcissus, white, pink and blue cinerarias, French hydrangeas, six kinds of marigolds, genista, and 10 varieties of primrose. Tulips, Dutch iris, lilac, apricot, white stocks, and astilbe complete the display.

The show will be open daily from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m., William C. Blaesing, chief horticulturist of the park district, announced.

DEMAND MOUNTS AS EASTER LILY SUPPLIES FALL

Supplies of Easter lilies will be insufficient this year, florists said yesterday. Coupled with the man power shortage and the absence of imports, florists are faced with unprecedented demand and a supply cut below last year's by a freeze last year in Louisiana and Florida.

The war has cut off supplies from Japan which formerly totaled approximately 22 million bulbs a year. Imports from Mexico are now the only ones used commercially, because bulbs from Bermuda are of a different variety and cannot be forced in time for the Easter season, Robert H. Roland, executive secretary of the Society of American Florists, said.

Prices, high last year, are even higher this year. Prices of bulbs from the Pacific northwest have risen to as high as 80 cents, and greenhouse operators have paid from 35 cents up for those from Florida and Louisiana. Japanese bulbs sold at 8 to 10 cents before the war.

2 IN SEDAN ROB FOUR DRIVERS IN HOUR AND HALF

Police on the northwest side yesterday were seeking two men in a black sedan who they believe robbed four laundry truck drivers within an hour and a half. All victims gave similar descriptions of the men. The truck drivers were Robert Kalman, 2644 Wilcox st., who surrendered $16 to the robbers as he stopped to make a delivery at 1749 Kimball av.; Andy Anderson, 3241 N. Damen av., robbed of $70 in front of 3573 Dickens av.; John Pawlik, 834 N. Richmond st., robbed of $75 in front of 3220 Cortez st., and George Hansen, 1912 George st., who told police the robbers took $30 from him at Roscoe st. and Damen av.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

SPECIAL NAVY OFFICER PROGRAMS.

This department is frequently asked to provide information relative to the special naval officer program needs. Special programs currently open to general procurement are: Audio visual coordinators, aviation engineer officers, cost inspection officers, curriculum construction officers, engine type specialist officers, hydrographic officers, industrial relations officers, instructors in handling ammunition, job analysis and evaluation officers, labor supply officers, oil terminal supervisors, packaging officers, petroleum engineers, safety engineer officers, ship repair officers, and supervisors of shipbuilding and inspectors of machinery.

The age range, requirements for appointment, duty assignments, and the number of men needed vary in each of these programs. The navy has provided us with announcements which present the minimum basic requirements for each program. These announcements can be obtained by writing to this department and requesting information on any one or more of the programs. Enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and indicate clearly which announcement you desire.

E. A. R. asks: "I was given a medical discharge from the army last fall and recently awarded a $20 per month pension for what the veterans administration designates as a 20 per cent disability. This seems about right for the present, but my disability happens to be a progressive one and there is a possibility that in the future I may find myself more than 20 per cent disabled. If this should occur, could I then apply for a readjustment?"

ANSWER: The adjudication department of the veterans administration says that no case involving disability is ever "closed." They point out that for the immediate present, the first awards are more or less temporary pending more thoro physical examination as soon as doctors are available. These preliminary awards are based almost entirely on the service record statements. To reopen a case, all the veteran needs to do is to present a doctor's statement that his condition has worsened.

V. C. C. asks: "When I trade work with my neighbors, can this be counted in computing the number of war units I am entitled to?"

ANSWER: Illinois state memorandum No. 775 states: "Custom work compensated only by an exchange of farm labor on essential production is not to be so computed. Also, units credited to a custom operator should not also be credited to the farmer for whom the work was done."

M. J. asks: "Will WACs, WAVES, SPARS, and other women serving with the forces be entitled to homestead rights after the war?

ANSWER: Yes, in the same manner and to the same extent as the men.

SOLDIER DEATH RATE FAR UNDER TOLL OF 1917-'18

More Wounded, Sick Men Recover.

Whereas 156 American soldiers in 10,000 died annually from disease in the first World war, only six per 10,000 die per year from disease in this war, Brig. Gen. Hugh J. Morgan, chief consultant in medicine, office of the army surgeon general, yesterday told a war session of the American College of Physicians in the Palmer House.

"This war will be won by effectives," he said. "Effectives in an army sense are men kept healthy by preventive medicine and, when this fails, restored to health by internal medicine. Our record in dealing with noneffectiveness thus far has been superb."

In the first World war, Gen. Morgan recalled, the death rate from pneumonia was 28 per cent. Now it is .7 of 1 per cent. Tuberculosis killed 17.3 per cent of those whom it attacked in the earlier conflict. Now all but 1.8 per cent are saved.

Fewer Venereal Cases.

Other aspects of the greatly improved medical and health situation in this war as compared to the last, the speaker said, are the venereal disease admission rate [one-third of the World War I. figure] and the death rate from battle casualties (3.3 per cent now as against 8.1 in the other war].

"Surgeons save 97 out of 100 wounded men admitted to army hospitals," Gen. Morgan said.

He expressed his satisfaction at the success of the preventive medicine program. "The incidence of lethal disease has been kept at a level which establishes a new low for any army in any war in history," he asserted.

Plane Evacuation Helps.

The value of the airplane as a means of evacuating wounded and sick men to base hospitals quickly, safely and comfortably was stressed by Maj. Gen. David N. W. Grant, air surgeon of the army air forces, in a paper read for him, in his absence, by Col. W. Paul Holbrook, a member of his staff.

"Air evacuation has taken its place with the sulfa drugs and blood plasma as one of the three great life savers of modern military medicine," Gen. Grant's paper read.

There were statistics showing the growth of air evacuation since its beginnings early in the war. A total of 173,000 casualties were moved in this manner in 1943. Deaths in transit are extremely few.

Guard Freedom, He Urges.

Speaking at the annual dinner last night, Dr. James E. Paullin of Atlanta, Ga., retiring president of the college, warned the nation not to lose its freedom while it is fighting for it.

"It is too bad we in this country, who are fighting a war on all fronts for the survival of free men, seemingly are losing faith in the very fundamentals which we, as individuals and as a nation, claim as our birthright," he said. "We must practice freedom while we fight for it so that in the end when peace comes we shall not have forgotten."

Dr. Ernest E. Irons of Chicago, newly elected president, assailed schemes for socialized medicine, asserting: "We must not put a premium upon mediocrity. The freedom of medicine depends upon the preservation of free enterprise."

SUBWAY TRAVEL ABOVE ESTIMATE FIRST HALF YEAR

The Chicago subway, nearing the completion of its first six months of operation, has proved itself a successful addition to the city's transportation system, both from a financial standpoint and in the mind of the average commuter, Philip J. Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways, said yesterday.

Present figures indicate, Harrington said, that by the end of its first year of operation the subway will have been used by more than 80 million riders, an increase of nearly 10 million over the highest estimate made during its construction.

Elevated lines officials reported that the average daily passenger load on the L has increased by more than 60,000 since the subway has been operating. Before Oct. 17, the day the subway opened, they said, the average daily passenger load was about 500,000, rising since then to about 560,000.

3 OUT OF 4 GIVEN VACCINE ESCAPE ATTACKS OF FLU

Successful immunization against influenza of three-fourth of those vaccinated was disclosed yesterday by the Journal of the American Medical association in reporting a study involving more than 12,000 soldiers.

The vaccination consisted of innoculation beneath the skin with a concentrated inactivated influenza type A vaccine. The study involved army specialized training units in eight universities in different parts of the United States and a ninth group of AST units in five New York medical and dental colleges.

The rate of influenza attacks was 7.11 per cent among 6,211 soldiers who were not vaccinated, compared with 2.22 per cent among 6,263 who were vaccinated. A preliminary report by a special army commission said the vaccination, done shortly before or even after the onset of the epidemic, was found to exert a significant protective effect.

Chicagoans of Lithuanian decent will hold a mass meeting and concert at 3 p. m. today in Lithuanian auditorium at 3133 S. Paul Rotomakas, representative of the Russian general consulate in New York, will be a special guest.

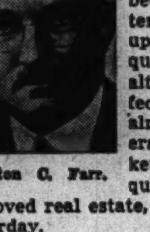
SCAVENGER ACT LIVENS CHICAGO REALTY MARKET

BY AL CHASE.

[Real Estate Editor.]



Newton C. Farr.

Illinois house bill No. 745, sometimes called "the mandatory foreclosure law," but known to most realtors and lawyers as "the scavenger act" because it is intended to clean up the delinquent tax mess, altho not in effect until July 1, already is accelerating the market in tax delinquent vacant and improved real estate, it was learned yesterday.

Properties, on which taxes have accumulated to the point where the equity value has nearly vanished, more and more are attracting the attention of buyers. They argue that if they can get them for a low figure, no matter how high the tax load has piled up, the scavenger act will remedy the situation.

Test Its Constitutionality.

There is only one flaw in this optimistic picture—the scavenger act may not be constitutional. This point is being tested in the Supreme court of Illinois.

If it is upheld several things are expected to result: a vast amount of property now tax delinquent will be put back on the tax rolls; much of the vacant property will be purchased and improved, and property already improved probably will be modernized by new owners.

Heretofore practically all investment buying or purchasing as a hedge against inflation has been in improved properties. If the scavenger act is declared constitutional there probably will be considerable buying of vacant real estate for the same reasons, realtors predict.

Explain Scavenger Act.

How the act is expected to operate was explained by Newton C. Farr, president of the Civic federation.

"It requires the county collector, under direction of the county court, to sell to the highest bidder all real estate on which taxes are delinquent for 10 or more years," he said.

[Lawrence Holmes, secretary of the Chicago Real Estate board tax committee, estimates there is 130 million dollars of Chicago delinquent taxes in that classification.]

"It permits special assessments, at option of the municipality which levied them, to be included in the sale," Farr said.

Equity Owner May Bid.

"It allows equity owner to bid at sale or redeem property within two years at moderate cost. If the bidding is too low the county has the right to buy it.

"It assures return of properties to tax rolls by requiring payment of taxes during two year redemption period as a condition to issuance of tax deed by court."

One of Chicago's largest owners of real estate said he was buying all the tax encumbered properties he could find that fitted in with his program for improvements.

"Under the scavenger act I'll merely wait until the county starts a tax foreclosure and bid it in. In that way I'll get rid of the delinquent tax load and be able to improve the property, which, of course, will go back on the tax rolls."

CORNER BUILDING AT MADISON AND KILDARE IS SOLD

The four story Ford building at the southwest corner of Madison st. and Kildare av. bought last July from the Ford Motor company for $60,000 by Carl L. and Virginia H. Bess, was sold yesterday by them for $80,000. The buyer was the Porter Realty trust. Brokers were J. Beidler Camp and M. A. Powills, of J. Beidler Camp & Co. The entire building, containing 38,000 square feet of floor space, is occupied by the Galvin Manufacturing corp.

At the Realty Boards

The Chicago Real Estate board will hold its annual election Wednesday evening. The following slate, entirely unopposed, will be voted: Joseph B. Ford, president; Warner G. Baird, vice president; Hugh W. Croxton, secretary; and Floyd G. Dana, treasurer. New directors will be George W. Busch, William Ehrat, Fred B. Huebenthal, Charles B. Joern, George W. Kemp, and Louis C. Sudler. John Galbreath, Columbus, O., realtor and president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will speak at the dinner meeting. His subject will be "Real Estate Moves Ahead."

Old Mansion to Be Rebuilt Into War Flats

The half century old residence of Henry Ericsson, chairman of the board of the Henry Ericsson company, building contractors, at 534 Surf st. is to be rebuilt into war homes by the government. The Home Owners Loan corporation leased it for seven years at a nominal rental of $1 annually, and will convert the 18 room mansion into 12 flats of from one to four and one-half rooms, Charles W. Collins, HOLC regional director, announced yesterday.

The above 18 room residence is to be rebuilt for the HOLC into 12 apartments for war workers.

Plan drawn by HOLC staff architects call for an expenditure of $38,989. Of this amount Ericsson will contribute $6,500. The HOLC will pay the balance. Chell & Anderson has been awarded the general contract. Completion is set for late summer.

The new flats will be rented only to war workers at rentals ranging from $50 to $75. These charges will include gas and electricty. The property which has been placed in trust with the Chicago Title and Trust company by Ericsson for his heirs, will be turned back to the owner in seven years.

Ericsson was building commissioner under Mayor Carter Harrison II., now collector of internal revenue.

STINEWAY DRUG LEASES BUILDING FOR WAREHOUSE

The Stineway Drug company yesterday leased for an undisclosed term of years the entire one and two story building at the southeast corner of Monroe and Desplaines sts. for its executive offices and and warehouse. The property, 119 by 198 feet, was bought by an undisclosed purchaser from the Railway Express Agency, Inc., title being taken by the American National Bank and Trust company. Frank S. Slosson was broker in both the purchase and lease. The building contains 55,000 square feet. As soon as war restrictions permit the property will be modernized by the Stineway concern which operates 24 drug stores in Chicago and Oak Park.

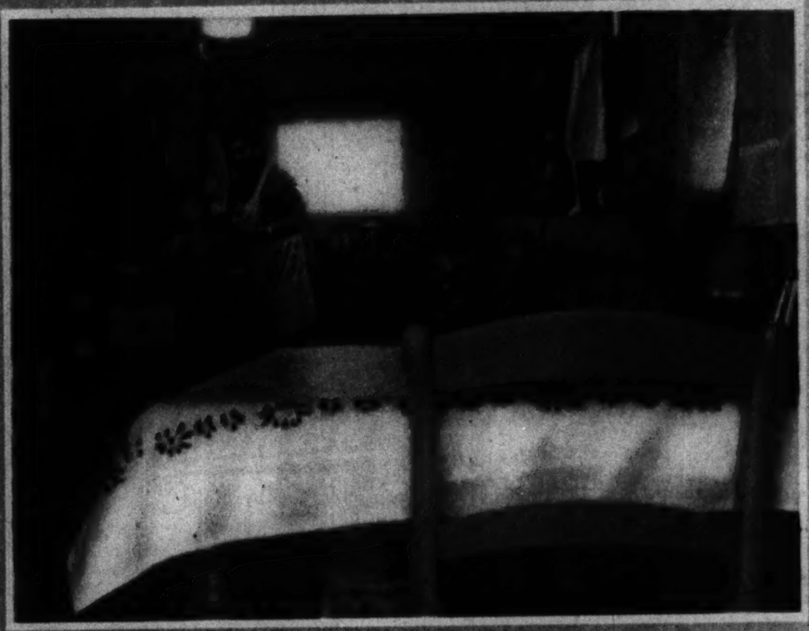
SPRING COMES TO THE OZARKS

In color photos and in story Marge depicts her beloved Sunrise Mountain Farm

Dogwood blossoms, with their big, creamy petals, highlight the green woods in an Ozark spring time. Here Mr. and Mrs. John Tamsett (known in Marge's writings as Uncle John and Aunt Lizzie) get their picture taken alongside their favorite dogwood tree. The Tamsett farm adjoins Sunrise Mountain Farm.

Early morning, and sheep quietly wait to be let out of their corral at Sunrise Mountain Farm. Sheep raising is profitable in the Ozarks even in nonwar years. Sheep run on range the year around, but good shepherds bring them in at night to protect them from wolves and marauding dogs.



Sunrise Mountain Farm, like most Ozark homes, has its woodburning cook stove. Such stoves are slow and require continuous refueling. But with Ozark sunshine streaming thru the windows and a mockingbird singing at the back gate, who wants to hurry out of the kitchen anyway?

Spring finds the Jedge still feeding 200 White Leghorn hens, also assorted geese, ducks, and guineas—altho most Ozark farmers have reduced their poultry flocks to home-use size. Laying mash costs $3.20 a hundredweight and eggs sell for 22 to 33 cents a dozen—making Madame Hen a liability!

Warm, sunny spring time days hasten the ripening of luscious red Ozark strawberries. More and more Missouri farmers are planting strawberries on the southern slopes of newly cleared hills. The strawberry crop rarely fails, says Marge, and the farmer who really tends his patch gets excellent returns.

John Fabion, artist and sculptor, and Punch, a Sunrise Mountain Farm dog (formerly a waif in Dorothy Eagle's animal shelter), pause to rest on the Jack's fork bridge, a mile from the farm. In this spring-fed stream black bass, perch, and goggle eyes vie for your bait. But wait until after June 10!

The lure of these green wooded Ozark hills, veiled with soft blue haze, is strong, indeed. To those who own them come a lifetime supply of firewood and the privilege of hunting rabbits, squirrels, possums, foxes, and raccoons on your own happy hunting ground.

FRESH FROM THE HILLS

By MARGE OF SUNRISE MOUNTAIN FARM

(This feature, "Fresh from the Hills," regularly appears in another section of The Sunday Tribune. It is presented here today in conjunction with the color photographs taken by the author.)

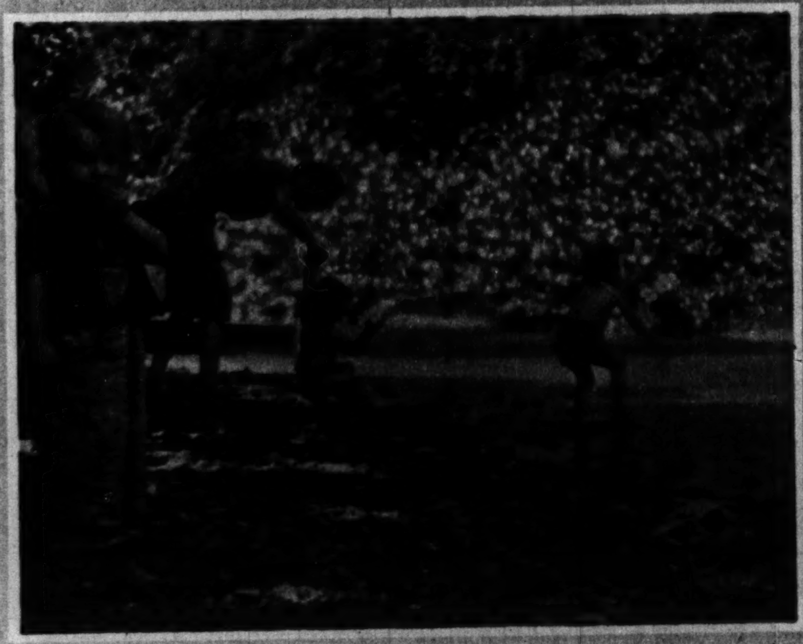
ONCE UPON A TIME, according to an old Ozark tale, a certain man went to heaven and found a great many people chained to the golden streets. "How come these chains?" he asked in great surprise. "Would any one wish to leave a place so beautiful?"

St. Peter answered sadly: "Alas, 'tis true! These are Ozarkians, and they keep trying to get back home. You see, it's spring time in the Ozarks now!"

Ah! Spring time in the Ozarks! When the blue haze becomes a little bit bluer—when the trees take on a feathery quality—when the songs of a million birds fill the air—when the hills as far as the eye can see become richly, beautifully green! Who can blame a hill person for wanting to be right here to enjoy every golden moment?

Spring comes early in the Ozarks. On Washington's Birthday tulips and iris at Sunrise Mountain Farm were high above ground, every tree in orchard and lawn (Continued on page nine.)

Alley springs, near Winona, Mo., provide this bit of woodland beauty. The vegetation in the foreground is watercress, which grows super-crisp and delicious in the icy spring water. An old mill complete with water wheel still stands near this famous spring.



Wading in the crystal clear waters of Jack's fork is a spring time joy of Ozark life. The rocky bed of the stream is tough on tender feet, but O, how good that cold water feels! Around the bend the "crick" has scooped out a deep swimming hole, shaded with sycamores, for the big kids.

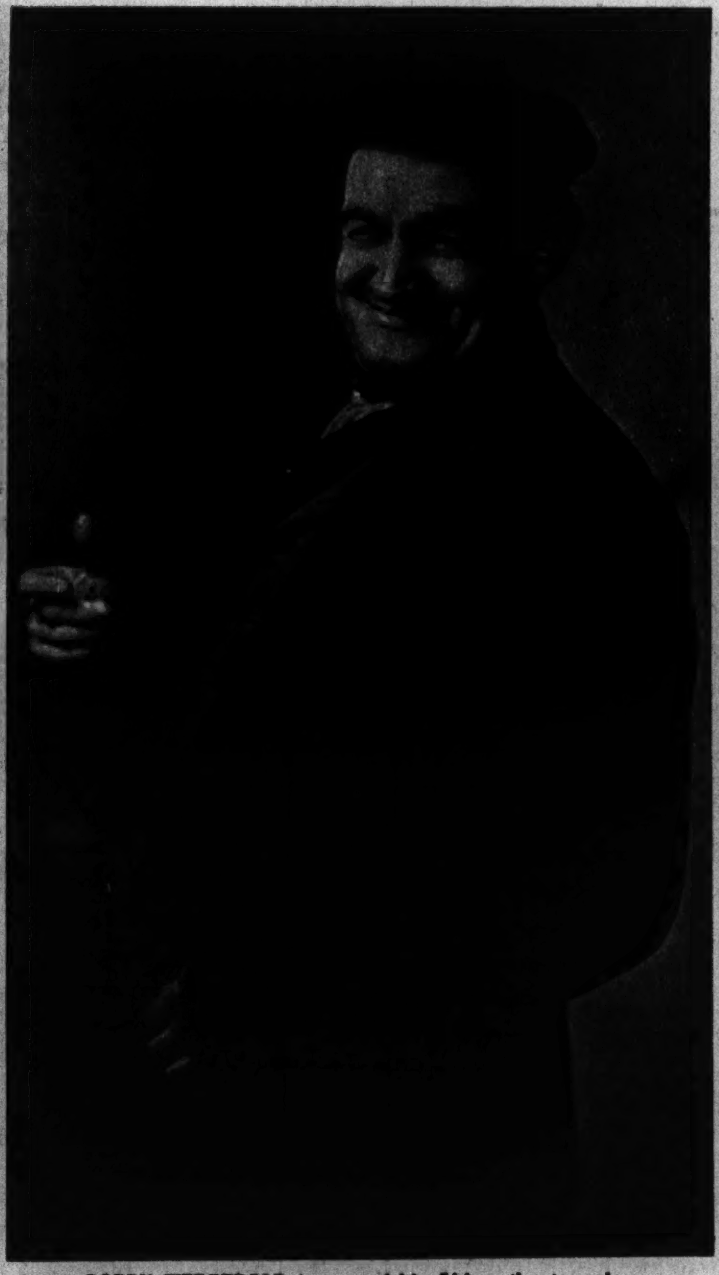
"I throwed up my gun to shoot, 'n' dogged effen that big ol' turkey tom didn't reverse his flyin' apparaytus and fly back'ards right over the mountain." Such tall tales come thick and fast when good cronies like these line up in front of the Squirrel Hunter's barber shop.

LOOKING AT HOLLYWOOD WITH HEDDA HOPPER

When Barry Fitzgerald stole "Going My Way?" from Bing Crosby, Hollywood "discovered" him. It was the fourth time.



BARRY FITZGERALD in one of his Abbey theater roles.

Discovered Four Times!

Hollywood.

A MODEST four room bungalow on a Hollywood side street houses a Hollywood phenomenon—an actor who spurns stardom. Living in bachelor untidiness, Barry Fitzgerald at 50 is taking piano lessons and trying his utmost to duck and squirm from under the newest Hollywood ack-ack that has him as its target because he all but stole Bing Crosby's newest picture, "Going My Way?" Hollywood has "discovered" Fitzgerald—and how that tickles this Irishman's sense of irony!

"That makes four times I've been discovered," he chortled as we plopped into a bamboo porch chair to try to take the man apart for the clinic that cannot believe that this fantastic city called Hollywood can produce one so impervious to flattery, so uncaring for the fat financial awards stardom spawns, and so utterly, utterly out of step with the rest of the boys and girls who march in the parade of the Rock Candy Mountaineers.

"The first discovery was back in 1915 in Dublin when I sneaked into the extra ranks of the Abbey Players and in two weeks won a speaking part, to wit, 'This way, sire.' Then London discovered me. New York did likewise in 1931. And now, almost 30 years after the Dublin debut with a spear, I am again discovered. Under the yardstick of values, I suppose, none but the Hollywood discovery can be considered official. I'm not excited—I'm amused."

Fitzgerald is a gnomelike little man with shaggy eyebrows that defy gravity, training, or barber shop cajoleries. He still has a sufficient growth of blond hair, running wild on the lower forty and fallow on the crown. He has deep-set quartz blue eyes. He squints at you, but the eyes are lighted with laughter.

He loves caps—old ones. He fondles his motorcycle with loving hands. He has two suits of clothes and 11 pairs of overalls. He keeps no clippings. He answers no fan mail. And, because he frequents only the unknown byways of the Spanish section of Los Angeles, he is free of autograph hunters. He seldom attends movies and never goes to see those in which he has a part. He has many opinions of us and our ways, but because he is not a citizen he refuses to give expression to any that are not flattering. Another odd quality that may get him barred from some of our swankier nighteries where English is spoken only by the waiters.

"Bing Crosby and Leo McCarey decided to let me run my own race," he explains modestly. "If the result is half so flattering as you critics seem to believe, give these two full credit. McCarey is a great director because he has integrity. Crosby is a good enough actor to carry a picture without having to sing—if the public will hold still for the experiment. It's when the producers try to crank him up that Bing is not at his best. Let him be his own self and you've got the best natural on the screen today. He hates acting—and so do I."

I had to cut in. "Never mind Crosby and McCarey," I insisted. "What's this business about you refusing to sign a starring contract at Paramount?"

"Well, Hedda," and he started twisting his cap and squirming as tho the mere hint of such goings-on was distasteful to him, "I don't want to be a star, ever. I'm content to play bit parts, and all I hope to achieve at this late date in my career is to be able to select my own bit parts, be they only four lines and one scene. I never had any use for money. Possessions become obligations, and obligations tie one down. As a boy I wandered and cycled up and down the Emerald Isle and never traveled with more than one extra shirt, two extra pairs of socks, and bread and cheese in the kit bag.

"I worked as a civil service clerk in Dublin when the acting itch attacked. I did extra work nights with the Abbey Players and caught on finally. Lack of energy made an actor of me—I couldn't articulate the necessary 'no' when I was offered my first lead in 'The Dragon' in 1919. Shaun O'Casey, the Irish playwright, lured me to London in 1929 to star in 'Silver Tassie,' and I came to this country in 1931 for the first time with the Abbey Players in repertoire. We toured the States, and do you know, Hedda, I believe I know a lot more about this country than many of your best politicians. Few towns we missed in two years. New York I liked, and the critics were very kind to me. Especially when Sarah Allgood and I did 'Juno and the Paycock' for a 16 week run.

"I was in Dublin in July, 1936, when I got the call from Hollywood to do Fluther in 'The Plough and the Stars.' John Ford insisted on casting me, and the reward was six weeks at $750 a week—more money than we in Ireland believed the mints produced. I intended going on from here to the South seas and around the world, but just as I was packing the other shirt and oiling up the bicycle Mary Pickford put me under a one year contract—and never used me. I've been in Hollywood ever since.

"I was tossed here and there, and in the confusion and the bewilderment I was almost submerged. Somehow I couldn't understand the broadness of your terminology which insisted on calling the product motion pictures yet imposed a minimum of action with a maximum of dialog. Gabbies, I called 'em then—and still do. Chatter is funny, but situations are funnier, and the less lines the better. Let the audience discover humor for itself—not via chartings of directors, who are very unfunny men in most cases. Pantomime, I believe, still is the greatest of the arts, and to prove my point I need but recount the great successes of some of the silent pictures.

"Yes, there is a contract waiting for me, but I won't sign it. I want to be footloose and on the move. I have saved two things for dessert in my life's menu—a trip to Mexico and the complete reading of Shakespeare. I hope to enjoy them together."

He leaped from his porch chair to dash into the living room. He mumbled something about not wanting to miss an important radio show, and soon I heard a particularly silly singing commercial about the merits of a six-way cathartic. Then silence. The radio was clicked off and my host returned.

"Couldn't you get your station?" I asked.

"O, yes," and he had a bland, naive look about him. "I never listen to anything but those singing commercials. I think they are the ultimate in humor, really. I re-record the better ones and ship them back home, where commercials are unknown. My old friends in Dublin and Cork are very appreciative of such courtesies, and many of them repay me by shipping over some of the rarer Irish whiskies."

Mary Pickford . . . boss for an idle year.

His offer of tea had to be declined. In bowing out I asked for a photograph to go with this interview, such as it is. And so help me Dinah Shore, the man had not a single picture of himself in the domicile!

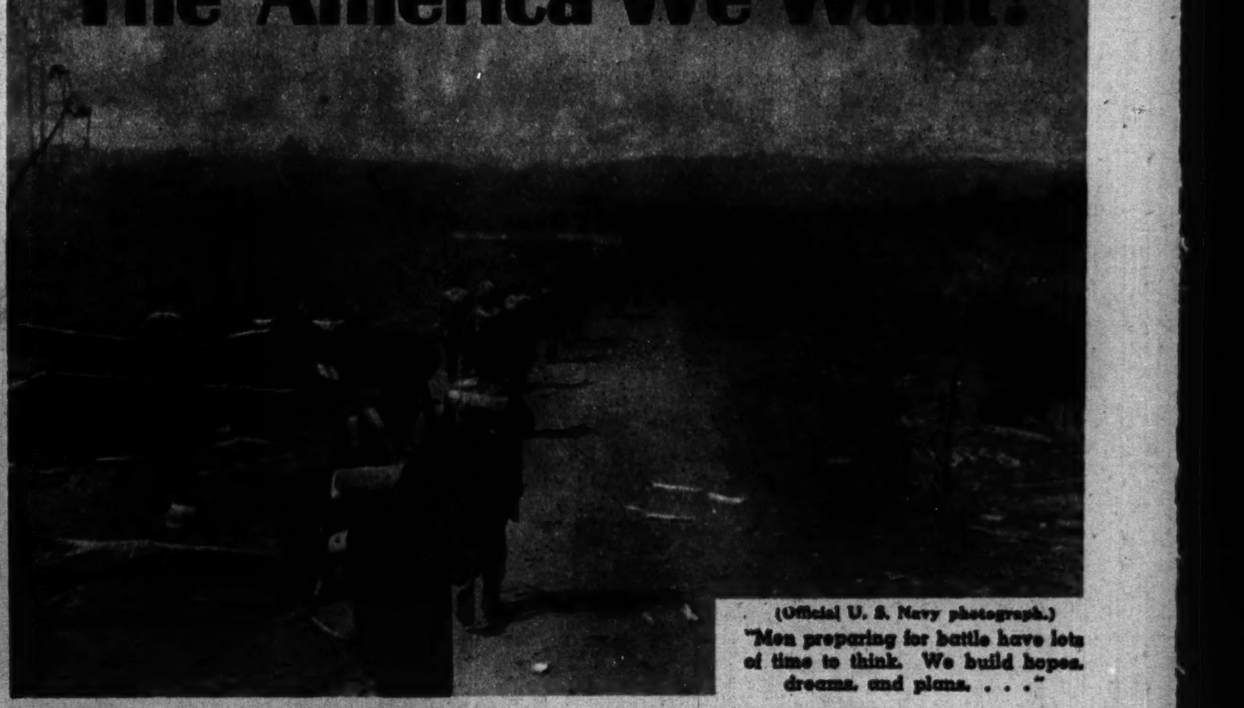
He walked with me to my car.

"I hope I haven't been too disappointing," and he looked downcast.

Disappointing—a man who refuses to accept one and one-half million dollars over the next five years because he wants to visit the Mexican people and read Shakespeare while lolling in the sun of an adobe back yard at Guadalajara? Refreshing, that's what I call it. And from now on I shall make Barry Fitzgerald my talking point when I fight off Hollywood's enemies who insist that we grow 'em without souls out in these Rock Candy Mountains.

A SOLDIER DESCRIBES

The America We Want!



(Official U. S. Navy photograph.)

"Men preparing for battle have lots of time to think. We build hopes, dreams, and plans. . . ."

By Sgt. Arthur C. Barschdorf

TO WHAT KIND of America do we soldiers want to return? What do we hope to find in the country for which today we are fighting on a thousand and one world battle fronts?

Men preparing for battle have lots of time to think. We build hopes, dreams, and plans for those days in the future, and we pray for that future. We are earning the right to demand realization of those.

Don't pamper us and offer us sympathy when we get back home; rather give us jobs and a chance for success.

Birthplace of the four freedoms is America, so we'll expect to speak as we like, worship as we please, feel secure and safe, and have plenty on the table. But another freedom will be more sought after and more cherished. To the four add another—freedom of opportunity.

Yes, in the land that is opportunity veterans of this war will want to hear that proverbial knock on our door. The chance to better ourselves and our lives is more the concern of America's fighting men today than anything else. None of us will be really satisfied with just a job. We'll want both a job and a future—and why not? Opportunity can't be classed as reward, for it's an inherent part of American life.

Make intelligence and effort count. For those with ambition and willingness to work, opportunities, and for those who wish to live on their military deeds and records, sympathy and understanding (if such is possible). For those whose health and physical ability have been impaired, assurance of a rightful place in society.

What does opportunity mean to us? Merely this: If a man be a farmer, laborer, white-collar worker, or executive, he feels he is fighting not for a modern utopia, but for an America where he knows he can return to a job and build a home and raise a family.

The men who are fighting are not reaping the rich wages of this conflict; rather we are sacrificing not only financial gain but things more dear and more precious — little conveniences, closeness to loved ones, and life itself.

Our time to feel the prosperity of our generation will come after the battles have been won, and certainly we will have first consideration in the employment created by post-war American industry.

Not of lesser importance, we demand assurance of peace, but not at the expense of America. The best assurance for our peace is a strong America.

But plans for a utopian world we don't worry about. Our interest is primarily in America. Coping with plans of the perfect peace is for minds greater than our own.

We want labor to have a rightful place in our America, but we resent the present policy of unions telling labor when to work, where to work, and for how much. Above all we don't want to be told we have to join this or that organization in order to work. To us America is a free country where each man can decide for himself the advantages and disadvantages of a labor union.

On the eve of a battle, and even in combat, we have learned of strikes by miners, railroad men, shipyard and war plant workers, and others. That kind of united labor is not what we are fighting for. Freedom to work is not perpetuated by unions like those existing in many places today.

We definitely want nationalism to the extent that we, as workers in peaceful America, will not compete with the cheaper goods of countries where labor operates on a lower wage scale and the standards of living are not up to our own. We want to remain the richest and highest paid people in the world. We want to maintain a balanced prosperity which will last.

We want government a profession based on ideals, principles, knowledge, and, most important, judgment. Politics is not essentially a course in the college of government. It deserves no more than a spot in the extracurricular activities, certainly not a major study, as this method of public attainment enjoys today.

For Japan and Germany and their satellites we feel no emotion akin to sympathy or understanding. We ask that this time the punishment fit the crime. Let Holland and China mete out justice to the Japs. Let Norway, Holland, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, France, and Russia "try" the Germans.

We want our own veterans' organization to protect our rights and benefit members with honest and sincere leadership. We are not interested in a political club.

America guards the hopes and dreams of freedom-loving people the world over. Our freedom, cleansed and refreshed by the blood of countless thousands, is the American way of life, and to us the right way of life. Let America remember that she owes a debt to those who protect her sacred liberties.

Even as we yell loud and strong for our future, we yell louder and stronger for our present. Roll up your sleeves, America, and pitch in and get dirty, tired, and miserable and determined with us. We want to come home.

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Mae: After seeing "Guadalcanal Diary" for the second time I just had to write and ask about Richard Jaeckel, who took the part of Chicken. Here's hoping we all see lots and lots more of him on the screen. Please print some information about him, also his picture. A newcomer,

AUDREY.

Dear Audrey: So many have been wanting to know about Richard! He's with Twentieth Century-Fox, and because of his grand work in "Guadalcanal Diary" has been handed a long-term contract. He's to be starred in a film called "Chips, the Dog Hero." Richard used to distribute mail on the lot. They were looking for a youngster to play in "G. D." and picked on him. He'd planned a trip to Mexico—but the movies won out. Nice photograph of him, isn't it?

The Lyon's Roar That Helped Save Free Press

By DELOS AVERY

A MAN named Matthew Lyon earned for himself a temporary lodging in jail and a permanent place in history by saying uncomplimentary things in print about the second President of the United States, John Adams. That was in 1798.

Freedom of the press had been crucified, and the stone that blocked the entrance to its tomb had not yet been rolled away. The people had been told it was their duty to speak respectfully of their rulers or else keep their mouths shut.

Most people, caring more for easy comfort than for the distressing glories of martyrdom, went along docilely and did not even tug at the leash.

But Matthew Lyon's hot soul was the soul of a rebel. He would no sooner shut his mouth against the outflow of speech than against the intake of food. What he spoke he liked to speak out loud. He also had a taste for writing his opinions in plain English, signing his name to them, getting circulation for them.

So in the columns of a newspaper, the Vermont Journal, he made the charge that President Adams was guilty of "a continual grasp for power."

His friends admired his audacity but feared he was in for trouble. Lyon thought so, too, but the thought did not stop him. He dipped his pen again and wrote that Adams' "thirst for ridiculous pomp" was "unbounded," that Adams had a craving for "foolish adulation," that Adams was motivated by "selfish avarice," and that it was "a wonder" that Adams was not "sent to the madhouse."

And who was Lyon? He was, for one thing, a member of the house of representatives, from Vermont. There is a paragraph about him in John Spencer Bassett's "The Federalist System," which is the 11th volume of the monumental "The American Nation: A History," edited by Albert Bushnell Hart.

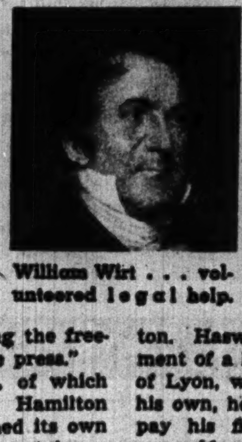
Lyon was, says Bassett, "an Irishman, a Republican of fierce temper, unconventional in appearance, but fearless and persistent in expressing his views. He attracted attention when he asked to be excused from the slavish custom of going in procession with the whole house to present the reply to the President's annual speech."



William Wirt . . . volunteered legal help.

The law under which Lyon was jailed was the notorious sedition act, then less than four months old. It had been enacted by congress "almost before the ink of the first amendment was dry." The amendment says: "Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press."

The Federalist party, of which Adams and Alexander Hamilton were founders, had signed its own death warrant—but did not know it until later—by forcing the sedition act thru in defiance of the amendment. For the Federalists really believed that they had a high mission to rule and that their opponents ought to be crushed. Adams himself had expressed in writing his belief that there ought to be a special status in congress for "the rich, the well born, and the able."

The majority of the Federalists were described as holding similar views, "favoring aristocracy and distrusting democracy," relying for support on "the wealthy, the great planters, the army officers," and caring little about the opposition of "friends of individual liberty." The sedition act was an instrument forged for the purpose of maintaining the power of the party that was "in."

It can hardly be said that the Federalist hatred of men like Lyon was unprovoked. He was uncouth. He spat in the face of one political opponent. It was not for this, however, that he was jailed. He was jailed for printed words. Three other men were also jailed in the same period for similar offenses—in printed words.

Bassett quotes a contemporary Pennsylvania jurist, Thomas McKean:

"Every one who has in him the sentiments of either a Christian or a gentleman cannot but be highly offended at the envenomed scurrility that has raged in pamphets and newspapers printed in Philadelphia for several years past. . . . Our satire has been nothing but ribaldry and billingsgate . . . . the honor of families has been stained . . . . the highest posts rendered cheap and vile in the sight of the people, the greatest services and virtue blasted."

Says Bassett:

John Marshall, great jurist who opposed sedition act.

"The Federalists . . . . undertook to right matters by law; and in doing so they carried injustice far beyond the limits reached by the scribblers."

They passed the sedition act, with a clause providing heavy fines and prison terms as punishment for publishing "any false or malicious writing" against the federal government, the President, or congress." The accused were not, of course, to be condemned without trial, but fair trials were made virtually impossible by the fact that the whole machinery of "justice" was held firmly in the hands of the accuser. Juries were hand picked by officers of the federal government; defense lawyers were insulted and browbeaten; and trial judges were tyrannic in prejudice.

The late Albert J. Beveridge in his four volume biography of John Marshall, the famous jurist (a Federalist who opposed the sedition act), describes the Lyon trial and punishment. The indictment charged that Lyon had tried "to stir up sedition and to bring the President and government of the United States into contempt." The jury was selected, Lyon complained, "from among my enemies," and he was speedily convicted, sentenced to four months in jail, and ordered to pay a fine of $1,000.

"In the execution of the sentence," says Beveridge, "United States Marshal Jabez G. Fitch used the prisoner cruelly. On the way to the jail at Vergennes, Vt., he was repeatedly insulted. He was finally thrown into a filthy, stench-filled cell without a fireplace and with nothing 'but the iron bars to keep the cold out.' It was 'the common receptacle for horse thieves, runaway Negroes, or any kind of felons.' He was subjected to the same kind of treatment that was accorded in those days to the lowest criminals."

In the eyes of a large part of the public, however, Lyon ranked as a martyr. And there were courageous men—not many, but a few—who dared let their feelings be known. One of these was Anthony Haswell, editor of the Vermont Gazette, which was published at Bennington. Haswell printed an advertisment of a lottery by which friends of Lyon, who had little money of his own, hoped to raise enough to pay his fine. The advertisment was addressed "to the enemies of political persecution in the western district of Vermont."

It said that Lyon was "holden by the oppressive hand of usurped power in a loathsome prison, deprived almost of the right of reason, and suffering all the indignities which can be heaped upon him by a hard-hearted savage who has, to the disgrace of Federalism, been elevated to a station where he can satiate his barbarity on the misery of his victims."

Haswell, because of his printed words, was indicted for sedition, convicted, fined $200, and sentenced to imprisonment for two months.

One purpose, perhaps the chief purpose, of these vindictive repressions of the constitutional right to criticize was to gag other potential critics. This purpose appears to have been quite thoroly achieved, for few indeed were the editors and publishers who risked the government's wrath by saying in type what many were saying in timid lip-to-ear communications.

One of the bold, however, was Dr. Thomas Cooper, editor of a Pennsylvania paper, The Sunbury and Northumberland Gazette, who printed a piece about a period in Adams' administration when "even those who doubted his capacity thought well of his intentions. . . . Nor were we yet saddled with the expense of a permanent navy or threatened with the existence of a standing army. . . . Mr. Adams . . . had not yet interfered . . . to influence the decisions of a court of justice."

Temperate and cautious as this utterance was, it was enough to bring down upon him the vengeance of the federal power. He was indicted for sedition. Justice Samuel Chase of the Supreme court and Judge Richard Peters of the District court sat together to try the case, and the trial was dominated by Chase, a man of violent temper and prejudice, a man impatient of the protective provisions of the law he administered, indifferent to the rights of a defendant, unwilling to hear evidence or argument at variance with his own preformed conclusions.

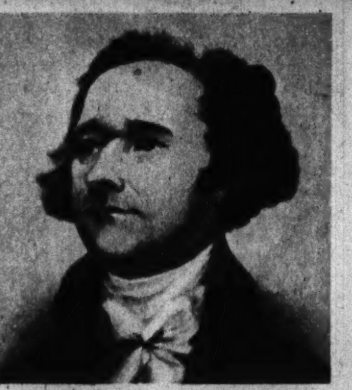
Cooper, being himself well versed in the law, undertook to conduct his own defense. For this purpose he applied for a duces tecum subpena to compel President Adams to attend the trial as a witness and to bring with him certain documents which he said were needed for the defense. Chase, "in a rage," says Beveridge, refused the subpena. (Later, in the trial of Aaron Burr, such a subpena was issued against President Thomas Jefferson by Chief Justice Marshall, who was denounced, we are told, "by the very partisans who now assailed Justice Chase for refusing to grant it.")



Alexander Hamilton, a founder of the Federalist party.

Chase virtually prosecuted the case from the bench. He virtually assumed the role of the jury, too, for he harangued the jurors and as much as told them what their conclusions should be. "I cannot suppress my feelings," he told them, "at this gross attack upon the President." He told them flatly that Cooper had deliberately purposed to "mislead the ignorant and influence their votes at the next election."

So Cooper, third of the sedition act's victims, was convicted and sentenced to pay a fine of $400 and to be imprisoned for six months. He was also to give bond for good behavior after his eventual release.

The fourth victim was James Thompson Callender, author of a pamphlet entitled "The Prospect Before Us." It was said that Thomas Jefferson had encouraged Callender to write and publish it. It said the Adams administration had been "a tempest of malignant passions," burdening the people with excessive taxes. And it charged that Adams was "a professional aristocrat . . . faithful and serviceable to the British interest." Adams was described as "this hoary-headed incendiary." And the trial judge when Callender was indicted was once more Judge Chase.

This time Chase outdid himself, practically deciding the case even before arriving in the city (Richmond, Va.) where the trial was held. To a friend at Annapolis he announced that he would take the Callender pamphlet to Richmond with him and that he would certainly punish the author "if Virginia is not too depraved to furnish

Bill of RICE

By MARY MEADE

Accompany a platter of shrimps and rice with bowls of curry or tomato sauce, chopped nuts, chutney.

This attractive loaf was made from cooked soybeans, rice, evaporated milk, and seasonings.

MANY a buffet table favorite is made with cooked rice as a starting point. Fried shrimp, green pepper, and onions on a bed of rice may be served with small jars of accompaniments, such as curry sauce, mixed pickle, chutney, chopped nuts, spicy tomato sauce. Guests help themselves to the shrimp combination, then choose what they like to eat with it.

SHRIMP BUFFET DISH
(Serves four to six)

3 tablespoons salad oil
1 large onion, sliced lengthwise
¼ cup diced green pepper
Salt, pepper
1 7-oz. can shrimps (1¼ cups)
3 cups cooked rice
2 eggs
Sauces and relishes as desired

Heat oil, add onion and green pepper, and cook until soft. Add seasonings and shrimps. Cook about 5 minutes. Add rice and heat thru. Beat eggs and stir into mixture over low heat. Cook slowly until eggs are set but mixture is still creamy. Serve at once with separate containers of whatever sauces and relishes might be suitable.

Soybean and rice loaf is another meatless dish suitable for buffet service or for a family supper. If you like a sauce with a loaf like this, make it a tomato sauce if possible.

SOY AND RICE LOAF
(Serves six to eight)

¾ cup raw rice
3 tablespoons fat
3 tablespoons flour
¾ teaspoon salt
1½ cups irradiated evaporated milk
1½ cups cooked soybeans

Pour rice into fine sieve, rinse with cold water, then drop into 1 quart briskly boiling water to which 1 teaspoon salt has been added. Boil until tender, about 15 minutes. Drain, saving cooking water for thickening soup or gravy. Rinse rice with hot water. Melt fat, blend in flour and salt. Add milk and cook over boiling water until thick, stirring constantly. Add rice and soybeans. Pour into greased loaf pan. Bake in 350 degree oven until set and brown, about 30 minutes.

If you are cooking soybeans fresh for this loaf you may as well cook enough of them so that there'll be beans for meat stretchers, soup, or other dishes later in the week. Cook the beans like navy beans, by soaking for several hours, then simmering until tender. Mash or puree soybeans to be used in soup.

Know Your Horses

HACKNEY Like the Thorobred, described in a previous article of this series, the Hackney is of English origin and of mixed blood. Among its ancestors were many famous Arabian stallions, including the Darley Arabian, the celebrated animal that was imported into England early in the 18th century.

A son of the Darley Arabian, Flying Childers, foaled about 1715, was the fastest horse of his time. His son Blaze, foaled in 1733, also was famous for his speed. This last-named animal was retired to stud in Norfolk, England, which came to be the center of Hackney breeding.

The Hackneys of today show the influence of this early scientific breeding, many of them being animals of striking appearance. They possess smooth trotting qualities, with a fair amount of speed, which make them desirable as heavy harness horses. Heavy in proportion to their height, as compared with others of the light breeds, they have deep chests, heavy croups, low flanks, and well sprung ribs. They vary in size to a greater extent than most horses of light breeds. Those under 14 hands are termed Hackney ponies, but all of the breed, small and large, are registered in the same stud-book. An important part of the demand for harness animals is for show purposes, and purebred Hackneys meet this demand.

Chestnut is the predominant color among horses of this breed. Bay, brown, and chestnut are the preferred colors, in that order. Gray Hackneys are rare.

Columbia, Mo.

IN 1912, WHEN James Madison Wood assumed the presidency of Stephens, it was an obscure, impoverished two year college of Baptist origin with an enrollment of 52 women. It is no longer obscure, no longer impoverished, and as to size has become something of a giantess among private colleges in the United States, with an enrollment of more than 2,000. Yet it still can't accommodate all the girls who want to become Stephens "Susies."

During the 32 years of President Wood's reign Stephens' plant of three buildings has increased to one of 35; Stephens' acreage has increased from eight to 225. And Stephens has changed almost as briskly from the original ultra-conservative pattern to the progressive.

President Wood, who began schoolmastering in the Ozarks when he was 16, hasn't hesitated to part company with academic traditions. As a result Stephens has its critics.

Mr. Wood, who believes in the kind of education that "teaches women how to live as well as how to make a living," hasn't been afraid, as living and earning conditions changed, to revise his conceptions of educational needs and methods. About 20 years ago Stephens undertook an analysis of the activities and the expressed needs of several hundred graduates, both housewives and professional women. Many of the orthodox courses were found to be of highly questionable value, so Stephens made radical changes in its program. This kind of research and revision has been continued.

Stephens has presented many "firsts." It was, for example, the first women's college to introduce aviation, in all its aspects, even unto flight training. Then there are—or were in peace time—its famous field trips, on which Stephens Susies traveled in large caravans to all sections of this country and even to Mexico.

In both its physical and its educational structure Stephens seems curiously decentralized, but this is deceptive. The whole structure is more closely knit than might appear to the jaundiced academic eye. The individualized program, which seems almost an impossibility in a student body of such size, is the Stephens goal and to a great extent one of its achievements. All Susies except a handful of Columbia girls are in residence halls, of which there are 20. These are the basic units of campus organization and supervision for the students. There is a program of counseling, which extends to and beyond the academic and the vocational.

There is, for example, the series of interlocking clinics—another Stephens "first"—from which a Susie may seek personal assistance in just about every phase of her personal life from health to personality problems.

Another unique feature of Stephens is that it is a one-fee college, with flight training the only exception. Riding or music, for example, and such individual services as the clinic consultations, are included in the fee. Stephens has the largest riding school in the country.

For the present Stephens Susies stick close to the campus, but they find it a vast and pleasant campus to stick to. There is a nine hole golf course, a 17 acre lake for boating or swimming, and a country club for chaperoned outings. On week-ends they have hall parties or dance in the stately ballroom in Lela Raney Wood hall, with civilian or soldier students from the University of Missouri nearby, or Kemper Military academy, in Booneville.

Stephens Susies come from all over the country, the largest sectional group being from Illinois.

WHAT'S SHE GOT?

By ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

(Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

WOMEN long have been scrutinizing their sister in the public eye, asking themselves what she has that they haven't got, and attempting to pattern themselves after her.

Mary Smith of Arizona is sure that if she had the exotic oval face of Merle Oberon no boy could resist her. Katie Brown, 'way down east in Maine, yearns for the slim poignancy of Bette Davis, while Jane in southwest Texas wants the still, classic beauty of Joan Fontaine. Perhaps at different times all three girls would like to be all three actresses, and to this end they ape the makeup, clothes, and manners of their models with more or less success, usually less, since the better they copy others the less they are themselves.

Bette Davis . . . slim poignancy.

Merle Oberon . . . exotic oval face.

But if to imitate is to lose identity, to learn from others that which may be applied with advantage to one's self is eminently desirable. A prominent movie director suggests this is how American girls should employ Hollywood as a model.

Screen and stage actresses, to be the ideal, should combine perfect figure, beautiful face, fascinating personality, youthful appearance, real deep-seated happiness, but the director rates personality or glamor, and poise or posture, first and second, as qualities which all top Hollywood actresses have in common.

Posture, insists the director, goes hand in hand with personality to give the illusion of beauty. If he had to decide what next made a vivid impression in an interview with a future star, the director says it would be voice. Fans may well study the beautiful tones and clear articulation of some of our best movie actresses and try to cultivate their own voices and speech.

"Last, but not least," says the director, "watch good actresses make their hands work attractively for them. Hands can be large or small as long as they are well groomed, but they should have personality, be interesting, give some indication of the character of the owner. They should not flutter, but should be kept in repose when not in use. Good actresses use few gestures, and those are really important and count in the story they are telling. This paucity of gesture with hands goes for face and body, too. Don't try to escape awkwardness by artificial movements which add no force or beauty to your conversation," the director admonishes.

THE LYON'S ROAR

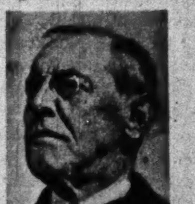
a jury of respectable men." In the stagecoach in which he rode to Richmond, Chase was quoted as saying to a fellow passenger who told him Callender had once been arrested on a vagrancy charge, "It's a pity they did not hang the rascal."



Woodrow Wilson

George Hay, a young lawyer who was later to achieve fame as prosecutor in the trial of Aaron Burr, volunteered to help in the defense in spite, says Beveridge, of the fact that "he 'despised' his adopted client." It was for the sake of the constitutional principle involved that he felt it his duty to serve. Another volunteer was William Wirt. But Judge Chase ridiculed them both, overruled their motions, laughed at their arguments, and rushed the case along to its preordained conclusion. Under the court's instructions Callender was convicted and sentenced to nine months' imprisonment plus a fine of $200.

There was a storm of popular indignation and Chase was called "an American Jeffreys." Beveridge calls him "the ferret" of the national judiciary.

The sedition act expired by its own time limit in 1801, and Thomas Jefferson, who succeeded Adams as President, pardoned the victims of the hated law, saying:

"I considered and now consider that law to be a nullity, as absolute and as palpable as if congress had ordered us to fall down and worship a golden image, and that it was as much my duty to arrest its execution in every stage as it would have been to have rescued from the fiery furnace those who should have been cast into it for refusing to worship the image."

John Marshall, America's first great jurist, who had witnessed with dismay the conduct of Judge Chase in the Callender case, condemned the sedition act and voted in congress against its revival. Madison called the law "a monster" and said it would "forever disgrace its parents."

Many years later Woodrow Wilson said:

"The sedition act cut perilously near to the root of freedom of speech and of the press. There was no telling where such exercises of power would stop. Their only limitations and safeguards lay in the temper and good sense of the President and the attorney general. Protests came from every part of the country and grew ominously in volume from month to month."

Beveridge (in his biography of Marshall) said the convictions aroused in the people a feeling that no man was safe who assumed to criticize national officials.

The house of representatives in March, 1804, adopted a resolution of impeachment against Judge Chase, but when he was tried he escaped conviction because of the rule requiring a two-thirds vote instead of a majority. Henry Adams commented:

"The case proved impeachment to be an impracticable thing for partisan purposes."

Chase resumed his place on the bench and held it until his death six years later.

THEY LEARN RADIO

Graphic Laboratory of Popular Science

By WALTER SIMMONS

Sioux Falls, S. D.

KHAKI-CLAD P. F. C.'s filed out into the corridor with sighs of relief when the smoking break finally came. A youngster shook his blond head gloomily. "I'll never learn code," he moaned softly. "Eighteen words a minute they want. I'll be here for the duration."

A sergeant with rows of combat ribbons on his chest moved over and gave the boy a friendly nudge. "Listen," he said; "not many months ago I thought the same thing myself. But I did all right by just listening and trying to get along. You can do the same."

Other G. I.'s crowded around respectfully to get in on the conversation. "Pardon me, Sergeant Marder," said one. "How many words a minute does a radio man have to handle in a big bomber under combat conditions?"

"Not as many as you'd think," said the chunky sergeant. "Twelve or 14 would be about average, I guess. But you need a little surplus in case of emergency."

"Is it true," asked another private, "that the life of a gunner is only a few seconds in combat?"

The sergeant had to laugh. "You've got as much chance as an infantryman, if not more," he said. "I put in 409 combat hours and came out without a scratch. But lots of fellows ask me that question. They like to be radio men and gunners, but they don't want to fly."

"Are the Japs really smart?" asked the first G. I. "A guy hears so much he doesn't know what to believe."

"Get the idea out of your head that you're a better man than the enemy," said the sergeant. "He's hard and cruel and plenty cagey. But if you stick to your knitting here you're going to be better trained. Don't forget that."

Tech. Sgt. Hyman Marder, 24-year-old Philadelphian, is a guinea pig in the army air forces' training laboratory. Assigned to the A. A. F. training command technical school at the Sioux Falls, S. D., army air field, his job is to go thru the 20 week radio course as a helpful observer. Green students, fresh from civilian life, knowing nothing of radio except how to twist the knobs, ask him hundreds of questions a day. "Know how" that he picked up the hard way is transferred to men whose chances of surviving will be much greater than his ever were.

"What's it like in combat, Sarge?" he is often asked, or "How did you get those medals?"

Sergeant Marder's chestful of ribbons includes the silver star, distinguished flying cross, and air medal. The D. F. C. was awarded for 200 combat hours and the air medal for 100 additional hours. The silver star is another story—one that students like to hear.

TECH. SGT. HYMAN MARDER

A single B-17 Flying Fortress was sent over Rabaul on a reconnaissance mission, and Sergeant Marder was its radio man. Finding the port closed in a by a low ceiling, the Fort dropped audaciously to 2,000 feet right over the center of the harbor. Despite heavy flak and an attack by 20 Zeros, it got perfect pictures. Three Zeros were shot down, the sergeant getting one.

Tech. Sgt. A. H. McDonald

Tech. Sgt. R. J. Postier

Tech. Sgt. Sebastian Vogel

Tech. Sgt. Chas. McKettrick

On the way home to Moresby the bomber photographed enemy positions near Buna and was jumped again. This time the tail gunner got two Zeros, the top turret man one.

"Our pictures showed 104 enemy ships in Rabaul harbor," says Sergeant Marder. "Next day our bombers got 90,000 tons of shipping there."

Hundreds of seasoned combat veterans are now being used as instructors by the air forces in dozens of technical training schools. At least a hundred—many more than could be named here—are serving at the Sioux Falls school. Even the most indifferent student pays close attention when these men start talking. It's the universal tribute to the man who knows his stuff.

High-powered liaison equipment used for instruction in the A. A. F. training command at Sioux Falls is studied by a group of students.

At Sioux Falls are instructors with experience in almost every combat theater. Staff Sgt. Owen D. Theophilus, Jackson, Minn., spent two years in the fog-wrapped Aleutians, where radio operators—by using their radio compasses—brought the bombers home if navigators' equipment was inadequate, due to weather and other factors.

Master Sgt. Donald T. Ostlund, Superior, Wis., wears eight ribbons on his chest, and his principal job is to relate his combat experiences to students. At 26 he has the silver star, distinguished flying cross, Purple Heart, air medal with oak leaf cluster, and four group Presidential citations.

He twice manned his guns after being wounded. On a mission out of New Guinea he was hit and blinded in one eye by blood. The B-17 was holed 16 times by cannon fire, half its stabilizer was blown off, two of its engines knocked out, and its radio equipment demolished. But it got home.

Such men are valuable in the field, but more useful at home as instructors. Tech. Sgt. Sebastian Vogel, Fargo, N. D., escaped after being shot down over occupied Europe. His six ribbons include the air medal and Purple Heart. He had the doubtful pleasure of hanging by one foot from the bomb bay of a B-17 and looking down on France, 27,000 feet below.

Staff Sgt. Anthony A. Borrelli, Rochester, N. Y., illustrates the continuing improvement of air forces training methods. For 10 months he was an assistant radio man-photographer-gunner in the Australian theater. Now he's back home, learning—of all things!—to be a radio operator. "I'd have been a radio chief there if I knew what I've learned here," he comments.

Tech. Sgt. Anderson A. McDonald, 23, of Atlanta, Ga., was Maj. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle's radio operator on that historic first raid on Rome. He also took part in the A. A. F.'s first daylight strike on the continent, Aug. 17, 1942. A dozen Fortresses bombed Rouen, France, returning undamaged with proof that daylight bombing was practical.

McDonald was decorated for an outstanding act of gallantry. His ship, its tail torn out over Palermo, was coming in for a crash landing. He stood in his camera pit, cranking the flaps down by hand. If the plane had landed while he was in this position his legs would have been cut off at the knees.

Sergeant McDonald is a barracks chief in the Covert training unit, where students spend their last week in a camouflaged outdoor area under simulated overseas conditions.

Another Covert training instructor with combat "know how" is Tech. Sgt. Charles McKettrick, 27, of Long Beach, Cal., a South Pacific veteran who holds the distinguished flying cross and air medal with oak leaf cluster. A third is Tech. Sgt. Richard J. Postier, 24, of Rochester, Minn. He racked up 25 successful missions over Germany and occupied territory, bringing back the distinguished flying cross, air medal with three oak leaf clusters, and Purple Heart. (He was wounded by flak over St. Lazaire, France.)

Always changing, always improving, the A. A. F.'s radio training methods today are unrecognizable to veterans turned out two or more years ago. Col. O. L. Rogers, commanding officer of the Sioux Falls school, explains: "The enemy is smart. We've got to be smarter. What's good enough today is no good tomorrow."

And Lucien Lelong Face Powder is just the lily-textured, stay-on powder for this face, throat and shoulder makeup . . . a powder that perfumes deliciously, that clings with the cool, light touch of a blossom.

So—with portrait throat-lines coming on your summer cottons with halter-dresses that bare your silky shoulders—lift your pretty chin and powder, powder, powder down to there!

GRAPHIC LITTLE THEATER Presents "THE UNINVITED"

1 A music critic (Ray Milland) and his sister (Ruth Hussey) decide to buy old Windward house.

2 After they are settled they hear strange weeping during the night.

3 Against his better judgment the new owner decides something supernatural is going on. He questions the original owner (Donald Crisp).

4 He learns that the old man's granddaughter (Gail Russell) once lived in the house and that her former nurse, now a mental sanitarium operator (Cornelia Otis Skinner) is attempting to break down the girl's mind for some reason.

5 A story of love, jealousy, and intrigue is uncovered. But no explanation can be found for the strange happenings. With the help of the village doctor (Alan Napier) they stage a seance with the girl going into trance.

6 The grandfather begins to tell the true story but dies of fright when he sees a ghost.

7 At left: The girl becomes ill, believing her dead mother is trying to reach her. But the doctor finds the clew to the hauntings in an old medical case book.

8 At right: The girl finds happiness with the new owner of her old home.

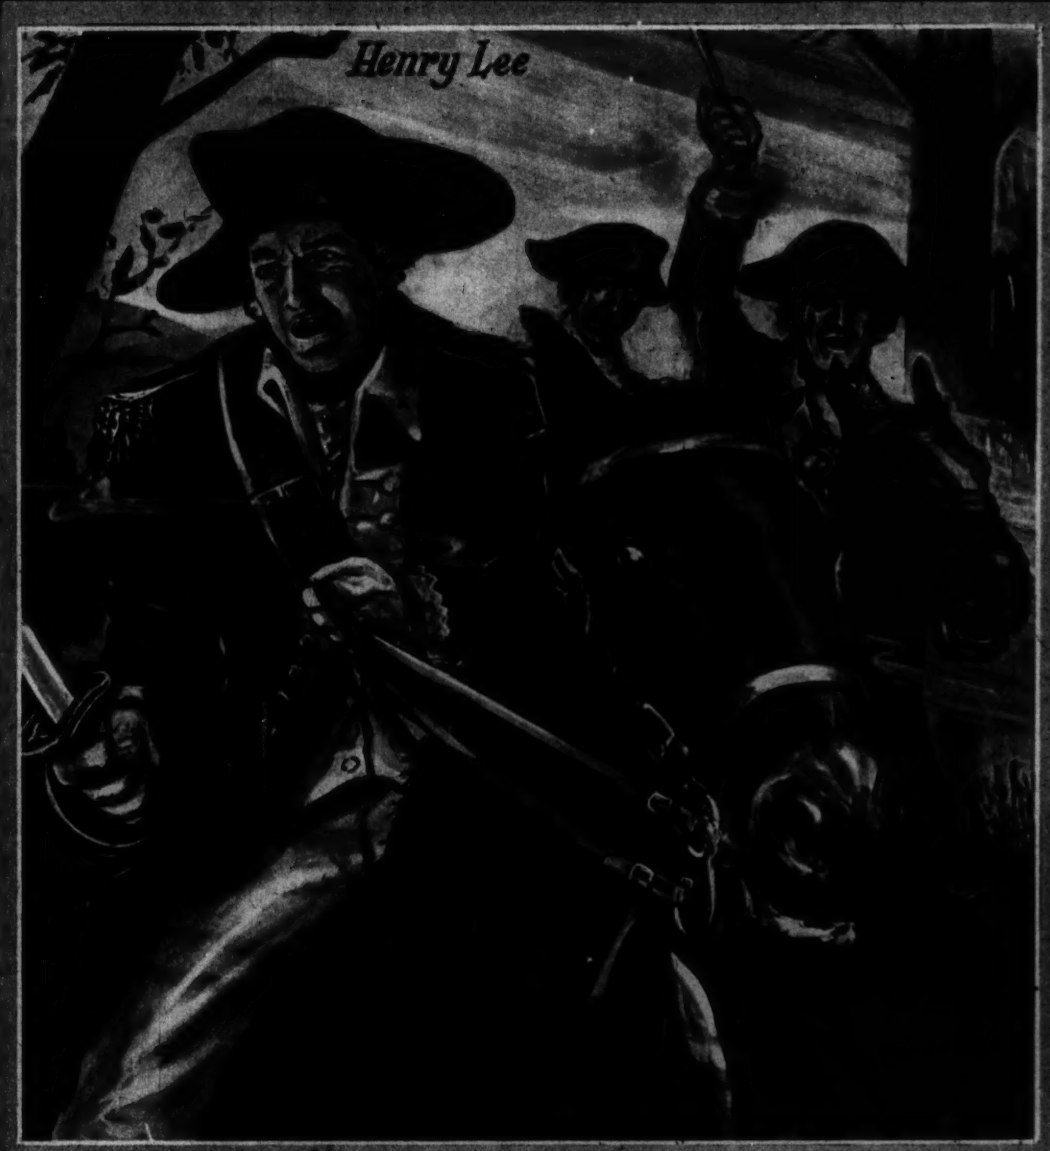
ROMANTIC FIGURES of AMERICAN HISTORY



The dramatic illustration above, by Clara Fargo Thomas and Alexander Vornak, is another of the series appearing currently in this section with biographical sketches.

CELEBRATED among American cavalry leaders of the Revolutionary war was Henry Lee, a heroic Virginian who was an undaunted fighter and a great favorite of General Washington. Better known as Light-Horse Harry Lee, he was first of all a soldier, yet in civilian life he was far above the average as an orator and as a man of letters was able to attain considerable distinction. But he lacked the qualities that would have made him a successful business man.

He was born Jan. 29, 1756, at Leesylvania, Prince William county, Va., and was graduated from the College of New Jersey (now Princeton university) in 1773. He had planned to study law in England, but the impending war with the British caused him to alter his plans. He was appointed captain of a Virginia cavalry company in 1776, and in April of the following year he joined Washington's army with the troopers under his command.

Early in 1778 he was elevated to major and given command of three troops of cavalry and three companies of infantry which came to be known as Lee's legion. With this force on Aug. 19, 1779, he captured the enemy stronghold at Paulus Hook, on the present site of Jersey City, N. J. This was one of the most brilliant exploits of the war.

In 1780 Lee was ordered to join Gen. Nathanael Greene's army in the south. By this time he was a lieutenant colonel. In Greene's famous retreat across North Carolina in February, 1781, it was Lee's cavalry that protected the American rear. At Guilford Court House on March 15 of the same year he fought a brilliant action, and at Eutaw Springs, on the following Sept. 18, he saved the American army from defeat. Lee was present at Yorktown when Cornwallis surrendered on Oct. 19, 1781.

In 1785 he was sent to the continental congress, where with one short interruption he served for three years. As a member of the Virginia convention in 1788 he supported and voted for the new federal Constitution. From 1792 to 1795 he was governor of Virginia. While in this office, in 1794, he was selected by Washington to lead the army to put down the Whisky rebellion in Pennsylvania. This he did without loss of life. From 1798 to 1800 he was a major general. In 1799 he was elected to congress, and it was he who drew up the resolutions at the death of Washington which contained the celebrated lines, "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen." Lee repeated this phrase in his Washington memorial oration in Philadelphia on Dec. 26, 1799.

Residing at his estate, Stratford, after his retirement from public life, Lee lived as a country gentleman, his expenditures being far greater than his income. This forced him into debt, and in 1808 and 1809 he was compelled to undergo imprisonment for debt. While in prison he wrote "Memoirs of the War in the Southern Department of the United States." This was published in two volumes in 1812.

In the meantime, however, in 1811, he had gone to live in Alexandria, Va. While on a visit to Baltimore in 1812 he tried to defend a newspaper plant from a mob, was placed in jail, and was severely injured when the mob was admitted to the jail. This injury seriously affected his health.

Without means and in a broken physical condition, he obtained aid from the government and sailed to the West Indies, in the hope that the warm climate there would restore him. He remained there several years, until he realized that death was near. On his return to America he was put ashore at Cumberland Island, Georgia, where he was cared for by a daughter of his old commander, General Greene. Death overtook him there on March 25, 1818.

Gen. Robert E. Lee, commander of the Confederate army in the Civil war, was a son, by a second marriage, of Henry Lee.

MEN CRAWLED FROM FLAMING TANKS...AND LIVED!

The desert battle raged . . . from Tobruk to El Alamein and back again. Men went through a hell of bursting bombs, a torment of flaming fire.

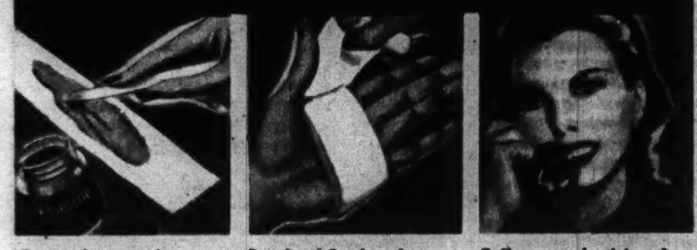
Casualties poured into the base hospital receiving the burn victims. Doctors shook their heads. Careful cleansing of all the burned surfaces was out of the question. Facilities simply were not available.

But Petrolatum was! Working furiously, Army doctors used it in the surface treatment* . . . yes, even in the "worst cases of burns"—the burns from fighting in tanks. And so effective did this treatment prove that it is reported at length in the leading British medical journal.

Naturally, in the most serious of these cases blood plasma and sulfa drugs played an important part in recovery.* But once again—clinical evidence—born of battle—points to the effectiveness of Petrolatum . . . better known to millions as 'Vaseline' Petroleum Jelly.

This is important news to every home in America where minor burns are an everyday problem. Keep a jar or tube of 'Vaseline' Petroleum Jelly always on hand. And when you buy, look for the trademark VASELINE . . . It is your guarantee of absolute purity.

FIRST AID TREATMENT OF EVERYDAY BURNS IN YOUR HOME



Cover fine mesh gauze with 'Vaseline' Petroleum Jelly and place on burn.

Bandage firmly—but not too tightly.

Call your physician immediately if burn is deep or covers a wide area.

Temperament That Backfired

An incident from the life of John Barrymore, taken from the book "Good Night, Sweet Prince."

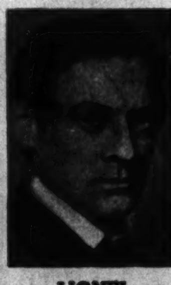
By GENE FOWLER

(Copyright, 1943, 1944, by Gene Fowler. Reprinted by arrangement with the Viking Press, Inc.)

Below are the stars of "Peter Ibbetson"; the episode narrated on this page occurred during a performance of that celebrated play. It was Miss Collier's untiring sponsorship of "Peter Ibbetson" that won managerial backing for the production in 1917. The play established John Barrymore, who had the title role, as a romanticist; and it was almost as great a triumph for Lionel, who played the wicked Colonel Ibbetson. The photographs reproduced date from the World War I. period.

JOHN BARRYMORE

CONSTANCE COLLIER



LIONEL BARRYMORE

THERE was one instance in which Barrymore did not come out on top when reprimanding a cougher. He was playing a love scene against a background of soft music. The theater always was intensely silent during this episode. But tonight a man in the fourth or fifth row coughed.

Jack left off reading his lines. He glared at the offender. Then he returned to the scene. The man coughed again. Now Jack stepped back from Constance Collier and really glared at the man. He gazed so unblinkingly, so fiercely, that the man stirred, then got up from his seat. Slowly and clumsily he reached the aisle. His progress up the aisle was quite noisy from the thumping drag of his crutches.

The fact that he had embarrassed a cripple greatly upset Barrymore. He was remorseful and shaken. For a long time thereafter he did not pay attention to noises from the audience. At least, he made certain not to single out a crippled person for his glares or his remarks.

Some weeks afterward, however, and in another city, he lost his temper entirely. It was at the end of the first act. At this point in the play Peter picked up the duchess of Towers' bouquet. After looking at it tenderly for a long moment he pressed the flowers to his lips. Then he murmured, "L'amour." It was one of the most touching scenes in the play. It sent the ladies into near-swoons.

On this particular evening some girl in the gallery, hysterical with delight, giggled. Jack called out: "Damn it! If you think you can play this better than I can, come on down and do it."

He hurled the bouquet into the audience. It struck a woman in the face. The curtain fell. Barrymore stomped off-stage to his dressing room to lock himself inside it.

Sounds of outrage came from the audience. Miss Collier was dismayed to hear high-pitched voices filtering thru the curtain. The actors stood in their places on the stage as if paralyzed. Then the manager of the theater, purple and blowing, charged around from the pass door.

"I'll bring a damage suit against you!" he shouted at Miss Collier. "Barrymore has ruined the reputation of my theater. I'll not allow you to fulfill your engagement for the remainder of the week. My God! Nobody is safe with this man. I'll have him barred from every——"

He paused to regain his wind. The actress took this opportunity to beg the manager to allow the curtain to rise for the second act. He said no. The audience would throw things.

"They're sitting out there now, desperate and waiting," he said. "Peek out at 'em. You'll see. They're like a sheriff's posse."

Miss Collier did peer out to observe the audience waiting as if to exercise some terrible judgment. She finally persuaded the manager to allow the curtain to rise. He recommended that Miss Collier make a speech of apology and offer to return all box office moneys to the patrons. She declined to do this.

"All right, then," the manager warned, "but if you're killed don't say I didn't tell you."

There had been half an hour's delay. Jack refused to come out of his dressing room. No threats could move him. Finally Miss Collier informed him that he really had injured an inoffensive woman in the audience and that the victim's eye had been bandaged.

"In that case," Barrymore said, "ring up the curtain."

The curtain rose for the second act. It seemed remarkable that so few persons had left the theater or asked for their money back. There was the type of quietness that obtains before a prison riot. The slight plop of a moth against a spotlight slide sounded like a howitzer shell in the challenging silence.

Jack's entrance did not occur until halfway thru the second act. Ordinarily, before this appearance of Peter, there were moments of laughter or handclappings. Tonight there was no laughter, no applause. Silence.

The cast was terrified. The suspense led Miss Collier to issue whispered instructions of an "abandon ship" nature. She admonished the crew to lower the curtain the moment the audience began to tear Jack apart.

The moment arrived, and Jack arrived with the moment. He entered with profound self-assurance. He was casual. He might have been on his way to a church, so poised was he. And now the presence that mysteriously was his on any stage, and always would be strangely his, spread its electric influence over the whole house.

He received the wildest sort of applause. Cheers even, and the waving of women's kerchiefs.

It is said that the manager of the theater sank to his knees, either to pray or to keep from collapsing on his face. No one was sued. The play could have gone on for weeks to capacity business in that city.

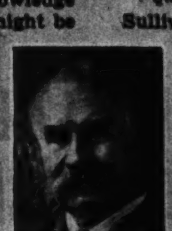
"H. M. S. PINAFORE"

"H. M. S. Pinafore" will be presented on the Chicago Theater of the Air Saturday, April 8, on W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual network from 8 to 9 p. m. (C.W.T.), starring Marion Claire.

By ALBERT GOLDBERG

IT IS EASY to be scornful, looking backward, over the mistakes critics and public have made in their original estimates of artistic productions. Examples are legion, one of the most inexplicable being Gilbert and Sullivan's "H. M. S. Pinafore, or The Lass That Loved a Sailor," which the indifference of the London public of 1878 almost permitted to pass into oblivion. Shortly after the opening the weather turned hot, and the Opera Comique (Victorian England doted on foreign phrases and titles) was empty. Members of the company went thru their parts with the doleful knowledge that each performance might be the last. The singers, however, had faith in "Pinafore," and when they offered to accept a one-third reduction of their salaries the management agreed. Ironically, business at once improved, the accepted explanation being that the canny Arthur Sullivan, having been appointed conductor of the Promenade concerts at Covent Garden, placed on his programs a potpourri of "Pinafore" airs, which so tickled English ears that it had to be repeated three times. As a consequence the public thronged to the Opera Comique to see what the whole opera was like, the net result being that "Pinafore" stayed on the boards for two full years.



W. S. Gilbert

"Pinafore" was the fourth collaboration of the caustic W. S. Gilbert and the elegant Arthur Sullivan, having been preceded by "Thespis," "Trial by Jury," and "The Sorcerer," and it was their first great success. Despite public acclamation—and an equal success in the United States, where a pirated version caused great monetary loss to the authors—it found less favor at the court of Queen Victoria. That estimable lady had just appointed as first lord of the admiralty one William H. Smith, a gentleman whose unfamiliarity with the ocean was said to be monumental. Official feelings were therefore not soothed when Gilbert's Sir Joseph Porter sang:

When I was a lad I served a term
As office boy to an attorney's firm;
I cleaned the windows and I swept the floor
And I polished up the handle of the big front door.
I polished that handle so carefullee
That now I am the ruler of the queen's navee!

Sullivan, being merely the composer, was evidently not held culpable, for five years later he was knighted. Gilbert, however, was never forgiven. When, years later, a command performance of "The Gondoliers" was given at Windsor castle—the first after Prince Albert's death—the librettist's name was reprovingly omitted from the official program. Gilbert had to wait until 1907 for knightly honors, when Edward VII. unbent to forgive and forget.

The plot of "Pinafore" is from the file labeled "kidnaped and exchanged babies," a repository of many excellent entries, one of the foremost being Verdi's "Il Trovatore." But Captain Corcoran, Ralph Rackstraw, Dick Deadeye, Josephine, and Little Buttercup are remembered less by what happens to them than by the saucy lyrics and jaunty melodies of "I'm Called Little Buttercup," "A Maiden Fair to See," "Sorry Her Lot," "I Am the Monarch of the Sea," "Refrain, Audacious Tar," "Fair Moon, to Thee I Sing," "Things Are Seldom What They Seem," "He Is an Englishman," and others as fresh today as when they first charmed our not so distant ancestors.

How Do You Rate? Here's the Key!

By MAUREEN DALY (Author of "Seventeenth Summer.")

If she saves your letters, you're on the top of the list.

"WE ARE five boys, all seniors in high school, who have the same problems most high school fellows are facing. How can a fellow tell when a girl really likes him? So many of the gals just put on a good act."

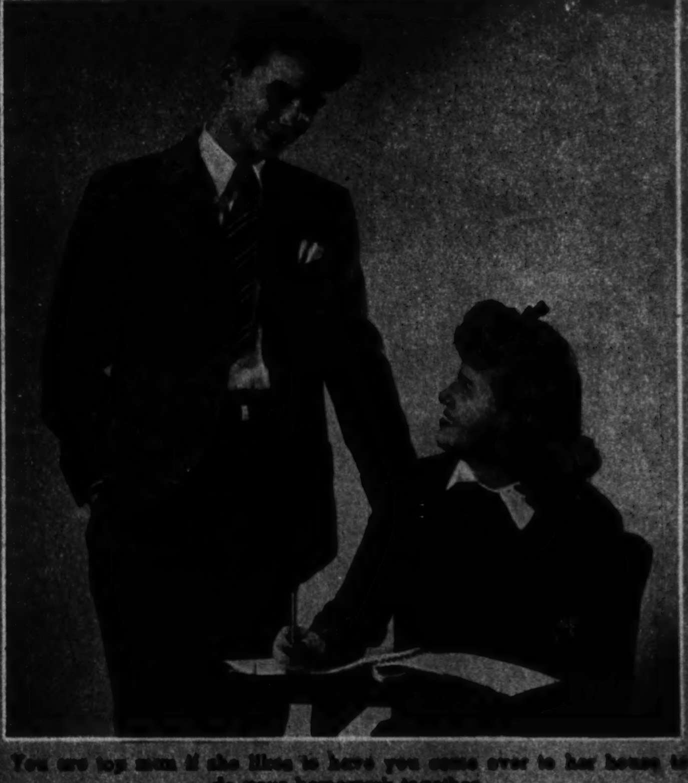
Here's a sketchy list of "she loves you, she loves you nots." Just give it the once over lightly and see what kind of a score you rate with your current sweet stuff.

You're better than Sinatra—If she turns down two other Joes just to wait for you to ask for a date for Friday night; if you make a date for 8 o'clock sharp and she's all ready to go by 7:45; if she wears that pink dress again tonight just because you mentioned that you liked it so much last week; if the honey chile accepts your class ring the first time you ask her to wear it and if she wears it all the time—even when she's out with other boys; if she's a jitterbug at heart but says she likes slow music best just because you like it; if she thinks it's silly to be jealous, "because she knows you too well"; if she remembers the first time you met, the first date you had together, and each date seems more fun than the last; if she saves your letters; if she'd rather eat peanuts in a movie with you than spend a bright-lights-and-music evening with any one else; if she tells you she wishes you wouldn't wear that plaid shirt and bow tie combination on a date, because she wants you to impress her mother when you pick her up; if her favorite song is "My Shining Hour," because that's your favorite song; if she'll wait an extra half hour after school till you finish your history assignment in the library just so you can walk home with her; if she saved the flower you gave her for the school dance and wore it in her hair when she came to school on Monday.

You're top man—If she tries to make your best friend like her, too, because she knows that you value his opinion; if she likes to dance every dance; if you can call her for a last-minute date just half an hour ahead of time and she's ready by the time you get to her house; if she tries to arrange her nights with the girls on the nights that you are busy, too; if occasionally she says, "Let's go out by ourselves tonight," when you suggest doubling with some one from the crowd; if she makes it a point to be at home to get your 7 o'clock call; if she listens attentively and remembers everything you've said when you tell her what you plan to do when you get out of the army; if she doesn't try to attract other fellows' attention when she's out with you; if she wears that bracelet that you gave her for her birthday; if you know you can trust her with any secret; if she never breaks a date; if she likes to have you come over to her house to do your homework together; if she tells you she's proud of you when you get good grades in school; if she cut that picture of you out of the yearbook and carries it around in her purse; if neither of you mentions going steady, but it's "just one of those things."

But get ready for the brush-off— If she begins to say, "I'm busy Friday and Saturday nights, but let's do something on Saturday afternoon, shall we?"; if she spends half the evening telling you about the wonderful dates she had last week with two other Jacksons; if she wants to exchange partners every other dance; if she gives you back your class ring because "her mother doesn't like to have her wear boys' rings"; if she leaves you when you get to a party and you don't see her again till it's time to go home; if she'd rather go out with the girls on a Friday night; if she tells you that you look sort of silly in the kind of clothes you wear; if she promised to give you a snapshot of herself and then forgets all about it; if you catch her scouring the field over your shoulder while you're dancing; if she gives you that "I'm sleepy, so let's go home early" routine on every date; if she keeps saying she wishes you were taller; and—if she would just as soon dance to "Mairzy Doats" as "Stardust" with you—that's all, brother!

(Copyright: 1944: The Chicago Tribune.)



You are top man if she likes to have you come over to her house to do your homework together.

was budded, and the honeysuckle and rambler roses had jumped the gun by showing fresh new green leaves. Since that day the shadow of a puffy white cloud moving across the landscape seems to be Spring herself dancing over the hills.

Each day brings new beauty in an Ozark spring time. The redbud trees are still wearing their red-purple flowers when the dogwood blossoms begin flaunting their great creamy petals. Along with them come the ice cream pink of wild crabapple blooms and the whipped cream of wild plum and red haw trees. Long-stemmed violets carpet the moist, leafy woodlands, and beside Jack's fork masses of bluebells form a pink and blue fairyland. Even the breath-taking loveliness of wild pink azaleas can be found in many spots. (You might make a note on your post-war calendar to attend the West Plains, Mo., azalea festival.)

Wild blackberry and dewberry vines frost the ridges with their white blossoms—the promise of luscious blue-black berries as big as your thumb that can be yours for the picking, come June! Along the roadsides yellow cosmoslike daisies lift their sunny faces to passersby. And one can understand why hill people would like to keep such heart-warming beauty unspoiled for themselves, their children, and their children's children.

Birds are another spring time joy. The topknotted cardinal, which has been a bit dull all winter, suddenly appears in a flame-colored zoot suit. Even the bluebird loses a bit of his round-shouldered look as he preens his new rose-colored vest. A brown thrush is startled out of the thicket and flies along the narrow lane in long, looping scallops. A half dozen showy black and white pilated woodpeckers, with scarlet crests, noisily stage a bug hunting contest just outside the front gate, and a flock of robins, out of nowhere, suddenly fill the drab chicken yard with spring! Then one night at twilight the mockingbirds return—and all thru the night there's such glorious singing from the top of the hickory tree that the hills seem to be in a world of their own—a world filled with music and silver moonlight.

Now, we say, spring is really here. And, like all good Ozarkians, we check on our fishing equipment first and our farm equipment second.

Fishing is one of the chief diversions of hill people. Live bait fishing is favored, because one can sit or even lie in the shade to do his fishing. The streams of the Ozarks provide pan fish sweeter than any other fish in the world—say Ozarkians. And the fight put up by even a pint-sized fish lends great excitement to the sport. With streams like Jack's fork, where the depth changes at every bend, the wise fisherman knows every hole, every buried log, every swirling inlet that might attract fish. Armed with this knowledge, he can catch a bucket of "minnies" or dig a canful of worms, cut himself a hickory pole, tie a line and a hook on it, and catch enough black bass, goggle eyes, perch, or other fish to form the basis of the year's best fish stories.

The Ozarks might be called the last frontier. Thousands upon thousands of wooded acres lie waiting for something to be done about them. This land can be purchased at fabulously low real estate prices. However, the opportunities for making the equivalent of city wages on that land are just as low. To avoid disappointment we always advise the buyer of Ozark land to make a trip to the hills to pick out his farm. He will buy one, all right—for the peace and quiet of wooded hills silhouetted against a blue sky are the balm for which city-jangled nerves are crying. But it may not be the farm the real estate dealer had picked out for him.

Who am I to talk? you say. And you're right! My husband and I bought an Ozark farm, sight unseen, back in 1935. We had been thru one depression, and we wanted to make sure of a roof over our heads if another one came along. We paid $1,000 (all the money we had) for a 40 acre farm described as fully productive, with good house, good cellar, and substantial barn. When we saw the farm for the first time the following summer the 40 acres were drouth-burned to a crisp, the house was of logs and leaked like a sieve, the barn leaned to port side, and there was a snake in the cellar.

It took years to get things under control.

Farming in the Ozarks is not done on the typical midwestern scale. Usually the Ozark farmer tries to raise only enough grain to feed his own live stock—which may be nothing more than a cow and a mule or two. Since this is open range, most farmers allow their pigs to run loose and forage for acorns in the woods. We do not profess to be farmers; Sunrise Mountain Farm (now 160 acres) is largely sowed to lespedeza for pasture purposes and we do little or no grain planting. The Jedge says he hates to tear up all those little weeds after they have had such a hard time getting started. But we do like country life—particularly country life in the hills. We like the farm animals, the fowls, the birds, the scenery, and our neighbors—particularly the one who calls himself a "retired moonshiner." We like the soft, caressing quality of Ozark spring sunshine, the quiet charm of tall trees, and the joy of a long evening walk over land that is all our own.

To people who have a silly desire to make lots of money we offer this advice: Stay away from the hills! But for a couple with a fixed income, however small, or as a haven for one with a nostalgic urge for a place where (in normal times) it is not considered a crime to take a day—or a whole summer—off to go fishing, we heartily and sincerely recommend the Ozarks.

And do come in the spring time. Somehow the beauty that comes to the hills each year at this time—not because of man, but in spite of him—renews one's faith in God.

DAY BREAKS

WHEN the movies first got Laraine Day she played under her real name, La Raine Johnson. She was a leading lady for George O'Brien in his western thrillers. Then she decided to head for bigger things and changed her name—using the last name of a man who had taught her much during her apprenticeship in the Long Beach, Cal., Theater guild—Elias Day. Her movie career thereupon began in earnest with a role in "I Take This Woman." That led to "Dr. Kildare."

Laraine was a twin, her brother's name being La Mar. They were born on Oct. 13, 1920, on a ranch near Roosevelt, Utah. Their grandfather, Charles S. Rich, was a Mormon apostle. When Laraine was 9 her family moved to California. She's 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 112. Her husband is Ray Hendricks, army flying instructor. Laraine appeared recently with Cary Grant in "Mr. Lucky," and with Gary Cooper in "The Story of Dr. Wassell." She now is working on "The WACs."

MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS BY BOB BECKER

This plump little chow puppy was just 3 months old when it went on exhibition. Its name is Princess Linnchow.

THE CHOW DOG, the breed with the magnificent coat, striking beauty, and perpetual scowl, may rightfully complain that it is misunderstood. Because it doesn't wag its tail every time it sees a stranger and come bounding up to a person with a vociferous greeting, it is commonly called unfriendly. Actually it is naturally aloof and doesn't want to be high-pressured into a friendship. It prefers to make the first advances toward an acquaintanceship. That doesn't mean that it is a total loss socially. It accepts attention, a friendly pat and a little back-scratching, with appreciative dignity.

Whether you are keen about the breed or not, it is truly distinctive—an oriental breed of unusual traits that is very old and has survived the hard way. When we examine the history of the breed we find that practically every characteristic has a logical explanation.

The chow comes from a northern race of dogs. Its ancestors lived in a cold climate where the struggle for existence was anything but easy. Naturally dogs in such a land do not become light-hearted and gay. To live in such a bleak country called for quick wits, minding your own business, and intelligence if you expected to eat. This is a wholly different atmosphere from that which developed our gay-hearted terriers. It's the kind of background which might be expected to produce an aloof individualist like the chow.

The chow may not be called sociable, but few of them are vicious. We recall one handsome old fellow that fished with us many days. This dog was owned by one of our trout-fishing partners. It always accompanied us on trips, for it loved to wade into the stream, pick up the hooked fish, and bring it to the bank like a regular retriever. This dog accepted our attention with friendliness. It apparently liked us but never was demonstrative about its feeling toward us.

Once a chow loves, it loves deeply. And no one can deny that it has courage. It makes a good watchdog without being noisy. Just as we have "liberals" among dogs, so there are "conservatives." The chow is in the latter group.

Originally this unusual dog was very much of an outdoor dog. Today we are apt to think of it as a beautiful house pet or a dog that makes a stunning appearance in a show. Actually it is still being used as a hunting dog in China. For centuries the chow apparently was the principal sporting dog there. This versatile breed also has had to pull sleds and serve as a herding dog.

A miniature pinscher is a 8 to 10 pound version of the Doberman. The breed has been in existence for several centuries. This specimen is Ch. Jezebel v. Rochsburg. It was judged best of breed six times before it was 1 year old.

★ This nicely proportioned Dutch Mill, with shingled framework, stands 4-ft. high. Its sails have a 60-in. span. Its top is pivoted to keep sails headed into the wind. Detailed drawings, some full-sized, are on Craft Pattern No. 216.

A DUTCH MILL FOR POST OR GROUND 218

A TOY-SIZED MILL 217 A FIGHTER PLANE 217

★ Craft Pattern 217 shows complete details for building the 6-in. solid model Dutch mill, and the 15-in. fighter plane windmill. Each is easy to build.

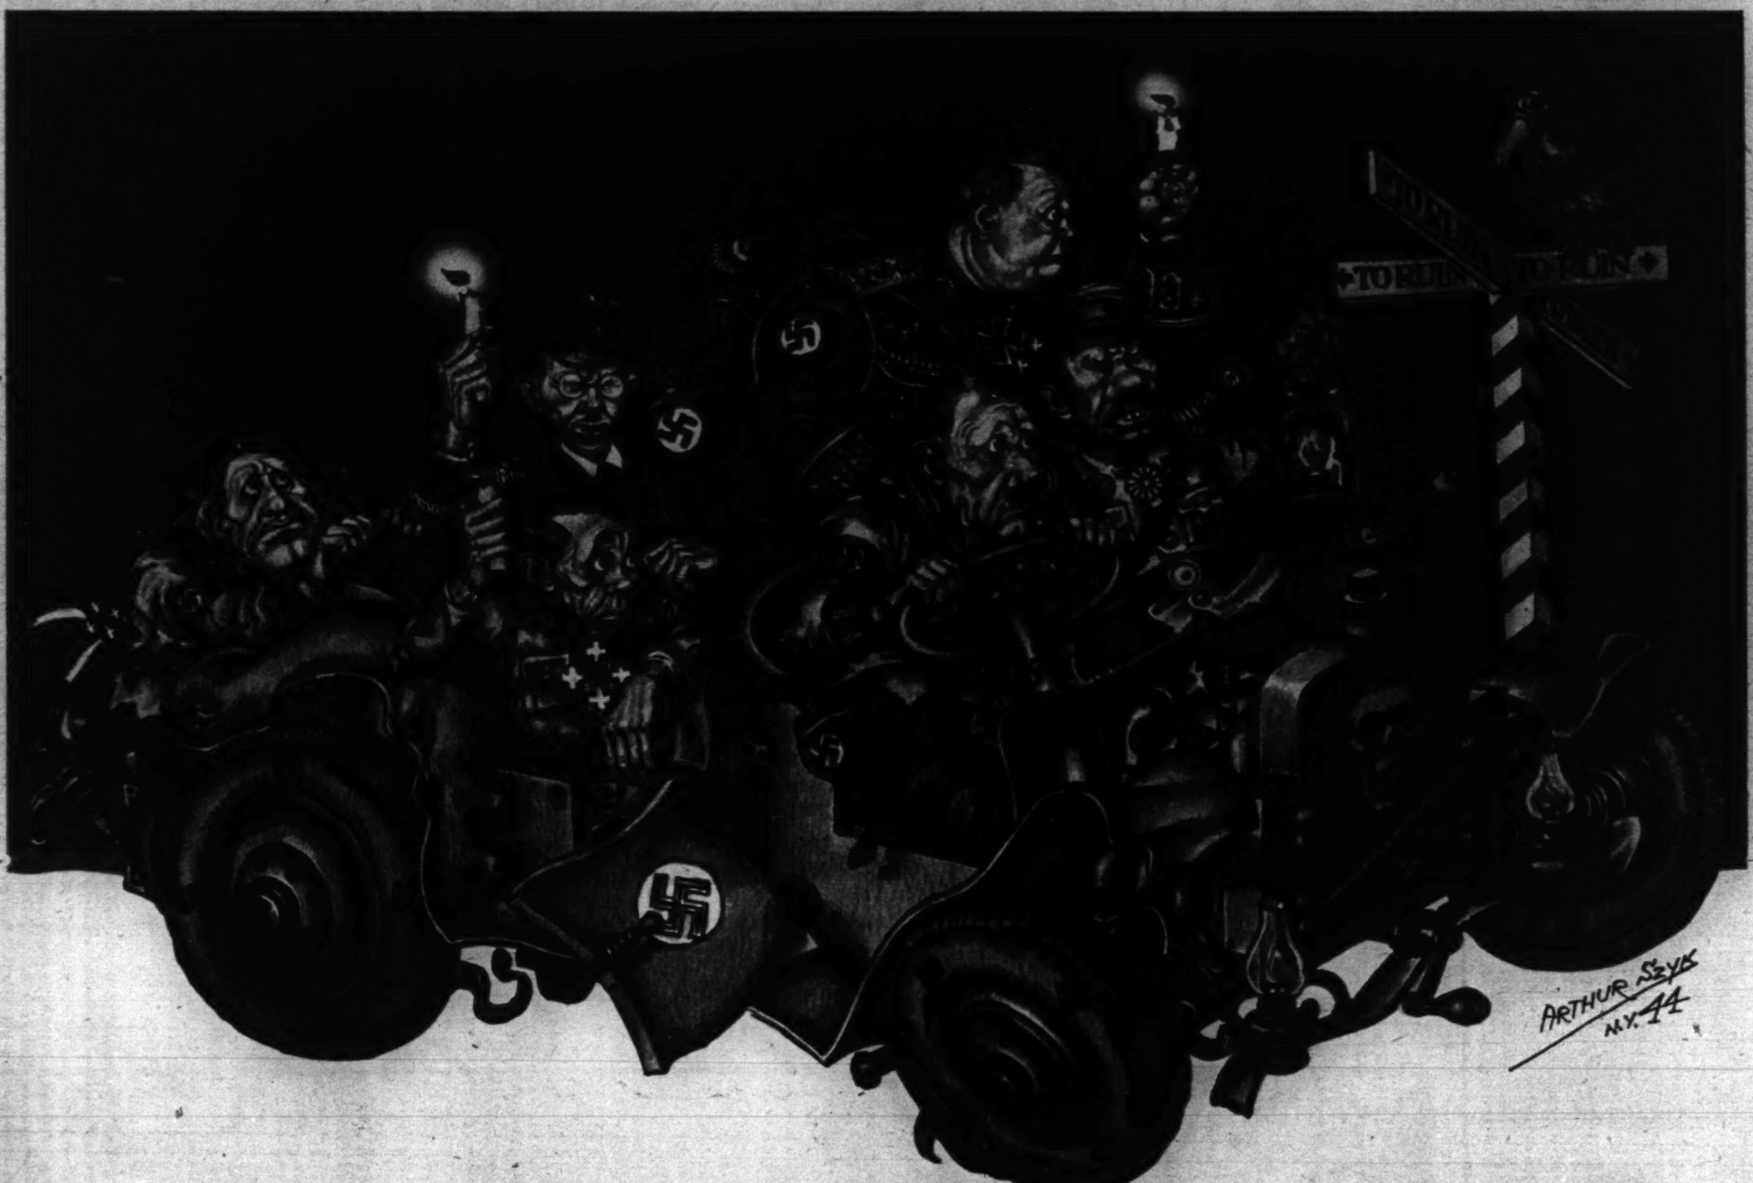
see what happens when you stop CASCO from making auto spotlights?



There was the signpost — big as Goering and twice as gruesome. But you never saw it until too late!

You couldn't have missed it if you'd had a Casco Auto Spotlight!

Just a flick of your finger, Adolf, and the light would have leaped into life—shooting its powerful beam for hundreds of yards into the darkness. And a waggle of the convenient, inner control handle (one of our patented features) would have sent the spot in any direction — up, down, right or left.

But that's not really the point, boys. The point is, this spotlight was just another example of America's habit of making things better — of Casco's habit of doing things in an unusual way.

How could you have examined America's pre-war "luxuries" and not been afraid of what might happen when we got our teeth into war production? Did you think we'd produce ball bullets, muzzle-loaders and flintlocks? Or didn't you think?

The funny part of it is that Casco, like the rest of the country, wasn't ballooning with self-confidence after Pearl Harbor. We weren't at all sure we could switch from such things as auto spotlights, heating pads and auto dashboard cigarette lighters . . . to armor-piercing bullet cores and incendiaries and chemical mortar bombs. And we're still surprised that we're one of the largest bullet component producers in America today.

But once in a while we like to play around with one of our old auto spotlights. Sometimes when we point it 'way off, we think we can see the signpost on America's road—red, white and blue—dancing with colored lights—shooting off skyrockets and ringing triumphant Victory bells—just about the prettiest sight in the whole darn world!

And it's coming closer, Brother Rats! You've almost reached the end of your road! Casco Products Corporation, Bridgeport, Connecticut.

"My complexion had lost its soft, smooth look. So I said 'yes' quick when I was invited to try the new 14-Day Palmolive Plan—along with 1284 other women all over the U.S.A.! "Here's the proved Palmolive Plan: Wash your face 3 times a day with Palmolive Soap. Then—each time—massage your clean face with that lovely, soft Palmolive beauty-lather . . . . just like a cream. Do this for a full 60 seconds. This massage extracts the full beautifying effect from Palmolive lather for your skin. Then rinse and dry. That's all!

"After 14 days, I went back to my doctor. He confirmed what my mirror told me. My skin was smoother, finer, less oily! Later I learned many skin improvements had been observed by all the 36 examining doctors. Actually 2 out of 3 of all the 1285 women got see-able, feel-able results. What has WAR taught us that WOMEN already knew so well?

For years the protecting hand of wax has helped to guard our homes. Women have known how to practice conservation, how to protect surfaces against wear and tear. For floors, furniture and woodwork and in a hundred different ways women have for decades known the protective value of a glowing shield of wax.

Wax is unique. It is chemically inert and impervious to oxidation at normal temperatures. And it can be renewed so easily, to form a continuous coating that gives surfaces almost permanent protection.

But only during this war has industry really discovered what these women of America have known for so long. And today this humble product, wax, has found surprising usefulness in the protection of metal, wood, leather and rubber. Bayonets and shell cases and airplane surfaces—parts of ships, planes and cars—even the fabric of uniforms, tents, webbing—these and many more have been given protection against wear, against the elements, against moisture and corrosion—with special wax finishes made by the makers of Johnson's Wax.

With the peace will come a thousand new uses for these waxes in industry. An important series of brochures, "Wax in the World of Tomorrow," tells of the coming peacetime uses for these new wax finishes. They will be of interest to research, production, maintenance and new-product executives. A letter on your business stationery will bring them to you without obligation.

In the meantime, we have but one job, to give all we can: our work to speed war production; our money to buy war bonds; our will to win the victory.

← GET INTO THE SWING and try this new candy-sensation—Brach's Swing bar. Soldiers, sailors, civilians are swinging to it from coast to coast—making Brach's Swing the fastest-growing candy bar we know of. One taste of its thick, rich chocolate and crunchy peanut center will tell you why!

Our little Palace of Sweets grew into great candy kitchens

Brach
Palace of Sweets
1904

WHEN our family began making candy forty years ago, we made it all in one little candy store named the "Palace of Sweets." As demand for our candies grew, we moved into larger quarters. Finally we built special kitchens, to help us make candy even better than before.

Today many people say the Brach candy-kitchens are the finest in the world. I wish you could see the beautiful, gleaming kettles in our chocolate kitchens, where we make all our own chocolate. I wish you could see our hard candies cooling on shining trays, the bright-colored batches of jelly drops, the Swing bars, caramels and many other candies being made in sunlit, air-conditioned rooms.

We're proud of the Brach candy kitchens—and we're proud that every year more people ask for Brach candies than ever before.

Laughing can make you Healthier!

Ever notice how people who laugh a lot always seem healthy and full of life? Well—there's a very good reason. Laughing exercises the diaphragm, expands the lungs, so that more oxygen than usual passes into the blood. The rate of exposure to oxygen is at least doubled when you laugh heartily, and a surge of power runs from head to toes. That's why you should laugh all you can. And remember: Laughter calls for bright, clean teeth. And Pepsodent Powder makes teeth brighter than any other leading brand—bar none!

it's the truth!

You Can have Brighter Teeth!

Impartial laboratories made hundreds of tests. Scientists checked their findings with photoelectric measuring devices and authorize this statement: Pepsodent Powder produces a lustre on teeth twice as bright as the average of all other leading brands . . . brighter than any of them—bar none! These results have been double-checked by identical twins who made practical in-the-home tests . . . by technicians in dental clinics . . . by dentists in their own offices. The result is always the same: Pepsodent Powder makes teeth far brighter. To make your teeth brighter get Pepsodent Powder today!

Teeth Can change your Personality!

Drawn from an actual case record

Crooked, crowded teeth often do more than mar a person's looks. Frequently, they make that person shy and self-conscious; give an inferiority complex. But this can be corrected. Modern dentistry can do wonders in straightening crooked, misplaced teeth. Or, like the movie stars, you can have chipped and broken teeth recapped. Your dentist will tell you what needs to be done, and how quickly you can expect results.

Yes . . . it's the truth . . . your dentist can help you have sound, good-looking teeth, but it's up to you to keep them clean and bright through careful daily brushing!

Rouge can change the Shape of your face!

When properly used, rouge changes the shape of your face. A round face looks more oval and slender when dark rouge is applied on the outer part of the cheeks, sweeping it toward the temples and down to faintly shade the jaw. Make a long, thin face look shorter by carefully blending light-toned rouge in a circle, in the center of your cheeks. Any shape face, of course, needs sparkling teeth to look its best. So use Pepsodent Powder regularly. It makes teeth far brighter!

She's Engaged to an Air Force Officer

"EVERY GIRL WHO TAKES A WAR JOB helps bring our boys back sooner," Helena says. Her job is inspecting spare parts for airplanes. All kinds of necessary jobs need women—in plants, in stores, in transportation, in restaurants. Won't you see what you can do? Check help wanted ads, consult your local U. S. Employment Service. At the Aeronca Aircraft Corporation where Helena has been since September 1942, about 60% of the workers are women.

Another charming Pond's bride-to-be...

Helena Rausch of Middletown, Ohio is engaged to Lawrence Richard Nelson of Dayton—now "somewhere overseas"

HELENA'S great, great grandparents went West in a covered wagon and settled in Ohio. And now Helena is a pioneer too—one of numbers of lovely Pond's engaged girls who are "war-working" for the safe return of the men they love.

On her job—or at home—there's always a flower-fresh charm about Helena. "It's easy to keep your face soft and fresh looking with Pond's," she says.

Her complexion is exquisite—porcelain-fine, and fair! "I don't know what I'd do without my Pond's Cold Cream," Helena says. "It's perfectly lovely to stroke on Pond's and smooth off that factory grime and dirt."

Helena beauty-creams her face with Pond's like this: She slips Pond's satin-white Cold Cream all over her face and throat. Pats lightly, quickly. This softens and releases dirt and make-up. Then she tissues off well.

She "rinses" with more Pond's—swirling her creamy tipped fingers round and round her face. "And when I tissue off again my face is sparkling clean," she says.

Use Pond's Cold Cream Helena's way—every night and every morning—for daytime clean-ups, too. It's no accident engaged girls like Helena, exquisite society women like Mrs. William Rhinelander Stewart and Britain's Lady Grenfell choose Pond's. Ask for a luxurious big jar today!

She's Lovely She uses Pond's!

ASK FOR A BIG LUXURY JAR!
Large sizes save glass and manpower! And it's so much quicker to dip finger tips of both hands in the wide-topped Pond's jar!

POND'S

Today—many more women use Pond's than any other face cream at any price.

Helena's soft-smooth Pond's complexion enhances the poetic beauty of her golden hair and dreamy eyes.

PICKLE FISHING

ONE morning the Teenie Weenie Dunce saw a woman come out of one of the big houses near the Teenie Weenie village. She locked the door and went off with her shopping bag toward the grocery some distance away.

"Jinks!" exclaimed the Dunce to himself. "I believe I'll go into that house and look around while she's away."

Teenie Weenies love to go into big people's houses. They are very curious about the things there and the Dunce is especially interested in things to eat, and so he found a crack large enough to wiggle his small body thru. Of course he made his way at once to the kitchen in search of something to eat for the Dunce is always hungry. He crawled up onto a low shelf where he spied a jar of sweet pickles.

"Jimminie Clicks!" murmured the Dunce staring thru the glass at the delicious pickles. "One of those little pickles would feed an awful lot of Teenie Weenies."

The Dunce glanced at the top of the jar. The lid was off but it was a long ways up to the top. However, Teenie Weenies are remarkable climbers and the Dunce soon figured out a way to reach the top of the pickle jar and he set off for the Teenie Weenie village at top speed where he soon secured a long piece of string and a small fishing hook. Then he rounded up several of the Teenie Weenies whom he knew were fond of pickles and he soon talked them into joining the project altho all the little people knew that the General would not like it.

When the Teenie Weenies had crawled up onto the shelf where the pickle jar stood the Dunce climbed onto the shelf above the jar where he tied one end of a string to a box of cloves and then slid down the string to the top of the jar. Next he let down another piece of string to which the Sailor tied the fish hook. The Dunce pulled up the hook and in a few minutes he hooked a pickle. Just as he lifted the pickle up to the top of the jar the woman, who lived in the house, opened the door.

The pickle slipped out of the Dunce's grasp and fell onto the Chinaman below knocking that little chap nearly senseless while the Dunce leaped off the pickle jar in spite of the danger of a broken Teenie Weenie leg. The little men all escaped without being seen but that woman was a very much puzzled person when she found the pickle lying on the table with a fish hook sticking in it.

NORTH SIDE HAS VOTE 'HOT SPOTS'

STEP UP G. O. P. VOTE PLEAS IN CONGRESS RACE

Dewey, Church Turn an Eye to Fall.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Two Republican congressmen in north side districts, Charles S. Dewey of the 9th and Ralph E. Church of the 10th, took cognizance last week that this is an election year and began building foundations for the fall campaign.

Dewey is without opposition for the primary on April 11. Church is opposed by Mrs. Florence Hoban Griesel, an ultra-nationalist, but the congressman's friends assert he is in no danger of defeat, and need not campaign unless he chooses.

Dewey Replies to Radicals.

News reports that radical political groups intend to concentrate their efforts in the 9th, which is normally close between the parties, with a view to defeating Dewey, were countered when the Dewey forces sent copies of the reports to 600 American Legion members with a request that they lend a hand against the radicals to a fellow Legionnaire.

Rep. Dewey, who like Church was still in Washington attending to his work, urged a full registration in his district. He furnished figures to show that 49,266 potential voters in the area were not registered. He added that 28,000 who were eligible to vote did not do so in the 1942 election.

Ross Ready for Battle.

It has been indicated that the radical "political action" groups, some of which are backed by CIO unions, have adopted a policy of throwing their weight into close elections and are already boasting they will "beat Dewey." The boast was met by the 42d ward G. O. P. committeeman, Paul C. Ross, who said that his organization had already started to get 5,000 pledges for Dewey.

Rep. Church charged on the floor of the house last Monday that the Kelly political machine "has taken $250,000 a year in pennies from the school children of Chicago in the form of overpayments for 'penny milk.'" He demanded an investigation by the federal and state governments, of the "misuse" of funds allocated for milk.

He suggested that Congressman Adolph J. Sabath [D., Ill.] use his influence with the Chicago Democrats to get them to quit such "despicable practices as snatching pennies from school children to fill campaign coffers."

Charges Political Gifts.

In his speech Church said that the Chicago board of education paid 4 cents a half pint for milk, altho it could be purchased at a lower figure, with an understanding that the dairies furnishing supplies would make contributions to the county Democratic fund.

The congressman declared that in some parochial schools which paid 3 cents for milk the children got it free, but that where the price was 4 cents the pupils brought pennies to make up the difference; this, he said, defeated the object of the milk subsidy of the state and national governments.

"It is time for a house cleaning of penny snatching termites," Church averred.

Hits World Relief Vote.

Mrs. Griesel continued her campaign thru the week. She challenged Church to a debate on his vote in favor of the UNRRA bill, which appropriated 1⅓ billion dollars for international relief and rehabilitation.

"I want Mr. Church to justify his vote to the voters of the 10th district," she said. "How will he explain the benefits to them from this thing, which will be paid for—98 per cent of it—by the United States, which will have no say about the fund distribution."

Unopposed for the Democratic nomination in the 10th is Curtis D. MacDougall, Northwestern university professor, internationalist, who asserts that Hitler is trying to make us lose the peace by propaganda against our "diplomatic and military leaders."

Three Democrats in 9th.

Three Democrats are running in the 9th district, with Alexander J. Resa, assistant corporation counsel for the city, regarded as having the best chance. He has organization support. His opponents are Monte Randall, who has just returned from army service, and Frederick F. March. Randall is a super-New Dealer and March wants a national lottery to help the treasury. He calls it "a pleasurable way to pay taxes."

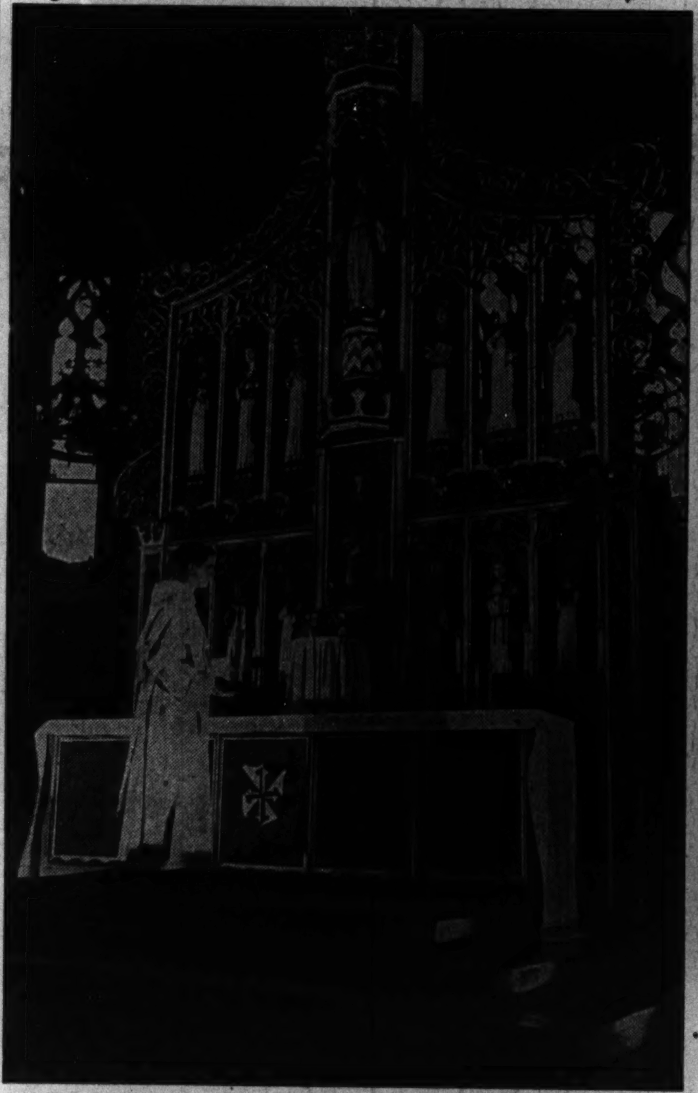
In the first district, which includes the loop, William E. King, political veteran, is opposed for the G. O. P. nomination by Earl B. Dickerson, who ran as a Democrat two years ago. The Republican organization supports King. The Democratic incumbent, William L. Dawson, has no contest.

Tri Delta Meeting.

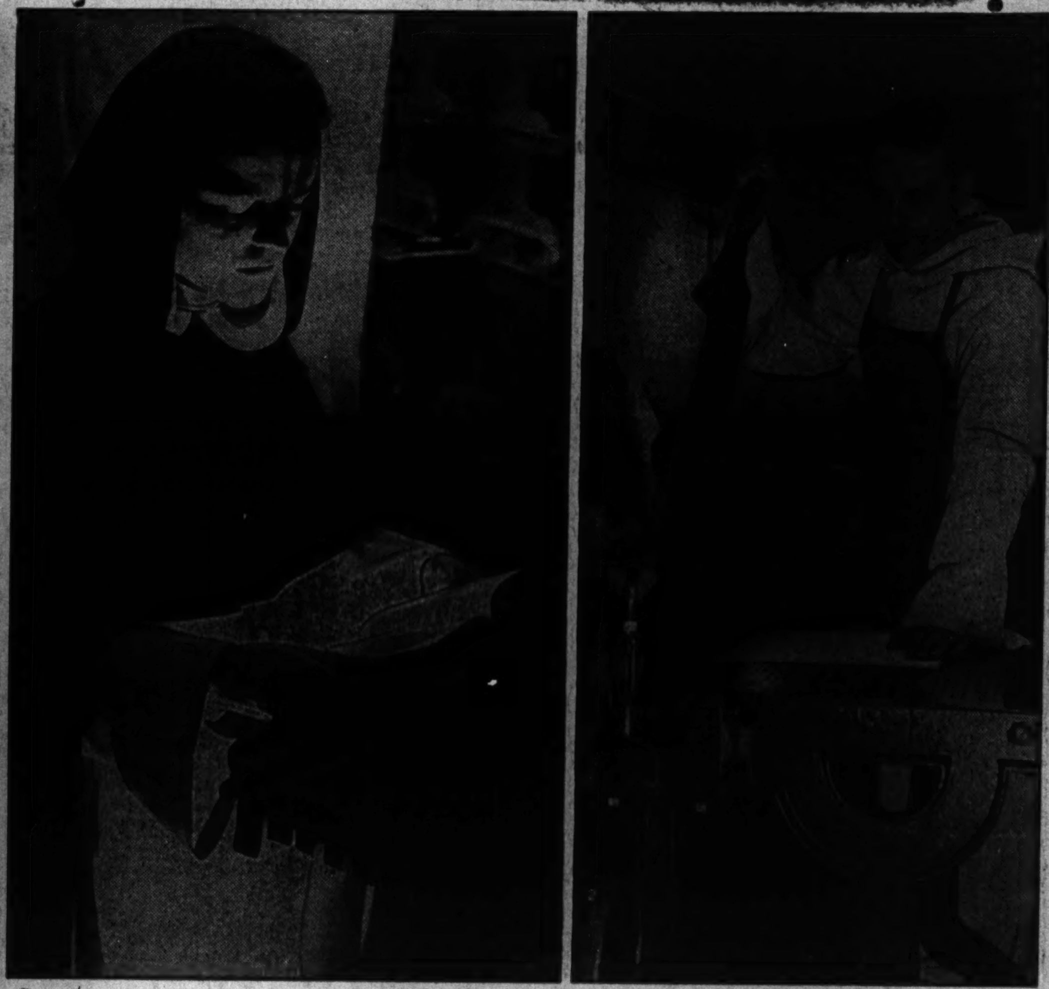
The Evanston and North Shore alumnae of Delta Delta Delta, the Mothers' club, and the active chapter will meet from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Friday in the chapter house in Evanston to sew for the Red Cross.

Monastery at River Forest Keeps Ancient Traditions of Dominicans

In a low chant which rises in sudden crescendos thru the hush of the chapel, these friars at the Dominican House of Studies, River Forest, are saying the Matins of their divine office. This is the first part of the service of the breviary which is read aloud daily.



Framed in the gold colored pierced carving which decorates the altar are inset statues of 12 Dominican saints. First in the top group is St. Thomas Aquinas, regarded as one of the most learned members the Dominican order has produced. Next in that row is St. Catherine of Sienna, another illustrious Dominican.



At the wooden lecturn, set between the two rows of stalls, one friar reads aloud the daily lesson of the office which consists of excerpts from scripture or lives of the saints. A friar also reads aloud in the house refectory during every meal. At the right, like the scriptorium in an old world monastery, is the book bindery which takes up several rooms in the House of Studies basement. Here, with blue denim aprons over their white habits, novices cut and bind books for the monastery library which has some 30,000 volumes. The work is done entirely by hand with the help of a press and a cutter.

Standing at their stalls, placed lengthwise in the monastic pattern, are 12 novices of the group of 125 who will have six years of study at the Dominican monastery before being sent out as missionary priests, teachers or to do parochial work.

EXTRA WATCH TO BE KEPT ON WARD BATTLES

Hilburn Under Fire of Republicans.

BY LEE SHASSERE.

Three out of the five "hot spots" in Chicago where special precautions will be taken to guard against polling place troubles April 11, concern Republican ward committeemen fights in the north section and the loop. These are the 1st, 42d, and 47th wards.

County Judge Jarecki, head of the election machinery, and Guy Reed, chairman of the joint civic committee on elections, have agreed that volunteer non-partisian poll watchers will be concentrated in the five wards.

Charges Against Hilburn.

In the bitter fight for the Republican committeemanship in the 47th ward, Frank R. Leonard, incumbent, laid down a barrage of point blank charges against Ald. Frank O. Hilburn:

1. That Hilburn voted Democratic in 1932, 1936, 1939, 1940, and that he did not vote in the 1942 primary election, casting his only Republican primary vote of record just eight months prior to his announcement as a committeeman candidate.

2. That Hilburn was sponsored and supported for alderman in 1939 by the Kelly-Nash Democratic organization.

3. That Hilburn personally sponsored and promoted Edward Burke for Democratic committeeman in 1940.

Competes with State Ticket.

4. That Hilburn sponsored a free boxing and wrestling show at Rainbo Gardens on the night Gov. Green and other state candidates appeared in the ward, thus attempting to keep the Republicans from hearing the candidates.

"The ward committeeman post is a party office," said Leonard. "Nothing should have been placed in the way of Republican voters to keep them from hearing the governor, who is the G. O. P. leader in Illinois. Hilburn claims that 2,500 attended his show. This man, who calls himself a Republican, proved both deceitful and hypocritical in his attempt to split party harmony."

Governor Praises Leonard.

Despite Hilburn's endeavor to draw attention from the Green meeting, an overflow crowd at 47th ward regular Republican headquarters heard Gov. Green laud Leonard at a meeting described by Green as "splendid and spirited."

"Leonard is a great leader of the Republican party in this neighborhood and has given unstintingly of his time and effort," said the governor. "I am happy to be here with your friend and my friend, whom I have known for years."

Gov. Green and Leonard both practiced law at the same time in the federal courthouse where Green was later United States District attorney.

Lyons Tells of Service.

Richard J. Lyons, candidate for United States senator, described his many campaigns in which he had served as speaker. "I remember a fellow who carried a lot of water for the elephant in the tough years and kept the Grand Old Party going—Frank Leonard. I hope none of you forget that."

In substantiating his claims against Hilburn, Leonard last week displayed Hilburn 1939 aldermanic campaign cards which bore in bold face type the indorsement of the 47th ward regular Democratic organization.

Paul Ross Moves Ahead.

Acting Committeeman Paul C. Ross continued last week to move far out in front of his opponent, Charles E. Peace, for the 42d ward Republican committee post. Ross' campaign was enhanced by numerous indorsement from civic leaders, including Frank J. Loesch, president emeritus of the Chicago Crime commission, who resides in the 42d ward at the Drake hotel. Another important indorsement came from George B. McKibbin, Illinois director of finance and leader in more than 20 civic organizations.

McKibbin's indorsement is interesting in the light of recent political developments. Samuel L. Workman, who resigned as 42d ward G. O. P. committeeman last year after narrowly defeating Peace in 1940, and who later abandoned his post as assistant to McKibbin in the state finance department, has given his indorsement to Peace.

Workman Attacks on Green.

Workman, a state legislature candidate in the 29th senatorial district, has such minor support that his pro-Peace alliance is a desperate attempt to gain whatever votes he can pick up, Ross charged.

In resigning his state position, Workman made a verbal attack upon Gov. Green, labeling him as unfit for party leadership. Political students thus regard McKibbin's indorsement as a direct slap at Workman and, at the same time, adding to Ross' prestige.

Ross, rejected last week for military service following a pre-induction physical examination, pledged to carry on the fight on the home front by backing up America's fighters.

CALLS WORKMAN POST QUITTER IN ASSEMBLY RACE

Opponent's Past Record in Politics Cited by Bas.

BY LEE SHASSERE.

Plenty of rivalry marks the Republican fight for the party's two house of representatives nominations in the 29th district, while the two Democratic candidates, both incumbents, are coasting along easily, assured of nomination because they have no opposition.

Marvin J. Bas, two-fisted attorney and a strong contender for the Republican nomination, continued his blistering attacks last week upon Samuel L. Workman, his G. O. P. opponent. Workman, according to Bas, has a record of three resignations from important posts which, Bas charges, stamps him as an unreliable candidate.

"Might Resign Again."

"Workman resigned as 42d ward Republican committeeman, assistant state director of finance, and secretary of the Illinois Council of Defense," Bas said. "There is every possibility that if he is nominated he might resign before being elected and by doing so leave his supporters in the lurch just as he has done during his entire political career."

Paul J. Randolph, another strong Republican candidate, has been indorsed by the 42d ward regular Republican club, which has also pledged support to Bas. Both Randolph and Bas have been indorsed by Gov. Green.

Randolph has pledged, if elected, to do all in his power to end confusing, duplicating, and nonfunctioning enactments upon the statute books. Such a crusade, Randolph declared, might be felt in Washington and might put an end to some of the numerous burocracies now operating there.

Lucile McVicker, 1006 N. La Salle st., is also making a determined fight for the Republican nomination. She has 16 planks in her platform, including those for post-war rehabilitation and productive employment for service men and women, and unification of the county's 376 taxing bodies.

SIXTH DISTRICT.

[Includes Evanston and parts of Chicago wards 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 49, and 50.]

The three outstanding Republican candidates for the party's two house nominations stepped up their campaigns last week.

Indorsements for Rep. Alan E. Ashcraft Jr. [R.] and Rep. Stanley C. Armstrong [R.] continued to mount, but failed to halt the determined drive of Mrs. Helen M. Sewell, who is seeking to unseat either Ashcraft or Armstrong.

Ashcraft has the backing of all regular Republican organizations in his district as well as many independent groups. His latest indorsement came from the powerful Women's Republican club of Evanston.

Has Two Bills in Mind.

Ashcraft, a 38 year old attorney, is now studying legislation designed to eliminate politics in Chicago schools. He is also preparing a bill to allow grand juries, with proper safeguards, to extend their lives beyond the present 30 day period.

for service for the fourth time," said Ross. "Twice I sought enlistment in the army and navy only to be turned down. Twice the draft physicians have rejected me. Now, I will do everything here at home to carry out the principles for which our boys are fighting."

Battle in 1st Ward.

The 1st ward, ancient storm center of political activity, finds itself again in the midst of another Republican ward committeemanship fight as Bernard S. Black, state hotel and lodging house inspector under Gov. Green, squares off with Committeeman Daniel A. Serritella, whom Black has identified as an A-1 Capone follower and associate of other hoodlums.

In talks last week, Black applied the brush of bipartisanism to Serritella and described him as more than a "friendly foe" of the Democrats.

The three way fight in the 50th ward between Republican Committeeman Jens M. Jensen, John L. Coffield Sr., and Henry C. Doehne, went roaringly on its way last week with Jensen's backers charging his opponents with fostering party disunity thru unsupported charges.

Both Doehne and Coffield were formerly associated with Jensen in the 50th ward regular Republican organization, but have broken with him in their bids for ward leadership.

NORTH SUBURBS TO PICK VILLAGE CHIEFS TUESDAY

On Tuesday Glencoe and Winnetka will hold their village elections. The candidates in each case were named by the caucus plan which, without an opposition ticket, is considered tantamount to election.

In Glencoe the candidates, nominated at a caucus by the Glencoe Anniversary party, are: Kenneth L. Fox for village president for a four year term; John W. Arthur, Frederick C. Shafer and C. Lysle Smith, for four year terms as trustees; Gair Tourtellot Jr., for a two year term as trustee to fill a vacancy; John C. Harkneff for clerk for a four year term.

Will Fill Other Offices.

For terms of one year each, Hardin H. Hawes for village collector; Harry W. Stannard for street commissioner; William J. Oman for police constable, and Edward Marshall for marshal.

Residents of Glencoe also will vote either "yes" or "no" on a referendum ballot in connection with the Illinois municipal retirement fund. The ballot will read: "Shall the village of Glencoe, Ill., be included within the provisions of an act, as amended, creating the 'Illinois municipal retirement fund' approved by the 61st general assembly of the state now in force and effect?"

Winnetka to Vote.

Candidates for election in Winnetka, named by a village caucus, are: Arthur E. Bryson for village president; Nicholas J. Conrad, Mrs. Alice C. McCoy and C. Roy Terry for trustees; W. M. Peterson for marshal, and Mrs. Stella Winslow for clerk.

On Saturday there will be an election for two board of education trustees for Winnetka. The candidates are Mrs. Phyllis E. Macomber and Mrs. Mary Jane Munns.

N. SIDE GUNNER ON NEW BRITAIN TELLS REACTIONS

Men in marine anti-aircraft gun crews on Cape Gloucester, New Britain, have no time and little disposition for watching the battles they take part in, according to a dispatch from Staff Sgt. Ward Walker, marine corps combat correspondent on leave from THE TRIBUNE.

Pvt. Leonard Malter, 826 Sunnyside av., related his battle reactions to Sgt. Walker after the crew of which he is a member had added to its total of Jap planes in a recent fight on the cape.

"Sure, you're a little nervous before the firing starts," he explained. "But not after the first shot or two. The gun makes so much noise you can't hear the planes or bombs and you're to busy to look for the planes. Those of us on the loading line never know we've scored a hit until some one hollers. Keeping one of these guns in action is a full-time job."

Evanston Charity Group to Hold Racial Meeting

Under the sponsorship of the Evanston council of social agencies, Dr. Robert C. Weaver of the mayor's committee on race relations, will speak on "Race Relations in Northern Cities" at a 12 o'clock luncheon tomorrow at the Georgian hotel, Evanston.

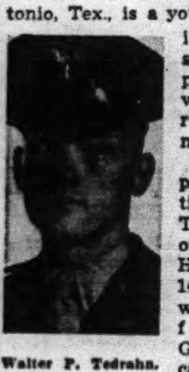
BOMB GERMANY? HE WOULD ENJOY NOTHING BETTER

But N. Side Cadet Might Destroy Own Property!

In pre-flight training at San Antonio, Tex., is a young man who is impatient to start bombing property from which he would rightly inherit money some day.



Walter P. Tedrahn.

That is the paradoxical situation of Walter P. Tedrahn, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans F. Tedrahn, 1449 Berteau av., who emigrated from Hanover, Germany, to Chicago in 1907. A portion of the family's inheritance includes buildings they still own in the Hanover business district.

There is, of course, a chance that their son, who will finish his training in September, may find himself piloting a plane or pressing a control button which will hurl bombs earthward over Hanover.

Despises Hitler Youth.

"Certainly I'll bomb Hanover or do anything else I'm assigned to do to help destroy Hitler and national socialism," Cadet Tedrahn said. "I'm an American, and I despise all that national socialism represents." The young man added that he acquired his "deep hatred for national socialism and the Hitler youth movement while studying in Germany and France from 1937 to 1939.

In Germany he attended Landschulheim Keilhau in the province of Thuringia. He studied at Ecole de Pantheon in Paris. The two and a half years which he spent in Europe were a result, he said, of his desire to prepare himself for a diplomatic post. His return to Germany was also prompted by the fact that when Hitler took over in Germany, the money which the Tedrahns had formerly received from their holdings could not be taken out of the country. Since this money had to be spent in Germany, the Tedrahns decided to use it for the education of their oldest son.

Called a "Damn Yankee!"

While in Germany Cadet Tedrahn recalled he was often referred to by some of his professors as a "damn Yankee" because they were angered by his indifference and, on some occasions, his contempt toward Hitlerism. Ninety per cent of his student associates were members of the Hitler youth movement, he said. Twice after the American student had criticized national socialism before other students, he was warned to either leave the country or remain silent.

Tedrahn's rank in the cadets is that of a lieutenant colonel, which is the highest in his class. Cadet officers are appointed during their first week in pre-flight training by commissioned officers on a basis of military experience, bearing, and ability. Each cadet class has two lieutenant colonels who are considered wing commanders.

The Chicago cadet said that he may forget the diplomatic service and remain with the army air forces if he completes his pilot training and is commissioned.

N. SIDE SUBURBS JOIN TO PROTEST TRAILER HOMES

By unanimous votes the city councils of Waukegan and North Chicago have turned down proposals of the federal public housing authority to establish trailer camps in the two cities.

At the recent meeting of the North Chicago city council 225 aroused residents protested the FPHA proposed plan to create two trailer sites, each to accommodate the families of 50 defense workers. In addition to voting unanimously to turn down this suggestion, council members adopted a resolution not to amend the city ordinance prohibiting trailer camps.

The main objections raised by North Chicago residents were that the camps would cause a depreciation in property values and that they could constitute a health menace to the city.

List Obligations.

The suggesed sites for the camps, one for white, the other for Negro families, were between 20th and 21st sts. and Stewart and Kemble avs., and between 15th and 16th sts., Grove av. and Elizabeth st.

Other objections raised by North Chicagoans to the trailer homes were the possibilities that nonresidents might become public charges after the war, that the camps would induce floaters to come to North Chicago, and that they would reduce the morale of the citizens. Residents recommended that such camps be established outside the city limits.

Waukegan Acts Early.

The Waukegan city council at a recent meeting unanimously ordered J. E. Bairstow, city attorney, to draft an amendment to the present ordinance that will prohibit the use of trailers as homes within the city limits. The present law permits trailers to be used as homes for 30 days.

Fifty property owners from the southwestern part of the city, the location proposed by the FPHA for 100 trailer homes for factory workers until 100 new homes can be built, led a delegation opposing the trailer settlement plan. Mayor Frank G. Wallin asserted no serious housing shortage exists in Waukegan.

U. OF C. TO GRANT CHICAGO PLAN SCHOLARSHIPS

Teen aged Chicagoans and high school students from all over the nation desiring to study under the Chicago plan—college students at 15, college graduates at 18—in the college of the University of Chicago will have another opportunity next month to compete for scholarships, President Robert M. Hutchins has announced.

Scholarships valued at more than $50,000 will be granted by the university to students entering the college in either June or September. Applicants for the scholarships, which are granted on the basis of aptitude examinations testing a student's ability to think, not what he already knows, must file for admission and the examination by tomorrow. Examinations will be held April 22.

Students who have completed their sophomore year in high school will be eligible for 20 metropolitan scholarships, valued at $300 each, 12 national scholarships valued at $600, and 12 at $300. There are 42 scholarships covering one year's tuition also to be granted to high school seniors who will enter in the third year of college and complete their liberal education in two years instead of four.

KOSTELANETZ'S SHOW WILL BE WAXED FOR A.E.F.

The Andre Kostelanetz musical show over WBBM-CBS at 3:30 p. m. today will be recorded on army V-Discs, records shipped overseas and used for the entertainment of American fighters. In all, 56,000 discs will be sent abroad as a result of the program; 8,000 recordings are to be made of each of seven numbers.

This is the first radio program devoted entirely to music to be recorded on V-Discs. The program has been designed so that engineers can make records devoid of commentary, commercial or otherwise.

Cole Porter's "I Love You," Barroso's "Brazil Morena," and Brahams' "Lullaby" are among the works scheduled. Soprano Eleanor Steber will sing Kreisler's "Stars In My Eyes." The first movement of Grieg's Piano Concerto is to be played by Sgt. Eugene List.

SHOSTAKOVICH'S 8TH SYMPHONY IN PREMIER TODAY

The eighth symphony by Dmitri Shostakovich, noted Russian composer, will be given its American premiere by the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra in its broadcast over WBBM-CBS from 2 p. m. to 3:30 today. The symphony, in five movements, is said to reflect the "new optimism" of the Russian people and the Red army's "spirit of attack." William Downs, CBS commentator, recently brought the score from Russia to New York. Maj. Gen. Charles M. Wesson, assistant lend-lease administrator, will speak during the broadcast.

Ireland and the War Topic of Review Stand

"Ireland and the War" is the topic of the Northwestern Reviewing Stand program over W-G-N-Mutual at 11 a. m. today. Oliver St. John Gogarty, Irish author and lecturer; William O'Meara, University of Chicago professor; Kenneth E. Olson, dean of the Medill school of journalism, Northwestern university, and Clifton Utley, radio commentator, will participate.

JAP RADIO TELLS OF COMIC STRIP VICTORY DRIVE

Reveals Plan to Bring 'U. S. to Knees.'

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Japanese people, whom many western observers say lack a sense of humor, are going to use their comic strips to bolster their fighting spirit, according to a broadcast from Tokio. The Japanese government will set up a "Greater Asia Comic Strip Study society" with this objective, the broadcast stated, adding that "with its formation, a large drive to bring the enemy, the United States and Great Britain, to their knees will commence."

Some idea of the humorous impact the society will make on the Japs can be gained from the further announcement that the comic strips will be written "under the sponsorship and guidance of the military government."

News and notes: Sammy Kaye's Wednesday night show over CBS will be replaced effective this week with a new musical series featuring Allan Jones and Frankie Carle's orchestra. . . . For the time being Lum and Abner will go on as before. Abner, played by Norris Goff, has passed his physical, but has been given a 60 day deferment to finish a movie. . . . Dennis Day has been inducted as an ensign in the navy and reports for duty on April 15. . . . One of the better laughs of the season was the Fred Allen-Archie Gardner exchange about the blind rat which has been stealing the cheese at Duffy's tavern. It was guided, said Archie, by a Seeing Eye mouse!

Fanny [Baby Snooks] Brice is a grandma. Her daughter, Frances [Mrs. Ray Stark], is the mother of an 8 pound boy. . . . It's reported that comedian Danny Kaye will be teamed with Miss Brice when she and Frank Morgan split up at the end of this season. Morgan will have a show of his own next year. . . . Milton Berle's new how, Let Yourself Go, gives fans a chance to release their inhibitions. But those who want only to scream may continue with Frank Sinatra.

KILMER LEAGUE TO HEAR DRAMA READER TUESDAY

Miss Maxine Stetson, dramatic reader and a member of the North Shore Players, will give a reading of the play "Harriet" at a meeting of the Joyce Kilmer league at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Rogers Park Woman's club.

Mrs. Frank D. Finlayson, program chairman, will introduce Miss Stetson. Mrs. Ned A. Corbett, president of the league, will have charge of the meeting.

FRIARS AWAIT CHAPEL RITES OF HOLY WEEK

Follow Ancient Rules at River Forest.

BY EILEEN BURKE.

The prayerful days of Holy week, when Christians thruout the world pause in solemn contemplation of spiritual truths, will be little different from ordinary days inside the Dominican house of studies, River Forest. Here, in the white, cross shaped building set aloofly back from the street, are 125 young men who spend every day of the year studying and meditating on spiritual things.

A typical day for these Dominican friars who, after eight years at the monastery will be sent out as missionary priests, teachers or to parochial work, begins shortly after 5 a. m. with recitation of the first part of their office [the reading of psalms and other excerpts from the Old and New Testaments]. This is followed by mass, then breakfast which, like all other meals, is eaten in silence while one friar reads aloud from a religious book.

Classes Fill Mornings.

During the rest of the morning, these students attend classes in philosophy or theology. At 11:50 a. m. they return to the chapel for vespers and at 12:30 they chant the Compline, second part of their office for the day. The afternoon is given over to some form of outdoor recreation, such as football, baseball, or whatever sport is in season. At 5:20 p. m. they again gather in the chapel for another period of prayer and meditation.

Of the eight years which most of these friars remain at the Dominican priory, one is spent as a novice, three in the study of philosophy, and three in studying theology. The men are then ordained, but stay another year at the monastery for the further study of theology.

Students include young men from almost every state in the country, and from various South American countries. Two years of college is a requisite for entrance into the priory, but most of the students have their B. A. degrees before they enter.

Lead Life of Study.

If a student priest has shown an aptitude for a particular field during his eight years of study, he may be given a further two year supplementary course to fit him for some specialized work.

In the terse language of St. Thomas Aquinas, most renowned Dominican of all time, the work of the Dominican order is "to study and to contemplate." Therefore, said the Rev. J. A. Driscoll, house of studies prior, these young priests readily understand that study, for them, will "end only with death."

This Dominican priory was established in 1925. One of the oldest and largest religious orders in the world, the Dominicans are distinguished particularly by their democratic form of government. Founded in 1216 in southern France by St. Dominic, a Spaniard, the Dominicans are known as a mendicant order. The word "mendicant," explained Father Driscoll, is symbolic of the feature that differentiated friars from all other forms of religious life in the 13th century, for they were supported by alms and not by landed estates or benefices.

Friars Differ from Monks.

Friars are different from monks, the prior continued, in that they leave the cloister to work in the world, while monks remain cloistered.

Grounds of the River Forest priory extend over 40 wooded, landscaped acres. The Vermont granite building like the ritual of the order, is "a blending of the old and the new" in its English-Gothic architecture. Rounded arches soften the sharpness of a true Gothic design.

Braun of Shorewood, Wis., took place in the Royal Praesidio chapel, Monterey, Cal. The bride studied for her master's degree at the school of social work, Loyola university. Lt. Braun, a graduate of Marquette university, left his studies at Marquette law school to enter the army. The couple is residing at Carmel-by-the-Sea, near Fort Ord, Cal., where the lieutenant is stationed.

WORLD WAR II VETERANS PLAN FIRST DANCE

John Shea.

Clarke-O'Reilly American Legion post, composed entirely of veterans of the present war, will hold its first annual dance Saturday night at the roof garden of the Midwest Athletic club, 6 N. Hamlin av. This is the first such post to be organized in Illinois, and the third in the United States, according to John Shea, commander.

The new post was formed last November when a group of discharged veterans, talking over their collective experiences, decided they wanted the benefits and companionship of a Legion post. But, because of the age difference between themselves and the World War I. veterans, the group preferred to organize a Legion post strictly for veterans of this war.

Clarke-O'Reilly post received its charter from the 5th district Illinois department of the Legion last January. Representatives of the department backed the idea "one hundred per cent," said John Shea, commander of the new post. Purpose of the post, he said, is to represent veterans in all affairs of the veterans' administration, rehabilitation and employment.

"When our friends, brothers or relatives come home from war they will find a helping hand in our organization," the commander added.

The post also will file claims and take care of hospitalization, domiciliary care, and insurance benefits for its members.

THIS WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, April 3.

As soon as the perennials show growth or activity, take the spading fork and carefully turn under the finer parts of the mulching material, especially if it consists of barn yard manure. Do not spade too deep, for the roots may be injured, altho most perennials will grow under adverse conditions.

Spray Bordeaux around the roses and perennials that are susceptible to fungous attacks. Spores lurk in the soil over winter and early spraying will eliminate them before they develop and attack the foliage.

If the soil is heavy clay, it is sometimes wise to elevate the beds by depressing the paths between them. This will allow for better draining. Tomatoes, parsnips, salsify, peas, peppers, lima beans, Savoy cabbage, and others may be grown in the outlying districts where better conditions are available.

Tuesday, April 4.

By this time some of the vegetables that require early planting should be in the ground. Sweet peas should be sown, for they revel in a cool condition.

Most vegetables are sown in April, from about the 10th on, at which time the soil is workable and operations can be done without excessive dampness.

Wednesday, April 5.

Gardeners should not attempt to grow certain kinds of plants if the soil and atmospheric conditions are not suitable. The small area can produce good crops if a critical study is made of the possibilities and varieties selected that are recommended. Do not try root crops unless the soil is suitable, but grow more leaf crops.

In smoky areas, grow the following: radishes, leaf lettuce, onions from sets, endive, a few parsley plants, Swiss chard [a form of beets], mustard for greens, and kale. Carrots and beets like a sandy loam, but all vegetables delight in a soil that is well drained and contains an abundance of humus.

Thursday, April 6.

Two fine annuals that are easy growers are the annual poppies and portulaca. Seeds should be sown early and care should be taken not to sow too thickly.

Take dry sand and place with the seed before sowing, for it will scatter the seed more widely. Portulaca is easily transplanted but poppies do best when no attempt is made to transplant them.

Poppies may be scattered in the borders to give a fine touch of color. Cut the virgin's bower [clematis paniculata] almost to the ground. It flowers in the fall.

Friday, April 7.

Many things can be started in the coldframe or hotbed now. If there is no frame at hand investigate the possibilities of installing one, for it is one of the finest assets of the garden.

Ordinary window storm sash may be used or standard sash purchased. Watch the ventilating and watering. Plant pansies as soon as they are available, for they do best in cool weather.

Keep the withered flowers removed to prevent seedage. Clear up the iris bed or rows before much growth has been made.

Saturday, April 8.

One of the finest flowering plants to combine with vegetables is the gladiolus.

The plant takes little room for the foliage is swordlike, growing upward, and the flower stalk has the same habit and does not interfere with other plants. There are so many varieties that it is a matter of personal choice.

Try some of the garden chrysanthemums, for they are of extraordinary beauty during favorable seasons.

Prepared in cooperation with Garfield park conservatory.

CONGRESS RACES HIT FAST PACE

ASSERTS F. D. R. SHARES BLAME IN RACE CASES

Dudley Martin Cites Acts of Cabinet.

BY LEE SHASSERE.

Dudley S. Martin, 3736 Indiana av., one of the four Republican candidates who seek the party's two house of representative nominations in the 3d senatorial district, lashed out at New Deal policies in talks thruout his district last week. The 3d district includes parts of wards 1, 2, 4, and 11.

"Negroes are deserting the Democratic party by the thousands," declared Martin, who served as a state representative from the district in 1940. "President Roosevelt and his New Deal will go down in history as one of the most hypocritical and deceitful administrations since the birth of our Republic.

Charges Rank Discrimination.

"This is especially true as it relates to the Negro. In every department of the New Deal, Negroes have been relegated and pushed around. Northern born Negro boys have been sent to southern training camps, where they are being treated worse than slaves. There is rank discrimination in every branch of the services.

"College trained Negroes are not assigned to positions in the services according to their ability, but according to their color. The insinuations made by Henry L. Stimson, Roosevelt's rubber stamp secretary of war, that Negroes were unable to master present day weapons, reflected not only the mind of Stimson but that of his commander in chief. We hold the President responsible for the acts of his cabinet members. High taxes, New Deal red tape, and the steady trend toward dictatorship is driving the Negroes, along with other Americans, out of the Democratic party."

FIFTH DISTRICT

[Includes ward 5 and parts of wards 3, 4, and 6.]

The 10 Republican candidates who are bidding for the party's two house nominations in the 5th senatorial district, increased their campaign tempos last week. Campaigns of the four Democrats, who seek their party's two nominations, were also stepped up.

The G. O. P. contest was highlighted when William A. Booker, an attorney who has the indorsement of Ald. Oscar De Priest, charged that his Republican opponent, C. Francis Stradford, was employing mud slinging tactics.

"Stradford's record is none too savory," Booker declared. "He is not justified in carrying on a campaign of villification."

Proud of De Priest's Help.

Stradford has charged that Booker was backed by big business interests and that Booker would be a mouthpiece for De Priest if elected.

"I consider the charges as complimentary," said Booker, in his reply. "De Priest has enjoyed the implicit confidence of his own people and respect of all other races."

Rep. Noble W. Lee [R.] also continued his drive during the week and at numerous meetings pointed out that his record justified his reelection. Lee said that he has sponsored four laws which has saved Cook county taxpayers more than $300,000 a year, and that he is the sponsor of 22 war veteran and dependents' employment and rehabilitation laws.

The 5th district Republican fight is accentuated by the fact that Rep. William J. Warfield [R.] has left his house seat vacant due to his retirement because of illness. Political students foresee a win for Rep. Lee, but are undecided as to the strength of the other nine candidates.

LT. HEMSTREET HOME ON FURLOUGH AFTER 50 BOMBING FLIGHTS

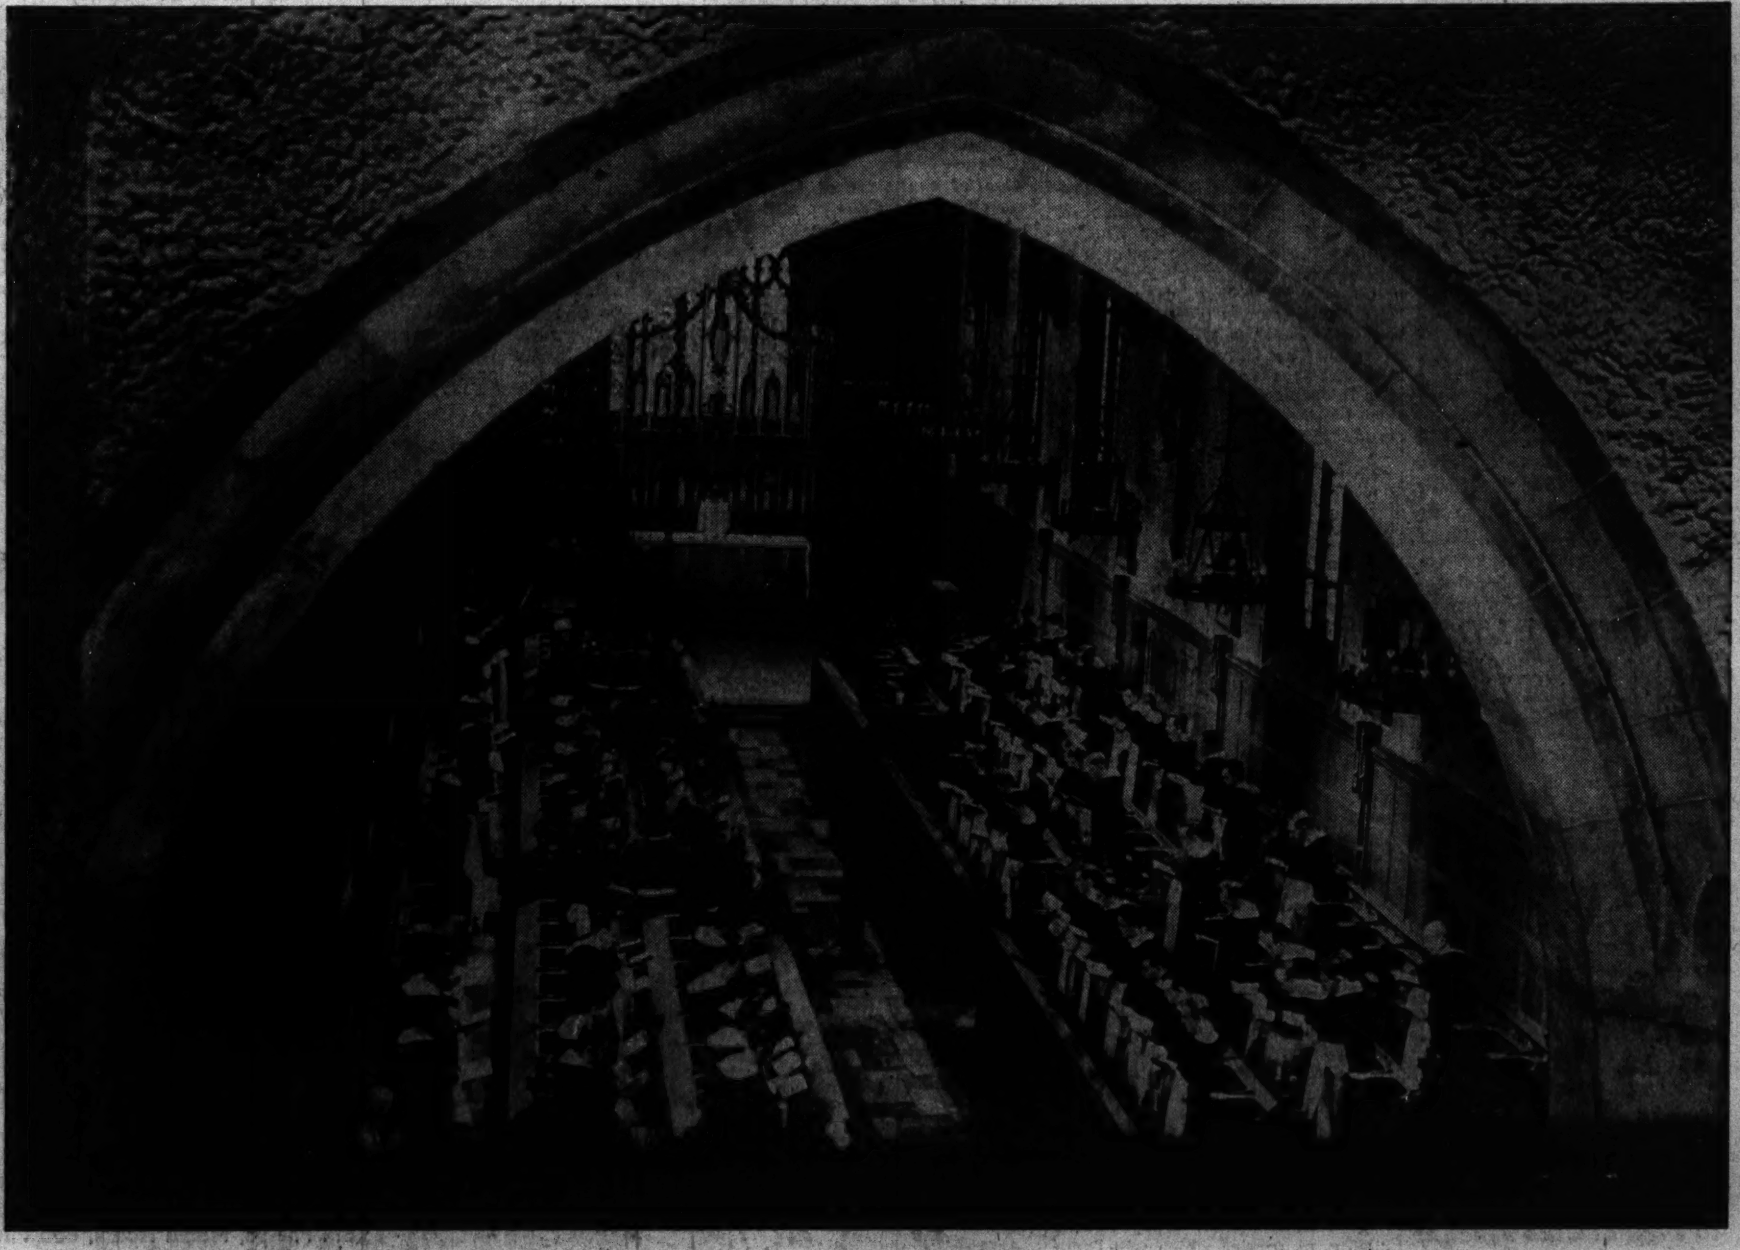
Lt. Hemstreet.

With 50 missions to his credit and an air medal with a silver and four bronze oak leaf clusters jingling in his pocket, Lt. Harry Raymond Hemstreet recently recently returned home for a furlough.

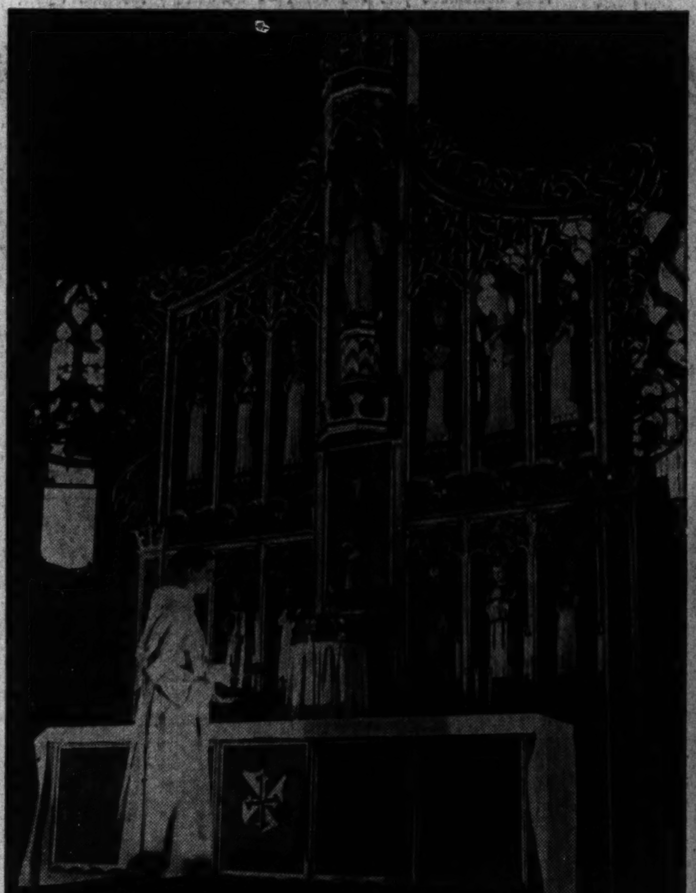
He is regaling his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth L. Hemstreet, 7635 Crandon av., and his brother, Marshall, with tales of action as a pilot on the Flying Fortress "My Poor Aching Back" in Africa, Italy, Germany, France, and Jugo-Slavia.

"I gave my plane that name because it was, well, kind of beaten looking when I got it," Lt. Hemstreet said. "It looks even worse now because it's been thru plenty in those 50 missions, but none of my crew ever got in the way of the 700 bullets that went thru it." He spent nine months overseas. The 22 year old flyer was a guide in the stock yards prior to his enlistment. His brother, Marshall, recently enlisted in the navy. Another brother, Donald, is now in training at Glenview naval training school.

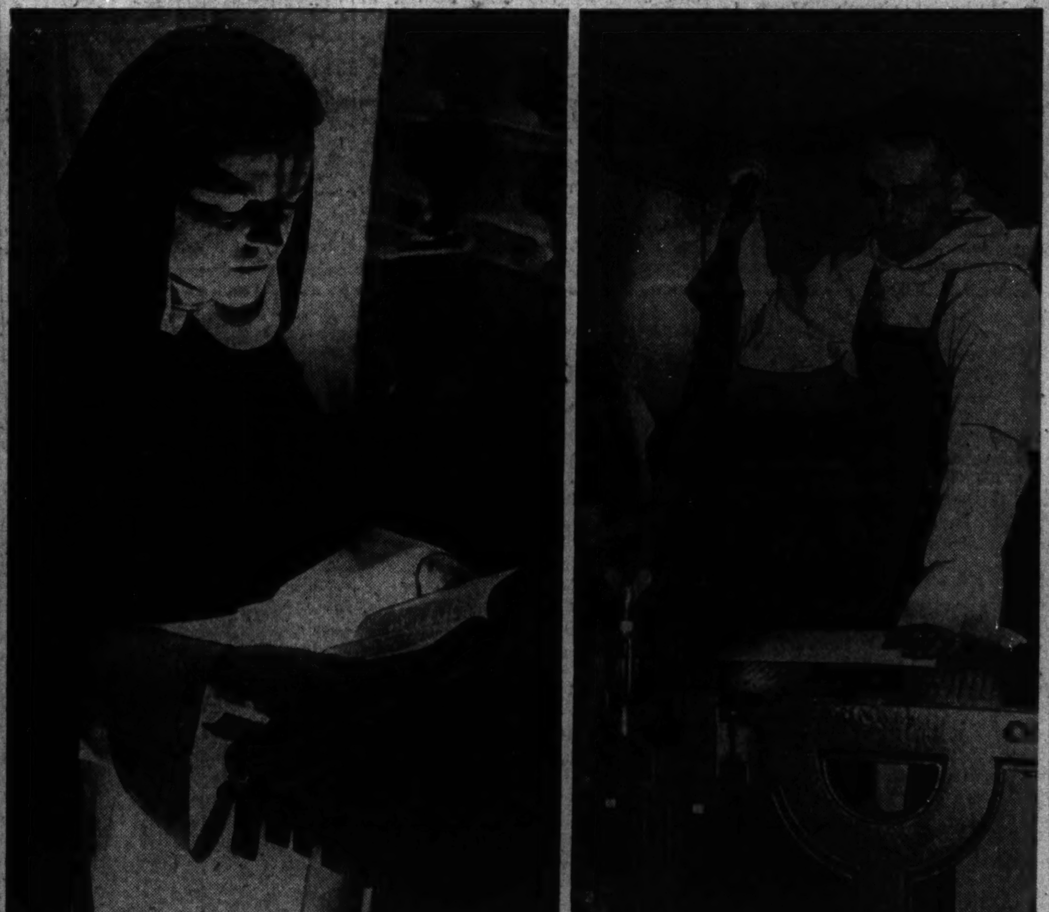
Monastery at River Forest Keeps Ancient Traditions of Dominicans



In a low chant which rises in sudden crescendos thru the hush of the chapel, these friars at the Dominican House of Studies, River Forest, are saying the Matins of their divinie office. This is the first part of the service of the breviary which is read aloud daily.



Framed in the gold colored pierced carving which decorates the altar are inset statues of 12 Dominican saints. First in the top group is St. Thomas Aquinas, regarded as one of the most learned members the Dominican order has produced. Next in that row is St. Catherine of Sienna, another illustrious Dominican.



At the wooden lecturn, set between the two rows of stalls, one friar reads aloud the daily lesson of the office which consists of excerpts from scripture or lives of the saints. A friar also reads aloud in the house refectory during every meal. At the right, like the scriptorium in an old world monastery, is the book bindery which takes up several rooms in the House of Studies basement. Here, with blue denim aprons over their white habits, novices cut and bind books for the monastery library which has some 30,000 volumes. The work is done entirely by hand with the help of a press and a cutter.

Standing at their stalls, placed lengthwise in the monastic pattern, are 12 novices of the group of 125 who will have six years of study at the Dominican monastery before being sent out as missionary priests, teachers or to do parochial work.

HURLS 'LITTLE WILLKIE' CRY AT DICKERSON

King Cites Political Record of Foe.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Charges that Earl B. Dickerson, candidate for the Republican congressional nomination in the 1st district, is a "little Willkie with one foot in the Democratic party" were tossed into the political ring during the last week by Dickerson's opponent, William E. King.

King, a veteran whose Republicanism is of long standing, said that Dickerson, who ran for congress as a Democrat in 1942, hadn't ever voted G. O. P. and wasn't eligible for a Republican primary ballot this year.

Against G. O. P., Claim.

"His only ambition is to disrupt and smear good Republicans," King added.

Dickerson has explained that he left the Democratic ranks because the Roosevelt regime is leaning for its support on southern legislators who are reactionary and discriminatory toward Negroes. King, Dickerson and the Democratic incumbent, William L. Dawson, are all Negroes. Dawson has no primary opposition.

Polls taken in the 1st, which includes the loop and the near south side, showed that Willkie had only 46 supporters out of more than 1,300 straw ballots, according to King. Dewey was favored by 1,040 and was 10 to 1 ahead of Bricker and MacArthur, he said.

Lively Fight in 2d.

In the big 2d district, which takes in all of Chicago east of State st., with a population of more than 600,000, a lively Republican fight for the nomination is in progress.

One candidate, Atty. William T. Pridmore, addressed an open letter last week to Thomas J. Downs, the organization choice, complaining that the 7th ward division of the Illinois Republican Service Men's league had invited only a few candidates to appear at their meeting and that one of them—Downs—possesses no record of military service.

Charges False Impression.

Pridmore asserted that the organization, by inviting "our candidates" only were seeking "by deception and subterfuge to create the false impression" that Downs is an ex-service man. Pridmore, who is 55 years old, served as a volunteer in World War I. Downs is 40 and was too young for service in 1918.

Downs, who has been prominent in Young Republican affairs for some years, is an advocate of private enterprise, with particular emphasis on the plight of the small business man. The little fellow, he has said, is being regimented out of existence by the New Deal.

Pridmore a Nationalist.

In foreign affairs Pridmore is a nationalist and opposed to the squandering of American funds abroad. On the domestic front he urges the "restoration of the Republic" by the elimination of burocratic agencies. Downs is for a foreign policy recommended by the Republican advisory committee—the Mackinac declaration which includes safeguards for American sovereignty.

Another G. O. P. candidate is Edgar G. Brown, Negro journalist who was assaulted in Washington recently when he attempted to file a petition calling for the impeachment of Secretaries Knox and Stimson on the ground that they have discriminated against Negroes.

Plans to Speak Today.

Still being treated in a hospital for his injuries, Brown announced on Thursday that he would be on his feet this afternoon and would speak at the Liberty Baptist church, 56 East 46th st., on campaign issues.

One of his themes is to be the pollution of Chicago's water supply by industrial wastes, and that a serious epidemic will result from the dumping. Burocrats, he said, were refusing needed materials to finish the south side filtration plant and would be responsible if the epidemic occurs.

Two other G. O. P. candidates in the 2d, who have not been so active as Downs, Pridmore, and Brown, are Frank O'Leath and Fred Burt. O'Leath, an insurance man, advocates greater attention to the welfare of service men. Burt is for allowing 18 year olds to vote, for an international association without surrender of American rights, and for the abolition of international cartels.

All the candidates in this district have expressed themselves as against all forms of racial discrimination.

Barzaloux, John A. Cordes, and Lewis Goldberg, 2d lieutenant.

EAST CHARGES NEW DEALERS AID OPPONENT

5th Ward Committeeman Battle Rages.

BY EDWARD SCHREIBER.

With the ward committeeman campaigns on the south side rolling into high gear the battle for the Republican post in the 5th ward between the veteran incumbent John Leonard East and Joseph P. Leeney, who has the support of the Deneen-West forces took top billing.

"There is a vicious conspiracy by rabid New Dealers to defeat me," East said last week. "Proof of this was sent out over the signature of my opponent who boasts the support of the 5th ward members of the Independent Voters of Illinois."

Says They're Democrats.

"Election records show that these men have all been voting as Democrats and in 1943 one of them, Jerome G. Kerwin, shouted loudly for a fourth term for President Roosevelt. Now he and the rest of his mob are trying to dictate the choice of an official of the Republican party. It's a typical New Deal stunt."

The "proof" referred to by East was an indorsement of Leeney by the members of the Independent Voters group who live in the ward sent out by Leeney headquarters and with his signature at the bottom.

Professor Backs Leeney.

Among those named as Leeney supporters in the letter was Francis E. McMahon, an associate professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago.

McMahon resigned from a similar position at the University of Notre Dame last fall after a difference with the university over speeches.

McMahon has been a frequent speaker against isolationism and was formerly Indiana state chairman of the Fight for Freedom committee, an organization which urged intervention in the war before Pearl Harbor. He supported the Democratic rival of Rep. Robert A. Grant [R., Ind.] in the last congressional election.

Call East Bipartisan.

The Leeney supporters have charged East with bipartisan politics and entangling alliances. They point out that Leeney has been a Republican precinct captain in the ward for 25 years.

In the 6th ward two members of the organization of the late Ald. Patrick Sheridan Smith are in a bitter fight for the ward committeeman post.

They are John S. Norris, 6417 Kimbark av., and Oliver H. Bovik, 6805 Anthony av. Both served as precinct captains prior to Smith's death. Each claims the support of the existing organization and each charges the other with bipartisan politics.

S. W. SERGEANT COMPLETES HIS 50TH MISSION

Tech. Sgt. James M. Farrington, 11528 S. Hale av., has flown 50 missions as a chief radio operator-gunner on a Flying Fortress in the Mediterranean theater. He has taken part in raids over Germany, Greece, France, and Italy, and has received the air medal with 10 oak leaf clusters for his flying combat duties and the destruction of two enemy fighters.

One of his most harrowing experiences, according to Farrington, occurred when his formation was nearing an enemy target. "The Jerries fired everything and got two of our engines," he relates. "There was so much flak the sky looked like a polka dot dress. Just in sight of the African coast, on the return trip, all but one engine failed, but we managed to land with that one engine."

Farrington entered the army in June, 1942, and received his gunner's wings at Tyndall field, Fla.

Joe Louis Baby in Style Show

"O, my gosh! I make my first public appearance tomorrow night," Jacqueline, 14 month old daughter of Sgt. and Mrs. Joe Louis, says with awe. She will appear with her mother, Marva, in the Easter parade of "Fashion Fantasy" at the Woodlawn A. M. E. church.

MRS. JOE LOUIS TO BE STARRED IN STYLE REVUE

Church Show Set for Tomorrow Night.

"Fashion Fantasy" is the title of the seventh annual style revue of the Woodlawn A. M. E. church, 65th st. and Evans av., which will be staged at 8:15 p. m. tomorrow in the Du Sable auditorium, 49th and State sts.

Mrs. Joe Louis.

Mrs. Marva Louis Barrow, wife of the heavyweight champion of the world, Sgt. Joe Louis, will be the featured model. Expected to co-star with the champ's wife is their 14 month old daughter, Jacqueline, who will be making her first public appearance.

The show will open with an American soldier in a distant camp reading a letter from home. He falls asleep and dreams of Easter. The Easter parade passes before him and then he is awakened by reveille.

Mrs. Louis, who is known for her stylish clothes, will appear in each of the five scenes wearing ensembles from her wardrobe. She will be supported by a coterie of mannequins, among whom will be three out of town models.

Among the entertainers will be Ross and McCain, ballroom dancers; Leon Abbey, violinist, and the Great Lakes naval octet. Ruth Townsend Porter will be the style commentator, and Eddie Plique will be master of ceremonies. Music will be furnished by Capt. Walter Dyett's orchestra.

Miss C. Novella Trotter is general chairman and the Rev. Archibald J. Carey Jr. is minister of the church.

TEMPLE TO HOLD SEDER SERVICES NEXT WEEK-END

Friday evening at sundown the first Seder of the Passover holiday will be celebrated by members of the Jewish faith.

The emancipation of the Jewish people under the leadership of Moses from the enslavement that they had been forced to endure under the tyrannical oppression of the Pharoahs is regarded by the Jewish people as one of the most important events in Jewish history. This annual celebration emphasizes the recurrent struggle for freedom.

Hutchins has announced.

Scholarships valued at more than $50,000 will be granted by the university to students entering the college in either June or September. Applicants for the scholarships, which are granted on the basis of aptitude examinations testing a student's ability to think, not what he already knows, must file for admission and the examination by tomorrow. Examinations will be held April 22.

Students who have completed their sophomore year in high school will be eligible for 20 metropolitan scholarships, valued at $300 each, 12 national scholarships valued at $600, and 12 at $300. There are 42 scholarships covering one year's tuition also to be granted to high school seniors who will enter in the third year of college and complete their liberal education in two years instead of four.

JAP RADIO TELLS OF COMIC STRIP VICTORY DRIVE

Reveals Plan to Bring 'U. S. to Knees.'

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Japanese people, whom many western observers say lack a sense of humor, are going to use their comic strips to bolster their fighting spirit, according to a broadcast from Tokio. The Japanese government will set up a "Greater Asia Comic Strip Study society" with this objective, the broadcast stated, adding that "with its formation, a large drive to bring the enemy, the United States and Great Britain, to their knees will commence."

Some idea of the humorous impact the society will make on the Japs can be gained from the further announcement that the comic strips will be written "under the sponsorship and guidance of the military government."

One of the better laughs of the season was the Fred Allen-Archie Gardner exchange about the blind rat which has been stealing the cheese at Duffy's tavern. It was guided, said Archie, by a Seeing Eye mouse!

Fanny [Baby Snooks] Brice is a grandma. Her daughter, Frances [Mrs. Ray Stark], is the mother of an 8 pound boy. . . . It's reported that comedian Danny Kaye will be teamed with Miss Brice when she and Frank Morgan split up at the end of this season. Morgan will have a show of his own next year. . . . This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, April 3.

As soon as the perennials show growth or activity, take the spading fork and carefully turn under the finer parts of the mulching material, especially if it consists of barn yard manure. Do not spade too deep, for the roots may be injured, altho most perennials will grow under adverse conditions.

Spray Bordeaux around the roses and perennials that are susceptible to fungous attacks. Spores lurk in the soil over winter and early spraying will eliminate them before they develop and attack the foliage.

Tuesday, April 4.

By this time some of the vegetables that require early planting should be in the ground. Sweet peas should be sown, for they revel in a cool condition.

Most vegetables are sown in April, from about the 10th on, at which time the soil is workable and operations can be done without excessive dampness.

Wednesday, April 5.

Gardeners should not attempt to grow certain kinds of plants if the soil and atmospheric conditions are not suitable. The small area can produce good crops if a critical study is made of the possibilities and varieties selected that are recommended. Do not try root crops unless the soil is suitable, but grow more leaf crops.

In smoky areas, grow the following: radishes, leaf lettuce, onions from sets, endive, a few parsley plants, Swiss chard [a form of beets], mustard for greens, and kale. Carrots and beets like a sandy loam, but all vegetables delight in a soil that is well drained and contains an abundance of humus.

Thursday, April 6.

Two fine annuals that are easy growers are the annual poppies and portulaca. Seeds should be sown early and care should be taken not to sow too thickly.

Take dry sand and place with the seed before sowing, for it will scatter the seed more widely. Portulaca is easily transplanted but poppies do best when no attempt is made to transplant them.

Poppies may be scattered in the borders to give a fine touch of color. Cut the virgin's bower [clematis paniculata] almost to the ground. It flowers in the fall.

Friday, April 7.

Many things can be started in the coldframe or hotbed now. If there is no frame at hand investigate the possibilities of installing one, for it is one of the finest assets of the garden.

Ordinary window storm sash may be used or standard sash purchased. Watch the ventilating and watering. Plant pansies as soon as they are available, for they do best in cool weather.

Saturday, April 8.

One of the finest flowering plants to combine with vegetables is the gladiolus.

The plant takes little room for the foliage is swordlike, growing upward, and the flower stalk has the same habit and does not interfere with other plants. There are so many varieties that it is a matter of personal choice.

Try some of the garden chrysanthemums, for they are of extraordinary beauty during favorable seasons.

Prepared in cooperation with Garfield park conservatory.

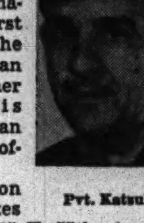
TARAWA MARINE SACRIFICES LIFE FOR 'THOSE KIDS'

South Sider, 29, Saves Younger Buddies.

This is a story about a valiant marine, told by a marine corps combat correspondent, stationed in the Pacific. Demosthenes V. Katsulus was a marine private first class. At 29 he was older than most of the other marines in his outfit, older than some of his officers.



Pvt. Katsulis.

The marine, son of Mrs. Marikes V. Katsulis, 1765 E. 55th st., was a social science instructor at the Y. M. C. A. college and probably could have had a commission. He preferred to stay in the ranks.

In Pacific 3 Months.

His buddies called him Danny. He had been in the Pacific just slightly more than three months when the marines hit Tarawa.

His unit was sent up to Betio Island to mop up the remaining Japs after the atoll was secured. Reports said there were more than 100 of them.

For three days they marched. The equatorial sun beat down mercilessly. The hot sand was felt thru shoe leather. Every few 100 yards the marines had to wade from one island to another thru water that was sometimes neck deep. Their clothes were never completely dry.

On the night of the third day, another outfit encountered a few Japs. The next morning Danny's unit marched up to meet them.

Japs in Last Stand.

Making a frantic last stand, the Japs poured rifle, machine gun, and mortar fire at the oncoming marines. With little cover, the marines deployed as best they could. Hugging the ground, they were relatively safe. Other marine units moved around behind the Japs in a flanking movement.

To return the Japs' fire, the marines had to expose themselves to the heavy Jap fire. The enemy was less than 100 yards away.

Over the sound of rifle and machine guns and mortars came a voice: "You kids stay down. I'll take care of them. I'm old. I don't make any difference."

Danny Pours It On.

Standing there was Danny Katsulis. He was firing his Browning automatic rifle—20 rounds per magazine. He emptied one, put in another, and another, and another.

For about half an hour "old" Danny poured them in. Inevitably he was hit. When a navy hospital corpsman came up to bind his wound, Danny waved him away.

"I'm old," he repeated. "It doesn't matter about me. Take care of those kids."

Danny lived an hour and a half after he was hit. He was buried near the spot where he fell. He'd have been glad to know that the battle ended that day, and that 156 Japs, the last survivors on Tarawa, were killed.

"The ironic part of it is," his friends said, "that he couldn't pass his physical and was rejected for service." But Danny, who once was a scholarship student at the University of Chicago, consulted expert physicians and after a year and a half of treatment was able to qualify physically and enter the marines.

SCHOOLS BEGIN NEW DRIVE FOR WASTE PAPER

Chicago's elementary public and parochial schools collected 1,753,050 pounds of waste paper in the first week of a new contest for $1,000 in prizes donated by the Chicago waste paper campaign committee.

Additional returns are expected to bring the total to a larger amount than the one thus far tabulated, said salvage officials. Already the collection has doubled the amount of waste paper gathered the first week of a previous prize contest for the schools.

Transfiguration school, 5044 N. Rockwell st., led collections in the parochial schools with its total of 4,265 pounds of waste paper, or 41.40 pounds per pupil.

In second and third place, respectively, were St. Thomas' school, 5467 Woodlawn av., with a total of 16,899 pounds, or 32.44 pounds per pupil, and St. Edward's school, 4343 Sunnyside av., with a total of 12,900 pounds, or 19.57 pounds per pupil.

Leading the public elementary school collections was Onahan school, 6600 Raven st., which collected 44,877 pounds of waste paper, or 83.26 pounds per capita.

Other leaders were Irving Park school, 3815 N. Kedvale av., with a total of 38,000 pounds, or 65.40 pounds per pupil, and Barton school, 7650 S. Wolcott av., with 32,620 pounds, or 53.9 pounds per pupil.

FRIARS AWAIT CHAPEL RITES OF HOLY WEEK

BY EILEEN BURKE.

The prayerful days of Holy week, when Christians thruout the world pause in solemn contemplation of spiritual truths, will be little different from ordinary days inside the Dominican house of studies, River Forest. Here, in the white, cross shaped building set aloofly back from the street, are 125 young men who spend every day of the year studying and meditating on spiritual things.

A typical day for these Dominican friars who, after eight years at the monastery will be sent out as missionary priests, teachers or to parochial work, begins shortly after 5 a. m. with recitation of the first part of their office [the reading of psalms and other excerpts from the Old and New Testaments]. This is followed by mass, then breakfast which, like all other meals, is eaten in silence while one friar reads aloud from a religious book.

Classes Fill Mornings.

During the rest of the morning, these students attend classes in philosophy or theology. At 11:50 a. m. they return to the chapel for vespers and at 12:30 they chant the Compline, second part of their office for the day. The afternoon is given over to some form of outdoor recreation, such as football, baseball, or whatever sport is in season. At 5:20 p. m. they again gather in the chapel for another period of prayer and meditation.

Of the eight years which most of these friars remain at the Dominican priory, one is spent as a novice, three in the study of philosophy, and three in studying theology. The men are then ordained, but stay another year at the monastery for the further study of theology.

Students include young men from almost every state in the country, and from various South American countries. Two years of college is a requisite for entrance into the priory, but most of the students have their B. A. degrees before they enter.

Lead Life of Study.

If a student priest has shown an aptitude for a particular field during his eight years of study, he may be given a further two year supplementary course to fit him for some specialized work.

In the terse language of St. Thomas Aquinas, most renowned Dominican of all time, the work of the Dominican order is "to study and to contemplate." Therefore, said the Rev. J. A. Driscoll, house of studies prior, these young priests readily understand that study, for them, will "end only with death."

This Dominican priory was established in 1925. One of the oldest and largest religious orders in the world, the Dominicans are distinguished particularly by their democratic form of government. Founded in 1216 in southern France by St. Dominic, a Spaniard, the Dominicans are known as a mendicant order. The word "mendicant," explained Father Driscoll, is symbolic of the feature that differentiated friars from all other forms of religious life in the 13th century, for they were supported by alms and not by landed estates or benefices.

Friars Differ from Monks.

Friars are different from monks, the prior continued, in that they leave the cloister to work in the world, while monks remain cloistered. Government of the Dominican order is substantially the same today as it was seven centuries ago, he said, and all superiors are elected for appointed terms by elected representatives of each province. The government also includes a species of referendum and recall, which may be used to limit a provincial's term of office.

"Among the symbols that are proper to the Dominican order and characteristic of its spirit, perhaps the habit is the most conspicuous and its liturgy the most misunderstood," said the prior.

Holy Week Services.

Holy week will be marked by several unique ceremonies at the house of studies. The Tenebrae will be sung Wednesday, Holy Thursday, and Good Friday afternoons. During this singing of Christ's passion, 15 candles on the altar will be extinguished, one by one. On Holy Thursday the friars will stand watch thru the night in their chapel. The washing of the feet and the washing of the altar are two other ceremonies which will take place Holy Thursday.

G. O. P. SEES VICTORY IN CICERO

G.O.P. CONGRESS HOPES GAINING ON WEST SIDE

Report Big Swing in Sentiment.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Four congressional districts on the west and southwest sides have gone heavily Democratic in recent elections, so heavily that some professional politicians regard the chances of Republicans breaking into them as slight. This view, however, is not shared by candidates for the G. O. P. nominations, who believe a landslide against the Rooseveltian New Deal is building up.

One of these districts is the 8th, which lies in part west of the loop. It is a narrow territory extending from Fullerton av. to Roosevelt rd. and has a population of about 125,000. The vote in 1940 was more than 3 to 1 Democratic.

G. O. P. Candidate Hopeful.

John F. Uczciwek, 940 Milwaukee av., real estate dealer and attorney, has Republican organization support in his race for the nomination and is making an active campaign which he describes as a warmup for the November election.

"Unexpected landslides have happened before and they can happen again," he said. "A great change is taking place in this district, particularly among the foreign born. It would not surprise me to see a Republican victory in the fall."

Uczciwek [pronounced Ooch-chi-veeck] is 40 years old, married and the father of five children. He was born in the district. He obtained his education in the parochial schools, De Paul university, and the Chicago Law school.

Leader in Polish Circles.

Formerly in the legal and fraternal insurance department of the Polish Roman Catholic union, and also manager of its real estate department, Uczciwek has conducted his own realty and insurance business for the last four years. He is president of the St. George society.

Running against Uczciwek are Reinald A. Kosinski of 1948 Division st. and James J. Corbett of 1814 N. Wolcott av. Corbett is a nationalist.

The incumbent congressman, Thomas S. Gordon, has no contest in the Democratic primary.

In the tiny 5th district, lying between Roosevelt rd. and 22d st., there are no primary races. Adolph J. Sabath, Democrat, and Max Price, Republican, are the choices. Price is a garage owner.

Race in 6th District.

G. O. P. candidates in the 4th and 6th districts said they were pleased with the election prospects.

In the big 6th, Marvin M. Kurth of Stickney, an investigator for the state department of revenue, has organized support for the G. O. P. nomination. He is opposed by Charles J. Anderson Jr., 1816 Monroe st., an electrical contractor.

Kurth, who is of draft age, but has been rejected for service, favors a greater insistence by congress that it be allowed to perform its constitutional duties without interference by the executive branch of government.

"Foreign affairs are so closely intermingled with domestic affairs that a President who took absolute power over foreign affairs would automatically become a complete dictator," Kurth said. "Congress and the people must be taken into the President's confidence.

Holds People Must Rule.

"Then our senators and congressmen can properly appraise and pass judgment on foreign questions—and when that is done all efforts to ignore public opinion will fail. The people must rule themselves by constitutional methods."

Anderson, who is 36 years old and a bachelor, is a champion of rigid nationalism and of the restoration of private enterprise. He is an ardent foe of communism, burocracy, the New Deal and all forms of regimentation.

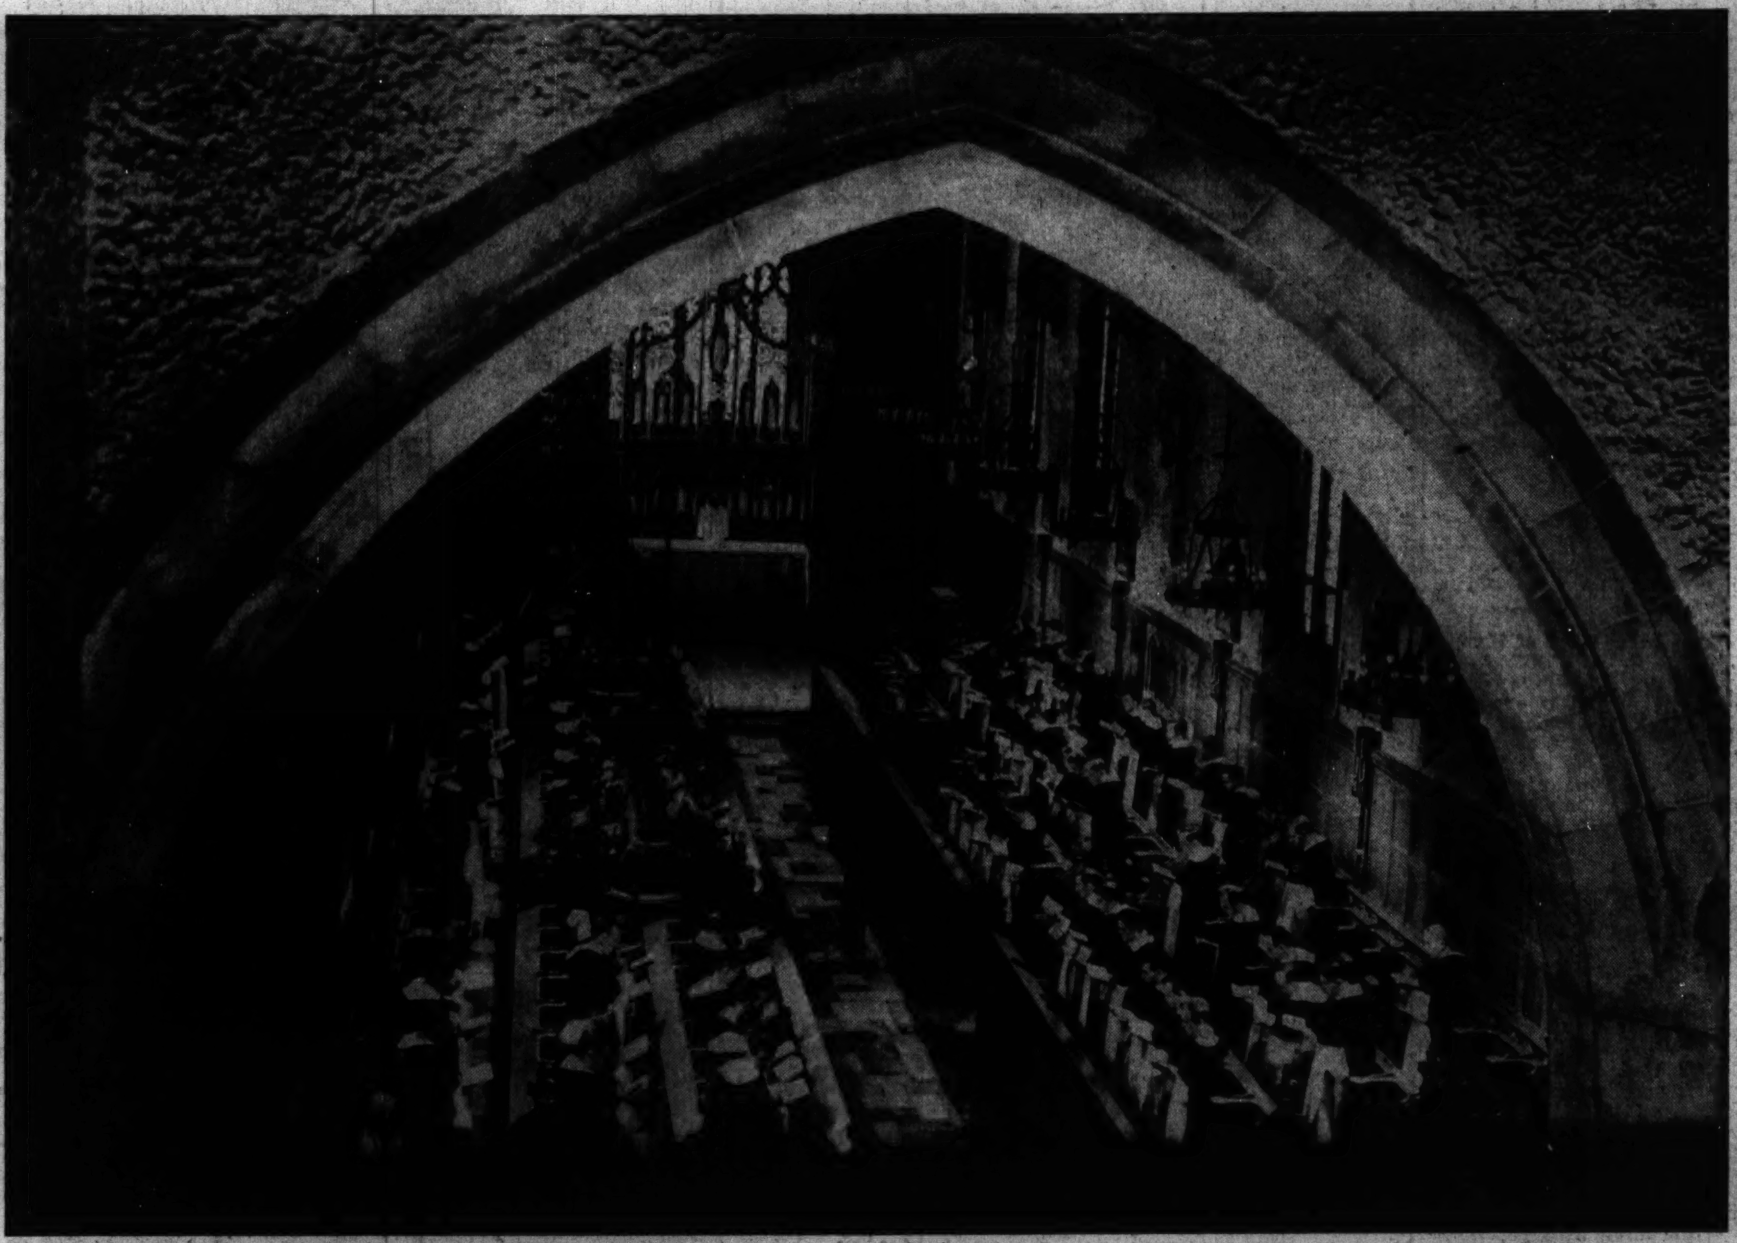
The 4th district, which lies between 22d st. and 51st st., with Cicero av. and State st. its farthest east and west boundaries, has a Republican contest. Most of the organized strength is behind Leo J. Kozicki, 1837 W. 36th st., a real estate dealer and owner of a printing business.

Kozicki is opposed by Henry J. Shelton of 4434 S. Sawyer av., a nationalist who wants MacArthur for President, and James A. McGrath of 3612 S. Union av. Martin Gorski, incumbent Democrat, has no primary fight.

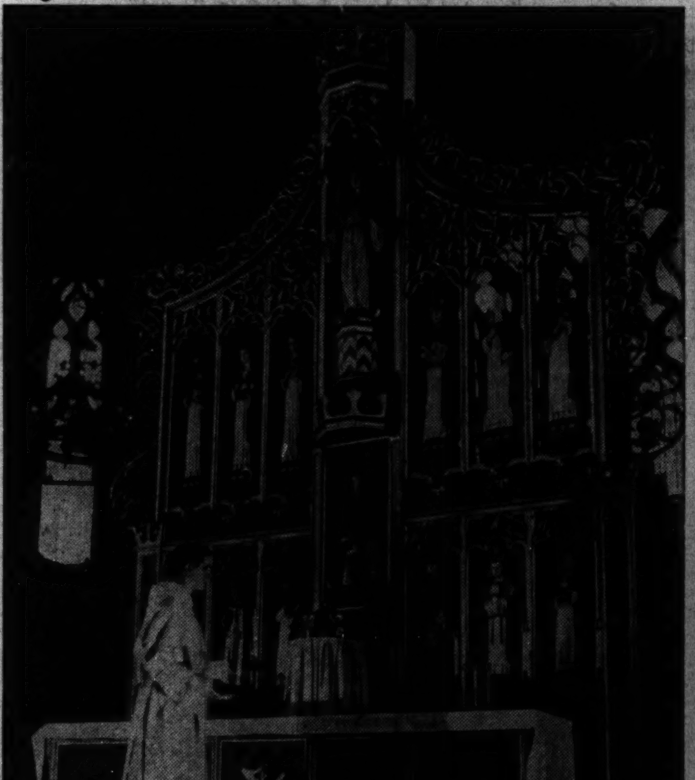
W. SIDE LEGION WOMEN TO HOLD SEWING SESSION

Mrs. Rose Erickson, a past president of Austin unit, has been appointed to the auxiliary committee set up by the department of Illinois to co-operate with the Legion in aid to World War II. veterans.

Monastery at River Forest Keeps Ancient Traditions of Dominicans



In a low chant which rises in sudden crescendos thru the hush of the chapel, these friars at the Dominican House of Studies, River Forest, are saying the Matins of their divine office. This is the first part of the service of the breviary which is read aloud daily.



Framed in the gold colored pierced carving which decorates the altar are inset statues of 12 Dominican saints. First in the top group is St. Thomas Aquinas, regarded as one of the most learned members the Dominican order has produced. Next in that row is St. Catherine of Sienna, another illustrious Dominican.

At the wooden lecturn, set between the two rows of stalls, one friar reads aloud the daily lesson of the office which consists of excerpts from scripture or lives of the saints. A friar also reads aloud in the house refectory during every meal. At the right, like the scriptorium in an old world monastery, is the book bindery which takes up several rooms in the House of Studies basement. Here, with blue denim aprons over their white habits, novices cut and bind books for the monastery library which has some 30,000 volumes. The work is done entirely by hand with the help of a press and a cutter.

Standing at their stalls, placed lengthwise in the monastic pattern, are 12 novices of the group of 125 who will have six years of study at the Dominican monastery before being sent out as missionary priests, teachers or to do parochial work.

UNPAID POLICE IS AN ISSUE IN VOTE TUESDAY

New Deal Regime Another Factor.

BY LEWIS HUNT.

Cicero's town election Tuesday, in which the Republicans are hopeful of complete victory for the first time in 12 years, is attracting attention far beyond the suburb's boundaries because it will be the first Illinois contest of this Presidential year in which national leadership is a consideration.

Cicero went Democratic with the nation in 1932. Since then the Republicans have trimmed the Democrats' margin each election, but they did not breach the town hall until four years ago, when they elected Frank J. Christenson assessor. Last year, when only one trusteeship was filled, the Republicans put in their man, Jerry Holecek, by 4,928 votes.

National Affairs an Issue.

Township leaders of both parties are counting on national affairs to sway the local voters. The Democrats are relying on the appeal they say President Roosevelt has always had for foreign groups and skilled workers, who predominate in Cicero. The Republicans assert many of foreign descent are coming into their party and predict that Cicero will participate in the surge of Republican sentiment noted in recent elections thruout the country.

Jerry Dolezal, Republican township chairman and candidate for town collector, displayed a letter of indorsement by the American Slovak Civic clubs of Cicero, whose president, Jake Stanislaw, was formerly a Democratic organization worker. Other foreign groups also have pledged support to the Republicans, Dolezal said, and he predicted this trend may have an important effect on similar nationalities in Chicago wards.

Cites Nationalistic Groups.

"Cicero's voting population of about 37,000 includes 18,000 Czecho-Slovaks, or Bohemians, and about 10,000 Poles, and in certain Chicago wards there are large groups of these nationalities who have been under Democratic domination," he said. "A Republican victory in Cicero would be very effective in opening the way to many of these voters to join the party."

The Democratic candidate for town president, Henry J. Sandusky, who has been police magistrate many years, said:

"This is a community of many nationalities. For the most part they are mechanics and hand craftsmen, thrifty people who own their own homes. People of this kind have always had a high regard for President Roosevelt, and it is just as strong now as ever."

"Time for a Change."

The Republicans are carrying the fight to their opponents. With the slogan, "It's Time for a Change," they charge the Democrats with having piled up in their 12 years of town rule more than $4,000,000 indebtedness in bonds and overdue bills, including the last three and one-half months' pay due policemen and firemen. The Republicans are working for a big turnout Tuesday. The larger the vote the more decisive the victory, they say.

Spokesmen for the Democrats say they do not look for more than a normal vote, altho in Cicero that means about 90 per cent of registration. For one thing, Sandusky suggested, many in the town are working long hours and odd shifts in war plants and they may not find it convenient to get to the polls, which will be open from 6 until 5.

Finds Citizens Aroused.

Dolezal disagreed. He declared that the citizens are indignant over the deficit in the town's finances and also the difficulties in school district 99, which was forced to pay its teachers March 24 in orders bearing 4½ per cent interest. Altho school trustees are elected on a nonpartisan ticket, all but one of the present board members are Democratic party workers.

"The most discussed subject in town right now is what has become of the school district's $440,000 working fund," said the Republican chairman. "Whatever happened to it, the people hold the Democrats responsible."

Three trustees of school district 99 will be elected Saturday, April 8, and the Cicero education council, composed of parent-teacher associations, taxpayers' organizations, and similar bodies, has selected three candidates. In response to the Republicans' published demand, "why should Democratic precinct captains be elected to the school board?" many members of the council, Dolezal said, are working for the Republican town ticket.

"They know they can't get the Democrats off the school board if the Republicans can't win the town," he said.

Runs As Town.

Cicero has the town form of government, with a special charter granted by the legislature. Its officers are the town president, town clerk, collector, supervisor, assessor, and four trustees. One trustee is elected each year and thus there are six offices to be filled Tuesday.

The Republican candidates are: President, Joseph S. Kral, mana-

NEW LEGION POST HAS 1ST ANNUAL DANCE SATURDAY

World War II. Veterans Form Organization.

John Shea.

Clarke-O'Reilly American Legion post, composed entirely of veterans of the present war, will hold its first annual dance Saturday night at the roof garden of the Midwest Athletic club, 6 N. Hamlin av. This is the first such post to be organized in Illinois, and the third in the United States, according to John Shea, commander.

The new post was formed last November when a group of discharged veterans, talking over their collective experiences, decided they wanted the benefits and companionship of a Legion post. But, because of the age difference between themselves and the World War I. veterans, the group preferred to organize a Legion post strictly for veterans of this war.

Honor Two Killed in Action.

Lt. O'Reilly attended Quigley seminary, Assumption college, Ontario, Canada, and was graduated from Loyola school of dentistry. In the dental examination for the navy, Lt. O'Reilly placed fourth highest in the country. He went overseas in October, 1942.

Lt. Clarke was graduated from the University of South Carolina. He enlisted in the army shortly after Pearl Harbor. The air medal was awarded him posthumously. His two brothers, Francis and Andrew, also are in service.

Gets Charter in January.

Clarke-O'Reilly post received its charter from the 5th district Illinois department of the Legion last January. Representatives of the department backed the idea "one hundred per cent," said John Shea, commander of the new post. Purpose of the post, he said, is to represent veterans in all affairs of the veterans' administration, rehabilitation and employment.

"When our friends, brothers or relatives come home from war they will find a helping hand in our organization," the commander added.

Oak Park to Use Salvage Drive Fund for Memorial

Money collected from the waste paper and tin can salvage drive in Oak Park each month will be used for an honor roll memorial for service men and women, the village board announced recently. The proposal to turn over all proceeds to the treasurer of the honor roll commission was made by Robert F. McMaster, village president.

LYONS ORATORS VIE FOR ANNUAL SCHOOL HONORS

As the four inscrutable faced judges left their seats in the Lyons village hall, the recent annual oratorical contest sponsored by Emil Scheive post and auxiliary of the American Legion neared its most intense moment. The audience that had packed the building had heard eight representatives of the four schools in the suburb give their opinions on what contributions were desirable for producing good citizenship. Which ones would be awarded the medals?

Mrs. Ruth Mitch, Americanism chairman of the auxiliary of Scheive post, who began creating interest in the contest the first of the year and who presided at the program, appealed for patience. Led by Homer Wilkins, the school band, wearing white uniforms with blue capes, played additional selections to tide over the suspense. They included a stirring Civil war medley. The band was seated on the stage with mountain and lake scenery painted against the wall for a background.

No Stumbling Over Words.

Not one of the 7th and 8th grade orators had faltered as they took their turns. Since early March, intraschool contests had eliminated all but two pupils from each school. Voices, loud and clear, quoted Patrick Henry and Nathan Hale, but some put in a phrase or two pointing out the evil of black markets and the virtue of waste paper drives.

The annual contest in Lyons is a community project participated in by the entire village regardless of race, creed, or politics. Anxious relatives and friends were welcomed by T. T. Bulat, president of Lyons. There were patriotic songs by the school chorus led by Miss Helen Ryan, Mrs. T. K. Rinaker, past national president of the American Legion auxiliary, came from her home at Carlinville, Ill., to praise the young orators and the spirit of the community.

Judges Relieve Suspense.

Finally the judges put in their appearance. They were Elmer Pflug, commander of the 5th district of the American Legion; Mrs. Ruth Allard of Oak Park, and Mrs. Lillian Nix and Miss Margaret E. Kelly of Chicago. They had been marking their cards all evening. The winners:

Shirley Baum of Washington school, first; Margaret Polick of St. Hugh school, second, and Helen Cerny of Costello school, third. To Washington school also went the traveling plaque for another year.

James Henry of Costello school was awarded a $25 war bond for having written the best patriotic essay. There were 75 entries in the essay contest with four English teachers from the Chicago schools acting as judges.

KOSTELANETZ'S SHOW WILL BE WAXED FOR A.E.F.

The Andre Kostelanetz musical show over WBBM-CBS at 3:30 p. m. today will be recorded on army V-Discs, records shipped overseas and used for the entertainment of American fighters. In all, 56,000 discs will be sent abroad as a result of the program; 8,000 recordings are to be made of each of seven numbers.

This is the first radio program devoted entirely to music to be recorded on V-Discs. The program has been designed so that engineers can make records devoid of commentary, commercial or otherwise.

Cole Porter's "I Love You," Barroso's "Brazil Morena," and Brahams' "Lullaby" are among the works scheduled. Soprano Eleanor Steber will sing Kreisler's "Stars In My Eyes." The first movement of Grieg's Piano Concerto is to be played by Sgt. Eugene List.

MOZART QUARTET TO BE FEATURE OF AIR THEATER

Mozart's Quartet in B-flat major will be played on the broadcast of the Chicago Theater of the Air or the Air Symphony hour on W-G-N from 11 p. m. to 12 midnight tomorrow. The Mutual network broadcasts the last half hour of the program.

The W-G-N Symphony orchestra will be conducted by Walter Steindel. The program will be opened with two movements of Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony."

The quartet to be featured in the Mozart work is comprised of Robert Quick, first violinist, Walter Steindel, second violinist, Armand Roth, violist, and Adolf Hoffmann, cellist. The orchestra also will play the overture from "Herod" by Hadley.

SHOSTAKOVICH'S 8TH SYMPHONY IN PREMIER TODAY

The eighth symphony by Dmitri Shostakovich, noted Russian composer, will be given its American premiere by the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra in its broadcast over WBBM-CBS from 2 p. m. to 3:30 today. The symphony, in five movements, is said to reflect the "new optimism" of the Russian people and the Red army's "spirit of attack." William Downs, CBS commentator, recently brought the score from Russia to New York. Maj. Gen. Charles M. Wesson, assistant lend-lease administrator, will speak during the broadcast.

JAP RADIO TELLS OF COMIC STRIP VICTORY DRIVE

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Japanese people, whom many western observers say lack a sense of humor, are going to use their comic strips to bolster their fighting spirit, according to a broadcast from Tokio. The Japanese government will set up a "Greater Asia Comic Strip Study society" with this objective, the broadcast stated, adding that "with its formation, a large drive to bring the enemy, the United States and Great Britain, to their knees will commence."

Some idea of the humorous impact the society will make on the Japs can be gained from the further announcement that the comic strips will be written "under the sponsorship and guidance of the military government."

News and notes: Sammy Kaye's Wednesday night show over CBS will be replaced effective this week with a new musical series featuring Allan Jones and Frankie Carle's orchestra. . . . For the time being Lum and Abner will go on as before. Abner, played by Norris Goff, has passed his physical, but has been given a 60 day deferment to finish a movie. . . . Dennis Day has been inducted as an ensign in the navy and reports for duty on April 15. . . . One of the better laughs of the season was the Fred Allen-Archie Gardner exchange about the blind rat which has been stealing the cheese at Duffy's tavern. It was guided, said Archie, by a Seeing Eye mouse!

FRIARS AWAIT CHAPEL RITES OF HOLY WEEK

Follow Ancient Rules at River Forest.

BY EILEEN BURKE.

The prayerful days of Holy week, when Christians thruout the world pause in solemn contemplation of spiritual truths, will be little different from ordinary days inside the Dominican house of studies, River Forest. Here, in the white, cross shaped building set aloofly back from the street, are 125 young men who spend every day of the year studying and meditating on spiritual things.

A typical day for these Dominican friars who, after eight years at the monastery will be sent out as missionary priests, teachers or to parochial work, begins shortly after 5 a. m. with recitation of the first part of their office [the reading of psalms and other excerpts from the Old and New Testaments]. This is followed by mass, then breakfast which, like all other meals, is eaten in silence while one friar reads aloud from a religious book.

Classes Fill Mornings.

During the rest of the morning, these students attend classes in philosophy or theology. At 11:50 a. m. they return to the chapel for vespers and at 12:30 they chant the Compline, second part of their office for the day. The afternoon is given over to some form of outdoor recreation, such as football, baseball, or whatever sport is in season. At 5:20 p. m. they again gather in the chapel for another period of prayer and meditation.

Of the eight years, which most of these friars remain at the Dominican priory, one is spent as a novice, three in the study of philosophy, and three in studying theology. The men are then ordained, but stay another year at the monastery for the further study of theology.

Students include young men from almost every state in the country, and from various South American countries. Two years of college is a requisite for entrance into the priory, but most of the students have their B. A. degrees before they enter.

Lead Life of Study.

If a student priest has shown an aptitude for a particular field during his eight years of study, he may be given a further two year supplementary course to fit him for some specialized work.

In the terse language of St. Thomas Aquinas, most renowned Dominican of all time, the work of the Dominican order is "to study and to contemplate." Therefore, said the Rev. J. A. Driscoll, house of studies prior, these young priests readily understand that study, for them, will "end only with death."

This Dominican priory was established in 1925. One of the oldest and largest religious orders in the world, the Dominicans are distinguished particularly by their democratic form of government. Founded in 1216 in southern France by St. Dominic, a Spaniard, the Dominicans are known as a mendicant order. The word "mendicant," explained Father Driscoll, is symbolic of the feature that differentiated friars from all other forms of religious life in the 13th century, for they were supported by alms and not by landed estates or benefices.

Friars Differ from Monks.

Friars are different from monks, the prior continued, in that they leave the cloister to work in the world, while monks remain cloistered. Government of the Dominican order is substantially the same today as it was seven centuries ago, he said, and all superiors are elected for appointed terms by elected representatives of each province.

The government also includes a species of referendum and recall, which may be used to limit a provincial's term of office.

Blend Old and New.

Both are symbolic of the blending of the old and the new, he said. The frost-white habit, with its cape of black, is the regular religious garb with the addition of the scapular, symbolic of Mary's mantle. The Dominican liturgy, while essentially Roman [more ancient by three hundred years than the Roman rite as it is known today] contains, said Father Driscoll, "something of the exuberance, the splendor and the simplicity of the medieval spirit which gave it form."

Grounds of the River Forest priory extend over 40 wooded, landscaped acres. The Vermont granite building like the ritual of the order, is "a blending of the old and the new" in its English-Gothic architecture. Rounded arches soften the sharpness of a true Gothic design.

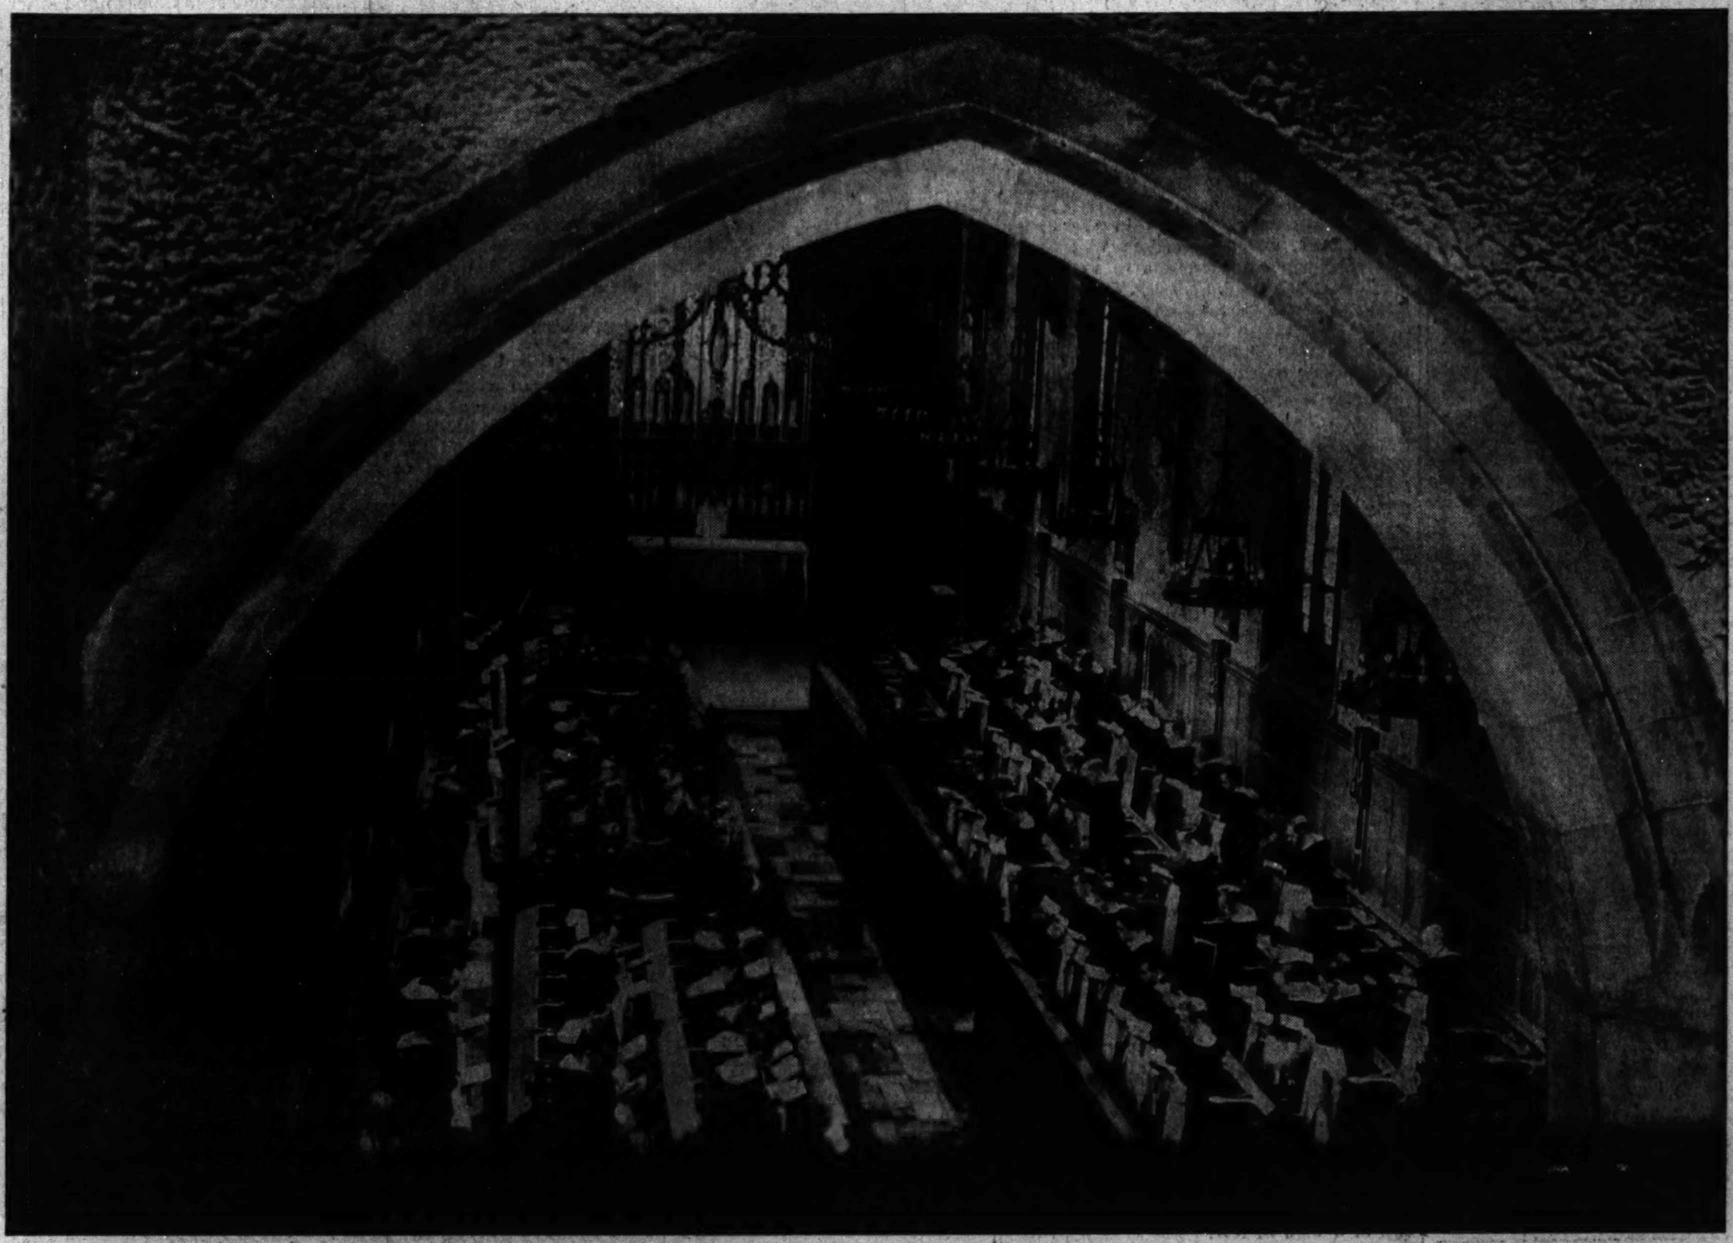
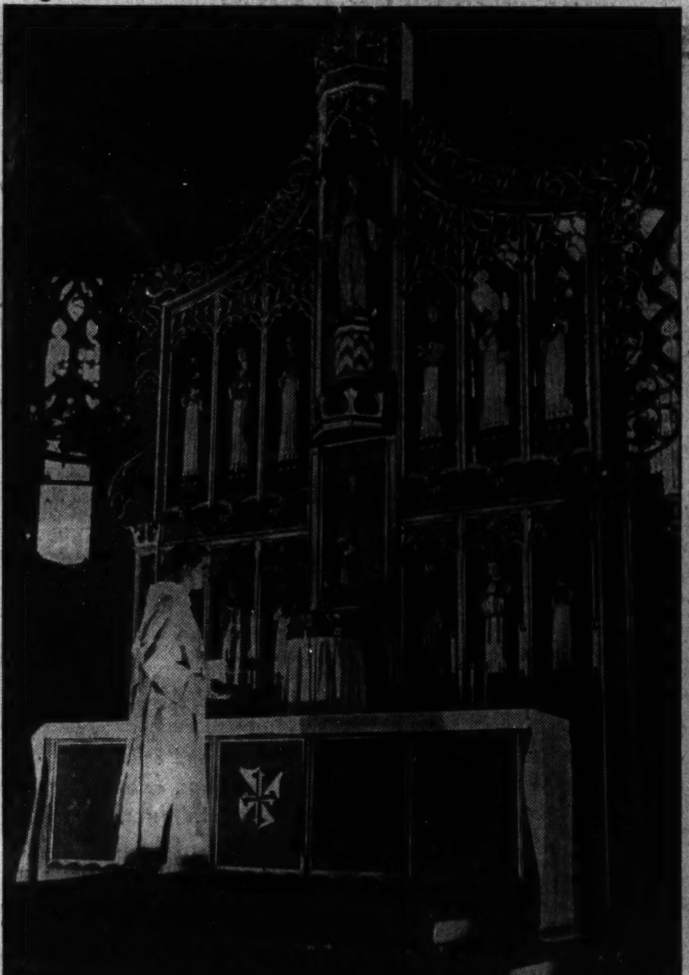
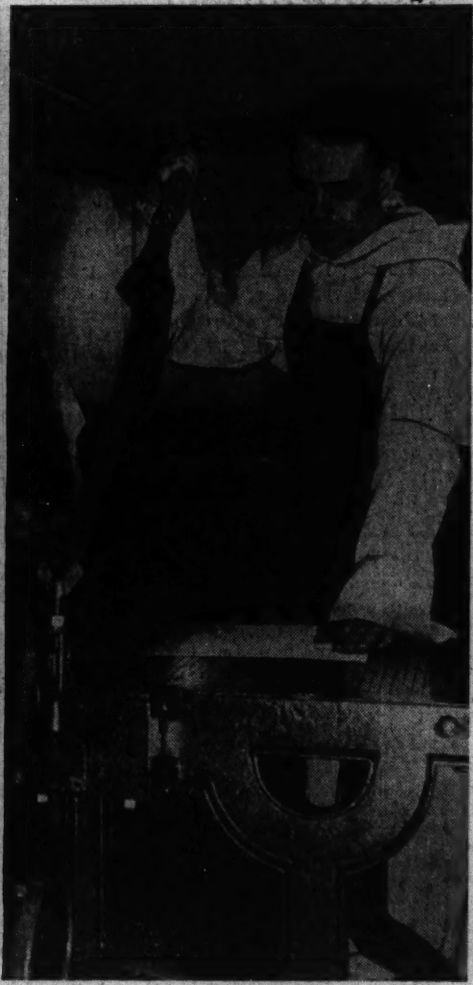
Monastery at River Forest Keeps Ancient Traditions of Dominicans



In a low chant which rises in sudden crescendos thru the hush of the chapel, these friars at the Dominican House of Studies, River Forest, are saying the Matins of their divine office. This is the first part of the service of the breviary which is read aloud daily.



Framed in the gold colored pierced carving which decorates the altar are inset statues of 12 Dominican saints. First in the top group is St. Thomas Aquinas, regarded as one of the most learned members the Dominican order has produced. Next in that row is St. Catherine of Sienna, another illustrious Dominican.



At the wooden lecturn, set between the two rows of stalls, one friar reads aloud the daily lesson of the office which consists of excerpts from scripture or lives of the saints. A friar also reads aloud in the house refectory during every meal. At the right, like the scriptorium in an old world monastery, is the book bindery which takes up several rooms in the House of Studies basement. Here, with blue denim aprons over their white habits, novices cut and bind books for the monastery library which has some 30,000 volumes. The work is done entirely by hand with the help of a press and a cutter.

Standing at their stalls, placed lengthwise in the monastic pattern, are 12 novices of the group of 125 who will have six years of study at the Dominican monastery before being sent out as missionary priests, teachers or to do parochial work.

Friars Await Chapel Rites of Holy Week

BY EILEEN BURKE.

The prayerful days of Holy week, when Christians thruout the world pause in solemn contemplation of spiritual truths, will be little different from ordinary days inside the Dominican house of studies, River Forest. Here, in the white, cross shaped building set aloofly back from the street, are 125 young men who spend every day of the year studying and meditating on spiritual things.

A typical day for these Dominican friars who, after eight years at the monastery will be sent out as missionary priests, teachers or to parochial work, begins shortly after 5 a. m. with recitation of the first part of their office [the reading of psalms and other excerpts from the Old and New Testaments]. This is followed by mass, then breakfast which, like all other meals, is eaten in silence while one friar reads aloud from a religious book.

Classes Fill Mornings.

During the rest of the morning, these students attend classes in philosophy or theology. At 11:50 a. m. they return to the chapel for vespers and at 12:30 they chant the Compline, second part of their office for the day. The afternoon is given over to some form of outdoor recreation, such as football, baseball, or whatever sport is in season. At 5:20 p. m. they again gather in the chapel for another period of prayer and meditation.

Of the eight years which most of these friars remain at the Dominican priory, one is spent as a novice, three in the study of philosophy, and three in studying theology. The men are then ordained, but stay another year at the monastery for the further study of theology.

Students include young men from almost every state in the country, and from various South American countries. Two years of college is a requisite for entrance into the priory, but most of the students have their B. A. degrees before they enter.

Lead Life of Study.

If a student priest has shown an aptitude for a particular field during his eight years of study, he may be given a further two year supplementary course to fit him for some specialized work.

In the terse language of St. Thomas Aquinas, most renowned Dominican of all time, the work of the Dominican order is "to study and to contemplate." Therefore, said the Rev. J. A. Driscoll, house of studies prior, these young priests readily understand that study, for them, will "end only with death."

This Dominican priory was established in 1925. One of the oldest and largest religious orders in the world, the Dominicans are distinguished particularly by their democratic form of government. Founded in 1216 in southern France by St. Dominic, a Spaniard, the Dominicans are known as a mendicant order. The word "mendicant," explained Father Driscoll, is symbolic of the feature that differentiated friars from all other forms of religious life in the 13th century, for they were supported by alms and not by landed estates or benefices.

Friars Differ from Monks.

Friars are different from monks, the prior continued, in that they leave the cloister to work in the world, while monks remain cloistered. Government of the Dominican order is substantially the same today as it was seven centuries ago, he said, and all superiors are elected for appointed terms by elected representatives of each province. The government also includes a species of referendum and recall, which may be used to limit a provincial's term of office.

"Among the symbols that are proper to the Dominican order and characteristic of its spirit, perhaps the habit is the most conspicuous and its liturgy the most misunderstood," said the prior.

Blend Old and New.

Both are symbolic of the blending of the old and the new, he said. The frost-white habit, with its cape of black, is the regular religious garb with the addition of the scapular, symbolic of Mary's mantle. The Dominican liturgy, while essentially Roman [more ancient by three hundred years than the Roman rite as it is known today] contains, said Father Driscoll, "something of the exuberance, the splendor and the simplicity of the medieval spirit which gave it form."

Grounds of the River Forest priory extend over 40 wooded, landscaped acres. The Vermont granite building like the ritual of the order, is "a blending of the old and the new" in its English-Gothic architecture. Rounded arches soften the sharpness of a true Gothic design.

The students themselves do most of the work in taking care of the lawns and other upkeep of the monastery. They painted all the brilliantly colored designs on the chapel windows. Among their other activities, the friars have a four acre war garden each summer, an apiary on the grounds, and a book bindery in the monastery basement where they bind all their own books.

Holy week will be marked by several unique ceremonies at the house of studies. The Tenebrae will be sung Wednesday, Holy Thursday, and Good Friday afternoons. During this singing of Christ's passion, 15 candles on the altar will be extinguished, one by one. On Holy Thursday the friars will stand watch thru the night in their chapel. The washing of the feet and the washing of the altar are two other ceremonies which will take place Holy Thursday.

SEE CONGRESS AS GREAT HOPE OF U. S. FUTURE

G. O. P. Candidates in Fast Drive.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

The necessity of having a truly American political and economic setup after the war—one dominated by free enterprise—was stressed in speeches made during the last week by candidates for the Republican congressional nomination in the 7th district on the northwest side.

Addressing a meeting sponsored by the Republican Nationalist Revival committee, Alfred P. Haake of Park Ridge declared that a military victory was not enough and steps must be taken to see that America is not "sold down the river by commitments which our President makes to Churchill and Stalin."

Says Congress Needs Fighters.

"Congress is our last refuge against loss of integrity in foreign affairs," Haake argued. "We must send to congress men who can and will fight to prevent our nation being the grab-bag for the world."

He said that only men who could stand up and fight for the interests of the people should be elected, and added that he had separated himself from a job to be free of all entanglements while running for representative.

"For 10 years, when many were afraid to stick out their necks, I was fighting the New Deal," Haake averred. "What were the bosses doing in those years when the people were crying for leadership against the New Deal?"

In this category Haake placed one of his opponents, Charles H. Garland, who has the official party indorsement.

Pleas for Free Primary.

Haake condemned the organization for its methods of selecting an official choice and urged that the district vote for the man best qualified regardless of indorsements. He said also that Gov. Green had not kept his promise to have no machine.

Haake is a former president of the Executives club of Chicago and a former national director of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers. At one time he was a professor of economics.

Garland is mayor of Des Plaines and commercial manager of radio station WBBM. He has announced that he will give up his position when elected. He is 45 years old and a World war veteran.

Cites Business Record.

He points to his record and his standing in his home town. His early business training was with WBBM when it was a little independent station with a broadcasting apparatus on Howard st. He has come out strongly in favor of an international policy that will safeguard the interests of the United States.

In addition to his other work Garland is a vice president of the Illinois Municipal league and division chief of the OCD in its 10th division.

His campaign has been an active one and he is making two to four speeches a day to ward and township groups. He has come out strongly against the Presidential aspirations of Wendell L. Willkie. He refers to his campaign as a climax to a dream he has held for years and one for which he has long been preparing himself.

Foster Also Active.

Another candidate is George T. Foster, director of the Constitutional Americans, an ardently nationalist organization. Foster also is active. He has criticized the others as having internationalist leanings, which they both scoff at.

Foster, formerly a dealer in art objects, served in the navy as an officer in the first World war. He ran for the nomination as congressman two years ago, but finished second. He says that he will have the support of his group as a unit and also a share of the vote of the Revival committee, which has indorsed Haake.

His program is a return to the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. He tells his audiences that the ultimate aim of the New Deal is the destruction of private business and the erection of a totalitarian state on its ruins.

The fourth Republican candidate for congress is Justus Mozart, an attorney. His program has many New Deal features and contains advocated reforms that have been tried out in his native Sweden.

Two Democrats Seek Place.

On the Democratic side are two candidates for nomination, William W. Link and Stanley T. Gross. Link, a member of the county civil service board and a Polish-American leader, has the Kelly organization O. K. Gross, who is also of Polish descent, has stated he doesn't approve of all the administration has done.

Recently Gross challenged Link to a series of joint debates, but said he got no answer and accused him of being just a machine candidate. Three have been rumors, possibly unfounded, that Link was not only ordered to make the race, but also to take some elocution lessons and get himself into speaking fettle.

Lecture at Church.

John W. Holland, radio speaker, will lecture Wednesday afternoon at the Chicago Heights First Methodist church.

DR. ROSS HITS JOHNSON RULE IN 40TH WARD

Says Committeeman Has Failed G. O. P.

BY LEE SHASSERE.

Dr. Joseph C. Ross, candidate for 40th ward Republican committeeman, has branded as untrue claims made last week by his opponent, Committeeman C. Herman Johnson.

"Johnson is very careless with the truth," Ross said. "He claims that his organization donated $600 to George O. Ibsen's aldermanic campaign. In previous campaigns, as in the last aldermanic, there were a number of precincts, particularly in the central part of the ward, which were predominantly Democratic. There Johnson had no workers and our organization had to furnish them.

"Naturally, Johnson was not entitled to the $600 which the county committee had provided to man those areas. Therefore, it was turned over to our group to protect the Republican vote in those precincts."

Blamed for Defeat.

Ibsen was the Republican's choice for alderman against Samuel Gurman, who had Democratic backing. Ross charges that Johnson did not support Ibsen and that this factor helped to contribute to Ibsen's defeat.

"Johnson's claim of credit for the precincts which Ibsen carried in the election is not justified. In the aldermanic primary Ibsen carried the same precincts by better than 1,800 votes over the candidate whom Johnson had sponsored. Johnson now terms as unfit those precinct captains who have left his organization to join us. Inquiry will prove them of the highest character," said Ross.

Claims Johnson Failed.

Claiming Johnson is not fit to serve as committeeman, Ross declares that Johnson has shown by his record that he is unable to bring about party unity thruout the ward.

"Why does Johnson deliberately ignore the charge that two years ago he entered into a pact to defeat Rep. Elroy C. Sandquist, veteran Republican legislator from the 25th district; and why does he turn a deaf ear to the accusation that he aided a program in the last aldermanic election which insured Gurman's election?" Ross asked.

Gubbins Replies to Brekke.

In the 36th ward, Joseph F. Gubbins, candidate for Republican committeeman, slapped back at charges made by his opponent, Committeeman Eden T. Brekke.

"Brekke has accused me of being on the Democratic pay roll in the boiler inspection department in 1939," said Gubbins. "This position was obtained for me thru Brekke's efforts and due to his friendship with the Democratic ward committeeman, who was then chief inspector of the boiler inspection department.

"Shortly after the aldermanic and mayoralty election of 1939, I resigned this position and severed connections with Brekke to organize the ward for Dwight H. Green for governor. In 1940 I successfully managed the ward primary and election campaigns for Gov. Green.

Cites Precinct Record.

"Brekke's statement about my participation in the November 1938 election was very misleading. The records show that in my home precinct, the 15th, there were 51 straight Republican votes cast. There would have been many more but for the fact that we recommended that voters mark only for Titus L. Thelin for state representative in order to give him three votes. Thus our straight votes were cut down as those so marked were not counted as straights. Thelin received 482½ votes in my precinct," Gubbins said.

Willkie Trails Poll.

Republican Committeeman Frank M. Kalteux, candidate for reëlection in the 38th ward, took time out in his fight with Williaim L. Murray last week to conduct a ward poll which showed Gov. Dewey far in the lead for the Presidency.

Out of 843 replies, 469 favored Dewey as their first choice, 171 as second choice and 57 as third. Gov. Bricker came next with 122 for first, 151 for second, and 91 for third choice. Gen. MacArthur received 137 votes for first, 174 for second, and 95 for third. Willkie finished next to last in a field of eight, polling only 10 votes for first choice, 7 for second, and 13 for third.

Lottie Holman O'Neill Is Only Incumbent.

BY LEE SHASSERE.

A field of 11 candidates in the 41st senatorial district's spirited race for the three house of representatives nominations increased their pace last week for the primary test on April 11.

Eight Republicans seek the party's two nominations, while three Democrats are after their party's single place. As three candidates will be elected next fall, the nomination is equivalent to final victory.

There are two vacancies in the 41st district, which comprises Will and Du Page counties, due to the death of Rep. John J. Maloney, Joliet Democrat, and the enlistment of Rep. Warren Wood, Plainfield Republican, who is now a lieutenant [j.g.] in the navy.

See Mrs. O'Neill Victory.

The only incumbent is Rep. Lottie Holman O'Neill [R.], of Downers Grove, a widowed home maker and former school teacher, who has served in the house since 1922 and who is regarded as a winner of one of the G. O. P. nominations.

Among other Republican aspirants is Frank J. Bogan of Glen Ellyn, veteran member of the Du Page county board of supervisors, and president of the forest preserve district. Bogan is a director of the Chicago Regional Planning association. A state representative candidate in 1942, Bogan placed third on the primary ticket, losing to Mrs. O'Neill and Lt. Wood.

Another strong Republican candidate is Morton H. Hollingsworth, who said last week that he has the indorsement of the central Republican committees of Will and Du Page counties. He is in the real estate business, is a Boy Scout executive, and has resided in Joliet for 14 years where he is president of the high school board.

Other Women in Race.

Mrs. Belle Gardner, a Joliet practical nurse for 25 years, is another G. O. P. candidate who is making a spirited race. She declared in talks last week that old age pensions are inadequate.

Another Republican candidate is Mrs. Irene Grewenig of Joliet, who in 1942 polled 2,282 votes to finish last in a field of five.

The three other Republican candidates are Frank J. O'Brien, Lockport railroad man; Warren Wayne Overman, Plainfield, also a railroad employe, and Fred L. Malle, a former jailer at the Joliet county jail.

Democratic Candidates.

Democratic candidates are J. Harold Downey, Joliet attorney; Dominic A. Romano, Joliet real estate man, and Joseph Sam Perry, an attorney who lives in Glen Ellyn.

Perry served from 1936 to 1941 as a state representative from the 41st. He was born in Carbon Hill, Ala., in 1896 and received his bachelor's degree from the University of Alabama and his law degrees from the University of Chicago. He has been a Du Page county master in chancery and has been head of the Democratic county central committee. He served overseas with the navy in World War I.

Downey was born in Joliet and received his law degree at Valparaiso university 23 years ago. Romano is the builder of New Lidice, a subdivision adjoining Joliet, and has developed numerous homesites in that area.

WORLD WAR II VETERANS PLAN FIRST DANCE

John Shea.

Clarke-O'Reilly American Legion post, composed entirely of veterans of the present war, will hold its first annual dance Saturday night at the roof garden of the Midwest Athletic club, 6 N. Hamlin av. This is the first such post to be organized in Illinois, and the third in the United States, according to John Shea, commander.

The new post was formed last November when a group of discharged veterans, talking over their collective experiences, decided they wanted the benefits and companionship of a Legion post. But, because of the age difference between themselves and the World War I. veterans, the group preferred to organize a Legion post strictly for veterans of this war.

Honor Two Killed in Action.

Lt. O'Reilly attended Quigley seminary, Assumption college, Ontario, Canada, and was graduated from Loyola school of dentistry. In the dental examination for the navy, Lt. O'Reilly placed fourth highest in the country. He went overseas in October, 1942.

Lt. Clarke was graduated from the University of South Carolina. He enlisted in the army shortly after Pearl Harbor. The air medal was awarded him posthumously. His two brothers, Francis and Andrew, also are in service.

Gets Charter in January.

Clarke-O'Reilly post received its charter from the 5th district Illinois department of the Legion last January. Representatives of the department backed the idea "one hundred per cent," said John Shea, commander of the new post. Purpose of the post, he said, is to represent veterans in all affairs of the veterans' administration, rehabilitation and employment.

"When our friends, brothers or relatives come home from war they will find a helping hand in our organization," the commander added.

Falconer—The next meeting of the Falconer PTA will be held at 1:15 p. m. Tuesday, April 11, in the school auditorium, 3000 N. Lamon av. The meeting will deal with the summer roundup for pre-school children. Mrs. B. G. Johnson will preside.

Marines Clear Japs Out, Have a Jam Session

Now that the marines have cleared the Japs from the vicinity of their first beachhead on Cape Gloucester, New Britain, they have turned their new found spare time toward developing recreation facilities, according to a dispatch from Staff Sgt. Ward Walker, marine corps combat correspondent on leave from THE TRIBUNE.

Shortly after Sgt. Walker landed at New Britain he encountered Sgt. Harry C. Jensen, 4531 N. Ashland av., and received an invitation to the latter's tent for an evening jam session. Musical instruments had just arrived and Harry had taken over the drums in the band.

Phonograph in Big Hall.

In addition to his regular marine duties Sgt. Jensen had taken charge of his outfits's recreation program. A new log recreation hall boasts a phonograph and a well stocked magazine table.

Sgt. Jensen has been in the marine corps more than seven years and is on his second tour of duty outside the United States. His post-war plans call for a tour of Tokio and participation in a victory march down Michigan av.

Closes a Discussion.

Another northwest sider on Cape Gloucester is Corp. Robert G. Sifferman. He successfully terminated a discussion of the relative merits of Chicago's residential districts when he said: "There's only one place to live in Chicago: 2339 N. Kostner av., and let's can the chatter."

U. OF C. TO GRANT CHICAGO PLAN SCHOLARSHIPS

Teen aged Chicagoans and high school students from all over the nation desiring to study under the Chicago plan—college students at 15, college graduates at 18—in the college of the University of Chicago will have another opportunity next month to compete for scholarships, President Robert M. Hutchins has announced.

Scholarships valued at more than $50,000 will be granted by the university to students entering the college in either June or September. Applicants for the scholarships, which are granted on the basis of aptitude examinations testing a student's ability to think, not what he already knows, must file for admission and the examination by tomorrow. Examinations will be held April 22.

Students who have completed their sophomore year in high school will be eligible for 20 metropolitan scholarships, valued at $300 each, 12 national scholarships valued at $600, and 12 at $300. There are 42 scholarships covering one year's tuition also to be granted to high school seniors who will enter in the third year of college and complete their liberal education in two years instead of four.

KOSTELANETZ'S SHOW WILL BE WAXED FOR A.E.F.

The Andre Kostelanetz musical show over WBBM-CBS at 3:30 p. m. today will be recorded on army V-Discs, records shipped overseas and used for the entertainment of American fighters. In all, 56,000 discs will be sent abroad as a result of the program; 8,000 recordings are to be made of each of seven numbers.

This is the first radio program devoted entirely to music to be recorded on V-Discs. The program has been designed so that engineers can make records devoid of commentary, commercial or otherwise.

Cole Porter's "I Love You," Barroso's "Brazil Morena," and Brahams' "Lullaby" are among the works scheduled. Soprano Eleanor Steber will sing Kreisler's "Stars In My Eyes." The first movement of Grieg's Piano Concerto is to be played by Sgt. Eugene List.

MOZART QUARTET TO BE FEATURE OF AIR THEATER

Mozart's Quartet in B-flat major will be played on the broadcast of the Chicago Theater of the Air or the Air Symphony hour on W-G-N from 11 p. m. to 12 midnight tomorrow. The Mutual network broadcasts the last half hour of the program.

The W-G-N Symphony orchestra will be conducted by Walter Steindel. The program will be opened with two movements of Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony."

JAP RADIO TELLS OF COMIC STRIP VICTORY DRIVE

Reveals Plan to Bring 'U. S. to Knees.'

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Japanese people, whom many western observers say lack a sense of humor, are going to use their comic strips to bolster their fighting spirit, according to a broadcast from Tokio. The Japanese government will set up a "Greater Asia Comic Strip Study society" with this objective, the broadcast stated, adding that "with its formation, a large drive to bring the enemy, the United States and Great Britain, to their knees will commence."

Some idea of the humorous impact the society will make on the Japs can be gained from the further announcement that the comic strips will be written "under the sponsorship and guidance of the military government."

News and notes: Sammy Kaye's Wednesday night show over CBS will be replaced effective this week with a new musical series featuring Allan Jones and Frankie Carle's orchestra. . . . Dennis Day has been inducted as an ensign in the navy and reports for duty on April 15. . . . One of the better laughs of the season was the Fred Allen-Archie Gardner exchange about the blind rat which has been stealing the cheese at Duffy's tavern. It was guided, said Archie, by a Seeing Eye mouse!

Fanny [Baby Snooks] Brice is a grandma. Her daughter, Frances [Mrs. Ray Stark], is the mother of an 8 pound boy. . . . It's reported that comedian Danny Kaye will be teamed with Miss Brice when she and Frank Morgan split up at the end of this season. Morgan will have a show of his own next year. . . . Milton Berle's new how, Let Yourself Go, gives fans a chance to release their inhibitions. But those who want only to scream may continue with Frank Sinatra.

BROTHERS MEET IN ENGLAND AT HOSPITAL BASE

One N. W. Sider a Patient During Reunion.

The reunion in England of two brothers who had not seen each other for eight months was made known recently to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Schmidtke, 3425 Sunnyside av., who have received a joint letter from their sons telling them of the event. The boys, Pvt. Robert E. Schmidtke, 21, and Corp. William C. Schmidtke Jr., 25, met "somewhere in England" at a hospital base where Robert is convalescing from an attack of rheumatism.

W. C. Schmidtke Jr.

Robert Schmidtke.

"I was darn surprised to see Bill walk in the door of the ward here," Bob said in a letter to his mother and father. "It was swell to see him after all these months. We talked for three hours, and would be talking still only he had to catch the train back to his post this afternoon."

Brother "Looking Fine."

Bill, who wrote his section of the letter while his brother was eating lunch, reassured his parents about Bob's condition, informing them that "Bob is looking fine and should be out of the hospital before long."

The last time the boys saw each other, July 4, 1943, Bill also had to make a long train trip to see his younger brother. Stationed with the army medical corps at Camp Maxey, Tex., he traveled to Fayetteville, Ark., where Bob was in training.

A Short Visit Earlier.

Since Bob's studies kept him busy from 7 o'clock in the morning until 10 at night, their visiting time was curtailed on that occasion also.

The brothers are graduates of Roosevelt High school, and both were employed by an optical company before their induction. Bill entered the service in October, 1942, while Bob was sworn into the army in February, 1943. Altho not at liberty to tell their exact whereabouts, the boys are serving at points about 100 miles apart.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, April 3.

As soon as the perennials show growth or activity, take the spading fork and carefully turn under the finer parts of the mulching material, especially if it consists of barn yard manure. Do not spade too deep, for the roots may be injured, altho most perennials will grow under adverse conditions.

Spray Bordeaux around the roses and perennials that are susceptible to fungous attacks. Spores lurk in the soil over winter and early spraying will eliminate them before they develop and attack the foliage.

Tuesday, April 4.

By this time some of the vegetables that require early planting should be in the ground. Sweet peas should be sown, for they revel in a cool condition.

Most vegetables are sown in April, from about the 10th on, at which time the soil is workable and operations can be done without excessive dampness.

Wednesday, April 5.

Gardeners should not attempt to grow certain kinds of plants if the soil and atmospheric conditions are not suitable. The small area can produce good crops if a critical study is made of the possibilities and varieties selected that are recommended. Do not try root crops unless the soil is suitable, but grow more leaf crops.

In smoky areas, grow the following: radishes, leaf lettuce, onions from sets, endive, a few parsley plants, Swiss chard [a form of beets], mustard for greens, and kale. Carrots and beets like a sandy loam, but all vegetables delight in a soil that is well drained and contains an abundance of humus.

Thursday, April 6.

Two fine annuals that are easy growers are the annual poppies and portulaca. Seeds should be sown early and care should be taken not to sow too thickly.

Take dry sand and place with the seed before sowing, for it will scatter the seed more widely. Portulaca is easily transplanted but poppies do best when no attempt is made to transplant them.

Poppies may be scattered in the borders to give a fine touch of color. Cut the virgin's bower [clematis paniculata] almost to the ground. It flowers in the fall.

Friday, April 7.

Many things can be started in the coldframe or hotbed now. If there is no frame at hand investigate the possibilities of installing one, for it is one of the finest assets of the garden.

Ordinary window storm sash may be used or standard sash purchased. Watch the ventilating and watering. Plant pansies as soon as they are available, for they do best in cool weather.

Saturday, April 8.

One of the finest flowering plants to combine with vegetables is the gladiolus.

The plant takes little room for the foliage is swordlike, growing upward, and the flower stalk has the same habit and does not interfere with other plants. There are so many varieties that it is a matter of personal choice.

Try some of the garden chrysanthemums, for they are of extraordinary beauty during favorable seasons.

Prepared in cooperation with Garfield park conservatory.

FORMER PASTOR IN SUBURB NOW ARMY CHAPLAIN

Nebraska is once more the locale for the activities of Chaplain Harry C. Fricke, former pastor of St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran church in Arlington Heights. Chaplain Fricke's first parish was in Nebraska, and again he is located in that state, as chaplain for the American military police guard companies at the prisoner of war camp, Fort Robinson, Neb. Also stationed in Nebraska is Chaplain Fricke's son, Pvt. Roger Fricke, who is studying under the army specialized training program at the University of Nebraska. The Fricke home is at 348 Northwest highway in Arlington Heights.

Harry C. Fricke.

Roger Fricke.

While Chaplain Fricke was connected with the Arlington Heights church, he was active in keeping the men who had left the congregation for the service in touch with home news. After much consideration, he decided he could do more for them by entering the service.

Granted a leave of absence by his congregation, Chaplain Fricke left Arlington Heights in November for Harvard university, where he took his training course. He was graduated in December, and was assigned to Fort Robinson, where he is chaplain for the M. P.'s, and responsible for the religious activities of the prisoners of war and the direction of their educational program.

Pvt. Fricke was graduated from Arlington Heights High school in 1942 and entered Valparaiso university. The same year he enlisted in the army reserve, and in June, 1943, was called to active duty. He received his basic training at Fort Riley, Kas.

KELLY CALLED 'SURE LOSER' IN 3D

11 IN SCRAMBLE FOR ASSEMBLY SEATS IN 41ST

Lottie O'Neill Only Incumbent.

BY LEE SHASSERE.

A field of 11 candidates in the 41st senatorial district's spirited race for the three house of representatives nominations increased their pace last week for the primary test on April 11.

Eight Republicans seek the party's two nominations, while three Democrats are after their party's single place. As three candidates will be elected next fall, the nomination is equivalent to final victory.

There are two vacancies in the 41st district, which comprises Will and Du Page counties, due to the death of Rep. John J. Maloney, Joliet Democrat, and the enlistment of Rep. Warren Wood, Plainfield Republican, who is now a lieutenant [j.g.] in the navy.

See Mrs. O'Neill Victory.

The only incumbent is Rep. Lottie Holman O'Neill [R.], of Downers Grove, a widowed home maker and former school teacher, who has served in the house since 1922 and who is regarded as a winner of one of the G. O. P. nominations.

Among other Republican aspirants is Frank J. Bogan of Glen Ellyn, veteran member of the Du Page county board of supervisors, and president of the forest preserve district. Bogan is a director of the Chicago Regional Planning association. A state representative candidate in 1942, Bogan placed third on the primary ticket, losing to Mrs. O'Neill and Lt. Wood.

Another strong Republican candidate is Morton H. Hollingsworth, who said last week that he has the indorsement of the central Republican committees of Will and Du Page counties. He is in the real estate business, is a Boy Scout executive, and has resided in Joliet for 14 years where he is president of the high school board.

Other Women in Race.

Mrs. Belle Gardner, a Joliet practical nurse for 25 years, is another G. O. P. candidate who is making a spirited race. She declared in talks last week that old age pensions are inadequate.

Another Republican candidate is Mrs. Irene Grewenig of Joliet, who in 1942 polled 2,282 votes to finish last in a field of five.

The three other Republican candidates are Frank J. O'Brien, Lockport railroad man; Warren Wayne Overman, Plainfield, also a railroad employe, and Fred L. Malle, a former jailer at the Joliet county jail.

Democratic Candidates.

Democratic candidates are J. Harold Downey, Joliet attorney; Dominic A. Romano, Joliet real estate man, and Joseph Sam Perry, an attorney who lives in Glen Ellyn.

Perry served from 1936 to 1941 as a state representative from the 41st. He was born in Carbon Hill, Ala., in 1896 and received his bachelor's degree from the University of Alabama and his law degrees from the University of Chicago. He has been a Du Page county master in chancery and has been head of the Democratic county central committee. He served overseas with the navy in World War I.

Downey was born in Joliet and received his law degree at Valparaiso university 23 years ago. Romano is the builder of New Lidice, a subdivision adjoining Joliet, and has developed numerous homesites in that area.

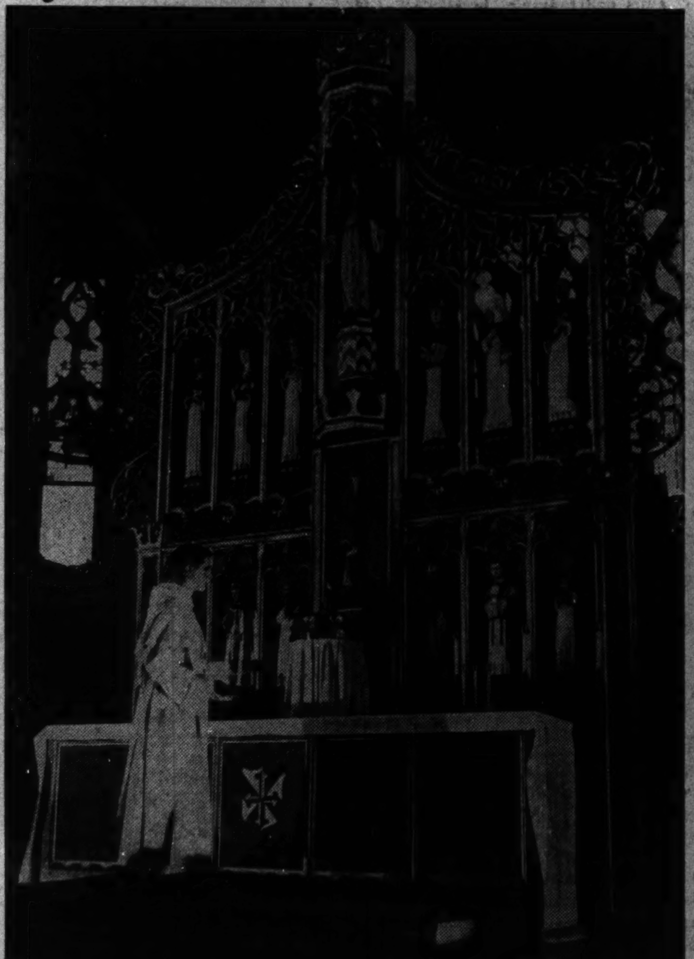
Lt. Carl A. Schulz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil J. Schulz, 9054 Aberdeen st., wears the wings of both the United States army air forces and the Royal Air Force. He received the British wings after graduating from the lend lease training school for British pilots at Ponca City, Okla. He received his basic training in San Antonio, Tex., and was selected to attend the British school because of his high grades. Before joining the service Lt. Schulz was a tool and die maker and was an amateur pilot associated with the civil air patrol. He was graduated from Tilden Technical High school and attended the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Lt. E. J. Donai Arrives at Air Base in Pacific

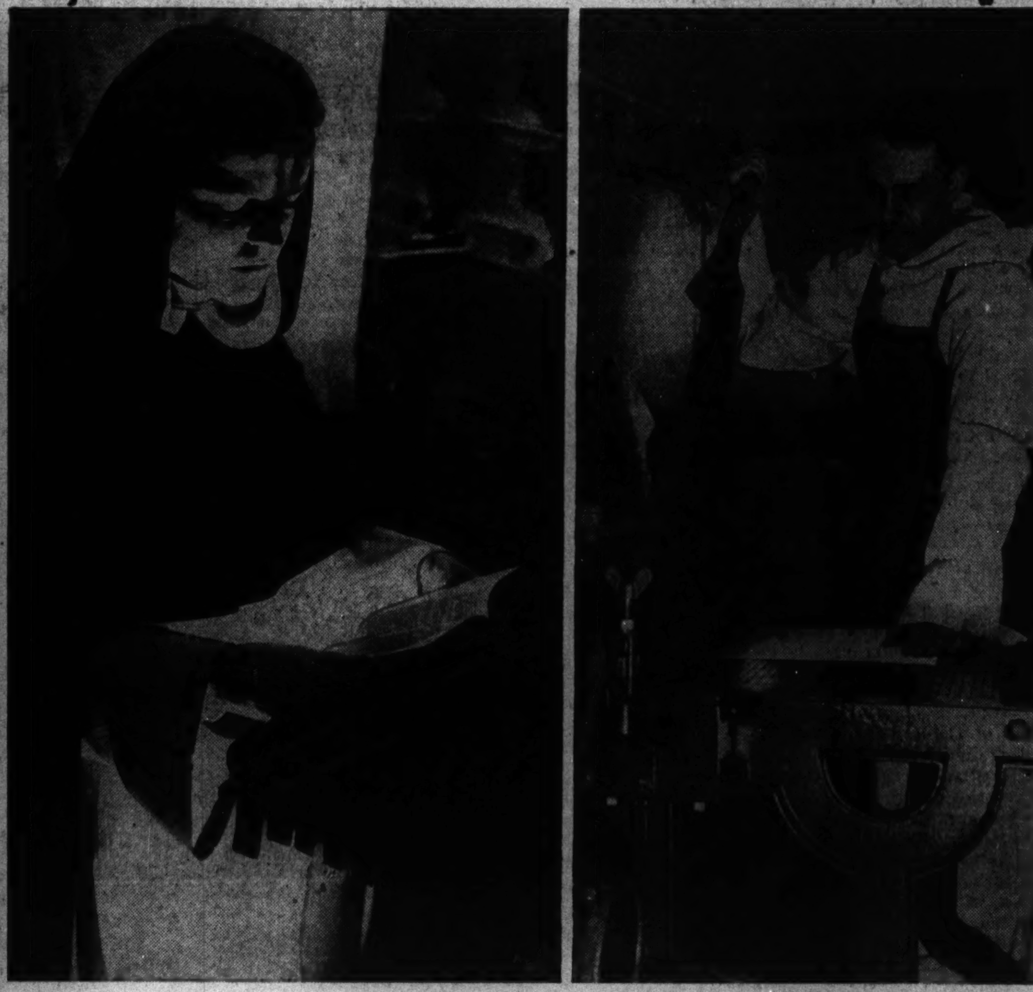
From the headquarters of the 13th A. A. F. in the South Pacific comes the announcement of the arrival of 2d Lt. Edmund J. Donai, 5711 S. Hoyne av., Chicago, for service as pilot of a B-24 bomber. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Donai, Lt. Donai received his commission in June, 1943, and left for overseas duty on Feb. 22 of this year. He was graduated from Lindblom High school and Coyne Electrical school in Chicago.

Monastery at River Forest Keeps Ancient Traditions of Dominicans

In a low chant which rises in sudden crescendos thru the hush of the chapel, these friars at the Dominican House of Studies, River Forest, are saying the Matins of their divine office. This is the first part of the service of the breviary which is read aloud daily.



Framed in the gold colored pierced carving which decorates the altar are inset statues of 12 Dominican saints. First in the top group is St. Thomas Aquinas, regarded as one of the most learned members the Dominican order has produced. Next in that row is St. Catherine of Sienna, another illustrious Dominican.



At the wooden lecturn, set between the two rows of stalls, one friar reads aloud the daily lesson of the office which consists of excerpts from scripture or lives of the saints. A friar also reads aloud in the house refectory during every meal. At the right, like the scriptorium in an old world monastery, is the book bindery which takes up several rooms in the House of Studies basement. Here, with blue denim aprons over their white habits, novices cut and bind books for the monastery library which has some 30,000 volumes. The work is done entirely by hand with the help of a press and a cutter.

Standing at their stalls, placed lengthwise in the monastic pattern, are 12 novices of the group of 125 who will have six years of study at the Dominican monastery before being sent out as missionary priests, teachers or to do parochial work.

SALTIMIERAS IN PLEA FOR FREE BALTIC STATES

Democratic Split Is Growing.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Dissension among Democrats of the 3d congressional district was given a push during the past week when Paul B. Saltimieras, independent candidate for the Democratic nomination, warned the party that its organization candidate, Edward A. Kelly, is a "sure loser" who can't possibly win in the general election.

Saltimieras is a radio and advertising executive and a leader in Lithuanian-American affairs. He is making an active campaign as "the service men's and service mothers' friend." Kelly was elected congressman in the 3d in 1934, 1936, 1938, and 1940, but was defeated in 1942 by Fred E. Busbey, Republican. Busbey has no primary opposition.

Hits Support of Kelly.

"If the Democratic leaders had not pushed the candidacy of Kelly in 1942 the district would still be theirs," Saltimieras said. "Any other Democrat could have won. Kelly won by 51,780 in 1934. Each succeeding election saw his majority fall. This should have convinced party leaders that he was losing popularity.

"But they decided against a change. If Kelly lost out while he was in office, what could give anybody the idea that he could be dusted off and brought out of his retirement by the voters this year?"

Saltimieras claims the united support and pledges of 1,000 mothers who have 2,400 sons in military service. His backers say he has helped these women to find their sons and get news from them.

Wants Peace Organization.

He said that he wants the United States to aid in the creation of an international organization to keep peace, but that any such body would be a hollow mockery "if its foundation must be the rape of Poland and the Baltic states or injustice to any nation."

Kelly is in the insurance and realty business.

Another Democratic seeker for the nomination is James A. Hivick, 5831 S. Kilbourn av., a member of the International Association of Machinists. His views are internationalist; he advocates an international police force and even an international court; he wishes to take all control of treaty making away from the United States senate. He has said that he wishes to "get a working man's views into congress."

Kurth Has Organized Support.

In the big 6th district on the west and southwest sides Marvin M. Kurth of Stickney, an investigator for the state department of revenue, has organized support for the G. O. P. nomination. He is opposed by Charles J. Anderson Jr., 1816 Monroe st., an electrical contractor.

Kurth, who is of draft age but has been rejected for service, favors a greater insistence by congress that it be allowed to perform its constitutional duties without interference by the executive branch of government.

"Foreign affairs are so closely intermingled with domestic affairs that a President who took absolute power over foreign affairs would automatically become a dictator," Kurth said. "Congress and the people must be taken into the President's confidence.

"Then our senators and congressmen can properly appraise and pass judgment on foreign questions—and when that is done all efforts to ignore public opinion will fail. The people must rule themselves by constitutional methods."

Wants Return to State's Rights.

Kurth also advocates a return to state's rights. He said the "alphabet boys in Washington" were constantly striving to lessen state rights and to blueprint the country into regional divisions of the central government.

Anderson, who is 36 years old and a bachelor, is a champion of rigid nationalism and of the restoration of private enterprise. He is an ardent foe of communism, burocracy, the New Deal, and all forms of regimentation.

The 4th district, which lies between 22d st. and 51st st., with Cicero av. and State st. its farthest east and west boundaries, has a Republican contest. Most of the organized strength is behind Leo J. Kozicki, 1837 W. 36th st., a real estate dealer and owner of a printing business.

He is opposed by Henry J. Shelton, 4434 S. Sawyer av., a nationalist who wants MacArthur for President, and James A. McGrath of 3612 S. Union av. Martin Gorski, incumbent Democrat, has no primary fight.

ORATORY ONLY EXPENDITURE IN 16TH WARD RACE

Expect Faster Talk as Primary Nears.

BY EDWARD SCHREIBER.

Altho little has been heard from campaigners for ward committeeman posts on the southwest side during the last week, political observers called the silence of the candidates the "lull before the storm" as the April 11 primary draws near. Ward committeemen are elected on primary day.

In the 16th ward little but campaign oratory has been expended by the Democratic ward post contestants, Terence F. Moran, the incumbent and city boiler inspector, and his rival, Honan Crowley, 1115 W. Garfield blvd., a live stock commission merchant. Both sides are supporting the regular Democratic candidates and each claims the support of strong ward organizations.

Moran has the backing of Ald. Paul Sheridan, former Ald. John S. Boyle, and both the regular ward group and the organization that Boyle built up five years ago when he supported State's Atty. Courtney in the mayoralty primary.

Crowley Opens Headquarters.

Crowley has opened campaign headquarters at 1546 W. 63d st. He claims his organization has been built by veteran precinct captains from the Moran group and newcomers to politics who are dissatisfied with a lack of essential services given the taxpayers in the ward.

In the 18th ward the Democratic incumbent, John M. Lee, who is also the state senator from the 11th district, has a three way fight on his hands. His opponents are William Edward Shaughnessy, 7715 S. Loomis blvd., and John J. Walsh, 1411 W. 80th st.

Top fights among Republicans are in the 12th and 13th wards.

In the 12th ward Felix F. Kucharski, incumbent, is being opposed by Andrew Toman, 3822 S. Winchester av. Kucharski has the support of the regular Republican organization and is campaigning for the regular state ticket.

Toman Supporting Stratton.

Toman's group has prepared and posted many placards in the district calling for the nomination of William G. Stratton for secretary of state and Gen. Douglas MacArthur as the Republican candidate for President.

Toman claims the support of the National League of Independent Voters and many fraternal and civic organizations in the ward. He has charged Kucharski with bipartisan politics.

In the 13th ward the regular Republican committeeman, George O. Lehr, is being opposed by William A. Cunnea, 6623 S. Fairfield av.

The Cunnea forces have been pushing an advantage in the race which they claim started when two of the leading precinct captains in the Lehr organization deserted Lehr and joined the Cunnea group. These two, they explain, brought many more followers of the Lehr standard into the Cunnea camp. This was denied by the Lehr forces with statements that the men who had bolted the regular organization were few and were only minor figures in the campaign plans.

SOUTH SIDE Y. W. CENTER TO OPEN INSTITUTE TODAY

The third annual business and professional women's institute will start this afternoon at the South Park way center Y. W. C. A., 4559 South Park way. Security for the present and the future is the general theme of the conference, said Mildred Slaughter, 6019 St. Lawrence av., institute chairman. The Sunday sessions which begin with a luncheon at the center at 1 o'clock will feature a style show, presented by members of the Y. W. C. A. business girls, and addresses by Helen Graves of the national labor relations board and Dr. Robert C. Weaver, director of the mayor's committee on race relations.

Soldier Entertains

Sam Calpino, Flossmoor, a private in the medical corps, whose accordian music has brought a tribute from one of his officers to Sam's father. Before joining the service he was well known on the southwest side as a performer and teacher.

PLAQUE IN HONOR OF CORP. FOLEY TO BE DEDICATED

Hold Ceremonies on S.W. Side Today.

A plaque honoring Corp. William C. Foley, who was killed in action in Italy while trying to save a wounded comrade, will be dedicated by his friends and neighbors at 3 p. m. today at 45th and Wallace sts.

At the same ceremony Capt. Frank M. Dolven, of the 6th service command, will award the Purple Heart and silver star posthumously to the hero's mother, Mrs. Catherine Foley, 4452 Wallace st.

Killed at Volturno River.

According to information received by Mrs. Foley her son was killed while American forces were crossing the Volturno river. His squad was assigned to small rafts carrying equipment. Shortly after daybreak on Oct. 13, 1943 he and his men were ordered to return to an assembly area behind the lines.

While crossing an open plot of ground one of his men was wounded by enemy fire and lay in the exposed area unable to move. Corp. Foley left cover to aid the wounded man and was killed.

Dedication Speakers.

Speakers at the dedication will include the Rev. H. S. Trainer, pastor of St. Gabriel's church, 4500 Lowe av.; the Rev. John H. Hager, pastor of the Union Avenue Methodist church, 4356 Union av., and William Burns past commander of the 6th district of the American Legion.

Other speakers will be Joseph G. Tatzreiter, 4415 Lowe av., who will unveil the plaque, and J. W. Owen, OCD commander of community 3.

S.W. ACCORDION TEACHER TAKES MUSIC TO INDIA

As a civilian, Sam Calpino chose to bring beauty to others thru the magic of accordion music. As a soldier, he has continued his mission despite the hardships of war in a strange land—India. So successful have been his performances that a glowing tribute to his artistry recently was sent from an officer overseas to Sam's father, Nick Calpino, a hardware dealer and landscape architect of Flossmoor.

The letter, from Capt. Henry A. Baker, reads:

Always Ready to Play.

"Sam has always been ready, morning, noon, or night, to do his bit with the accordion, and I know you would have taken great pleasure and pride in seeing him play for our little company parties, for all people at railway stops, for the colored troops [homesick for swing], for the navy, the transport staff, the marines, Indian officers, British colonials, sick bays on shipboard, and hospital wards everywhere we have been.

"I want you to know that, in my humble judgment, he and the boys working with him have done more for the general morale where it was needed than they could possibly have done by radio or back home with all the publicity of Hollywood. For one so gifted, Sam has come a long way to display his talents, but his contribution is all the greater because of it."

Worked in War Plant.

Sam, who attended the Flossmoor school and Thornton Township High school, not only was well known for his performances at southwest weddings, clubs, and parties, but was teaching 140 pupils when he entered the medical corps in April, 1943. He also was working in a war plant.

Waiting for Sam's return are his father; Sam's wife, Melvina Calpino, 12241 Union av., who works in a war plant; two daughters, and Frank Bortoli, Sam's partner, who is carrying on in a studio at 240 E. 115th st.

JAP RADIO TELLS OF COMIC STRIP VICTORY DRIVE

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Japanese people, whom many western observers say lack a sense of humor, are going to use their comic strips to bolster their fighting spirit, according to a broadcast from Tokio. The Japanese government will set up a "Greater Asia Comic Strip Study society" with this objective, the broadcast stated, adding that "with its formation, a large drive to bring the enemy, the United States and Great Britain, to their knees will commence."

Some idea of the humorous impact the society will make on the Japs can be gained from the further announcement that the comic strips will be written "under the sponsorship and guidance of the military government."

FRIARS AWAIT CHAPEL RITES OF HOLY WEEK

Follow Ancient Rules at River Forest.

BY EILEEN BURKE.

The prayerful days of Holy week, when Christians thruout the world pause in solemn contemplation of spiritual truths, will be little different from ordinary days inside the Dominican house of studies, River Forest. Here, in the white, cross shaped building set aloofly back from the street, are 125 young men who spend every day of the year studying and meditating on spiritual things.

A typical day for these Dominican friars who, after eight years at the monastery will be sent out as missionary priests, teachers or to parochial work, begins shortly after 5 a. m. with recitation of the first part of their office [the reading of psalms and other excerpts from the Old and New Testaments]. This is followed by mass, then breakfast which, like all other meals, is eaten in silence while one friar reads aloud from a religious book.

Classes Fill Mornings.

During the rest of the morning, these students attend classes in philosophy or theology. At 11:50 a. m. they return to the chapel for vespers and at 12:30 they chant the Compline, second part of their office for the day. The afternoon is given over to some form of outdoor recreation, such as football, baseball, or whatever sport is in season. At 5:20 p. m. they again gather in the chapel for another period of prayer and meditation.

Of the eight years which most of these friars remain at the Dominican priory, one is spent as a novice, three in the study of philosophy, and three in studying theology. The men are then ordained, but stay another year at the monastery for the further study of theology.

Students include young men from almost every state in the country, and from various South American countries. Two years of college is a requisite for entrance into the priory, but most of the students have their B. A. degrees before they enter.

Lead Life of Study.

If a student priest has shown an aptitude for a particular field during his eight years of study, he may be given a further two year supplementary course to fit him for some specialized work.

In the terse language of St. Thomas Aquinas, most renowned Dominican of all time, the work of the Dominican order is "to study and to contemplate." Therefore, said the Rev. J. A. Driscoll, house of studies prior, these young priests readily understand that study, for them, will "end only with death."

This Dominican priory was established in 1925. One of the oldest and largest religious orders in the world, the Dominicans are distinguished particularly by their democratic form of government. Founded in 1216 in southern France by St. Dominic, a Spaniard, the Dominicans are known as a mendicant order. The word "mendicant," explained Father Driscoll, is symbolic of the feature that differentiated friars from all other forms of religious life in the 13th century, for they were supported by alms and not by landed estates or benefices.

Friars Differ from Monks.

Friars are different from monks, the prior continued, in that they leave the cloister to work in the world, while monks remain cloistered. Government of the Dominican order is substantially the same today as it was seven centuries ago, he said, and all superiors are elected for appointed terms by elected representatives of each province. The government also includes a species of referendum and recall, which may be used to limit a provincial's term of office.

"Among the symbols that are proper to the Dominican order and characteristic of its spirit, perhaps the habit is the most conspicuous and its liturgy the most misunderstood," said the prior.

Holy Week Services.

Holy week will be marked by several unique ceremonies at the house of studies. The Tenebrae will be sung Wednesday, Holy Thursday, and Good Friday afternoons. During this singing of Christ's passion, 15 candles on the altar will be extinguished, one by one. On Holy Thursday the friars will stand watch thru the night in their chapel. The washing of the feet and the washing of the altar are two other ceremonies which will take place Holy Thursday.

Advance Sales Piling Up for Met Opera Season

Mail Orders Already Soar Over $100,000

By Claudia Cassidy.

Not since Max Reinhardt's "The Miracle" turned the Auditorium into a cathedral nearly 20 years ago has there been anything like the advance sale piling up at the Civic Opera house for the two weeks of Metropolitan Opera opening April 17. So say Chicago box office men, struggling thru an avalanche of mail orders already amounting to more than $100,000.

Altho the box office has been working overtime and a night shift has been added, many a disappointed Chicagoan is getting his money back with a mimeographed sheet explaining that only $5.50 seats are left for the operas he wanted. Some of this, the management explains, is due to the unparalleled rush for tickets, and the fact that so few tickets were available in the lower price brackets. But some of it, too, is due to the unfortunate fact that the box office was opened before the mail. Either way, the demand outdistanced the supply.

Some of this demand is due to the Metropolitan label, good for cash over the till even when the troupe comes touring with a repertory almost wholly confined to standard operas and shorn of many of its more potent stars. Some of it is due to the rush to get under the wire before the amusement tax tilted. But most of it is due to Chicago's hunger for opera.

Since the Metropolitan was here a year ago we have had no professional opera except the unfortunate attempts to stage "Carmen" and "Aida" at Soldier's field. Yet this is Chicago, where not so many seasons ago we had 13 weeks of ranking resident opera, 10 weeks of jewel box opera at Ravinia, and visits from the San Carlo, American, German, and other touring troupes. Add to this public the new interest presumably stirred by radio broadcasts of opera, and the wonder would be if the Met didn't sell.

[Abresch Photo.]

In the fact of this willingness to pay cash for opera, Chicago can scarcely afford to dawdle much longer in the matter of mending its operatic fences. Plans are now being made for the season to open next fall under the direction of Fausto Cleva. My own interest in what Mr. Cleva will do is considerably spiced by a letter written by Giorgio Polacco to Edith Mason, which she permits me to quote. Maestro Polacco, long the distinguished director of Chicago opera in its palmy days, says, "I congratulate Chicago for having been able to get Maestro Cleva. Today there is not a person in the United States better qualified for that position. He is an artist of the first order, of enormous experience, proven honesty, and adamantine character. I consider his engagement a great event for the future of opera in Chicago, and you know I am not easy to please in artistic matters." Bravo, Maestro, now let's have some opera.

But did I say we have no opera at all? I take it back. The other night I went to that extraordinary little theater at Kungsholm restaurant to see the puppet performance of "La Boheme," dedicated by Fredrik Chramer to that same Edith Mason, who sang her Chicago opera farewell as Mimi. It was an enchanting performance, exquisitely staged, so deftly synchronized with records that the second and third acts in particular are little miracles of illusion. Mimi is sung by Bori and Albanese [remember the tilt to Bori's voice when she sang "Curioso?"], Rodolfo by Gigli and Bjoerling, and there is a sparkling soubrette Musetta by Tatiana Menotti. The Cafe Momus scene is vividly recaptured, and the third act duplicates the Chicago Opera's even to the gentle fall of snow.

Would you like to read the nicest letter I have had in a month of Sundays? It goes like this: "I was so pleased to read your review of Marian Anderson's concert. It was really wonderful and I am wondering why you can't say lovely things about every one. In God's sight we are all perfect and you or I cannot say anything about any one only as concerned with beautiful thoughts. When you can be more loving and human it will be such a pleasure to read your reviews." My dear sir, it will be such a pleasure to write them.

THE BUILDING OF JALNA

MAZO DE LA ROCHE

INSTALMENT II.

THE next morning Adeline felt pensive. They were leaving London. When might she see it again? Perhaps never; with all the dangers of travel between, what would happen to them in the new world?

It was a journey of many hours from London to the cathedral town of Penchester. When Adeline alighted from the train she was very tired. Dark shadows made her eyes somber. She looked ill. But the dean's carriage was waiting to meet them, with its comfortable cushioned seats and its lamps shining bright in the dusk.

And the dean's house itself! Adeline wished she owned it as she descended from the carriage. It looked so sedate, so warm colored, so welcoming. She might indeed have been the mistress, to judge by her luggage that cumbered the hall, her husband's voice that rapped out orders to the servants, her infant that made the echoes ring with its crying, her parrot which rent the air with erotic endearments when it heard her voice.

Adeline and Philip began to feel that the time had come for their visit to end. He was impatient to begin the new life but she would have been willing to linger a little longer in the quiet of Penchester, enlivened by visits to London. She loved the sunny walled garden behind the dean's house where crocuses were in bloom and daffodils swelling into bud, tho it was still February.

One morning Augusta took her brother into the privacy of her own sitting room and said:

"I do not think, Philip, that you have had your proper share of our parents' belongings."

"Neither do I," returned Philip promptly.

"It is, of course, natural that the property should be entailed but there are other things. I don't suppose, for instance, that Charles offered you any furniture when you were visiting him."

"Not he."

"I am going to give you the furniture I had from our home. It is mostly real Chippendale and would grace any drawing room. But I do not need it. This house was filled with furniture when Frederick brought me to it. I have no children to save it for. Will you like to have it, Philip dear?"

"I shall like it tremendously," Philip exclaimed. "And you're a generous girl."

Adeline was charmed by the gift. Her spirits were high. Her talk, her laughter, the sound of her eager footsteps filled the house. Philip did not know what it was to desire peace and quiet. But how earnestly the dean and Augusta wished for it! By the time the visitors had departed, with their masses of luggage [the noises of the furniture being crated had nearly driven the dean mad] their crying child and its ayah who kept the kitchen in a ferment with her demands for strange food, and their noisy and often blasphemous parrot, the sedate couple were exhausted. Their sincerest wish was to see the last of their relatives and never again to have a prolonged visit from them.

Philip and Adeline were setting out to visit Adeline's people in Ireland.

"There you will find," she exclaimed, throwing herself back against the cushions of the carriage, "Irish hospitality, generous hearts, and true affection!"

Not in all the long voyage from India had Adeline suffered as she suffered in crossing the Irish sea. The waves were short, choppy, violent. The Irish train was dirty, smoky, and its roadbed rough, but it seemed heaven after the Irish sea. But more crumbs were strewn down the front of the ayah's robe than found their way into Gussie's stomach.

At the railway station they were met by a jaunting car drawn by a fine pair of grays and driven by a Patsy O'Flynn, who had been nearly all his life in the service of the Courts. There was a mistiness on the scene as tho a fine veil hung between it and the sun. The cackle of geese, the bray of a donkey, the shouts of young children at play brought tears to Adeline's eyes. "O, 'tis good to be home!" she exclaimed. But I expected my father to meet me at the station. Is he not well?"

"He's well enough and him off to lodge a complaint against Sir John Lafferty for the overflow of wather from his land makin' a bog out of ours and his cattle runnin' wild as wolves."

"And is my mother well?"

"She is, and at her wits' end to get the house ready for you and your black servant and parrots and all, the poor lady!"

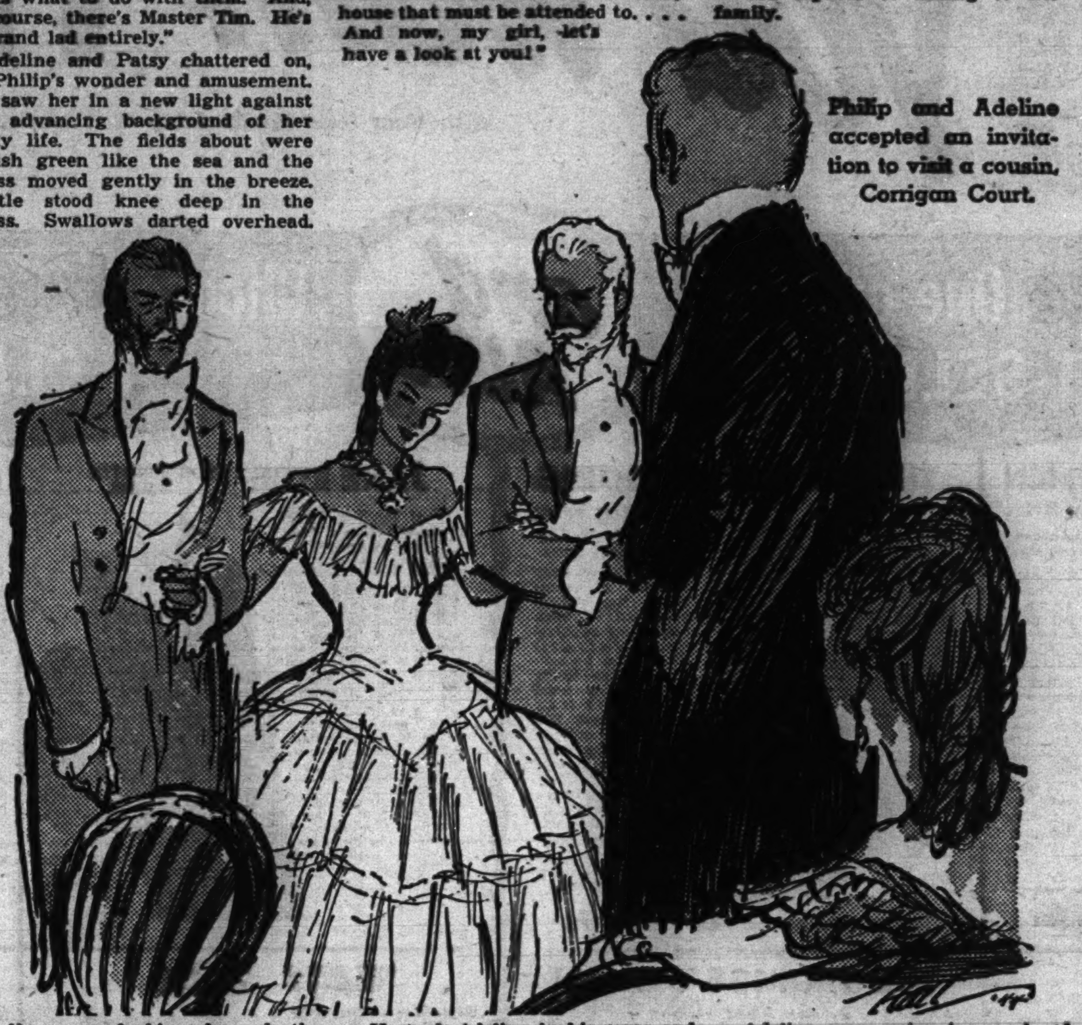
"Are any of my brothers at home?"

"Your sister-in-law, Mrs. Brian Court, is home with her two children, himself havin' been killed in a hunting accident nearly two years ago."

"Alas, yes!"

"Then there's the two young lads your mother sent to the English school to get the new accent on them but they attacked one of the masters and gave him a beatin'. So home they are till the master decides what to do with them. And, of course, there's Master Tim. He's a grand lad entirely."

Adeline and Patsy chattered on, to Philip's wonder and amusement. He saw her in a new light against the advancing background of her early life. The fields about were bluish green like the sea and the grass moved gently in the breeze. Cattle stood knee deep in the grass. Swallows darted overhead.



Philip and Adeline accepted an invitation to visit a cousin, Corrigan Court.

Adeline was looking beyond the fields. The roof of her home showed above the trees of a park where deer grazed. She cried:

"There is the house, Philip! Lord, to think it is nearly five years since I've seen it! It's more splendid than anything I've set my eyes on since! Look at it! Isn't it grand, Philip?"

"It's all out of repair," said Patsy, over his shoulder, "and devil a one to spend a five pound note on it."

It was indeed a fine old house, tho not so fine as Philip had expected, judging by Adeline's description of it. It was not the ancestral home of the Courts, for Adeline's father was a younger son and had inherited the property from his mother who was a Crawshay. It had been built in the days of Queen Anne, and since then had had several additions in varying styles of architecture now happily mellowed into the whole. It had one fine room, the drawing room, with a frescoed ceiling, pine paneling and Adam mantel piece but the rest of the house was low and rambling with many small rooms and irregular passages. The servants' quarters were cramped and dark. There the many servants, on low wages but with plenty of good food, lived their lives, doing as little work as possible, drinking and courting, and with a good deal to be thankful for. The deer were so tame that they sauntered up to see the visitors arrive.

The footman who opened the door was in handsome livery tho rather too tight for him. He greeted Adeline enthusiastically.

"Ah, God bless you, Miss Adeline! It's grand to see ye back. My, 'tis yourself has got thin in the body! What have they been doing to you out yonder? And is this lovely gentleman your husband? Welcome, sir, y'r honor. Come right in. Patsy, look after the luggage o' thim and be quick about it." He turned then and shouted at three dogs which had begun to bark loudly.

Philip felt suddenly self-conscious. He did not quite know how to meet his wife's family. All she had told him of them made them seem less, rather than more, real. He was prepared not to like them, to find them critical of him, yet the tall gentleman who now came quickly down the stairway held out his hand with a genial smile.

"How d'ye do, Capt. Whiteoak," he said, talking Philip's fingers in a thin muscular grasp. "Welcome to Ireland. I'm very glad to see you, sir. I apologize for not going to the station myself but I had a wearisome business at the court-house that must be attended to. . . . And now, my girl, let's have a look at you!"

He took Adeline in his arms and kissed her. Philip then had a good look at him.

Adeline had spoken of her father, Renny Court, as a fine figure of a man but to Philip's mind his back was too thin and certainly not flat enough at the shoulders, and his legs were not quite straight. It was amusing to see how Adeline's lovely features had been molded on this man's bony aquiline face. And his hair must once have been auburn, too, for there was a rusty tinge across the gray of his head. Certainly his eyes were hers.

Philip became conscious that others had come into the hall, a woman somewhat beyond middle age, a young woman with a little girl by either hand, and three youths. The little girls were dragging their mother toward the ayah and Augusta with cries of delight. The older woman was bearing down on Adeline and the boys stood shyly in a corner together.

"O, mother, here I am!" Adeline turned from her father and flung her arms about Lady Honoria.

Lady Honoria Court still retained beauty of a Spanish type which had been handed down in her family since the days of the Armada when a Spanish don had remained to marry an ancestress.

Lady Honoria was a daughter of the old marquis of Killiekeggan. She had shapely hands which Adeline had inherited, and her laughter rang out with contagious mirth. Philip, before he had been two days in the house, decided that she feared her husband's temper, but that she circumvented and thwarted him many a time. She had an air of triumph when she achieved this and he a wary look, as tho waiting his turn to retaliate. Often they did not speak to each other for days at a time, but each had a keen sense of humor, each found the other an amusing person, and their sulks were often broken in upon by sudden laughter from which they recovered themselves with chagrin. Lady Honoria had had 16 children, of whom five had died in early infancy, but she was still quick and graceful in her movements and looked capable of adding to her family.

What Has Gone Before

Having inherited a legacy from a greataunt, Adeline Court, an Irish beauty, visits her cousin Judith in India. There she meets and marries Philip Whiteoak, dashing officer of the Hussars. Their first child is delicate and Adeline's health is impaired. Philip's uncle in Canada dies, leaving Philip heir to his property. Then Adeline and Philip decide to venture to the new world to establish their home. They sail for England, where Adeline meets Philip's family.

Adeline was embracing each of her three young brothers in turn. She led them to Philip, her face flushed, her eyes brilliant in her excitement at being home again. Her bonnet had fallen back and her auburn hair rose in curls above her forehead.

"Here they are," she cried, "the three youngest boys! Conway, Sholto and Timothy — come and shake hands with your new brother!"

The three offered their hands to Philip, the first two sheepishly, the third with an air almost too bright. Philip decided that there was something queer about him. There was a remarkable resemblance among the three. Their hair was a pale red, their eyes greenish, their faces long and pointed, their noses remarkably well shaped with slender supercilious nostrils. The eldest, Conway, tormented Philip by his resemblance to some one he had met, till he discovered that he was the image of the Knave of Diamonds, in his favorite pack of playing cards.

"Look at them!" exclaimed Renny Court, with a scornful flourish of his hand toward the two elder boys. "'Tis a shameful pair they are, I can tell you. They've disgraced me by being sent home from their English school for attacking one of the masters. I knocked their heads together for it but they are on my hands and God knows what I shall do with them! Put them to work in the stables — or in the fields — 'tis all they're fit for! I must tell you that I have six other sons and fine fellows, too. But my wife would have done well to halt before she had these!"

Conway and Sholto grinned with a hangdog air but young Timothy threw his arms about Adeline and hugged her again.

"O, it's grand to have you home again," he said. "I've been saving up things to tell you, but now they've gone right out of my head and I can only be glad."

"You have nothing to tell but mischief," said his father, "and devilment and slyness from morning to night."

A married son who lived at some distance arrived in time for dinner. He was a dark, handsome young man and rode a horse he had purchased that very day and intended entering for the Dublin races. Every one crowded out to see the new horse and was delighted by his appearance. This son was evidently Renny Court's favorite of the moment. He could not make enough of him and praised his skill as a rider and perspicacity as a buyer.

There was a certain grandeur in the dining room and dinner was served by two footmen in livery. The food and the wine were good and, as the meal progressed, Philip felt more at ease with his new relatives. They talked and laughed a great deal.

Renny Court was no absentee landlord, living in England on the rents from a neglected tenantry. He employed no callous bailiff but himself attended to the business of his estate and knew every man, woman, and child on it.

The Whiteoaks' visit passed amiably with the exception of a few fiery encounters between Adeline and her father. In truth they could not be together for long without their wills opposing. She was the only one of his 11 children who did not fear him. Yet she loved him less than did the others. It was to her mother she clung and from whom she dreaded to part. Lady Honoria could not talk of the departure for Canada without weeping. As for Renny Court, he poured out his full contempt of the project.

"What a life for a gentleman!" he would exclaim. "What will you find out there? Nothing but privation and discomfort! What a place for a fine girl like Adeline!"

"I'm willing to go," she interrupted. "I think it will be glorious."

"What do you know about it?"

"More than you, I'll be bound," she retorted. "Philip has had letters from his uncle describing the life in Quebec and he knows a Mr. Vaughan who lives in Ontario and loves it!"

The two boys, Conway and Sholto, were fired by a desire to accompany the Whiteoaks to Canada. The thought of a wild life in a new country, far from parental authority, elated them. They could talk of little else. They would cling to Adeline on her either side and beg her to let them throw in their lot with hers. On her part, she liked the idea. Canada would not seem so remote if she had two of her brothers with her. Their mother surprisingly did not oppose the idea. She had borne so much dissension because of these two that the thought of parting with them did not distress her greatly. They promised to return home within the year. Renny Court was willing enough to be rid of the nuisance of them. Philip did not relish the idea of such a responsibility but to please Adeline he agreed.

The longer Philip stayed with Adeline's family the less congenial they were to him, with the one exception of Lady Honoria. He felt that Renny Court, for all his devotion to his land and his tenantry, mismanaged them both. Far too much money and time were spent on steeple chasing. As for politics, they hardly dare broach the subject, so violently were their views opposed.

Between one thing and another the atmosphere became too tense to be borne. Philip and Adeline accepted an invitation to pay a short visit to Corrigan Court, a cousin who lived 10 miles away. They rode over there one fine spring morning, leaving Augusta, her ayah, and Bonaparte, in the care of Lady Honoria. Renny Court accompanied them on a skittish gray mare who danced her way over the muddy roads and did her best to induce misbehavior in the other horses.

A long lane flanked by a double row of linden trees led to the cousins' house, rather an imposing place with ivy covered turret at either end. Its many windows glittered in the spring sunshine. Corrigan Court and his wife were waiting on the terrace to greet them. The pair were cousins but bore no resemblance to each other, he being dark with arched brows and a languid supercilious air; she ruddy fair, and full of energy. They had been married some years but still were childless. They hoped for a son. She embraced Adeline warmly when she alighted from her horse.

"Bless you, dear Adeline, how glad I am to see you!" she exclaimed. "And your husband! What a perfectly matched pair you are! Welcome — many times welcome."

"Ah, Biddy Court, 'tis good to see you." Adeline warmly returned the embrace.

A thousand questions were asked about their voyage and their plans for going to Canada. Renny Court took the opportunity to disparage the enterprise.

Soloists Announced for Orchestra's 54th Season

on the Aisle

by Claudia Cassidy

More Defauw Letters from Critic's Mailbox

ELSEWHERE in this section you will find the Chicago Symphony orchestra's announcement of its 54th season, to open at Orchestra hall Oct. 12. It will be Désiré Defauw's season. Despite the outspoken dissatisfaction of many concertgoers with Mr. Defauw's regime, he is kingpin. There will be no guest conductors. Hans Lange will remain as conductor, but he is a nebulous figure in the background, with nothing so promising as his Mozart cycle with Artur Schnabel to fall as manna on famine. The only cycle listed is Mr. Defauw's of the nine Beethoven symphonies, and you can hardly call that a cycle. It simply means that during the season of 28 weeks Mr. Defauw will conduct five widely scattered programs of Beethoven's music. Yehudi Menuhin will play the violin concerto, and the last concert of the season will feature the Ninth symphony, not with the Apollo Musical club or the Swedish chorus, but with a chorus of high school students trained by Mr. Defauw and Helen Howe, director of music in the public schools.

An interesting inclusion on the solo list is Helen Traubel, the first vocal soloist we have had in some time, altho Frederick Stock used to conduct some wonderful Mozart and Strauss concerts with Claire Dux. An almost equally interesting exclusion, inadvertent or otherwise, is that none of the soloists who appeared with Mr. Lange this season is to return. That means Mr. Schnabel, Joseph Szigeti, Leonard Pennario, and Isaac Stern. It also means the incomparable Vladimir Horowitz, who was to have appeared with Mr. Lange, but did appear with Mr. Defauw when illness changed the dates of his concerts. The orchestra management explains that Mr. Horowitz is going to devote more time to recital next season. But he already has signed for the Hollywood Bowl next summer, and the chances are he will be on all the other major orchestra lists, as usual.

Three Kinds of Letters.

Meanwhile, the mailbox has been filling up with three kinds of letters. The pro-Defauw letters, an incredible number of which refer to their idol as Mr. Defaux. The anti-Defauw letters, one of which is under the equally surprising misapprehension that the name is Depew. And the letters that come right out and say, as does Helen Bailey's, "When are the dear people going to stop carping against Mr. Defauw and start talking for Hans Lange?" This opens up still another vista of confusion, the one that thinks we must have either Mr. Defauw or Mr. Lange. In such a choice, I would take Mr. Lange every day, including Sunday, but that isn't the point just now.

A good many of Mr. Defauw's supporters choose to be both vitriolic and anonymous, and my favorite is this: "The most stupid article by Claudia Cassidy THE TRIBUNE has allowed to be published is that where, as she says, Wallace Landau calls Brussels a 'provincial town.' He forgets the world entire considers Chicago to have that honor! We appreciate an occasional change from German conducting." More exact in phrasing is E. F. Bergmann, who considers Chicago "very fortunate in having obtained for its conductor so profound a musical scholar as Désiré Defaux" [sic]. Then there is Mildred Parker, who considers Mr. Defauw "precise and electrifying," and says it shakes her faith in my column when it "proposes choral and chamber music to be included in symphony programs." I haven't a notion what it will do to Miss Parker's faith in Mr. Defauw to find him planning the Choral Symphony.

'Glaze of Rhinestones.'

But these letters are in the minority, or maybe the true Defauw fans just aren't speaking to me. On the other side of the fray, suppose we open a few letters. Here is John Jandola, who says, "I gave up after three concerts. I am not a fanatic on music, but I looked forward to good concerts in Chicago and to receive inferior ones thru a stranger is too much. Hans Lange is my choice to take the reins." Here is Nancy Berg, who writes her annoyance at "getting the glaze of rhinestones rather than the true brilliance of diamonds, as if we didn't know the difference, or care!"

Here is a man who writes, "I tried to approach the selection of the new conductor as objectively as possible, knowing it would be hard to adjust to a new personality. As the season draws to an end I am convinced Defauw is not the man for our orchestra. At best if we are to continue with him he should fill his programs with 'picture' music as Hindemith calls it, and never attempt Beethoven, Brahms or Bach. I find it very interesting to mingle with intermission audiences and to sense the steadily growing dissatisfaction with the conductor. Criticism is now becoming outspoken and pointed where formerly indifference and lack of comment prevailed."

A woman who has sat for years in the upper balcony asks why no program has been dedicated to Mr. Stock [I don't know the answer], and inquires, "Why not organize and show some of the 'powers that be' that we would like to have a conductor who has the ability to carry on the work of Mr. Stock without using tricks to cover up? More power to you!"

From Out of Town.

How about going out of town, to Milwaukee, where the orchestra goes on annual tour? Here is Paul I. Biersach, a TRIBUNE reader for 50 years, who writes, "Now then, our Chicago orchestra leadership, lamentable. I heard and saw him direct here in Milwaukee and will tell you candidly I do not want to see him again. After almost 40 years of wonderful leadership we are subjected to such a provincial leader simply because leadership was lacking in making the selection of a first class conductor. We, of the music loving public who have heard and seen a great deal in music and other arts, ask you to continue your efforts to get better results."

Here is Immanuel R. Joss, also of Milwaukee, who writes, "Mr. Defauw just hasn't got 'the gray matter' to direct a great orchestra properly." Mr. Joss gives Mr. Defauw credit for "a fine reading of Beethoven's First symphony and his generosity and eagerness to please with encores," adding, "For this we are thankful, but his lack of understanding and profundity makes us say, he does not measure up." According to this same correspondent, "The one redeeming feature of the present season has been the three concerts Hans Lange directed. Will you please write and tell me the real reason Hans Lange was not appointed to succeed Dr. Stock?" Mr. Joss, I haven't the slightest idea.

Somehow, the most dangerous letter has held until last. It is from Catherine Whitehorn, who "doesn't feel controversial." She wrote it

First Concert by Symphony on October 12

Désiré Defauw.
[Nelidoff Photo.]

The 54th season of the Chicago Symphony orchestra will open next October 12 with Désiré Defauw again engaged as musical director and conductor and Hans Lange continuing as conductor. The programs of the new season will feature a Beethoven cycle during which all the symphonies will be heard in five concerts under Mr. Defauw's direction, with Yehudi Menuhin interpreting the violin concerto. The final concert of the season will be devoted to the Ninth symphony, in which a chorus of students from the city's high schools will sing the finale. There also will be a two concert festival of American music which will present first performances of new works by native composers.

Both of Chopin's piano concertos will appear on the programs, the first in E minor to be played by Alexander Brailowsky, the second in F minor by Artur Rubinstein. Robert Casadesus, French pianist, will play D'Indy's "Symphony on a French Mountain Air" and César Franck's "Les Djinns." The younger generation of pianists will be represented by William Kappel, who will play Rachmaninoff's Concerto No. 3, in D minor; Alexander Uninsky, Russian pianist who made his debut here this season, playing Prokofieff's third concerto, and a 15 year old pianist from Pittsburgh, Byron Jannes, will make his debut. Rudolf Serkin will play Brahm's first piano concerto in D minor.

Fritz Kreisler, dean of present day violinists, will appear on the programs after an absence of several seasons, and other exponents of this instrument will include Jascha Heifetz in the Brahms concerto; Mischa Elman playing the concerto by Bohuslav Martinu which was written for him and of which he gave the premiere performance with the Boston Symphony this season; Zino Francescatti, playing Ravel's "Tzigane," Lalo's "Spanish Symphony" and Paganini's Concerto in D major, and Nathan Milstein, whose vehicle is unannounced. Gregor Piatigorsky will give the first local performance of Vladimir Dukelsky's cello concerto and also will play the Schumann concerto. Helen Traubel, the only vocalist engaged, will be heard in Isolde's Liebestod and the Immolation scene from Wagner's "Twilight of the Gods."

First desk members of the string section will be heard in customary solo appearances. John Weicher, the concertmaster, will give the first Chicago performance of Béla Bartok's concerto, and will appear with Edmund Kurtz, the first cellist, in Brahms' double concerto. Milton Preves, the first violist, will play William Walton's concerto for viola.

The season will consist of 28 Thursday evening-Friday afternoon concerts, beginning Oct. 12 and ending on April 20, 12 Tuesday afternoon concerts and the usual quota of "Young People's" and "Pop" concerts.

During the current week the orchestra will play in Milwaukee tomorrow night under Mr. Defauw, who also will conduct the Young People's concert on Wednesday at 3:30, the Good Friday program on Thursday-Friday, and the "Pop" concert and broadcast on Saturday afternoon at 2. The Good Friday program lists Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Russian Easter" overture, Mozart's Symphonie Concertante for violin and viola, played by John Weicher and Milton Preves, the prelude to Act I and Good Friday Spell from Wagner's "Parsifal," and Franck's Symphony in D minor.

The Young People's Concert will have two soloists: Lillian Najarian, pianist, who will play Liszt's Hungarian Fantasie, and David Davis, who will be heard in the Paganini violin concerto. The orchestra will play an excerpt from Beethoven's Ninth symphony and the song will be a "Hymn for the Nations," based on a melody from the Ninth symphony. The broadcast portion of the Saturday afternoon "Pop" concert will include Bach's Suite No. 3 in D major and Beethoven's Fifth symphony. The last half of the program brings a second hearing of John Alden Carpenter's Second symphony, first performed last November, and Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel."

The Polish Arts club will present three singers, winners of the club's bi-annual contest, in concert at Kimball hall this afternoon at 3:30. Participants will be Harriet Konopka, coloratura soprano; Loretta Pryblinski, mezzo-soprano, and Jean Wagner, lyric soprano. Each of the singers will contribute two groups of songs and arias.

University of Illinois Plans Proficiency Test

All Students Must Take It to Graduate

By the Rev. John Evans.

When President Willard of the University of Illinois remarked "merely a collection of college courses is not an education" he admitted he was saying nothing original. Thoughtful educators have long realized that courses for which a degree is awarded as a prerequisite to some professional field do not in themselves produce a broadly educated man.

But this remark carried weight because Dr. Willard was an internationally known engineer before he became president, and the University of Illinois promptly acted upon it. Action dates back to his first year in office when his views on overspecialization were revealed and a committee appointed to study a broadening of the educational base of all students in the university's 15 colleges and schools.

Last week the board of trustees approved the recommendation that all students must pass a proficient examination in written English before a degree is granted. This recommendation is the result of the setting up in 1939 of the university's division of general studies.

This division is intended as a means for meeting the dual problem of producing graduates who are "educated," not just "trained" in a specialty, and of providing educational benefits for those students who quit college after a couple of years with little benefit from an uncompleted professional course.

President Willard has set up certain criteria for identifying an educated man arrived at by placing emphasis upon development of an ability to think and acquire information about men and affairs rather than on professional competence.

Chief of these criteria are skill in speech and writing to enable transmission of thought and ideas; capacity to criticize objectively and engage in creative thinking for himself; ability to evaluate and differentiate between the true and the false so far as they determine conduct; a knowledge of foreign cultures; understanding of the laws and forces of nature, and competent equipment in a profession or vocation "to serve God and society as a morally responsible individual."

"This last criterion is of prime importance," explained President Willard. "Nobody can disagree with the idea of expecting a college educated man to be competent to earn a living, but such competence can be acquired without really producing an 'educated' person.

"We train men for all the professions and vocations, but we often fail to educate even those who receive collegiate degrees. They know little of the world in which they live."

"Didums ickle tummy ache then?" and other baby lingo is all right, according to Dr. Orvis C. Irwin of child welfare research at the University of Iowa. This should be a great relief to those parents who have refrained from baby talk thru fear of impoverishing an infant's vocabulary, because, Dr. Irwin says, "the babbling period is the time when the child is mastering physiological requirements of speech," and the strange sounds made by the mother do not have to be meaningful so long as they have variety. The baby will attempt to get the pattern, rhythm, and emphasis by imitation, and eventually arrive at real words, "so go right ahead ad libbing to your baby!"

THE LITERARY SPOTLIGHT

by Fanny Butcher

HERVEY ALLEN knows how to live. . . . He wants to write books and he doesn't want to talk over the telephone, which definitely interferes with writing books; so he very smartly has no telephone. . . . Not an unlisted one, just none at all, which makes it difficult for an old friend to find him, but pretty fine for him if the person trying to find him is a literary wolf in sheepskin clothing.

I knew his aunt's name and, when I called her, the most charming and friendly voice answered. . . . I have never had the pleasure of seeing Mrs. Andre Rickmers, the owner of that voice, but I know that she is a darling just from hearing it—and she was kindness itself not only in getting word promptly to Hervey but in offering me other keys to the mysteries of Miami.

Pioneering in Florida.

There was a lecture that night at the University of Miami. . . . It's out in Coral Gables, about as far as the University of Chicago is from the loop, and as I was eight miles out of Miami—and lucky to be in the county, the place is so stuffed with humans—it was a trek which evoked all of my pioneer blood. . . . But it was worth it, for I not only saw Hervey and Ann Allen, and arranged to go to see them the next day, but I heard a dramatic talk by Edward Weeks, editor of the Atlantic, who has recently returned from a look-see in England. . . . He told a vivid move-by-move story of an American bomber group before and after a raid over Germany.

About the only magazine that the British censors positively refuse to allow to be taken out of England is called "Signal." . . . It is beautifully printed, well written in good English, but is pure—well, have it your own way, then, impure—German propaganda. . . . He was given a copy as a souvenir by a fellow planemate, a returned flyer whom they picked up at their first stop in Ireland. . . . He didn't keep it long, tho. . . . The censor [a woman, by the way] nabbed it.

Arsenic and Old Luce.

In mentioning an American magazine of great circulation he said, "One of the Luce publications—Arsenic and Old Luce, they call him." . . . His own magazine has undergone a war change, he said. . . . Instead of making it up from the front to the back, he now fills the back first, thus leaving the front for spot news. . . . Mme. Chiang Kai-shek cabled an article. . . . They had had an estimate of $750 for cable rates, but she went over her copy very carefully, deleting all articles and connectives, and saved them $300, he said.

There is something new in London, he said. Flowers growing out of the bombed ruins from seeds dropped by birds. . . . They are so novel that the master of Kew gardens is writing a book about them. . . . It reminds me of that wonderful poem by Carl Sandburg about the grass growing over the battlefields. . . . Read it, you'll find it in "Grass."

Daniel Boone's Gun.

Hervey Allen and his matchless wife both seemed to me unchanged, either physically or from the great hearted, kindly pair that I had seen much of one summer 10 years ago. . . . They live on a country road well outside Miami—nearer Cocoanut Grove than anywhere else, probably—in a sort of openwork compound, their own house surrounded by guest cottages occupied by friends and relatives. . . . Over the entrance door is a long musket almost as tall as a man, like the one held by Salathiel Albine on the jacket of "The Forest and the Fort." . . . I discovered it was Daniel Boone's—not a replica, but Dan'l's own private firearm. . . . How? Well, by the always effective process of asking questions. . . . I also asked questions about the fireplace with a hearth almost waist high. . . . It is the kind they have in Bermuda. . . . Hervey Allen lived there part of the time he was writing "Anthony Adverse." . . . It heats the body, leaves the feet unburnt—perfect for cool nights in the tropics.

He is hard at work on the third volume of the saga, works regular hours every day, does none of the whoop-la things some Miamians do, intends to stay where he is for the duration, summer as well as winter. . . . He has closed the fine old house he owns on the Maryland shore, like many other people whose country life is no more.

Alert Literary Group.

They have a very alert little literary group at the university. . . . Robert Frost had talked the night before I arrived, telling his audience that it was a poet's job to keep his poetic head on poetry in bad times, so they said. . . . It reminded me of Carl Sandburg's violently opposite point of view. . . . He believes that a poet should become an active political factor in times of stress, use his powers to preach the gospel of freedom. . . . Well, they represent the never ending war between the purely artistic and the pragmatic philosophies of creative work.

And speaking of creative work, I came upon something surprising—I think you'll agree with me—a class in creative writing for men in the air forces. . . . Voluntary enrollment, of course, but well patronized.

Basking Bennett.

Bennett Cerf, a fugitive for a couple of weeks from New York publishing, and his pretty wife, Phyllis, have been basking while I walked my Literary Spotlight beat trying to turn up a bit of news for you. . . . We all had dinner one night—they beautifully brown and making me feel white as a ghost. . . . Phyllis is a cousin of Ginger Rogers, could be in the movies herself. . . . It's more fun listening to her husband talk—he's that witty. She has just given the last touches to a giant anthology of horror stories, which her husband assures me is the best book he has ever published. . . . He's doing another pocket anthology—of anecdotes. . . . His anthology of humor, "Pocketbook of War Humor," has been fabulously successful. . . . But by and large Miami is not a center of the writing industry.

History of France in a Compact Form

"A SHORT HISTORY OF FRANCE," by J. A. R. Marriott. [Oxford University Press, $2.75.]

So condensed is the Marriott political history of France that it covers 2,000 years in some 125,000 words, averaging 60 or 65 words to the year. It devotes about a page to Joan of Arc, four to Richelieu, and six to the period from Aug. 4, 1914, to Nov. 11, 1918, but the author tells an amazing amount by sticking severely to his political subject. Thus the work keeps its balance. It presumes some knowledge of English political development.

French Colonies Hailed as Model of Wise Ruling

"THE FRENCH COLONIES, Past and Future," by Jacques Stern. [Didier, $3.]

Reviewed by Dr. Melchior Palyi.

A leitmotif in Wendell Willkie's "One World" that colonial empires are undesirable because they mean the exploitation of the indigent races [except, of course, when the Russians do the colonization] is the target of this book written by a former French minister of colonies.

He tries to bring to light the great cultural and economic results the French have accomplished in their empire, which he represents as a sort of miniature league of nations. He does so by giving a history of French colonization with the accent on picturesque incidents.

Indeed, France has accomplished great things in her colonial policies, but it takes more than a superficial historical summary and a few statistical tables to throw light on the problems involved and to evaluate the results.

Mr. Stern provides us only with a second hand textbook in which the propagandizing intention is so obvious as to create suspicion against rather than conviction for the cause he pleads—a cause worth pleading for.

What Became of ANNA BOLTON

In this rich new novel, Louis Bromfield fills your mind and heart with the figure of Anna Bolton, the girl from the other side of the tracks who set out to show the world how far she could get... who moved as a queen through the decadent capitals of pre-war Europe... who tasted her hard-won triumph and found it bitter... and who, in the moment of final despair, discovered a challenge worthy of her steel, a goal that promised happiness.

Variations on Theme of Family Life

"STAND ON A RAINBOW," by Mary Quayle Innis. [Duell, Sloan and Pearce, $2.50.]

"ON SUCH AS WE," by Perry Adams. [Bobbs Merrill, $2.50.]

"THE FACE OF THINGS," by Ann Ritner. [Dodd Mead, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Kenneth Horan.

Three different aspects of family life are represented in these novels and it is difficult to believe that the ties of blood could produce such unlikely results. The one thing that binds these people, who are from different walks of life, into a compact whole, is family. And because of family they are unified groups, impregnable, indissoluble, undefeatable. The wonder is that they are all so completely different, with an utter lack of either economic or social similarity. They speak different languages.

Mary Quayle Innis.

"Stand On a Rainbow" presents a perfectly enchanting family group—mother, father, two boys, a girl, and a dog. It is made up of the small tragedies and comedies that form their lives, such things as the summer cottage on the lake, a lost dog, the first sail boat, the picnic lunch, all play a part. It's as real as molasses candy, and sweet and fragrant, a book to cherish and love. That so honest and so real a family exists is yet another proof of the goodness of our way of life.

Contrast with this "On Such As We" [the axe will fall, would be my conclusion.] Here is an ambitious young man, studying law in Switzerland, hoping to enter Yale university. His mother comes to visit him, a beautiful and a charming expatriate who is given to periodical sprees, and who depends on her handsome young son to see her thru them. Continental society, American bars, English provincials, Italian royalty, make up a setting as sophisticated and degenerate as paté de foie gras, if we must be food conscious.

The way Ned Anderson's mother clung to him, thwarting all his ambitions in her selfish and determined path down stream, is a pathetic and a realistic story, whose end comes only when he breaks free. Believe it or not, this is a story of perfectly breathless climaxes, and when Ned finally breaks the silver cord, the sound reverberates long after the book is closed. It is a cleverly contrived and written story, and while its theme is unusual, its style is brilliant.

"The Face of Things" is about the emotional ups and downs of two young people who try to solve their problems by divorce. They are agreeable and likeable, products of too much money and not enough sense. Other love lights make the divorce a cheerful affair, after all. Written with careful accuracy, this story will instruct as it amuses, for the author tells all.

Teenie Weenies Again a Delight

"TEENIE WEENIE DAYS," by William Donahey. [Whittlesey, $1.50.]

There's an appeal about little people the size of match sticks that endears them to children of all ages—and even to their parents. This reviewer read every word! Mr. Donahey writes so realistically of the General, the Cowboy, the Lady of Fashion, the Cook, the Dunce, and Gogo that one almost expects to find their shoe house out under the rosebush in one's own back yard. Humor, mischief, work, and play, mingle in this latest Teenie Weenie story, illustrated by the author's usual clever drawings.

FRANCES DUNLAP HERON.

BOOKMAN'S HOLIDAY

By Charles Collins.

BOOKS RECEIVED:

"Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson," edited by Christopher Morley. [Harcourt, Brace. $2.]

"Profile by Gaslight," edited by Edgar W. Smith. [Simon & Schuster. $2.75.]

LET the month of March, 1944, be noted on the tablets of historians as the time of the apotheosis of the Man in the Deer-stalker Cap. The gospel spreads; the cult enlarges; and there is joy among true believers. The two new books recorded above, coming on the heels of "The Misadventures of Sherlock Holmes," collected by Ellery Queen, establish the fact that a great man cannot be kept down, even after a plunge into the abyss of the Reichenbach falls. He has become a demigod, and the literary playboys of the Baker Street Irregulars are spinning an amusing and elaborate mythology around his gaunt, virile figure.

Mr. Morley's work is marked with the missionary spirit. He has taken five of the Sherlock Holmes stories and given them the trappings of a high school textbook, with plentiful footnotes and supplementary suggestions for classroom discussion. A long and graceful introduction, and an appendix containing thumbnail sketches of every item in the Sacred Writings, enhance the value of this admirable excursion into Holmesiana.

"Profile by Gaslight" represents the scholarship of the secretary of the Baker Street Irregulars. Edgar W. Smith has assembled essays, tributes, fantasies, and now and then verses, by 32 worshipers at the shrine. In his own foreword he proclaims the faith that Sherlock Holmes existed in the flesh by giving the date and place of his birth:

"Sherlock Holmes was born on the sixth of January, 1854, in the town of Mycroft in the North Riding of Yorkshire."

The contributors to "Profile by Gaslight" include three women—Dorothy Sayers, long believed to be hopelessly in love with Lord Peter Wimsey; Carolyn Wells, fertile chronicler of the mysteries solved by a certain Fleming Stone, and Helene Yuhasova, who happened to express Mary Morstan's opinion of her future husband, Dr. John or James H. Watson, in an amusing sonnet. This intrusion of the sex in which Sherlock Holmes had no romantic interest almost amounts to a breach of the house rules of the Baker Street Irregulars. For no woman has been admitted to its annual meetings, altho many have tried to crash the gate. Among the rejected angels was none other than Katharine Cornell. The tempted Irregulars quivered under the blandishments of the actress, but stood firm for the laws of their monastic order.

Rights to further discussion of the March additions to published Holmesiana are now released to Vincent Starrett, who plays a considerable role in all three books.

To turn from the cult of Sherlock Holmes to the cult of Shakespeare: A pamphlet addressed to the 78th congress of the United States and the committee on appropriations thereof, has come to the attention of this column. It offers to "unmask the Shakespeare mystery" for $50,000—a small sum, the unmasker states, in comparison with the annual expenses of American pilgrims to the shrine at Stratford-on-Avon.

This seeker of $50,000 in easy money is Arthur W. Sanborn of Boston. He undertakes to prove to the satisfaction of any board of judges that five plays in the Folio of 1623, which are superior as a group to the others, were not written by Shakespeare. He will also prove the identity of the true author. His evidence is a cipher message in the text.

The discovery of alleged ciphers in Shakespeare's texts has been an esoteric pastime of library chair-warmers for many years. There was a fine example of this complex in Chicagoland about fifteen years ago. The late Col. Fabyan sponsored, on his estate near St. Charles, prolonged studies by a devotee of this hobby, and publications resulted. Dr. John Manley, head of the English department of the University of Chicago and a cryptogrammatist of distinction, pooh-poohed the results.

Hal W. Trovillion, whose private press at Herrin, Ill., has a reputation among bibliophiles, supplements discussion of the late Irvin S. Cobb's last wishes and Robert Louis Stevenson's verses, "Requiem," thus:

"The original manuscript of 'Requiem' has an extra stanza which appears between the two stanzas always quoted. It was stricken out and never so printed. It reads:

'Here may the winds about me blow;
Here the clouds may come and go;
Here shall be rest for evermo',
And the heart for aye shall be still.'

"Stevenson's verses have been recited over many an open grave, and sometimes they have been substituted for prayer at funeral services. It is the general opinion that 'Requiem' is the poetical masterpiece of R. L. S."

Cavallaro's Band Coming to Empire Room Thursday

Talent Packed Show to Star Larry Adler

By Will Davidson.

Thirty per cent tax or no, the cafes are still bringing in the talent.

Skip Nelson.

Big news of the week is the Chicago debut of Carmen Cavallaro in the Palmer House Thursday. Carmen has made a tremendous name for himself via recordings, and is an eastern favorite. He'll have as competition for attention the great Larry Adler and a supporting show that is talent packed.

The Chez Paree is changing its show Friday night, with Cross and Dunn, Bernice Parks, and Bill Gary heading the new contingent. Jackie Miles may be held over.

That same night the Blackstone proudly presents Paul Draper, peer of all tap ballet dancers. The Drake will have a new singer in its Camellia House, but at this writing the name was not available.

Tonight the Bismarck wipes away the tears over Talia's departure from the New Walnut room and welcomes the Rossi sisters, an acrobatic dance team. Phil D'Rey, ventriloquist, and Jimmy Joy's happy band carry on.

Next Sunday night is the time Eddie Stone, with Buddy Franklin's band, comes to the Aragon and Don Reid to the Trianon.

Sunday night also is Devi Dja's farewell for several weeks. The star of the Sarong room has been coaching a Korean sister team to replace her troupe. The girls are Milan Tei and Fafa Lee. They will be co-featured with Mas Doellah, Javanese dagger dancer.

Then on the 14th Ethel Shutta will replace Joan Merrill in that elegant Rio Cabana show. Joan will be back in the fall, they promise.

The Stevens is now letting George do it. And George—Olsen—is doing it beautifully in the Boulevard room. The smiling and peppy band leader turns his superb group loose and provides the entire floor show. The Stevens bosses may, as some reports have it, have cut out name acts in view of anticipated losses due to the new tax, but I doubt it. If they did, they struck gold when they signed Olsen. It has been a good many years since he has played a cafe date here, and as always he has a stack of stunts that are really entertaining. "The Show Must Go On" is a variety revue ranging from corn to corn, and very funny most of the time. The old cowboy quartet still performs its midget routine, and the band's stars give serious performances that are superb.

Beautiful Judith Blair has a cute version of "Who Took Me Home Last Night?" and Marshall Gill, handsome young find, is excellent in famous musical comedy favorites. Hal Klaus, violinist and concertmaster, is simply superb in his playing of "Holiday for Strings."

CHEZ SINGER

Once again Bernice Parks will be the singing star of a Chez Paree show. She opens there Friday night with a new revue.

The band is beautiful. Its sweetness is not corny—it has the body and the fluidity of a small symphony group with light hearted manner.

Teddy Powell, on the other hand, is a swing star of great magnitude, and lets it go at that. His band is loud but it makes musical sense, and the kids love it dearly. Teddy features the singing of Skip Nelson, Peggy Mann, and Deacon Barnes, 17, a Chicagoan; also the tenor sax of famous Charlie Venturo, and the special trumpet of Pete Candoli.

Skip and Peggy double in an amusing version of "Give Me a Little Kiss," and do expert solo work, respectively, with "How Lovely You Are," and "I'll Be Around." Young Barnes gives the typical kid twist to "G. I. Jive."

When Powell is off the stand Hot Lips Page takes over, and there, friends, is a band! Their "Fish for Supper" had the crowd laughing and yelling for more. Carl Marx, the beloved clown, and the College Inn models in a parade skit, "Play as You Go," fill out the bill.

Boswelling the Bistros:

Russ Facchine, stalwart big man of MCA, is being fitted for navy blues. . . . Those cute Toy sisters at the Blackhawk are proving to be a hit with the audiences. Dorothy is the dancer, and has appeared in this room before as part of the Toy and Wing dance team. She is accompanied by her singing sister, Lei Lan. Their elaborate Chinese costumes match their unusual arrangements of "Begin the Beguine," "Holiday for Strings," and a rumba medley. Del Courtney gives them a wonderful musical brackground. . . . Henri Gendron, well known around Chicago as a bandlear, will have a new orchestra, accenting strings, in the Stevens hotel's new Park Row dining room. . . . There's still time to buy that $100 to $1,000 war bond and see newspaper critics and reviewers take their turn as entertainers in the Mayfair room this afternoon.

Ray Benson is the new band in the Pump room. . . . He follows Tommy Low, who shouldn't be allowed to stay out of town very long, he's that good. . . . José Manzanares has just completed his second year in the Pan American cafe of the Hotel La Salle. Mark Talent now plays in the band. . . . The cafe world is mourning the death of Otto Roth, long owner of the Blackhawk, who helped a tremendous number of big name bands get that way. . . . While we were watching the kids watch Teddy Powell's hot band the beautiful lady who accompanies me showed the strain of years of my punning by remarking: "Do those kids have a rapt expression because they're being sent?"

sitting home listening to prize records, and she says, "After last Thursday's disappointing evening [Ania Dorfmann and 'Petrouchka'] I am just resigned. I could have saved hours of energy by staying home and playing Schnabel's recording of the Beethoven, Defauw's much-better-than-the-concert recording of 'The Birds,' and Stravinsky's own recording of 'Petrouchka'." When that happens, what price box office?

So speaks the public, or what you might call a cross section of it. How about the out of town press? Recently the orchestra went to Toledo to play a concert. A copy of the review by Arthur Peterson of the Toledo Blade is on my desk. This is what Mr. Peterson had to say, in part:

"The Chicago Symphony orchestra used to be nearly as big as its late conductor, Frederick Stock. Under Defauw during the first half last night it was soggy and small and if there had been nothing beyond Beethoven ['Lenore' No. 3] and Schumann [Third symphony] one would have had to go away mournfully, as from a mansion that is decaying.

"But something must have happened backstage while many of us were being consoled by tobacco in the lobby and while some of us were looking longingly at the exits. A different orchestra came out for the second half, and tho it was not an orchestra I would cross Lucas county on all fours to hear, it was such an improvement over its predecessor that your correspondent had to alter the notations on his score sheet somewhat.

"The alterations, let me add, were made grumpily, because I don't think one should forgive such punk Beethoven and Schumann on the strength of one fairly good specimen of Debussy ['Clouds'], some Debussy that was up to snuff ['Festivals'], a really zingy reading of Dukas' 'The Sorcerer's Apprentice.' and a good grade B production of Stravinsky's 'Firebird,' not a knockout, mind you, but good grade B."

Mr. Peterson went on to say, "Defauw has some mannerisms that made pretty good watching while one waited for the overture and the symphony to pull out of the gumbo," adding, "They were up to the hub caps, nearly." Then he lives up to the name of his newspaper, thus, "I am about to sum up. If you paid $3.30 for a seat you got a dollar and a half's worth."

European Star Makes N. Y. Debut in Poor Play

Drama Stodgy, Too Bookish, Critic Reports

By John Chapman.

NEW YORK [Special].—When a dramatist or a screen writer sets himself to adapting a novel for the purpose of show business, he is faced with a dilemma right off the bat. Should he stick close to the book, or should he take liberties he feels are necessary? Whichever he does he is sure to get scolded for it by somebody.

This season's small crop of adaptations has not done too well, and the newest one, "The House in Paris," is stodgy, mannered, and too bookish. Its chief service is the introduction to New York playgoers of Ludmilla Pitoeff, Russian born, French trained actress, who was one of the great stars of Paris for many years. Some of the reviewers did not care for her work; others suspended judgment, saying they'd wait until she got a better play, and I liked her quite a lot. She is of the type one can call continental, but she, nevertheless, works with restraint. In comparison with another continental player, Elisabeth Bergner, she is almost as immobile as Cedric Hardwicke, and, considering her background, can be congratulated for her economy.

Mme. Pitoeff is slight, bright-eyed; her movements are graceful, her voice is flexible, and she has about her the air of intelligence and experience. She has one handicap that seems to beset almost all French people—an inability to make English sound easy. But, one is told, her acquaintance with our tongue is of far shorter duration than, say, Charles Boyer's. In "The House in Paris" she does not falter, but one gets the impression that she is holding on tight and making great effort not to commit any mistakes. If she remains in the American theater—and she should—she should gain fluidity rapidly.

In my mind, two of the most notable screen adaptations of books were Orson Welles' "The Magnificent Ambersons" and the Garson-Pidgeon "Mrs. Miniver." "Ambersons," a comparative failure, was a magnificent distillation of the mood and flavor of an old Booth Tarkington best seller; it was almost slavish in following the man who wrote it, and its avoidance of liberty-taking was admirable. "Mrs. Miniver," on the other hand, had nothing whatever to do with the book except that some of the characters had the same names. Its liberty-taking was complete—and, therefore, admirable, for a screen picture based on the little literary flights of the book would have been dull and punk.

Earlier this season the Theater Guild offered Paul Osborn's dramatization of "A High Wind in Jamaica," or "The Innocent Voyage." Much of it was admirable and engaging, but even those who had not read the book sensed that something was missing—that somewhere was a problem the dramatist had failed to lick.

Elizabeth Bowen wrote "The House in Paris" in 1935, and it was a book club selection in 1936. On reading it now for the first time I wonder if somehow those dates aren't wrong, and the novel really came out about 1905. Its dialog is so wooden, so precisely grammatical, that some of it sounds like Clyde Fitch's hit war play, "Barbara Frietchie."

The adapters, E. Mawby Green and Allen Feilbert, have done some necessary tinkering with the fiction text, but not enough. They have telescoped its action into one room in Paris, whereas the story wandered up and down both sides of the channel, and this is dramatically necessary. They have brought into sharper focus one character in order to give Mme. Pitoeff a star's role. But, unhappily, they have followed too slavishly the Bowen style of conversation, which is reading-stuff and not hearing-stuff. This makes for extra stodginess in a play which would be pretty stuffy even if everybody did talk like a human being.

The House in Paris is a pension run by one Mme. Fisher, a lady of drive and ambition, who, nevertheless, has had a life of frustration. Mme. Fisher, having been unable to make anything of herself, has taken to dominating others. She makes a young art student a bank clerk, because there's no money in art. She makes a pallid, yearning spinster out of her daughter. She frightens her young pensionnaires, most of whom are English and American girls spending a year in Paris to absorb culture.

The inhibited young bank clerk finally manages to cut himself loose from Mme. Fisher's iron domination by the simple, direct method of slashing his wrist and bleeding to death—but not before he has engendered a child in an English girl, who is a former habitant of the pension. The child is a hellion at the age of 11—eerie, introspective, abnormally intelligent. He was brought up in Italy without any parent ever having acknowledged him, and he is angry because, literally, nobody knows he was born.

The play, like the book, has a prolog, main action and epilog. Prolog and epilog concern the child, and the time is 1911. Main action concerns Mme. Fisher, her daughter, the bank clerk, and the English girl, and the time is 1900. At the end Mme. Fisher, now a dying old lady who so far has failed to mold other people's lives to her satisfaction, finds a new subject—the boy. Apparently she succeeds at last, for she senses the rebellion and bitterness in the lad and seems to give direction to these forces in him—to give him the ambition and energy which she always had.

An English youngster, Alastair Boyd Kyle, gives an excellent performance as the neurotic child. But he and Mme. Pitoeff can't help much, for there is a deal of bad talk and bad acting in the rest of the drama.

First Novel Shows Skill and Fluency

"HONEYMOON IN HELL," by Gail Elton Mayo. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Maureen Daly.

This is the story of a young couple caught in France by the war and their desperate race to beat the Germans to the sea and safety before the invasion. Had it been published a year ago, or even a few months ago, this book might still have had impact, but now, when the same refugee experiences have become humdrum in the telling and battlefronts have shifted, "Honeymoon in Hell" is just a sugared retake of refugee stories you have heard before.

Anthea is an American girl, brought up in Europe, who, at 16, marries Igor, a young Russian whom she hardly knows. They come to Paris after their honeymoon to find war declared and from then on shuttle from place to place trying to shake the pall of war in the pseudo-gayety and champagne of the Riviera crowd, also on the run.

When the final blitz comes, Anthea is expecting a child and cannot find a hospital to take her in. The tension of the war, Anthea's brush with death and the fact that Igor, because of his nationality, cannot volunteer for service, bring a growing estrangement between the two. Months later they land in America, via Lisbon and red tape, only to find themselves complete emotional strangers. With their marriage a war casualty, they go their separate ways.

"Honeymoon in Hell," remarkable in its maturity and competent handling, is a first novel written by a 20 year old Australian. Tho the plot is flimsy and lacks graphic detail to make the story individual, the characterization is good and the writing easy and fluent. Perhaps with her next book Miss Mayo will beat history to the printed page and come out with something more timely.

Novelist Tries to Show Murder in the Making

"CYPRESS MAN," by Jane Beynon. [Bobbs-Merrill, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Kelsey Guilfoil.

In the opening paragraph of this novel, the author tells the reader that a murder is brewing. Whether this adds to the suspense or detracts from it—whether one is breathless to know who will kill whom—or whether it makes one flip over the pages to read the end at once [of course that isn't cricket on the reader's part], the device has the merit of setting the stage for tragedy.

It isn't, however, a mystery story. It's a sharply drawn, swiftly paced account of two men and two women whose lives were caught in a tangle of misdirected loves. One, the "cypress man" of the title, is a composer whose genius is warped by what is alleged to be mental unbalance, but which looks a great deal more like arrested development.

An interesting story is constructed out of the psychological reactions of these characters. But to this reviewer the interest is blunted by the fact that nothing happens which is surprising. Moreover, I didn't care. When a minor character commits suicide, there is no sense of pity or horror, because one knew all along that he was the sort that would do that—and with small loss to the world.

When at last the murder is done, there is a sense of relief that the murderer finally got around to it. The key to the book's deficiency is perhaps found in the fact that the events the writer chooses to relate are not of themselves significant in shaping the murderer's character. He is a murderer to begin with, and his drinking and his amours expose his character but do not explain it.

Mississippi Book Given Wider Scope

"UPPER MISSISSIPPI: A Wilderness Saga," by Walter Havighurst. [Farrar & Rinehart, 2.50.]

Reviewed by James Gray.

Walter Havighurst.

With the blessing of historians, or at least with their fatherly indulgence, native writers have been turning more and more, during recent years, to stories of our American beginnings. The result has been not merely to revitalize fiction, but also to produce a great number of briskly explorative nonfiction studies of regions, states, seaports, towns.

Of all these collections, the Rivers of America series is still the most popular. No point of departure has captured the American reader's imagination quite so well as that of setting out from the head waters of a great stream to study the life that grew up about its various stretches.

Having at the moment no new report to make about these winding highways of water, the publishers of the Rivers series have reissued one of the first studies, Walter Havighurst's "Upper Mississippi" which originally appeared in 1937. The author has added new chapters and the illustrators, David and Lolita Granahan, have contributed six more of their sturdy interpretations of the life of the river and its banks.

Mr. Havighurst's first thoughts about the Mississippi were concerned chiefly with the Scandinavian migration. He made an excellent story of it, but some of his readers were critical of the fact that this deliberately restricted view shut out some dramatic sights and also some charming bits of by-play. These have now been restored to the record.

Feeling that his Mississippi did not flow quite broad enough or far enough, Mr. Havighurst has now given it greater sweep so that, together with Hodding Carter's "Lower Mississippi," the story is complete. Walter Havighurst early set a good model in style for books of the series; his work now sets a model of thoroness as well.

The Romance of the SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION VIVIDLY PORTRAYED BY ITS SCHOLARS IN THE SMITHSONIAN SCIENTIFIC SERIES

Arts and Industries Building

Natural History Building

Freer Gallery of Art

NO PLACE in Washington, D. C., is more famous than the Smithsonian Institution . . . other than the Capitol itself. No organization has contributed more to the world's cultural progress. No spot attracts more visitors. And no establishment of its kind is rendering more valuable service in our country's war effort today.

Yet for all that, comparatively few of our 130,000,000 people really know the Institution or appreciate its influence upon their daily lives. That is why this booklet was written.

The Smithsonian Opens Its Doors to Show You How to Make Your Life Fuller

Many people still regard the Smithsonian only as a museum. For years it has gathered and administered millions of priceless specimens for the collections of the United States Government. These are the things one sees. But the Smithsonian's primary function is research and exploration "to increase and diffuse knowledge among men." The vast accumulation of specimens is simply the result of that activity.

And so, though more than 2,000,000 people visit the Smithsonian every year, its officers felt some time ago that it should further the purpose of the founder by bringing the Institution to you—to you who may never see it or, as visitors, never have sufficient time to take in more than a tiny fraction of what it contains.

This free booklet is your introduction to the Smithsonian Institution and to the story of a fascinating and comprehensive work compiled by the great staff of scientists at the Smithsonian:

The SMITHSONIAN SCIENTIFIC SERIES

Through these books the scope of the Institution's world wide interests has been clearly shown. The Smithsonian's influence has been widened; its usefulness extended. Man's scientific accomplishments have been brought within reach of your easy chair.

You will want the Series to enrich your mind. But more than that, you will want it—and need it—to be well grounded in tomorrow's world of science.

Needless to say, the compilation and publication of the SMITHSONIAN SCIENTIFIC SERIES was a project of staggering proportions. It took years in time and more than $300,000 in money to complete. But under the patient, skillful guidance of Charles Greeley Abbot, D.Sc., Secretary of the Institution, the Series was completed.

Truly, Dr. Abbot and his colleagues have made a remarkable contribution toward the diffusion of scientific knowledge. From the great mass of material available they have winnowed the subjects of the most interest to the most people—technologist and layman alike—and brought them together in this distinguished set.

Verbally and pictorially, the SMITHSONIAN SCIENTIFIC SERIES is a masterpiece of research, compilation and writing that has tapped the sources of man's knowledge. It is hailed, and rightly so, by universities, schools, libraries and individuals from Coast to Coast for its clear, concise, human approach to a universal subject.

In short, encompassing the Smithsonian within the covers of a set of volumes constitutes one of the most important editorial achievements of all times, for it has made the wealth of the Institution's accumulated scientific knowledge available to you to absorb at your leisure.

But first get your copy of the free booklet, "The Romance of The Smithsonian Institution." Learn how this great force for man's welfare came into being. It is a fascinating story, illustrated with many striking color plates from the Series . . . a piece of reading you will want for itself if nothing else. Use the coupon below!

The Smithsonian Scientific Series has been prepared in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., by its scholars under the personal supervision and editorship of its Secretary, Charles Greeley Abbot, D.Sc. on how to be that way

Smarter AND Smoother BY MAUREEN DALY

It takes youth to understand youth and Maureen Daly, who won the Dodd, Mead Intercollegiate Literary Fellowship with her novel SEVENTEENTH SUMMER, is still close enough to her own high school days to remember.

In her wise and witty handbook, SMARTER AND SMOOTHER, she gives helpful hints to girls and boys on how to get along in their world — how to keep off the wrong track and stay on the beam — how to be smart and smooth without being fresh and snooty. With tolerance and understanding she points out the differences in "smoothness" and tells how to accomplish it the right way.

SMARTER AND SMOOTHER is a must book for the boys and girls who want to be rated 1-A with those who are in the groove.

Bedford Village

The new novel by
HERVEY ALLEN
Author of THE FOREST AND THE FORT

IT was a winter of great preparations. To Fort Bedford came soldiers and guides and drovers, swelling the population of the little town as they passed through on their way to the front. And to Fort Bedford came Salathiel Albine, now grown to manhood, and eager to sample civilization. . . . At the core of the story, and of the Village, is Pendergasses' Tavern, common meeting ground for the militia and the townfolk, a place where mayhem and murder follow the overturning of a table . . . and where Salathiel, in a quieter moment, finds out for the first time what the women of the frontier are really like. A great story that will thrill and satisfy the thousands of readers who enjoyed THE FOREST AND THE FORT. $2.50

Want to Explore the Family Tree? Here's a Chance

"MANKIND SO FAR," by William Howells. [Doubleday, Doran, $4.50.]

Reviewed by Wilton M. Krogman.

Here's a pleasantly written book in which you may climb down or up your family tree, depending on whether you believe man descended from an Eden tree, or ascended from an African ape. In this book human evolution is accepted as a fact, not argued as a principle. There is a section dealing with the general biological background of man, a section on fossil man, and a section on modern races of man. There is a continuity in the story that invests man with dignity, endows him with promise.

Howell's book is not only a welcome addition to our knowledge of human evolution, but it is a timely contribution to the elucidation of problems of racial origins and classification. Modern man [Homo sapiens] is shown to have a very great antiquity, and, indeed, to have differentiated from ancestral forms already themselves specialized. There is, then, nothing "mystic," "sublime," "superior," "pure"—or any other racist adjective—about any single race today; all races are equally evolved; all races are equally intermixed or heterogenous; all races are biologically equally superior.

This book couldn't have been written so authoritatively 20 years ago. In the last two decades, however, so many new fossil finds have been made that gaps have been bridged, vacancies filled in. The anthropologist is the first to admit that his "evolutionary tree" has many missing branches, but he insists that the tap-roots are well nourished and that the trunk is vigorously flourishing. He contends, too, that in human evolution there is an evident purpose and design.

Boy's Story Has Moral for Today

"TWO LOGS CROSSING," by Walter D. Edmonds. [Dodd, Mead, $2.]

An Indian hunter, a gruff but kindly judge, and a boy with a widowed mother set the stage for this short and simple story of how John Haskell grew up the hard way. Altho it contains adventure and tense moments it moves along with the restraint of a chronicle. Perhaps that is because there once was a John Haskell by another name, and tho he lived long ago boys have not changed. The lesson John learned about using two logs in crossing a stream is as necessary for youth today as then. The author of "The Matchlock Gun" here gives us another excellent juvenile. F. D. H.

Here's Early Harbinger of Fall Voting

"BRICKER OF OHIO: The Man and His Record," by Karl B. Pauly. [Putnam, $2.]

Reviewed by Walter Trohan.

Here is the first robin of the 1944 Presidential campaign, the story of the life of John W. Bricker, three times governor of Ohio, and his record in that office. Its theme is that Bricker, by his sound economy, stout resistance to federal encroachment on state rights, and devotion to fundamental principles of American democracy, is well worthy of the White House.

The campaign biography is a particular phenomenon of American political life. From the earliest days of the republic, a sure sign of a Presidential year was the appearance on book dealers' shelves of volumes hailing the life and virtues of various men who had tossed their hats into the ring.

These volumes seldom achieve literary distinction, first, because they are written in haste, and second, because, if the subject of the biography reaches the goal, what he has done before, in most cases, is merely a prelude to greatness or tragic failure.

The first biography of Lincoln was a campaign volume written by Joshua Fry Speed, reporter for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It is distinguished only because it was the first and Lincoln participated, altho rather unwillingly, in its preparation.

More often than not the campaign biographies are destined for oblivion. In most cases this is fortunate, for as a rule they are full of exaggerated puffs and short on facts.

This volume, written by Mr. Pauly, a newspaper man of 20 years' experience in the Ohio state capital, who has known Bricker for 19 years, stands out above the run of political pamphlets. It is a commendable effort to appraise an outstanding Presidential candidate and his public record.

Book Describes Mystery Islands of Japs' Domain

"JAPAN'S ISLANDS OF MYSTERY," by Willard Price. [John Day, $3.]

Reviewed by Philo M. Buck Jr.

Before Pearl Harbor Micronesia might have been taken for the name of a breakfast food, and Truk a nasty line in a cross word puzzle. But we have learned a deal of esoteric geography since that day early in December. We now see the strategy of our navy in the Pacific and know that the Marshall Islands and the Carolines, the Marianas and Bonins are on our highway to China and Tokio.

But what are they like, these mysterious islands of the vast Pacific, with their volcanoes, coral reefs, and atolls? Our soldiers and sailors are learning the hard way; this book offers an easier and more pleasant one for us that duty or age keeps at home.

They are islands that, since Japan got possession of them after Versailles, have been fortified jealously and guarded against visitors. The rare visitor was hurried thru and politely shown only what he should see. An American marine officer, who turned up on Palau, died mysteriously. Two of our naval officers who got to Ponape lost their lives in an "accident." A request for their bodies was politely refused. The author, Mr. Price, was to have been pitched to the sharks, but his Kanaka boatman gave the plot away.

They are islands of mystery, a mystery our navy has set itself to solve. A very much worthwhile book by an expert.

Nine Pictures Put on March Roll of Honor

• MARCH'S BEST PHOTOPLAYS •

Tender Comrade	Jane Eyre
Lost Angel	Rationing
Purple Heart	What a Woman
Lifeboat	Song of Bernadette

With the Marines at Tarawa

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

March-ing along with the "bests" in the photoplay field your reviewer went on record as follows:

"Tender Comrade," with Ginger Rogers, Robert Ryan, Kim Hunter, "was produced as a tribute to the wives of service men who carry on gallantly at home while their men abroad fight the enemy . . . laughter and tears play tag thru the action . . . notable performances by Mr. Ryan and Kim Hunter. . . ."

"Lost Angel," starring little Margaret O'Brien—"Margaret is the answer to the producers' prayer: 'Give us another child genius like Shirley Temple.' . . . Quaint maiden has a role perfectly tailored to her. . . . The picture is Margaret's and Margaret IS the picture. . . ."

HARVEST MOON

Ann Sheridan as Nora Bayes and Dennis Morgan as Jack Norworth co-star in "Shine On Harvest Moon," which opens Saturday at the Roosevelt.

"Lifeboat," with Tallulah Bankhead, William Bendix, John Hodiak, Walter Slezak—". . . Another long drawn out period of vicarious suffering is proferred audiences. . . ."

"Jane Eyre," with Joan Fontaine, Margaret O'Brien, and Orson Welles, . . . "captures to a considerable extent the mood of Charlotte Bronte's long, dreary, suspenseful, famous novel. . . . Joan Fontaine plays with beautiful sincerity and serenity; Margaret OBrien exquisite, elfin . . . horrific mystery cleverly handled. . . ."

"Rationing"—"Wallace Beery and Margaret Main have a high old time co-starring in this wacky comedy and audiences love 'em. . . ."

"What a Woman!" — Starring Rosalind Russell and Brian Aherne —". . . Miss Russell, bewitching in this politely uproarious comedy which introduces to movie audiences a new 'find'—Willard Parker, sort of a cross between Nelson Eddy and Tarzan. . . . Mr. Aherne is delightful. . . . Piece is fast, rib tickling, excellently acted and dialoged, and lavishly staged. . . ."

"Song of Bernadette"—". . . Picture embodies a masterly job of assembling, a canny choice of cast, direction of true discernment and photography that is hauntingly beautiful. . . . Jennifer Jones opened up to the requirements of the role as naturally as a rose to the sunshine . . . an inspired performance. . . ."

"With the Marines at Tarawa"—". . . Factual government photographic record of the storming and capture of Betio on Tarawa atoll last November . . . vividly technicolored chronicle is terrible—and beautiful . . . reassurance with the pain. Because you see a purpose behind it all—an upward surging toward the day of a civilization that will be a civilization. . . . The day when all men shall be free and unafraid. . . ."

See you tomorrow.

Big-Headed Bracken.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Studio constructionists built a 14 foot high head of Eddie Bracken for use in "Rainbow Island," technicolor musical. The head represents the island idol. Dorothy Lamour, Bracken, Gil Lamb, and Barry Sullivan head the cast in the new tunefilm.

"NAVY WAY"

This clear-eyed darling is Jean Parker, who is mighty busy for herself in "The Navy Way." Garrick.

This Town Called Hollywood . . . . .

By Philip Scheuer

Hollywood, Cal., [Special].—Everybody laughed when it was announced [and with a straight face] that the $64 question would become the $640 question in the movie version of Phil Baker's "Take It or Leave It." It was so typical. Latest flash is to the effect that it will be the lesser sum after all—not because anyone in Hollywood felt properly abashed, but because the publicity value of $64 was suddenly discovered to be actually greater than that of $640.

Phil Baker.

It's a tough pill for the moguls to swallow, but there it is: Twentieth Century-Fox saves $576 before production and at the same time insures bigger profits to come. Terrific!

Baker himself, a nice guy and as friendly offstage as on, played his first scene for the film last Monday. He was, he said, still recovering from the successive shocks of the previous night's broadcast, in which a couple of contestants all but broke up the show by out-Bakering Baker.

The broadcast was from Hollywood; and this, I reminded him, is still the wild west.

"Not at all," Baker disagreed. "No matter where you are today you get a cross-section of people from all over the country. Of course," he added slyly, "I understand the sun has a lot to do with submerging the intelligence.

"Every time I come out here I have to get used to the transition from New York's four-four time to California's waltz time. It seems to me Hollywood is great for the two extremes—people who are very successful, and the has-beens on their way out. They have a chance to live a little longer; it's a better place to coast."

"No pun intended," I nodded, borrowing a bit of Baker humor. He groaned.

Phil arrived in 1937 for "The Goldwyn Follies," and again last year for "The Gang's All Here," from which his three funniest scenes were cut out. "One of them was a takeoff on 'Take It or Leave It,'" he said, "so maybe it was just as well. Now they'll get a whole picture out of it.

"The one real laugh they kept in occurred after a handshake. The other guy was still pumping air and I remarked, 'You left your motor running!' I pulled that one 20 years ago in vaudeville. Anyhow it taught me that it's not so much the making with dialog, but the business—visual business—that counts on the screen."

Baker swears that he never uses plants in his audience—not even the "You'll be sorr-eee!" hecklers—altho his standard act for years was played with Sid Silvers stooging from a box. "We had a plant once but there were a lot of complaints—and rightly, too. Now, except for an occasional guest star like Jack Benny, I have a standing offer of a couple thousand bucks that says I don't use any stooges!"

Baker hoped to have Benny for one gag in the picture. But Benny's agent balked, saying that exhibitors would probably put Benny's name on the marquee along with Baker's. So, no soap.

Phil Baker looks a lot like Jack Benny. People use to take them for brothers years ago: "We were always together." Blue-eyed, medium height Phil was born in Philadelphia and has been in show business 30 of his 45 years. "I went on the stage so I wouldn't have to get up in the morning," he confides. "This getting on the set at 9 a. m. is just about killing me."

He and Ben Bernie were earning $275 a week as a vaudeville team when Baker enlisted in the navy. He served 18 months in the last war. "The first week Bernie was alone he made $200—and that was the end of Bernie and Baker. Anyway, I figured it like this: Bernie has a violin, tells a few jokes and gets $200 a week. I have a much better instrument—the accordion!—I'll do a 'single' too!"

And it worked. When, years later, the Capitol theater paid Baker $4,000 for one week, the same week "Old Maestro" Bernie received $6,000 at the Palace, Variety told the whole success story in a succinct headline — "$10,000 Double, $275 Single."

"Today," says Baker, "I can't look at an accordion player in a band without thinking, 'There, but for the grace of a gag, go I!'"

In June he expects to be married to Irmgard Erik, a dancer. He has a daughter, Margot, 10, by a previous union. "I hope to make my home here—when I'm old enough!" he adds, chuckling. Meanwhile, he has started his autobiography, to be called—what else?—"Take It or Leave It."

Films to Show Life of Women in War Service

HOLLYWOOD.—(AP).—First of a series of films seriously portraying the work of mowen in the services, "Ladies Courageous," deals with the personal and professional problems of women pilots in the ferrying command. While it has comedy touches, it is a straightforward account of what might reasonably be expected to go on among women in the circumstances of war service. Other pictures along the same lines are in the making, "WAVE, a WAC, and a Marine," and "Here Comes the WAVES." Such films are tied into the government's needs in stimulating recruiting among women, and in attempting to change public attitude toward the enlisting of women.

Vicki Baum

The famous author of GRAND HOTEL returns to the scene of her greatest success—to give us the most exciting novel of the year . . . a story of love and suspense, intrigue and terror in a Berlin luxury hotel under the disintegrating Nazi regime—and United Nations bombs!

TILLI
the fading courtesan, would have sold her soul for a pair of new shoes. Her lovers paid for her favors with their lives—because the Gestapo paid her rent.

LISA DORN
the young and beautiful actress all Germany adored. She enjoyed the protection of the Fuehrer until the day Martin Richter suddenly entered her room—and changed her way of life and love.

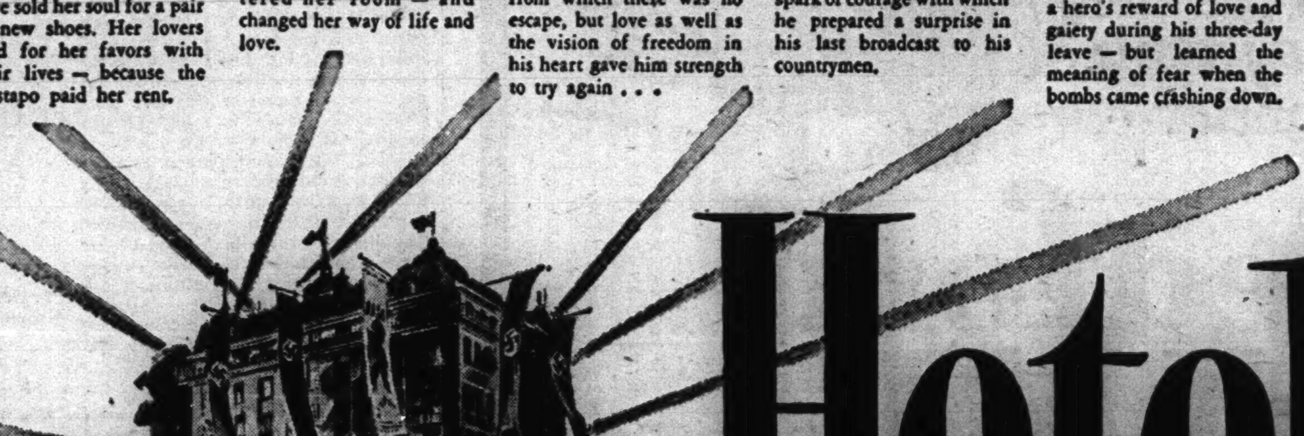
MARTIN RICHTER
the young rebel whose frantic flight from the authorities brought him to the room and into the arms of Lisa Dorn. It was a trap from which there was no escape, but love as well as the vision of freedom in his heart gave him strength to try again . . .

GEOFFREY NICHOLS
the captured English author who became a Nazi radio stooge. He had a weak heart and a weak will. But he also had one small remaining spark of courage with which he prepared a surprise in his last broadcast to his countrymen.

OBERLEUTNANT KAUDERS
the fighter pilot who sought a hero's reward of love and gaiety during his three-day leave—but learned the meaning of fear when the bombs came crashing down.

COMMISSAR HELM
of the Gestapo. He led the hunt for Martin Richter, until he found a tail-coat in a woman's wardrobe—and sudden death!

GENERAL VON DAHNWITZ
victor of Kharkov, lover of Lisa Dorn, and victim of his own intrigue against the dilettante corporal he and his caste despised.



BARON VON STETTEN
once the servant of the Kaiser, now the servant of Hitler. He carried the Gestapo's death warrant to Von Dahnwitz—and wondered whom he would serve next.

Hotel Berlin '43

Vicki Baum has written a suspense-packed new novel in which the well-fed, well-dressed elite of Hitler Germany move against the backdrop of a great Berlin hotel. The Gestapo, international parasites, bell-hops, Nazi officials and their women, soldiers and ordinary people—each with his secret dread—pass through the bars, lobbies, restaurants and rooms in a story that rushes to its thunderous climax in an air-raid shelter during a block-buster attack on the German capital.

INTERN

When the new intern arrived at Lakeside Hospital, the reaction was lively. Nobody expected Dr. Chris Metcalf to be a girl. In her latest romance, Elizabeth Seifert adds a vivid new panel to her popular group of novels about American doctors and the drama of their work. $2.50

Vicki Baum, whose new novel, "Hotel Berlin, '43," is reviewed today by Paul Engle. From a sketch by Constance Naar.

Baum's Good, but Not for Second Take

"HOTEL BERLIN '43," by Vicki Baum. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Paul Engle.

Vicki Baum is a mighty clever writer, and she can take a World war in her stride the way some writers can take a little personal disturbance in peace time. The writing is still slick and fluent and shiny. The plot is still shrewd and complex, adequately full of the normal questions—will he escape with his life? Will the girl see the rightness in the right man? Will the cause of good triumph? Will the damned be punished? Will true love rise above the ashes of this miserable life? [Don't tell me for a minute that you thought it wouldn't.]

The answer to every question is yes, and, with Vicki Baum leading us tenderly by the hand and between those horrid bombs, how could it have been otherwise?

This is not to say that the yarn is bad; the author is good, and has been for a long time, without getting any better. In a conventional way, she is better than most of the popular pap which is bought in such astounding quantities today. She could never write as tritely as Ilka Chase, for whom, after reading her latest, I can only recommend bed and a good cry.

Miss Chase remarks that a young boy was in love with a girl, and the latter "knew it and used deliberately to flaunt her affairs under his nose to cause him agonies of jealousy." Miss Baum would not write that, but she does commit this ghastly sentiment about an old Jewish lady who has walked into a Berlin hotel: "No soldier at the front, no explorer in the jungle, no test pilot in the stratosphere needed as much valor as it had cost her to make this fantastic expedition into the forbidden realm of the hotel."

BOOKS ALIVE

by Vincent Starrett

AS the armies of the united nations move up the Italian peninsula toward Rome, where is Ezra Pound, the expatriate American poet recently indicted for treason? What is he now thinking? And what will future historians have to say about the last hours of this notorious man of letters?

"When the last shreds of axis resistance are finally beaten down, will he choose the cowardly way out . . . and spatter his brains over the walls?" wonders John S. Mayfield. "Will he be smoked out of his hole like a skunk in a hollow log, be tried, convicted, and electrocuted, or imprisoned for life? Or will an unusually harsh court decree that he read his poems aloud 24 hours a day until he expires from sheer nausea?"

The wistful speculations of Mr. Mayfield are the opening paragraphs of his privately printed pamphlet, "The Black Badge of Treason," a copy of which he has courteously sent me. It is an interesting chapter of literary lore, and I am glad to preserve it. Pound's spectacular career is briefly traced, his work is temperately assessed, and the monograph concludes with a transcript of the true bill setting forth the details of the poet's offense.

Dead Poet; Live Traitor.

The author, a practicing bibliophile, thinks it unlikely that Pound's contribution to literature will be long remembered, and quotes some eminent dicta in support of his opinion. He recalls Philip Guedalla's famous criticism of certain verses: "These are a somewhat disjointed series of staccato remarks which leave one with the misleading impression that Mr. Ezra Pound's shirtcuffs have been sent to the printer instead of to the laundry." And from Louis Untermeyer, as of 1943, he quotes: "As a poet Pound died at least 10 years ago. As an influence he is now nonexistent. As a traitor, he should and I hope will be dealt with by the government if and when he can be apprehended."

Pound was a ringleader of the literary revolt that followed World War I. and was unquestionably a notable influence in his time; but he was an innovator, not a master. A self-appointed rebel, and a prodigious egotist, he broke with poetic tradition and helped to found the school and tradition of "free verse" or "imagism." For more than a decade he was the acknowledged leader of our "intelligentsia," the enfant terrible of our literature. Altho he had little to say, he deserves the credit due an experimental forerunner who broke ground for such greater poets as Edgar Lee Masters and Carl Sandburg.

"Stealthy Splendor."

His later work, while it is accomplished, smells strongly of the lamp. Too "special" to command a popular audience, much of it was issued in sumptuous editions, so limited as to be almost secret performances. "No other poet," it has been said, "has ever had his work put forth with such stealthy splendor."

Whatever motivated his treason—and it is to be remembered that his contempt for America was notorious—we may be sure that as an incurable writer he has left us an account of it; we have only to wait. In the meantime, one must agree with Mr. Mayfield that the poet's position is not enviable. His original error perhaps—tho certainly it was not original—was his flight from the American scene to Europe, in search of the acclamation and the intensity of literary living he was unable to find at home. Victim of an illusion of places, in Alfred Kreymborg's phrase, always escaping somewhere to find himself, he shook the dust of many cities from his shoes before settling in Italy; and now at long last there is no place for him to go but out.

Lava in Literature.

The current eruption of old Vesuvius, altho a meritorious performance in its way, is not to be compared with that earlier catastrophe that destroyed Pompeii, in A. D. 79, and slew the Elder Pliny, one of the great scholars of his time. It offers opportunity, however, for another anecdote in this department's sporadic discussion of reading under difficulties.

Pliny, author of many books, left his library at Misenum when the eruption began and, in a spirit of investigation, went forth to his death. His nephew, now known as the Younger Pliny, remained behind at his "studies"—he was just 18 at the time—until repeated shocks drove him from the house into the outer courtyard. "I should call my behavior, in this dangerous juncture, courage or folly," he later wrote; "but I took up Livy and amused myself with turning over that author, and even making extracts from him, as if I had been perfectly at my leisure." When a friend of his uncle's came up and reproved him from his "careless security," he quietly went on with his author. Later he quitted the town and we have no further tidings of a very famous volume of Livy. Perhaps it was one of the Roman historian's "lost" books that scholars of modern centuries have never seen, for of Livy's history of Rome in 142 books only 35 books have come down to us.

Young Pliny left a collection of "Letters," carefully composed for posterity, that is now one of the great "classics" of Roman literature. Two of the letters, addressed to the historian Tacitus, contain a brilliant account of the most destructive eruption of Vesuvius of which we have a record. I have read them many times with extravagant delight, and I have just read them again without loss of interest.

An Overlooked Volume.

In the mounting enthusiasm for the books of C. S. Lewis, the Oxford don whose Inferno and Paradiso currently rival in popularity those of Dante and Milton, an important volume has been overlooked. His "Pilgrim's Regress" [Sheed and Ward] has been available in this country since 1935—a modern "Pilgrim's Progress" with much of the faëry charm and troubling significance [I will not say simplicity] of the great original. The author calls it "an allegorical apology for Christianity, Reason, and Romanticism," but don't let that frighten you; it is also a glorious dream story in the best Bunyan tradition. Just as a sample, it is a "true relation" of the adventures of John Mansoul and his companion, Vertue, in their wanderings from Puritania, thru the cities of Claptrap, Thrill, Ignorantia, Luxuria, and Superbia. In spite of the "Screwtape Letters," a delightful jeu d'esprit, it is possible that "Pilgrim's Regress" is Lewis' masterpiece.

Item for Mr. Nash.

Harcourt, Brace & Co. are publishing a book called "Frossia," about which this department knows nothing—except that obviously they are creating a new rhyme for Ogden Nash.

BROMFIELD'S HEROINE DEVELOPS HER SOUL

Becomes Real Person Amid Shoddy Folk

"WHAT BECAME OF ANNA BOLTON," by Louis Bromfield. [Harper, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher.

"That was the Europe of the period between wars . . . bad for writers because it was too impossible, too vulgar, too like the pages of a sensational Sunday supplement," says Louis Bromfield. He populates the "too impossible, too vulgar" pre-war world with its real as well as fictional characters so thinly veiled that any one who knew that world must recognize them as easily as he or she identifies the real persons whose names made newspaper headlines.

With a ruthless irony Louis Bromfield shows them all in the extravagant, sensational selfishness and the political blindness which brought Europe to its ruin. He is a social historian with a story teller's genius and nowhere has he used the tricks of his tale telling trade more effectively to etch the picture of a sorry society with more acid satire than in the story of Anna Bolton.

In the first part of the book Anna was the super-essence of one type of American woman. She was the daughter of the town's best cleaning woman and notorious sot when the teller of the tale [Mr. Bromfield's "I"] first knew her in Lewisburg, O., before the book opens. She was on her successful way to becoming the most famous American hostess in London when he saw her at the beginning of the book, standing beside the great Lady Haddonfield, who had become her social sponsor for a consideration of twenty thousand pounds paid to the august lady's pet charities — one hundred thousand cool American dollars, but a pittance out of Anna's million a year from the estate of her late husband, a Detroit inventor whose secretary she had been before she became his wife in his old age.

The panorama of the fabulous social life of pre-war Europe unfolds before the reader's eyes—a panorama whose reality Mr. Bromfield has already assured the reader that he will find hard to believe. Real people swiftly stabbed in their most vital foibles by the author's sharp pen give a grim historic focus to the fabulous actions of the fictional characters, who are incidentally certain to be named as equally real by those readers who knew the European capitals well in the years before Munich.

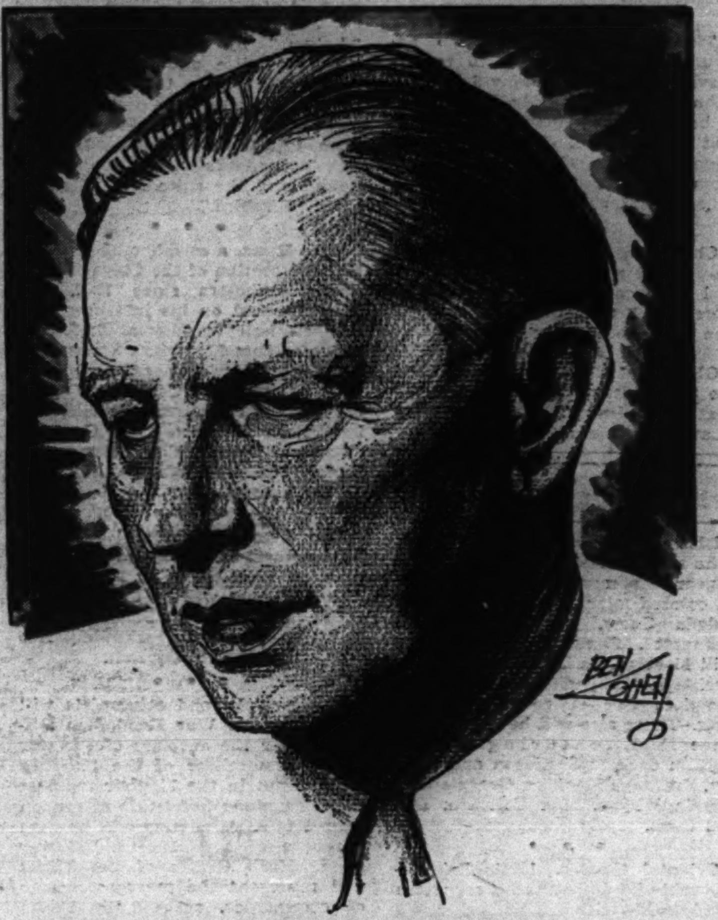
Anna Bolton will unquestionably be identified with a famous American hostess in London. Mr. Bromfield has even, perhaps a shade waggishly, given Anna a name in one of her marriages only a bit different from the famous hostess'.

If you think that this is a philosophic tale of moral rejuvenation and pass it by for that reason, you will be doing yourself out of a thriller de luxe, for here is one of Mr. Bromfield's most exciting stories.

It is not great literature. It reads as if the author had told the tale just as it came to his mind, as if he had actually told it, like one long Arabian Night's narrative, to a tense listener [and he may have written it just that way, by dictation]. It lacks the subtlety of phrase of which Mr. Bromfield is past master when he cares to be. But it is story telling at its most skilled. It is fabulous, it is melodramatic, the long arms of coincidence are often stretched overfar, but it is a story which grabs you and grips you. It is certain to top the best seller lists and every one's reading table.



A sketch of Louis Bromfield by Ben Cohen, Tribune staff artist. Mr. Bromfield's latest novel, "What Became of Anna Bolton," is reviewed on this page by Fanny Butcher.

AMONG THE AUTHORS

By Frederic Babcock.

CHICAGO is entertaining at the moment two internationally known figures: Thomas Mann, self-exile from Nazi Germany and winner of the Nobel prize for literature, and Louis Bromfield, Pulitzer prize winning midwestern author. . . . They met for the first time a week or so ago, in a room at the Sherman, and became partners in a project to write two stories for one motion picture. . . . "With them," says my informant, "was Maximillian Ilyin, Russian poet, who got the idea for the story and already has written a poem around it. Some years ago in Paris he learned of a wealthy man who had his wife's portrait painted by an even hundred different artists. With this as a starting point, each of the novelists will embark on his own version of how life might have gone with a woman of so many moods. In making the movie from the two stories a prelude is planned in which both authors will appear in person. They said they intended staying in Chicago and finishing their stories in about three weeks."

Other visitors of the last few days: Sigrid Schultz, whose "Germany Will Try It Again" has just gone into the third printing; Robert Penn Warren, Tribune book reviewer whose "Selected Poems: 1923-'43" will be issued late this week, and Lillian Smith, whose "Strange Fruit" has been causing something of a furor. . . . Miss Schultz, former chief of THE TRIBUNE's Berlin bureau, is now on a nation-wide lecture tour. . . . Prof. Warren's "At Heaven's Gate," published last year, has been pronounced the finest novel so far written about the south. . . . Miss Smith was the guest of honor at a dinner given the other evening by the Chicago Metropolitan council of the National Council of Negro Women. . . . She told the crowd why she had written a novel dealing with racial conflict in the south.

Walter Havighurst, whose "Upper Mississippi: a Wilderness Saga" has just been republished in a revised and enlarged edition, is the author of "Long Ships Passing." . . . Between writing books, and teaching English at Miami university in Oxford, O., he does reviews for THE TRIBUNE. . . . This department welcomes, as new reviewers, Edward Wagenknecht, author of "Mark Twain: the Man and His Work" and "Cavalcade of the English Novel" and associate professor of English at the Illinois Institute of Technology, and Wilton Marion Krogman, professor of anthropology at the University of Chicago. . . . Also, Agatha L. Shea, director of young people's work at the Chicago public library, and Marguerite Lyon, author of "Take to the Hills" and "And Green Grass Grows All Around."

Jesse Stuart, whose "Taps for Private Tussie" was about the family of an army man, has joined the navy. . . . He expects to be stationed at the Great Lakes training station for some time. . . . The American Academy of Arts and Letters is about to present $1,000 and the award merit medal to Theodore Dreiser. . . . The award is made annually, but it goes to a writer of fiction only once in every five years. . . . A "pirated" Bible in the Smith-Goodspeed American translation was brought over on the Gripsholm by Victor Hanson, an internee from Shanghai, and was sent to Dr. Edgar J. Goodspeed, formerly of the University of Chicago and now living in California. . . . "The only thing we were permitted to take out of Shanghai in print or writing," Mr. Hanson wrote Dr. Goodspeed, "was an unmarked copy of the Bible. So I got this copy to bring on the exchange ship. I read all of it on the long sea voyage. Your rewording has opened many passages to me and has been a wonderful blessing."

Flaunting Their Foibles, Columnists Pass in Review

"THE COLUMNISTS," by Charles Fisher. [Howell, Soskin, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Delos Avery.

Know how Walter Lippmann thinks up those pieces in which his "philosophic discontent" flows so abundantly? Well, this book tells you that Mr. Lippmann fixed up for himself a think room, soundproof, with the windows so placed that nothing but the sky can be seen thru them. There, with the world shut out, he lectures to the world about the world, and "sometimes his patience with his pupils grows short."

Or have you wondered how Walter Winchell, to whom nothing is private but his own privacy, keeps the snoopers away from his snoopery? Walls, iron fences, photo-electric cells to detect the shadow of a spy, sirens to scare them away and to call out the guards if need be.

Maybe Dorothy Thompson's column is where you go shopping for opinions about the planet and all the big and little things in it. Dorothy, according to Mr. Fisher, is "one of the most overwhelming American females since Carrie Nation," but she's busy with the lipstick and the rest of the toolkit when photographers draw near, and her interest in one world is balanced by her wistful hope that the camera may be tricked into showing her with one chin. [She didn't like it at all when Time impudently mentioned her "plump legs."]

Mr. Fisher's book, if it were not too long to be a column, would be a column of columns. Instead, it is a group of columns about other people's columns — excepting Mrs. Roosevelt's, which, for reasons not quite clear, he leaves almost completely alone.

You'll read that when Westbrook Pegler's liver is out of order "the ensuing choler may quite easily become a matter for national debate"; that when Pegler called Winchell a "gents' room journalist" the best Winchell could think up in quick reply was "louse in a blouse."

There's a chapter on the "military experts"—how Fletcher Pratt solves the problems of naval warfare by playing a navy game on the living room floor, which is all right, excepting when there's too great a difference between the rug and the ocean, and how Maj. George Fielding Eliot's protective obscurities are maintained by a literary style "as involute as a tuba."

It may or may not surprise you to learn that Sam Grafton's "solutions" of world problems are accomplished in 30 minutes—or in 20 if there's need for haste. And there are illuminating chapters or paragraphs on most of the others.

One reason why newspapers print these columns is because they are cheap. It is true that the writers get big incomes, but that is because they have so many customers. Once, says Fisher, an editor canceled Boake Carter's column because it was costing him $6 a week and he could get Anne Hirst plus Mutt and Jeff for $5.

Life Story of Inventor Simply Told

"BELOVED SCIENTIST: Elihu Thomson, a Guiding Spirit of the Electrical Age," by David O. Woodbury. [Whittlesey House, $3.50.]

Reviewed by Zens L. Smith.

This is the biography of a great man, altho it is not quite a great biography. However, its fascinating subject matter, presented in clear and simple style, gives to this life story of an outstanding pioneer in the field of electrical invention an interest that well repays the time given to its reading.

The story of Elihu Thomson is one that should be widely known in a world where most of the comforts and many of the necessities of life depend upon that mysterious force, electricity. Second only to Edison for number of important inventions in the electrical field, the "Beloved Scientist" stands as a major contributor to the effectiveness and comfort of our everyday life.

As a single example of the nearly 700 basic inventions due to Thomson, may be mentioned his electromagnetic current regulator, the importance of which to municipal and other lighting systems is described in chapter nine. "Operators were sure to be in trouble about 10 o'clock every night, when their customers began turning off their lights. . . . the machines sparked and ran wild. . . . The only safe way was to hang row upon row of arc lamps in the station itself and as fast as customers' [sic] lamps went out to turn these on." This shocking waste was eliminated by Thomson's device for automatically regulating dynamo voltage.

While the volume is of worth as an historical record of the period of greatest technical achievement our world has known, it claims greater value as an intimate human document. Not only do we see Thomson himself as one whose broad interests in the field of natural phenomena made him a magnetic and beloved figure to the very children in the homes where he was a welcome guest, but we find a host of interesting anecdotes of other great workers of the period. How many of us, for example, are aware that George Bernard Shaw was at one time "invited to remove himself from Edison's employ?"

In a foreword, Owen D. Young speaks of Thomson as "perhaps the most striking example I have ever known" of the generalist specializing, the man with "ability to deal intensively with small areas . . . without loss of perspective of . . . their relationship to the whole."

As a well told story of the life of such a man, this book is recommended to both the youthful and the mature reader.

A Century Record of Caricature Art

"A CENTURY OF POLITICAL CARTOONS," edited by Allan Nevins and Frank Weitenkampf. [Scribners, $3.50.]

Caricature, in its finest expression is both a mirror and a guide to public opinion. This collection of the best from 1800 to 1900 is at once a tremendous effort and an invaluable addition to our records of American political thought. There are 100 reproductions, including many remembered ones from the pens and brushes of Nast, Hochstein, Keppler, Opper, and Gillam. They are fascinating studies of the political thought of their period, of the artist's methods and moods. Accompanying each is a splendid text that brings the drawing into proper focus. "A Century of Political Cartoons' is one of the really important historical documents of the year.

Skulduggery and Love in Arid Kansas

"THE BOWL OF BRASS," by Paul I. Wellman. [Lippincott, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Kenneth C. Kaufman.

Henry Archelaus planned to grab himself off a county and boss it. There were plenty of counties lying around in western Kansas then, just after the collapse of the range cattle industry, mostly without people in them .Mr. Archelaus had a town of sorts, a few assorted henchmen, mostly unsavory, including a Texas gunman, much nerve, and some financial backing.

Paul I. Wellman.

To organize his county Mr. Archelaus enrolled all the bonafide settlers —it being just at the beginning of the tide of farm settlement — all the covered wagon passers thru and several hundred prairie dogs, each of whom had at least a permanent habitation, and could be given a name. The county organized, he had all his retainers appointed to county offices, and proceeded to try floating a railroad bond issue. In the 1880s a railroad meant life and prosperity to the plains region. Mr. Archelaus would, of course, scrape some of the velvet off the bond issue. Meantime he was dealing in farm lands, flaying innocent tenderfoot settlers right and left.

There was one man in the county who was doing right well farming, in spite of droughts, blizzards, and politicians. He was Simeon Trudge, undersized, hypocritical, weasel-faced religious bigot, married to a much younger, very attractive wife. Simeon made the sad mistake of hiring a strapping farm hand, with all the storybook hero qualities, who promptly fell in love with Simeon's wife. Quite honorably, of course.

Chicanery, greed, and worldly ambition led Simeon, in spite of his long winded prayers, into Archelaus' gang. Then, when the rival town, plus boneheaded bungling, brought the whole affair to a thundering, gory, and well deserved climax, Simeon also reaped the wages of sin in a peculiarly horrendous manner. A happy ending is indicated for the wife and the farm hand.

In spite of considerable blood and thunder, and a closely articulated plot, this is no wild western, but a distinctly adult novel, authentic in treatment of milieu and characters, and inexorable in its working out. To one who has lived in a western "new country" the hangers-on, would be badmen, frontier hussies, and substantial farmers are like case histories. He could put a name to every one of them. The whole is salted with plenty of lusty frontier humor.

New Lewis Novel Is Crystal Clear Well of Thought

"PERELANDRA," by C. S. Lewis. [Macmillan, $2.]

The man who is fast becoming recognized as one of the most important thinkers and writers of our day, Clyde Staples Lewis, has produced in this novel a dramatically philosophical companion piece to his superb "Out of the Silent Planet."

Dr. Ransome, the hero of that former book, who went to Mars and found there the perfection of a dying civilization, now journeys to Venus or Perelandra. He discovers there a world in infancy.

With superb artistry and incisive thought, Lewis portrays the first days of the ultimate world of man—the world that will bring to the universe the perfection that has ever been the aim of the Creator.

"Perelandra" is a deep, cool, crystal well of thought for those who seek to understand the problem of Christian philosophy.

WILL DAVIDSON.

BOOKPLATES OF BOOKMEN

WALTER TROHAN, staff member of THE TRIBUNE's Washington bureau and reviewer for the Sunday book section, shows himself a classicist in his choice of bookplates.

Mr. Trohan explains his plate: "The scene is Plato and Socrates in dialog. The middle is a view of ruins of the academy of Plato. Of course, there is no such scene extant, but the artist exercised a bit of license. The Greek inscription is the motto of Plato's academia—'Soi Eros Aionie,' meaning 'To thee eternal love.' In the case of the Trohans it has been a very efficacious charm, because that love continues as strong as it was 15 years ago on March 17."

Somewhat belatedly, this department commemorates the anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Trohan by reproducing their graceful bookplate, and may be pardoned for hoping that by this token the charm of the Greek motto may be further strengthened, and for many years to come.

Part Played by Flat-tops in Big Battles of Pacific

"THIS IS IT," by Harry Davis. [Vanguard, $2.50.]

"BANZAI NOEL!" by Capt. Garrett Graham, U. S. M. C. R. [Vanguard, $2.]

Reviewed by Walter Simmons.

When the Lexington went down she found a sturdy biographer in Stanley Johnston. But nobody has written much about our other lost flat-tops—the Hornet, Wasp, and Yorktown—whose stories have come out only piecemeal since 1942.

The slender literature available on the Hornet is now enlarged by the first [and best] chapter of Mr. Davis' "This Is It," a book in which a dozen American fighting men tell some fascinatingly grim tales. Here readers will find the personal record of Lt. Comdr. Edward B. Harp Jr., the Hornet's chaplain. It is a tender, reminiscent, and sometimes electric chronicle of a great ship and the men who tended her.

The chaplain discloses that Jimmy Doolittle's 16 Tokio bombers were not the first to take off from the carrier's flight deck. Several months before, on a shakedown cruise in the South Atlantic, there had been successful B-25 launchings.

The story contains other interesting disclosures. On the day the Wasp was sunk a dive bomber pilot, coming in to land on the Hornet saw a torpedo streaking toward her. Quickly he banked, overtook the torpedo, and deflected it with a well placed bomb. He may well have saved the Solomons campaign, for in those terrible six weeks 39 American and Australian ships were sunk by the Japs, the Enterprise was put out of action, and only the Hornet and her task force were left to oppose the Japanese South Pacific fleet.

Harry Davis.

Other stories in the Davis portfolio will cause veteran fighting men to remark, "This is it," as they read. A Fortress pilot tells how it feels to sink a Jap battleship. A pharmacist's mate, invalided home after a gaudy series of misadventures, is viewed by a nurse, who murmurs: "You're about 34, I imagine." He laughs, for his 21st birthday is five months away.

Capt. Graham's book is the frequently amusing account of a perceptive Hollywood writer and his life with the leathernecks. On a troopship loaded with TNT and youngsters just as explosive, he sailed for the South Pacific. His tolerant observations on petty thievery and devilment by men in the ranks are illuminating; public relations officers usually steer around that subject.

THE MURDER CHART

By Drexel Drake.

ENTRY.	PERFORMANCE.	PAYOFF.
"THE MAN WITH THE LUMPY NOSE," by Lawrence Lariar. [Dodd, Mead, $2.]	Murder at a wholesale rate was striking in high and low places, with only one point in common. A man with a huge nose bobbed into the reports. Shrewdly technical detection unmasked sinister force behind him.	Lives, work, technique, and animosities of comic cartoonists woven into illuminated background. This newest Red Badge prize winner is ingeniously original. Packed with action.
"BEWARE THE HOOT OWL," by Nancy Rutledge. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.]	Ann Wentworth intended to avenge an old wrong when she took job as governess in turbulent MacDonald household. But when murder hit, she was merely innocent suspect—and almost an added victim.	Effective meshing of plots and counter-plots, producing deep puzzle of multiple homicides. Extraordinary family setup. Atmosphere and characterization potent elements.
"ALL FOR THE LOVE OF A LADY," by Leslie Ford. [Scribner's, $2.]	Marital cross currents, social gossip, secretive international big shots, and even black cats scrambled together against background of Washington war fervor to give Col. Primrose a murder mystery to solve.	After two pages of ifs and if nots [Leslie Ford, really!], story gets going with adequate setup of complications involving mutual acquaintances of Mrs. Latham and the colonel. Homicide with heart throbs.
"THE PURPLE PONY MURDERS," by Sidney E. Porcelain. [Phoenix, $2.]	Murder was inevitable for Dexter Kite, gambler and blackmailer. Even after he had been shot thru the heart, his corpse was target for a second shooting, and there was a poisoned cocktail in reserve.	Story races without pause for style or characterization of numerous male and female suspects, but there is action and puzzle. Light fare.

Book Council Names 'A Bell for Adano' New Imperative

By Harry Hansen.

New York.

FOR one reason or another the Council on Books in Wartime, which is an organization of all the publishers in support of war aims, did not get around to choosing a new "imperative" after giving this designation to Wendell Willkie's "One World" last year. Calling a book imperative means that the council thinks it is imperative reading and represents the right attitude toward the war. But this week the council bestirred itself and made John Hersey's lively novel about Italy, "A Bell for Adano," the new "imperative."

Mr. Hersey's earlier book, "Into the Valley," was also so designated. The "Bell" has had a very large sale and has been generally praised for its crisp descriptions of how the American army takes charge of an Italian town, but it has lately met with some criticism because of its implied attack on an American general. You will remember that Maj. Joppolo is the admirable character in the book and that Gen. Marvin interferes with him and eventually sends him to the rear.

It seems that this characterization of Marvin is making some difficulties. The motion picture company that bought the rights for $100,000 did so on condition that certain changes would be made in the text, if necessary. The official reaction of the army was not to interfere with the publication of the book, just as the navy did not interfere with "Shore Leave"; the authorities are interested only in stopping information that may be of value to the enemy and of direct injury to the American troops.

There is no gainsaying that Mr. Hersey's original work is excellent in situation, characterization, and in its picture of Italian life, and, while Hollywood invariably makes some changes in adapting a story to a film, the general outlines should be allowed to stand.

Ernie Pyle's First Books.

Later this week the house of McBride will publish "Ernie Pyle in England," by Ernie Pyle, and maybe you will be as surprised as I was to read "This is Ernie Pyle's first book." When I saw that, I called up the editor, Mr. Yewdale, and asked if he had forgotten that Ernie's book, "Here Is Your War," was published last fall by Henry Holt and is still selling.

"But this really is Ernie's first book," said the editor. "We published it in 1941 and hardly anybody bought it. It's as good today as then, so we thought we would reissue it."

The joke is also on this reviewer, who didn't recall the book. And last fall, when news of Ernie Pyle's popularity was making the rounds, half a dozen publishers jammed the cables to persuade Ernie to do a book. Ernie obliged. He was probably as surprised as any one that the public, which didn't buy his first book, jammed the bookstores for his second and, presumably, will roll up a nice total of sales for this reissue.

Book on Siam Chosen.

A few weeks ago I mentioned some of the experiences of Margaret Landon in writing "Anna and the King of Siam," the account of the life of the English tutor, Anna Leonowens, at the court of the king of Siam in the middle of the 19th century. The book has now been chosen by the Literary Guild for July distribution, which will give it an initial publication of several hundred thousand copies. The John Day company, publisher of the book, has set June 22 as the date of publication.

The John Day company also has printed a new revised edition of "Voiceless India," by Gertrude Emerson, originally issued in 1930. The author is Mrs. Gertrude Emerson Sen, daughter of the assistant director of the Art institute of Chicago before the first World war, and a graduate of the University of Chicago of the year 1912. The book was praised by Rabindranath Tagore in an introduction he wrote for the British edition, herewith reproduced, and Pearl S. Buck has written an introduction to the new edition, saying that the book is as fresh and true to the life of India as the day it was written.

Far East Needs Books.

William Sloane, the dynamic editor for Henry Holt & Co., is back from China with some original points of view on the war out there. Mr. Sloane went last fall for the OWI and the Council on Books in Wartime, and has reports to make on book relations, publication needs, and Sino-American contacts. He learned that the books of the Armed Services editions, which are paper bound reprints of current books and printed solely for the armed services, are not yet reaching troops in Asia in sufficient quantities to do much good, altho they are well distributed in Europe and Africa and on transports. American troops in the Far East are especially in need of good reading matter because there is little to occupy them when they are marking time. In the meantime the presses are busy with many printings and the books are moving out to the soldiers and sailors. They are printed in editions from 80,000 to 100,000 copies at one time now.

A Critic's Sanctuary.

Mr. Sloane found Chungking the most moral city he had ever visited. Drinking and smoking are under the ban and are found only in privileged private circles; meals are regulated, and restaurants observe closing time strictly. It is not exactly a place to go on vacation, but strangely enough it is like home to Brooks Atkinson, the before-the-war dramatic critic of the New York Times, who probably stays there because it is as far from the Broadway theaters as he can get.

Tales of Wonder.

"Pause to Wonder," an anthology of stories dealing with the marvelous, the mysterious, and the miraculous, has been completed under the editorship of Marjorie Fischer and Rolfe Humphries. Publication by Julian Messner will come later this year.

Croce Translation.

Random House plans to publish in late spring a short book by Benedetto Croce, "Germany and Europe. A Spiritual Dissension." The translator is Vincent Sheean, who is now a lieutenant colonel in the army air forces.

Florida of '44 Must Be Seen to Be Believed

By Thalia.

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. [Special].—Florida this year must be seen to be believed. Everything about it must be spoken of in superlatives—the most overcrowded, the most gay, the most social, the most filled with service men and women, the most frenetic, the most expensive, the most vulgar, the most beautiful, and the most ugly places and people are within its borders—and a great many more people are having to stay here a lot longer than they expected, incidentally.

The state seems almost one vast army camp and navy station, and they, too, must be described in superlatives, probably either the most desolate or the most luxurious in the country. I have visited both kinds, and I can assure any mother or wife or sweetheart that in either ocean front luxury or scrub palmetto desert every lad I saw looked as if he weren't missing mother's apple pies at least. They all look aggressively healthy.

I wish I could tell you about the things I saw, but you have to sign a document promising to submit everything you write to the censor, and until that legality is attended to, it must be hush-hush. But nobody can hush the sound of four engine bombers as they sweep to sea, and the public road which runs beside Morrison field would offer any one except a myope without her glasses an astounding and reassuring sample of the great and powerful air arm of our national military might.

Planes overhead and uniformed men and women everywhere keep the vacationers in Florida constantly reminded of the war, tho I must say that little else does in this highly—and lately over—advertised state of sunshine. Perhaps the sun has been frightened away by the practice gunfire, as they say the egrets and herons have been from the Everglades. Anyway, Mr. Sol has retired, like a wounded bomber, behind the protection of the clouds, and they, in protest, have emptied their bomb-bays of rain in torrential tropical downpours. And Florida without sunshine is like an ultra-violet ray lamp without electricity. But however the visitors feel who go to bask in sunshine and find themselves ankle deep in rain and their brand new hairdos in strings, the good earth of Florida welcomes the downpours.

Straight from one of the most spectacular acreages in Florida, I noticed at the Taboo the other night young Jesse Spalding III., whose father was a well known Chicagoan, and his glamorous wife making their way thru the dense crowd which was either consoling themselves for the weather or waiting to eat one of the famous 3 inch steaks. They both look like Hollywood stars and glow with glamor, and no one who didn't know would have suspected that they had spent the day as farm hands—farm hands de luxe, to be sure, but hands, nevertheless, and hard working ones.

About a year ago they, with three other young couples, the Gray Fosters, the Varick Fosters, and the John Pecks, all from the east, bought the show place, Sandy Loam farm, from Hugh Dillman, president of the Everglades club. In 1931 Mr. Dillman bought 400 acres of desolate swamp land about seven miles outside Palm Beach and made it into one of the most famous flower farms in the country.

The four young couples immediately became intensive farmers. They added poultry and vegetables and a big dairy to the farm's famous flowers, and now Palm Beach residents clamor for the products of Sandy Loam farm. They have 15 farm hands, but the young men were all in overalls working as hard as the hired hands.

Of all the beautiful houses I have seen in Florida the one which shows the most individuality and is, to my mind, the most truly expressive of the owner is the Frederic Bartletts' at Fort Lauderdale. Most Florida houses—and almost all of even the great Palm Beach ones—are more like city than country houses. Except for their patios and small but exquisite terraces and gardens, they have no "parks," no great avenues of approach as some of the really old southern houses have.

Mr. Bartlett's house is an exception, and a dramatic one. It is just outside Fort Lauderdale and a few hundred yards away from the ocean, but it gives one an impression of being in another world. It looks like a planter's house in some tropical land, gleaming white and yellow as if the sun had given it a permanent glow, altho it was raining torrents when we arrived, and we stepped into about 4 inches of water in the outer marble floored but uncovered court.

Gate houses at the entrance are reminiscent of France, but not copies of their typical little pavilions. The house, the grounds, the ideas are all Mr. Bartlett's own. He designed everything and it all shows what a man of great taste can do when he has the means to put that taste into action. He built the house about 20 years ago, a great, lovely, cool house around an enormous patio where rare birds, three tame monkeys, and Mrs. Bartlett's diminutive Yorkshire terrier ignore one another.

Mr. Bartlett's studio's huge north window looks onto a hibiscus garden where great birds of fantastic plumage and legs like darning needles made reality seem wholly unreal. Just off a novel bar, completely lined in bamboo, is a breath takingly beautiful installation of a collection of shells. Mr. Bartlett de-

Syrian Cooks Suggest Ways to Save Meat Ration Points

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A charming Syrian woman telephoned me recently to suggest that the women of her nationality might have some helpful, point saving ideas for American women, and to ask me if I'd like to come to her home for a demonstration of the preparation of such dishes. I was delighted with the idea, and it turned out to be an extremely interesting afternoon.

In the space of three hours, she and a Syrian friend prepared seven dishes for me—six of them from one leg of lamb. "American women so often think of lamb just as roast lamb," said my hostess. "I buy a leg of lamb and use it in all these different ways, for a week's meals, and have plenty of points left over for butter." Both women would much rather cook with butter than with oil.

Both are proud that their food is nongreasy, and that its nutritive value rates high. They depend much upon lemon juice and tomatoes for seasoning, and make good use of green vegetables.

"Koosa" [Stuffed Zucchini].

My favorite of the dishes served me was "koosa," something any of us might enjoy preparing for our families. "Koosa" consists of Italian [zucchini] squash, stuffed with rice and lamb, and cooked in a tomato and lemon bath. When I arrived in this Syrian kitchen I saw nine hollowed zucchini huddled in a pan of cold water to which some dried mint leaves had been added, waiting to be stuffed and cooked. The stuffing consisted of raw rice, ground lamb, salt, pepper, and a little cinnamon [if you like it]. Stuffed, the squash were placed in a kettle with a lamb bone. Salt, pepper, a quart of tomatoes, strained, and the juice of three lemons were added. When the squash had cooked for an hour or so, they had taken on a perfectly delicious lemon-tomato flavor.

Stuffed Grape Leaves.

The same rice and lamb stuffing was used for two other dishes, cabbage rolls and grape leaf rolls. In the spring Syrian women gather tender young grape leaves, put them in a crock with salt between the layers, and thus preserve them for these dainty green rolls, which also are seasoned with lemon. Both cabbage and grape leaf rolls were kept off the bottom of the kettle with lamb bones, which also flavored the broth in which they were cooked. A garlic clove was added to the kettle of cabbage rolls; none was used in the grape leaf dish. Water to cover, and lemon juice also went into these cooking pots.

The two women disagreed about when to add lemon. One uses a great deal of lemon juice, and adds it at the beginning of the cooking. The other favors adding a smaller amount of lemon juice at the end of the cooking period, then "letting it boil up once." Both kinds of rolls were held below the cooking liquid with a plate, so that they wouldn't boil about and lose their pretty shapes.

Kibbe, National Syrian Dish.

"Kibbe" is the national dish. It sandwiches lamb between layers of lamb. The filling consists of ground lamb seasoned with onion, salt, pepper, and enough butter to brown the mixture well. The "bread" of this sandwich is very finely ground lamb mixed with an equal part of crushed whole wheat [which can be purchased in Greek groceries], seasoned with salt, pepper, cinnamon, and nutmeg, and mixed well with enough water to make it spreadable. A thin layer is patted firmly and smoothly over the bottom of a greased pan, then the filling is added, and a top layer of the same fine ground lamb and wheat is patted over it. My hostess cut this meat loaf before cooking, into diamond shapes, and dotted it with butter. Then it went into the oven for baking.

The other dishes which were prepared that afternoon were "lubye," a lamb and green bean combination; "rooz" [rice], which was cooked with a little butter browned spaghetti, and which tasted very good with the lamb and bean combination over it; "fatair," delicious little lamb and cottage cheese filled bread rolls, and Syrian bread.

My hostesses told me that they often prepared their food for a week, on one day and I could see that this was possible, for even subtracting the generous samples that were sent home with me, they had enough left to feed a small army. Any of the dishes, with the exception of the bread, can be a meal in itself, and most of them are as good or better on the second or even the seventh day after cooking.

Fashions and Fancy

By Judith Cass

Mrs. G. B. Young. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams Jr., who planned a "small" wedding reception at the Casino following the marriage of their daughter, Mary, and Lt. [j. g.] George B. Young, managed to keep it that way despite the manner small receptions have of growing. There were just enough people to fit comfortably into the attractive Fountain room, where flashlights popped as a cameraman snapped pictures of guests going down the receiving line and of the bride and bridegroom cutting their three-tiered cake. Also busy with a camera was the bride's cousin, Solomon B. Smith, who had the happy expression of a camera fiend indulging every passing fancy. His pretty wife was wearing one of the new pencil slim print frocks, of black with white bows and red hearts scattered over it, and a bright red sash to match her small hat of breast feathers. The dark haired bride wore the simplest long satin dress imaginable, trimmed only with a small ruffle of heirloom lace around the vee neckline. That motif was repeated in the white ruffle that trimmed the neckline and wrists of her attendants' ice green, bolero jacketed frocks. The attendants, Mrs. Potter H. Carroll, Mrs. Adams III., and Mrs. Gerald V. Hollins Jr., carried small bouquets of white carnations to match the blossoms that perched at either side of their star shaped bonnets of flat green leaves. Also wearing fresh, snowy white carnations was Mrs. Selim W. McArthur, who pinned her corsage to one shoulder, where it reflected the white of her softly curled hair. Her hat was a tiny black skull cap, trimmed with a fluted gold ornament at the side front. Mrs. William A. Ryan's two piece frock of black had plastrons of dusty pink embroidered with jet beads down the front of the jacket.

— Seldom seen in town, was Mrs. John P. Bent, who came in from Lake Forest for the reception, wearing a trim and tailored black wool suit collared in black velvet, and an austere little white hat of stylized leaves and berries. Mrs. Frederick A. Preston in a wine colored silk gown and a hat with a flattering array of posies in pastel tones; Mrs. William B. Greenlee, Mrs. James Ward Thorne and Mrs. David A. Taber, all in brown; and Mrs. Chauncey Borland in a cunning white straw hat decorated with playing cards, were among the guests. Also present were the Wyndham Haslers, here over the week-end from Ithaca, N. Y., the former Cornelia Ranney in slim black, and a recent bride, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, in a platinum fox jacket and pale pink orchids over black.

"Women aren't interested in fashion shows, with the invasion approaching and other worries" whispered a member of the audience at the Fashion Group's show last week to her companion. "There's no enthusiasm," she continued. "But look at the people here," her companion replied, indicating the solidly packed ballroom of the Drake where the show was held. "Why did they come?" For "they" came indeed, and whether the lack of sustained applause was an implication of disinterest or an indication of the hurry to be up and away that attacks women who have interrupted a busy day for an hour or so of pleasure, remains a point to be argued. Those who came included Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, a powder blue hat topping her black dress; Mrs. Henry R. Gross in a violet wool suit, a striped blouse, and a small cloche of the violet wool; Mrs. Gordon Lang, whose spring bonnet was a little tricorne of white straw tied in tiny black velvet ribbons; Mrs. Fred Gerlach in a stunning dress of navy blue with a white gilet edged in green, and who found herself seated opposite another woman in the same handsome gown; Mrs. Donald F. Bowey Jr., in a cunning half hat of black and pink plaid; Mrs. F. Newell Childs, with two pale pink roses blooming above her blonde upswept curls; Mrs. Orville J. Taylor, wearing the short sable jacket that all of her friends covet; Mrs. Fred Herendeen in a duo-toned wool ensemble, a full coat of cocoa brown with revers of palest beige to match the jacket worn with a skirt of the cocoa brown, and a matching brown hat, and Mrs. Paul Walker, in a dress topped in sky blue.

Professional Members of Arts Club Open Exhibition Today

By Eleanor Jewett.

The most interesting exhibit of the week is the 28th annual exhibition by professional members of the Arts club, which opens this afternoon in the club galleries with a reception and buffet supper to the members, and opens tomorrow to the public. An unusual item in the exhibit is the portrait on steel of Lt. James B. Mullen Jr. by Buell Mullen.

Clinton B. King, familiar to many of us for his delightful still lifes and landscapes, is represented by a portrait of Mrs. Alden B. Swift. Maude Ellis, for a number of years a member of THE TRIBUNE art staff, has contributed a painting of a head—an intriguing impression in color, smallish and in a very rococco frame—entitled, "Eleanor."

The list of exhibiting artists includes many well known names. Nina K. Griffin, Charles P. Killgore, Anna Lynch, Clay Bartlett, Edithe Jane Cassady, Macena Barton, Antimo Beneduce, Oscar Gross, Sylvia Shaw Judson, and Moholy-Nagy, Frances Badger, Flora Schofield, Maude Phelps Hutchins, Paul Trebilcock, and John Storrs are among the outstanding participants in this brilliant Chicago show. It is rather a pity that these artists could not represent us, plus a strong contingent from the Chicago galleries, in the Chicago Artists and Vicinity exhibit at the Art institute so that, from being the most miserable exhibition of each year, it would leap into the upper brackets of the best.

The professional members exhibit will continue thru April at the Arts club, Wrigley building. The exhibit is open to the public.

Angna Enters has written a charming book—"Silly Girl." She calls it a portrait of personal remembrance and she has illustrated it herself. Miss Enters combines three talents in her genius, those of dancer, painter, and writer. She is a delightful personality, one of the most remarkable figures of our day, gifted with insight, taste, discrimination, perseverance, courage, independence, and humor. Her book is perhaps the most readable and captivating autobiography of the decade. It carries one from period to period of her development and never forces a mood nor overemphasizes a factor.

"Silly Girl" gives a clear understanding of Miss Enters' art as a dancer, the approach she takes to her miming and the view she holds of herself as an objective quantity in the picture she puts upon the stage. Her childhood was unusual and the early chapters in her book are enchanting with glimpses of her life here and abroad. A very young father and mother color the picture and the disregard of nursery routine that emblazoned her infancy leads one to wonder whether if more of us let the precepts slide, more geniuses might not result.

But genius is not the complete answer to Miss Enters' success. She did not find life easy, but came to her triumphs the hard way. She practically starved thru many years but no difficulty stopped her for long. Her book is gay, whimsical, honest, practical—a medley of per-

Month to Enter Competition of Fashions Contest

As THE TRIBUNE's American Fashions contest entered its final month yesterday, the selections board cautioned prospective contestants against further delay in writing for entry blanks and copies of rules. To qualify for consideration, finished designs must be postmarked not later than midnight, May 1.

In the four weeks yet remaining before deadline, both professional and amateur designers may work with confidence that they yet have sufficient time for executing a design in which they may take pride. Nevertheless, the earlier they enter the less hurried their work will be.

Prizes totaling $5,000 will be awarded in the 1944 contest. There will be two grand prizes, $2,000 for first and $1,000 for second. Third prize will be $500, and selections awards of $50 each will be made for the best 30 of all designs submitted.

Requests for entry blanks and rules should be addressed to "American Fashions Competition, The Chicago Tribune, 435 N. Michigan av., Chicago 11, Ill."

Women Clubs List Talks on Many Subjects

By Irene Steyskal.

As varied as the moods of the weather in this most variable of months are the early April program interests of the women's organizations in town. Politics and psychic phenomena, luncheons, art teas and scholarship benefit parties, travelogs, new medical research and spring gardening are a few of the items that figure in the Chicago club pattern.

A meeting assured a capacity attendance is the Tuesday afternoon tea gathering of the Chicago Woman's aid, whose clubrooms are in the Medical and Dental Arts building. Changing pace in a long run of weighty lectures and forums on war time problems, local and international, the Aid's board has arranged for Dr. Franz J. Polgar, whose field is telepathy, hypnosis and other psychic phenomena, to give his "Miracles of the Mind" program for the women that afternoon. The noted Dr. Polgar makes no claim to supernatural powers, but achieves baffling and amusing effects in his series of experiments that are both instructive and entertaining.

A second underscored meeting on the Aid's schedule this week is a Friday noon drama breakfast, bringing Vera Bantz of the Northwestern university school of speech faculty in a dramatized reading of John Van Druten's new comedy, "The Voice of the Turtle." Miss Bantz is to have the leading role in "Candida" this year in a University theater production on the Evanston campus.

A social highlight of the Municipal Art league's season is the fine arts tea, planned by Mrs. Maude Merritt, the vice president, for Friday, April 14. The party is to be held in the Arts club and Mrs. Merritt's roll call of distinguished guests for the occasion is a comprehensive representation of the city's cultural interests.

Katharine Warren of "Kiss and Tell" company will appear both as the theater's emissary and speaker at the tea. Edith Mason Ragland, former Chicago and New York Metropolitan opera star, will be the musical representative among the guests. Others on the special guest list are Dr. Preston Bradley of People's church; Frederick Sweet, associate curator of painting and sculptor at the Art institute; Edgar Miller, painter and recent winner of the Logan prize and medal; Mario C. Ubaldi, who won the Municipal Art league's war bond prize this year; James Bradley Griffin, director of the Uptown Players, and Marvin Mueller, the radio announcer.

Mrs. Merritt has recruited four well known women artists of the city to preside at the tea tables—Anna Lynch, Lucie Hartrath, Eugene Glaman and Bessie Holsman.

The Woman's Bar Association of Illinois is taking over the Chicago Bar association's headquarters at 29 S. La Salle st., Thursday evening for a dinner at which the guest speaker will be Judge John Gutknecht of the Municipal court. It is not, however, as spokesman for his profession that Judge Gutknecht will appear before the women attorneys, but to tell them of the most recent of his several visits to Central and South America. Presiding at the dinner will be Miss Eva R. Pollack.

Certain to stimulate minds to academic alertness again is the program planned for the meeting on Thursday night, April 13, by Chicago branch of the American Association of University Women. Dr. Elizabeth Z. Burkhart, who is continuing a research in endocrinology at the University of Chicago on an A. A. U. W. fellowship, is to lecture before the group that night in the Woman's City club suite in the Fine Arts building. Dr. Burkhart's talk will be on the present status of reproductive endocrinology research and the special aspect of the field to which she is giving her attention.

The occasion of Dr. Burkhart's appearance also will bring the group the unusual privilege of hearing Dr. Marion Talbot, emeritus professor, formerly dean of women at the University of Chicago. Dr. Talbot was one of the founders of the American Association of University Women and she took a major part in establishing its fellowship awards.

Among women's groups directing their members' attention to the forthcoming primary elections is the Lake Shore League of Women Voters, whose April meeting and tea is set for 3 o'clock tomorrow in the Town school, 1106 Lake Shore dr. Mrs. Lester May and Mrs. Walter Preston will give the program. "Who's Who and What's What in the April Primary" will be discussed and, focusing on the league's interest in the national political scene, the speakers also bring members to date on a Presidential platform written by the organization.

Mrs. Laura Hughes Lunde, secretary of the Illinois Women's Conference on Legislation, will speak at Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs headquarters at 2 o'clock Thursday on "Women's Responsibilities to the Ballot at the Primaries." Legislative bills of special interest to women will be discussed by Mrs. Guy E. Oliver and Mrs. F. A. Turner. The meeting will be under auspices of the federation's American citizenship department, of which Mrs. Wyllys W. Hagen is state chairman.

Juniors of the federation are gathering at 3 o'clock today at the Uptown Players center for a special junior program audition and tea arranged by Mrs. Lawrence J. Cashman, federation program bureau chairman, and Miss Dorothy Dohrmann, chairman of juniors

Catherine Gates to Wed the Rev. Robert D. Braby

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Gates of Lunt av. announce the engagement of their daughter, Catherine Jane, to the Rev. Robert Dan Braby, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Montpelier, O. A graduate of Northwestern university, Miss Gates has taught for the past two years at the Northbrook schools. She is the niece of Mrs. Raymond Rapp of Wilmette. The Rev. Mr. Braby, who was graduated from Wooster college and from the Yale divinity school, is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. N. Dan Braby of Battle Creek, Mich.

signed the room in its classic proportions and mounted the shells as if they were statuary.

Everywhere you look you see not only the beauty that it took a great deal of money to buy, but the touch of an artist's loving hand. Ceilings have amusing designs which he has painted, color glows everywhere. But there is nothing more amusing than was the entrance hall of the apartment he had in Chicago, where there were two real chairs and all the others were so realistically painted on the wall that not too observant visitors often attempted to lay their coats on them.

Chicago has much to be grateful to Mr. Bartlett for, but especially for the wonderful Birch-Bartlett collection of modern French paintings in the Art institute. They are the gift of Mr. Bartlett and his late wife, Helen Birch. His present wife, who was Evelyn Fortune Lilly of Indianapolis, completes the picture of decorative perfection. Great taste and great talent have made the house and gardens unique.

There's an interesting tale behind the ocean front Birch park—which will become public domain some day. Mr. Birch owned practically the entire ocean front of what is now Fort Lauderdale. He objected to the taxes levied on his then wasteland and refused to pay them. He finally compromised with the suing state and county officials, so the story goes, by deeding half the property for a park in exchange for a remission of his taxes—thus tossing millions of dollars away. It's a good story whether true or apocryphal. Meanwhile, across the road from that vast area, the Frederic Bartletts live and offer generous and enchanting hospitality to their fortunate friends.

End of Miami Resort Season Is Approaching

MIAMI BEACH, FLA.

The winter season is not over, but the end is in sight. By May 1, virtually all winter features will have finished their schedules and summer will be on.

Three leading clubs—Surf, Bath, and Indian Creek—will start their summer schedules early in May. In normal times all three close during the summer months, but during the war they have remained open to accommodate army and navy officers stationed here.

Signs of the times are those reading "vacancy," which in the last week or two have replaced "no vacancy" in front of several apartment houses. And hotel clerks no longer run and hide when they see a guest approaching the front desk, for it is likely that they now can accommodate him. Many leading hotels are still booked solid thru April, but there is a 5 per cent vacancy in hotels and the room shortage, which has plagued visitors all winter, seems to have passed the crisis.

The next two weeks will see the season's end of many tourist attractions. With the closing of Tropical Park next Saturday, thorobred racing will be over. The Biscayne Fronton, where the Basque game of jaialai is played, will close Friday. On the same day the Hollywood Kennel club will close, and on April 10 the Miami Beach Kennel club will follow suit, leaving open in this area only the Biscayne Kennel club, where the greyhounds will run thru May.

April 16 will mark the end of two annual events which appeal to two different kinds of visitors, for on that day the University of Miami Symphony orchestra will present its final program, an oratorio, and the Metropolitan Miami Fishing tournament will accept its last entries. The university's winter Institute of Arts and Sciences, which has wide appeal among the cultural minded, will close its series April 10 thru 12, with Ralph McGill as the final feature.

Visitors usually are rather relieved when all these formal modes of entertainment end, for then they can turn to the simpler pleasures of sun, sand, and surf, and regular winter residents declare the last two weeks of April are the most enjoyable time of their visits. Most of them devote part of their time to war work here, and at the height of the season, between that and the rush of activities, they have no time left to enjoy the beach.

Lt. William L. Graham, U. S. N. R., and Mrs. Graham, of Glenview, are living in Surfside while he is stationed here, and have as their guest Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcraft III. of Chicago, who will return soon to Washington to join Lt. Ashcraft. Mrs. Graham was noted at the Indian Creek club a few days ago with Mrs. Vilas Norton of Golf, former Illinois state golf champion here from Palm Beach to visit Mrs. James M. Cox Jr.

Mrs. Chauncey McCormick plans to remain at her residence on main highway, Coconut Grove, until May 1. Mr. and Mrs. Albert I. Appleton and daughter, Edith Marie, will leave for Evanston the first week of May. They have as guest at their Miami Beach home their 5 year old grandson, Thomas. He was accompanied by his parents, the Arthur I. Appletons, who have returned to Washington.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Miss Betty Corinne McAfee's engagement to Cadet Frederick C. Miller of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Peter Miller of Rockford, has been announced by her mother, Mrs. William Fort McAfee of S. Winchester av. Miss McAfee is a senior at Northwestern university. Her fiance attended the University of Chicago until his enlistment and now is stationed at the University of Missouri.

Penwomen to Recall Early Chicago Life

Miss Alice Gerstenberg.
[De Gueldre Photo.]

Members of Chicago branch of the National League of American Penwomen, who are making a highly enjoyable "let's remember" game of their meetings this year, will, figuratively speaking, view thru the stereopticon at their forthcoming tea meeting memories of painters, sculptors, and architects of early Chicago. The gathering is set for 2:30 o'clock Thursday, April 13, in the Arts club.

Carolyn Tyler, the miniature artist, is writing a paper for the occasion on the painters who were drawn to the frontier town in the earliest days and of the distinguished artists whom the Columbian exposition drew to the city and who remained to become identified with its cultural life. Her sketch will be read by Mrs. Robert Owen.

Nellie Walker, sculptor, is preparing a list and brief biographical sketches on the sculptors, and Mrs. Albion Headburg will talk on early architecture and especially about the Chicago Natural History museum [Field], which was one of the important buildings of the Columbian exposition.

Behind the group's return to yesterday for program material this season is the serious purpose of preserving for Chicago the names and biographies of her pioneers and important figures in the fine arts. At the April meeting, photographs, old programs, and other trophies that once bedecked the famous Little Room of Ralph Clarkson's studio, one time gathering place for a circle of famous artists, writers, and musicians, will be displayed. The Penwomen are serving as intermediary for the transfer of the material to the Chicago Historical society.

Lucille Pittman Leech will contribute a prelude to the program, reading selections from her new book of poems, "April Will Come."

The Penwomen's Chicago branch is headed by Alice Gerstenberg.

Chicago chapter of the Catholic Poetry Society of America will hear Mrs. Daniel B. Hayden in readings from contemporary poets at its meeting tomorrow night in room 1008 of the Fine Arts building. Betty Jane Bridges, soprano, will share the program with Mrs. Hayden.

The chapter's study group, headed by Adele Jordan Tarr, will have a preliminary creative writing session at 7 o'clock. Miss Mary Agnes Ryan will preside at the meeting proper.

A meeting of the Chicago Story Art league, which originally was to have been held Tuesday, has been postponed to the following Tuesday. Harriet Hammond McCormick Memorial Y. W. C. A. at 1001 N. Dearborn st., will be the meeting place.

Woman's Club to Give Annual Spring Musical

Mrs. Marjorie Elliott.

Memories of the 1943 Chicago music festival will be recalled at the Chicago Woman's club annual spring musical, to be given at 3 o'clock Wednesday in Curtiss hall. Marjorie Elliott of Oneida, N. Y., formerly of Glencoe, whose song, "March On, America," was written expressly for The Tribune festival in Soldiers' field, will present a program of her own songs, and her assisting artists will be the vocal winners of the festival contests—Lois Schauer, mezzo soprano, and Don Grambsch, bass. Margaret Abbey, violinist, also will play. One of the highlights of the presentation will be the singing by the audience of Mrs. Elliott's patriotic song, with Philip Maxwell, festival director, conducting.

Miss Schauer, who has appeared with the Chicago Theater of the Air and as soloist with an augmented orchestra for the midwest premiere of Irving Berlin's "This Is the Army," will sing five of Mrs. Elliott's songs. Mr. Grambsch is soloist in the Presbyterian church in Milwaukee, Wis.

Today Mrs. Elliott will be the guest speaker at a district meeting of the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs in Champaign, Ill., and the St. Cecelia Women's chorus at Aurora has invited her to speak at a spring luncheon Tuesday. Thursday morning will find her in the role of piano accompanist for Mr. Grambsch, who is appearing on a program arranged by the Conference of Club Presidents and Program Chairmen, to be presented in Fullerton hall of the Art institute. During her stay here Mrs. Elliott will be the guest of Mrs. William Raub of Winnetka and Mrs. Abbey, who resides in Evanston.

An artist in another field—that of juvenile writing—will speak at the 11 o'clock Wednesday morning program of the Chicago Woman's club. Miss Josephine Blackstock, author of "Wings for Nikias" and "Island on the Beam," and who has been superintendent of playgrounds in Oak Park for 15 years, will discuss "Recreation and the War." Mrs. Claude I. Palmer's home and public welfare committee arranged for her appearance.

Another musical of interest will be a presentation by the Chicago Woman's Musical club at 2 o'clock Thursday in the Fine Arts building. Program participants at this event, which is being directed by Mrs. R. K. Reid and Mrs. Margaret Jacobson, will include Annett Thorn Anderson, soprano, whose accompanist will be Blythe Owen; Gladys Gunderson, mezzo soprano, with Margaret Jacobson at the piano, and Hazel Wood as reader; Ebba Sundstrom, violinist, with Theodore Troendle as accompanist, and Heniot Levy and Beatrice Eppinelle, duo pianists.

Chicagoland Zonta Clubs to Meet Tuesday

Believing that the good neighbor policy should begin at home, the Loop Zonta club has invited sister Zontians thruout the Chicago area as well as Milwaukee members to an informal "get acquainted" reception and dinner party at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Cordon club.

Mrs. Kate Certa.

Mrs. Kate Certa and members of her committee on arrangements have decided that nothing encourages new friendships more than having fun together, and, accordingly, they have arranged a humorous program, which is to be threaded only at strategic intervals with a serious note.

To put the guests—all of them executive business women—in the proper mood, Koko, the clown, will be on hand to greet and entertain them before the dinner hour. Also in keeping with the spirit of the occasion, Dr. Margaret Barnes of the South Side club is preparing jingles about each of the members of her unit for a guessing contest concerning identities.

[Pennebaker & Ryan Photo.]

On the more serious side will be talks by the Oak Park and Evanston representatives, who, with Dr. Barnes, are to be introduced at the dinner hour by Miss Mary Dahnke, program chairman of the hostess group. Mrs. Nathalie McEwan will tell of the two free weekly citizenship classes conducted by the Oak Park unit for aliens of the community. Mrs. McEwan is instructor for the well attended classes, which meet in the South branch and Dole branch libraries. The project was undertaken by the club last fall, when it was determined there were about 800 aliens without citizenship in the Oak Park vicinity.

Representing the Evanston club will be Dr. Margery Carlson of the botany department of Northwestern university, who will speak of her work as chairman of war gardens for the city of Evanston.

Miss Inez A. Ridgway is president of the hostess club, and assisting Mrs. Certa on arrangements are Miss Karen Fladoes, Mrs. Elisabeth Haseltine Hibbard, Mrs. Marie Harrison, and Miss Gertrude S. Smith. Presidents of the guest groups include Miss Gladys Welge, Oak Park; Mrs. Keith Preston, Evanston, and Miss Martha Van Norstrand, South Shore.

Phoenix Guests Attend Annual Spanish Fiesta

By Ruth Dickinson.

Gay caballeros and beautiful senoritas mingled with Mexican peasants at the annual Spanish fiesta Thursday night at the Jokake inn, and all week long there has been but one topic of conversation, "What are you going to wear to the fiesta?" Every one entered into the spirit of the evening and came in costume. The inn might well have been an old hacienda in Mexico with its soft, pink adobe buildings, old carved Spanish doors, tiled fountains, and the air was filled with the fragrance from the acacia trees.

PHOENIX, ARIZ.

To Chester Sargent went the prize for the most authentic Mexican costume. He was dressed as a native fisherman from the province of Michoacan—an authentic dress of white cotton trousers wrapped around his waist, soft white shirt, a serape over one shoulder, and a wide brimmed straw sombrero. Mrs. Stuart Sherman and Mrs. James Carry, both of whom are exceedingly pretty, wore short red peasant dresses with white blouses and flowers in their hair. Mrs. Edward Cummings Jr., Mrs. Mead Johnson, Mrs. Charles Bowey, Mrs. Donald La Chance, and Mrs. Charles Meyer were in becoming costumes.

The La Chances had lost Michael, their famous burro, but the James Offields, who were at the party with the Wrigley Offields and Edmund J. Doering, assured the La Chances that Michael would be found in the morning in the Arizona Biltmore gardens eating the sweet peas—his favorite food. Foster Rockwell, Betty Rockwell, and George Gillespie also were with the Offields. The Wilbur Smiths, Mrs. Howard Fenton, the Williams Bentons, Robert Laird, Mrs. Robert Ware, Dick Searles, Jimmie Minotto, the Frank Octigans, the Frank Baldwins, the George Wolfs, the Claude Smiths, and the Jeffery Shorts were others present. A Mexican supper was served at midnight.

It was Robert Laird's birthday Saturday, and he celebrated not only with a cocktail and dinner party that evening, but staged a Red Cross benefit shuffleboard tournament during the day, which continued all day Sunday and which eventually was won by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ware. The money went to the Scottsdale chapter of the Red Cross.

Lt. John Elliott is arriving this week to stay with his parents, the William Elliotts, at the Jokake inn. Capt. Raymond Felt Koch also is arriving at the inn this week to spend his leave with his parents, the Raymond Kochs. He has been stationed at Flagstaff, but is being transferred to Fort Leavenworth to attend the service staff course at the command and general staff school there.

The John Whedons and Dan are spending Dan's vacation from the Latin school at the Jokake inn. The John Landreths entertained at cocktails at the Arizona Biltmore Thursday evening in honor of the Aubrey Mellingers, who left the following day for Chicago. Later the Landreths took their guests to the Green Gables for dinner.

Frank McNair is enjoying a few weeks of golf and riding and will then go on to Pasadena to visit his daughter. John Levis is spending his spring vacation with his mother, Mrs. Albert Levis. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Parsons gave a farewell party on Monday night for their Chicago friends.

Marjorie Woolfolk to Wed Corp. J. E. McFate

At tea at home today, Mr. and Mrs. Boyle Woolfolk of N. Sheridan rd. are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie Kathleen, to Corp. John Edward McFate of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Christy McFate of Oil City, Pa. Miss Woolfolk studied at Centre college in Danville, Ky., and received her degree from the University of Kentucky.

Adeline Altergott to Be Bride of E. A. Guerrero

Mr. and Mrs. Gottfried Altergott of Argyle street are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Adeline, to E. A. Guerrero, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Guerrero of Berwyn. Mandel Brothers

Tucson Offers a Wide Range of Diversions

TUCSON, ARIZ. Altho many winter visitors from the midwest soon will be packing up and heading back home, April is one of the best months out in this country. The days are June and the nights October and there is an end-of-vacation nostalgic atmosphere out at the ranches.

Of diversion there still is aplenty. The Yaqui Indians out at Pascua Village, northwest of the Old Pueblo, this week will hold their Easter ceremonial.

Ranch rodeos and jackpot roping still may be seen week-ends. And down south by the border Mexicans and Americans are preparing for the several day fiesta which celebrates next month's Cinco del Mayo, Mexican independence day.

Business is booming down at Nogales. Tourists buy Mexican huarachs, no shoe stamp required; gasoline, no ration book required; and nylon stockings, mucho dinero required. In addition, the celebrated Cavern still has some of the best steaks ever to agitate a human palate, an adequate supply of fire water, both imported and indigenous, and plenty of cerveza carta blanca, said by experts to be better than the beer which once made Pilsen famous.

Add to that list an occasional bullfight, and no better list of vacation attractions could be adduced by Shangri-La.

Top hostelry down at the border is Bob White's Rancho Grande, perched atop a high mountain eminence overlooking the twin cities of Nogales, Ariz., and Nogales, Sonora. Informal atmosphere, good food, cowboy dancing nightly, and a tranquil vista, unequaled any place, make it a resort at once restful and lively.

Among the present crop of Chicagoans at the Nogales ranch are Mr. and Mrs. Abbott Coburn, Mrs. Robert Eirenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney S. Gelman, Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Wineman and Mr. and Mrs. Lester B. Shafton and sons, Robert and Danny, of Glencoe.

Mrs. Jack Dougherty of Chicago arrived recently at the Hacienda Del Sol in the Catalina foothills, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Rollin I. Read, formerly of Hinsdale. Mrs. Leslie Miener and her sister, Mrs. Robert M. Brow of Chicago, are at the ranch, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCoy of Wilmette have just come out for a late season vacation.

Rancho Nezhone lives up to its name, "beautiful," in Navajo. Located 10 miles north of Tucson in a beautiful citrus grove surrounded by palms, the ranch is something which ought to be a movie set. As a matter of fact, it once was.

Mrs. Winston Elting and her daughter, "Bumpy," of Lake Forest, are seen riding out from the Silver Bell corral these days. The Talcott Griswolds of Winnetka also are recent arrivals at the ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Longmore of Chicago are at the Desert Grove, where they intend staying until the middle of the month. Maj. and Mrs. Lennox R. Lohr, with their daughter, Barbara, and son, Riley, are out at the Flying V, and attended the ranch western dance last week-end.

Down at Kenyon, near the Santa Cruz county line, Chicagoland guests include Randall Anderson of Geneva, Judge and Mrs. A. M. Eberhardt, Mrs. Ernest C. Hoy, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Estrem of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Allen of Oak Park, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kolbe of Winnetka.

Mrs. Paul Day of Chicago is over at the Hacienda Los Encinos; and at the Circle Z, are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Fleming and daughter, Jean, of Lake Forest; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Buck of Evanston, Mrs. Leon C. Welch of Evanston, Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Haugh of Highland Park, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rodgers of Oak Park.

At the stately El Conquistador this week are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Massema and Mrs. Charles Leffingwell of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Anderson of Winnetka. Mr. and Mrs. James H. Walsh of Chicago are at the Arizona inn, and at the Diamond W, are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jewett of Chicago and Miss Wilma Swissher of Evanston.

RECENT BRIDE

Mrs. Paul Pineider is the former Miss Lorraine Fratini, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fratini of N. Mozart st. Her marriage to Mr. Pineider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pineider of Florence, Italy, and Basle, Switzerland, took place in St. Timothy's church. Mrs. Pineider attended Mundelein college and the University of Florence. The bridegroom, who was graduated from the International college at Geneva, Switzerland, has volunteered as a ski trooper in the army.

Museum Plans a Friday Night Lecture Series

Stimulated by urgent needs, the research laboratory has developed new "wonder" drugs, new materials and new uses for materials, and many revolutionary techniques. This week the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park will open a series of Friday night lectures on popular science and technology by experts in various fields, several of whom are employing their special skills directly for the military. The hour set for each program of the series is 8 o'clock.

Seldom has a new drug so stimulated the public interest as penicillin. Friday night Dr. Milan V. Novak, professor and acting head of the department of bacteriology and public health at the University of Illinois, will lecture on the drug and how it is being used.

The following Friday will bring Dr. Marcus A. Grossmann to the lecture platform to report on "Advances in Steel Metallurgy." Dr. Grossmann is director of research for the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company.

Lady of the House

A Job for Paulina.

Vegetables for victory, flowers for morale—and "trees for tomorrow." We shall need them all.

Forest products industries are calling our attention to the fact that our "forests constitute a reservoir of versatile and readily renewable material which has assisted our country thru many national emergencies. We appreciate their value in war time because they produce abundant, easily worked material for fighting tools."

Barracks, planes, boats, ammunition, explosives, gas masks, smoke screens, paper, photographic films, shatterproof glass, steel, fuel, synthetic rubber fiber, sugar, plastics.

The mythical Paul Bunyan and his mighty crews have harvested some seven trillion [something for our "billionaires" to shoot at] board feet of lumber to build the nation. Now with our men at war it looks as if it's up to Paulina Bunyan—housewife, teacher, farmerette, whatever and wherever she may be—to turn to and help with the planting. There must be seed time if we would have harvest.

National and state conservation directors are asking for the fullest coöperation in their tree planting projects and are offering 2 to 4 year old seedlings at nominal prices. Forest cropping already is established and paying practice on many farms. Research laboratories constantly are finding new and amazing uses for the products. Wherever land is available for the purpose, let us plant trees so that "tomorrow" and thru the years our forests may shelter, nourish, protect and clothe us, and give us comfort and pleasure.

The Sky Sheep.

See the herds of sheep way up in the sky,
Grazing in their pasture blue.
See them run and scamper having so much fun,
Shepherd west wind's with them too.
See them leaping over the sun rails,
But look they've run away.
Wherever you've gone, little sheep,
Tomorrow come back to play.

—Kenneth Robert Sandberg.

It's Spring.

It's spring when tricky breezes
Start tugging at one's clothes;
One sniffles and one sneezes
And starts to blow his nose.
Look out! here comes a shower—
You'll catch it in the neck
Unless somewhere you cower
The while it rains like heck.
And should some raindrops trickle
And spot your brand new coat,
Remember spring is fickle!
Don't let it get your goat.

Lady April.

There's a lovely lady walking,
You'll know her when she nears.
Her breath is fragrant, gently blown,
And either smiles or tears

Are glistening in her azure eyes.
Her mood's capricious too;
One day she wears hepaticas
The next, small violets blue

Are nestling closely to her heart.
She loves them more than summer's shows
Of multi-petaled rivalry—
For her they face the biting snows
While sleeping meadows stretch and wake,
By her warm presence stirred.
And tho her nights are touched with frost,
There's music to be heard

O'er lonely vale and hillock
As she hums her silvery tune
In May she'll be more beautiful,
And then—a bride in June.

Molly Johnson.

Pansies at the gate, each one with its mate;

Be it "the lady of the woods" [birch] or the "Hercules of the forest" [oak], a tree is a great poet, a great teacher, and a great servant. Certainly the longer we look at one the more we learn, if we will.

Deep in the forest I find myself wishing that engineers who strive to lessen the noise of factory and shop could somehow catch the secret of how this greatest of factories works around the clock in complete silence. There is no talk of strife or strike. Every worker stays on the job and does the best he can as long as he lives.

Brandon Gives Ideas for New Yank Hospital

The possibility of establishing a convalescent camp in the state of Illinois for men released from service because of nervous disorders was suggested by Rodney Brandon, state director of public welfare, when he talked recently before officers and associate members, presidents and delegates of the 35 unit clubs of which the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations is comprised. Miss Agnes Vogler, chairman of institutions, introduced Mr. Brandon, whose discussion concerning the work of the state welfare department was highlighted by the plans he envisions for the camp.

Patterned along lines of those already successfully set up in England by that nation's ministry of health, it is Mr. Brandon's idea that a state psychiatric center for veterans with neuroses could be established thru the Illinois welfare department, and with assistance of the federal allotment being apportioned for the purpose of aiding disabled service men.

Mr. Brandon brought out the fact that already 55,000 names of Illinois men taken from service rolls have come back to this state. Approximately 20,000 of these, he said, represented men released for mental instabilities. He would divide these into three categories: those so ill they must go to a state hospital, those too ill to work but who could adjust themselves to home life, and those who would come midway between these two classifications—the neurotics who could be returned to normality within a short period thru the ministrations available at a convalescent camp such as he proposes.

It is his belief that one of the most difficult jobs we have to face within the next few years will be to readjust to normal living the mental attitudes of our young men who have been exposed to what he terms the "dis-civilizing" influences of this war. The first step he advocates in this direction is a kindly understanding by those at home of the effects likely to result thru the witnessing of war brutalities and atrocities, as well as a clear conception of what mental illness is.

Other speakers at the assembly, at which Mrs. Leonard Vincent Foley presided, included Bernice Van der Vries, a member of the Illinois legislature, who told the story of the future of women in legislation, and William N. Erickson of the board of commissioners of Cook county and president of the Republican club of Evanston, who spoke on civil service. Thomas H. Flood, executive secretary of the Citizens Civil Service Protective Association of Illinois, and Mrs. Willis W. Hagen, state chairman of American citizenship of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, were among the special luncheon guests.

A compact, pocket size volume, "Handbook for Army Wives and Mothers [and all other dependents]," was published this week. Its more than 250 pages of information, helpful suggestions, and constructive ideas are the work of Catherine Redmond, associate editor of the Infantry Journal.

The book tells wives and mothers of soldiers how they can best help their men; discusses personal war time problems and their relationship to the winning of the war; talks concretely about the selective service law, army etiquet, army operations, allotments, and dependency benefits.

Also in the volume are advice on whether to stay home or to follow one's service man to his post, what to do for the children, and information about civilian and military jobs for women, both volunteer and remunerative.

The book costs 25 cents and is published by Penguin Books, Inc. It is written in informal style and is illustrated with whimsical ink drawings.

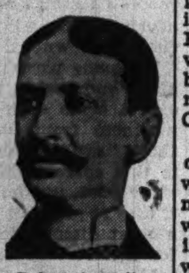
When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, April 2, 1896.

Dear Julia: I have given a small luncheon today at the town house of the Saddle and Cycle club, a small building at Pine and Superior sts. which used to be headquarters for a skaters' club. I had intended to have my friends at our house, but my cook wasn't quite well and I was able to take my guests here—a pleasant arrangement as an alternative to going to a hotel or public restaurant. It made me glad that Will decided to take out a family membership in the Saddle and Cycle club which seemed at first an extravagance for we shall probably not go very often out to the country headquarters of the Saddle and Cycle club at Edgewater. We're getting along in years, as Will frequently reminds me. Martha and Sandy go out often on their wheels and in warm weather enjoy swimming in the lake and I am glad to have them take the exercise. I was interested to hear today of the alterations which are scheduled for the little clubhouse out on Sheridan rd.



Robert A. Waller.

I call it little, but when it was built it was thought very commodious, so it is surprising to learn that now, in the club's second summer, the building must be enlarged. The Saddle and Cycle club was started more than a year ago by a number of fashionable residents of the north side and has proved a great success. It will not be able to take in any more members now, and has a long waiting list. The officers are very well known and popular men, which accounts for its prosperity. Robert A. Waller of our pioneer family is president; John M. Harlan, a prominent lawyer, is vice president; John C. King is treasurer, and Lockwood Honoré, a brother of Mrs. Potter Palmer, is secretary.

The architect for the alterations on the country clubhouse is Mr. Jarvis Hunt, a nephew of Richard M. Hunt, the eastern architect who died not so very long ago at Newport and who designed the Administration building at our World's Fair of 1893 in Chicago. The nephew was commissioned to design the building erected at the fair by his native state, Vermont, and liked Chicago so well he settled here.

His plans for the Saddle and Cycle club in Edgewater include a wide veranda along the east where members may lunch or dine in warm weather; a great wood burning fireplace in the sitting room; women's dressing rooms; a shed for horses; and even electric lighting. We are told that when completed the building will be long and rambling, half hidden by the sand dunes and sheltered from the public road on the west by a grove of oak trees. A corps of liveried servants under the direction of a competent chef will make dining there a pleasure.

I have bought a new brass bed for my guest room and am wondering if I like it as well as the old walnut one. When it was installed, I saw a cloud on the brow of the upstairs' maid, whose duty it will be to keep it bright. I'm afraid it will require a great deal of polishing. But every one is buying brass beds and one feels one must keep in step with the procession. Ever with love,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

Foot Notes.

The Saddle and Cycle club at Sheridan rd. and Foster av. is still one of Chicago's most fashionable organizations. Its "townhouse" at Pine [N. Michigan av.] and Superior sts. has long been but a memory.

Mostly Theatrical.

Mention of Albert Chevalier in this column has brought a flood of letters about that famous singer. Walter B. Sherman, Monmouth, Ill., heard him in London in 1891 in a song about Liza: "First she said she wouldn't, then she said she couldn't, then she whispered, 'Well, I'll see'." . . . Mrs. Henning Klonman, Michigan City, Ind., heard him in London, too. . . . J. N. Nolan of Chicago recalls his appearance at the New Alhambra, New York, where he shared honors with Vesta Victoria. . . . H. W. Getz, Moline, Ill., wonders why we didn't mention his famous song, "My Old Dutch." . . . Eric Hjorth of Chicago remembers Chevalier in an act representing a "ham actor" boasting of past triumphs, throwing his cigar away with a flourish. Finishing the song he looked furtively about and picked up the cigar butt . . . a striking bit of "business." . . . Mrs. R. A. Scheuneman of Chicago heard him in "The Fallen Star" and "The Workhouse Man," two monologs which the actor later presented to her husband. . . . Lucie Combet recalls his appearance with Yvette Guilbert. . . . Carolyn Tyler likens his success to that of Harry Lauder's. . . . From H. J. Mellum, Kenosha, Wis., comes a photostat copy of an elaborate McVicker's theater program of 1872, a most appreciated gift.

Constant Adult Criticism Often Affects Child

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Probably boys and some girls at the "inbetween" age get into more hot water with their grownups than at any other period. They cause more disturbance, annoyance, and impatience then, I often think, than in all the other years put together.

Now I know all about what these children from 7 to about 12 do. I've lived thru it, too. But, in spite of that, I still think that a lot of the friction which exists between parents and children of these ages is due to adults being too constantly critical of them, and expecting more of them in behavior than is reasonable during those boisterous, high spirited years.

Whether it's because, as adults, we have a trace of the dictator in us, or whether it's because we long for perfection in our children, I don't know. But I do know that a great many grownups are alert to the faults of children, and especially of these "inbetweens."

Take just the matter of manners as an example. How many of us are above reproach in this respect? If our "social behavior" were to be subjected to a critical appraisal, how many of us would achieve a rating of 100 per cent?

Among our grownup associates we don't think of expecting a detailed Chesterfieldian perfection of manners, morning, noon, and night, at work and at play. Yet many of us do expect it of our growing boys and girls.

Of course we want our children to be mannerly, a mannerliness based on considerations of the rights and comfort of others. And we achieve this gradually, little by little. But we have to realize, too, that children are vigorous, interested, unselfconscious and direct, and tend to go straight to the point in thought and action. This inevitably leads them at times to an unintentional disregard of the amenities. To be on the lookout for these slips, to pick each one up for reproof—to label a child rude—is unwise, and going much farther than we would with any adult.

Personally I'd hate to see a child so etiquet-conscious, so eternally aware of social situations and other people's feelings and needs that he never could lose himself in the presence of grownups.

Yet some parents and uncles and aunts and even a few grandparents expect some such impossible mannerliness from boys and girls at those "awful" inbetween years. It is this sort of thing which makes these poor, unoffending lads feel as if they're always "in the doghouse," a most discouraging state of mind for them.

If grownups only could overlook most of these unintentionally annoying ways of their "inbetween" age children, have a little patience and give them a chance to grow up, the children would respond much better to guidance and even to discipline when it is really deserved. And in the meantime they might think over the following points about "manners":

Example is a potent force in the formation of character and manners.

Children respond with the best that is in them in spirit and politeness when they feel warmth and approval in the air.

MRS. K. KEEPS A TREASURED Easter Tradition

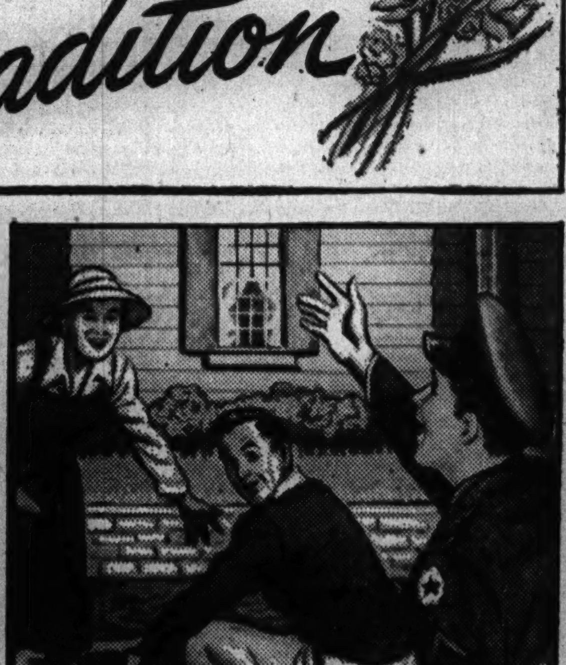
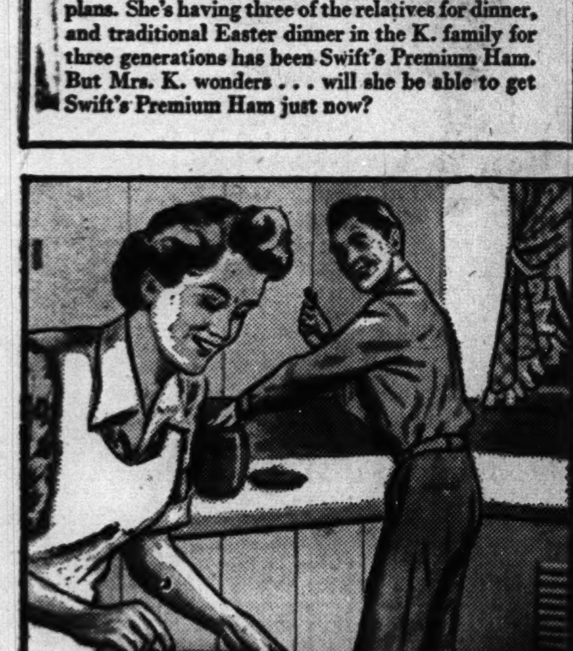
GRAND NEWS! A cable from son Ted—who's fighting in the South Pacific—says he's been cited for gallantry. Hopes family has happy Easter. Mrs. K., in joyous mood, starts thinking about Easter plans. She's having three of the relatives for dinner, and traditional Easter dinner in the K. family for three generations has been Swift's Premium Ham. But Mrs. K. wonders . . . will she be able to get Swift's Premium Ham just now?

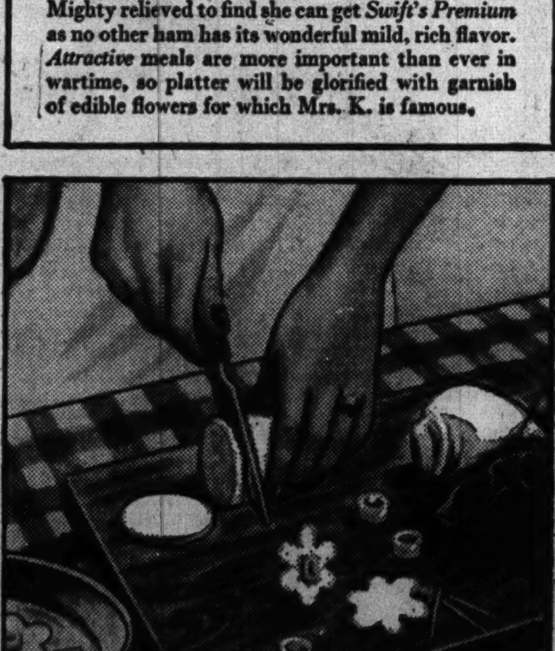
CONSULTATION with friend meat dealer brings more good news. He'll be able to let her have a butt end of Swift's Premium Ham, which can be "extended" if necessary with savory dressing. Mighty relieved to find she can get Swift's Premium as no other ham has its wonderful mild, rich flavor. Attractive meals are more important than ever in wartime, so platter will be glorified with garnish of edible flowers for which Mrs. K. is famous.



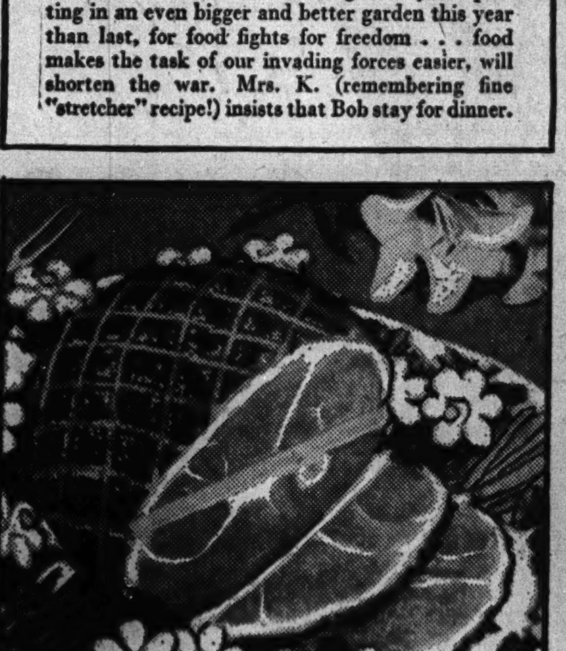
SURPRISE! SURPRISE! Who should drop in but an old schoolmate of son Ted's. He finds the K.s getting an early start planting their Victory Garden. As our Government urges, they are putting in an even bigger and better garden this year than last, for food fights for freedom . . . food makes the task of our invading forces easier, will shorten the war. Mrs. K. (remembering fine "stretcher" recipe!) insists that Bob stay for dinner.



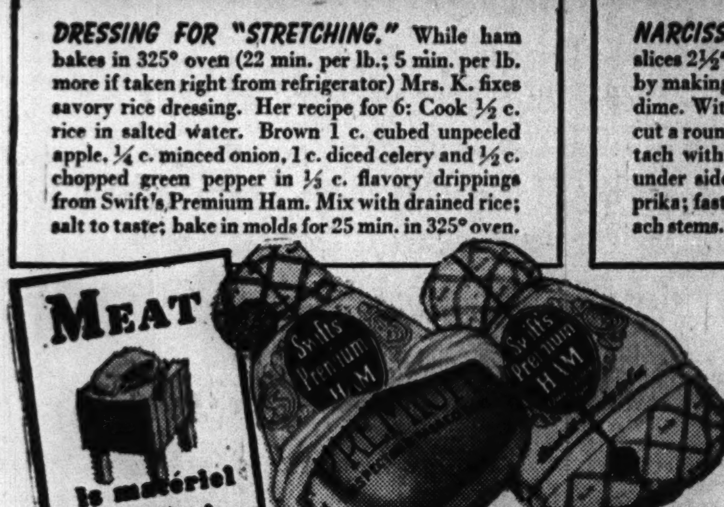
DRESSING FOR "STRETCHING." While ham bakes in 325° oven (22 min. per lb.; 5 min. per lb. more if taken right from refrigerator) Mrs. K. fixes savory rice dressing. Her recipe for 6: Cook ½ c. rice in salted water. Brown 1 c. cubed unpeeled apple, ¼ c. minced onion, 1 c. diced celery and ½ c. chopped green pepper in ⅓ c. flavory drippings from Swift's Premium Ham. Mix with drained rice; salt to taste; bake in molds for 25 min. in 325° oven.



NARCISSUS FOR GLAMOUR. Peel turnips; cut slices 2½" in diameter; divide each in 6 equal parts by making slits with knife, leaving a center size of a dime. With scissors shape petals oval. For center, cut a round shape from a thick slice; hollow out; attach with toothpick, leaving long end of pick on under side. Touch outer edge of "cups" with paprika; fasten picks into 2-inch high clusters of spinach stems. (Trim bottoms so clusters will stand up.)



EASTER FEAST! How Mrs. K. rejoices to see Bob and the rest enjoy Swift's Premium Ham. And how pleased she is with admiring comments on artistic garnish. She reflects that—what with extender dressing and glamorizing narcissus—Easter tradition could actually be kept with ham shank or slices. Any part of a Swift's Premium Ham, with its special flavor from Swift's Brown Sugar Cure, could be used this same way for an Easter feast de luxe.



Swift's Premium Ham

Ham is nutritionally important for its high quality proteins, B vitamins and minerals. Swift's Premium Ham (voted America's favorite!) comes in 2 styles: Blue label for easy cooking: Red label ready to eat. Look for the name Swift down the side.

"Kitchen—Witchery"

★ If you've a banana lover in your house—why not slip some banana-appeal right into your next batch of muffins? You'll be surprised how delicious a few drops of BURNETT'S Banana Extract can make them! Try it, too, in custards, frostings and fillings!

★ Try "glamourizing" soups—mushroom or rich black bean, with BURNETT'S Sherry Extract . . . a little in scrambled eggs makes a man say "AH"!

★ Give real "OOmph" to Chicken-a-la-King, canned or fresh fruit desserts, fruit jellies and meat sauces with a dash of BURNETT'S Brandy Extract!

No time to be despising thrifty cuts of meat these days of rationing . . . or to turn up your nose at meat-extenders when you're minus points! But I'd advise you to take a little thought as to how you can give them the tempting tastiness of the more "plutocratic" cuts! One helpful way to accomplish this is right on your Grocer's shelf . . . HEINZ Prepared Mustard! It makes a whale of a difference in the taste of plain wartime dishes!

★ Puts definite flair into Sandwiches and Salad Dressings!

★ Puts OOMPH into ordinary cuts of meat!

★ Perks up Ham and Eggs!

★ Saves your butter too!

HEINZ Prepared MUSTARD is made the old-fashioned way . . . from stone-ground mustard seed that's expertly blended with aged-in-wood HEINZ Vinegar and spice. Why not enlist this fine Mustard to help you out with "routine" dishes rationing forces you to serve . . . why not let it give a "pick-up" to special recipes? Ask your Grocer for HEINZ Prepared MUSTARD (either the mild Yellow, or racy Brown kind) this week . . . it doesn't take a single one of your ration points!

If I were the head of a girls' school, part of the regular curriculum would most certainly be Personal Daintiness . . . for what woman can be really charming without scrupulous attention to this indispensable asset? Yet, too many girls risk lovely femininity by relying on the bath alone for personal daintiness . . . forgetting that a hot bath often makes one perspire for some minutes afterwards. To guard against this, why not sprinkle yourself all over with AMOLIN Personal Deodorant Powder? It comes in a shaker-top box . . . is a dependable deodorant, soft, soothing and cooling to the skin! You'll find an added poise and self-assurance if you make AMOLIN Personal Deodorant Powder an after-the-bath habit! Ask for it at your Drug or Department Store!

We've talked several times here about RY-KRISP as a nutritional, all-purpose bread that's good for the whole family . . . about what a wonderful help it is to those on reducing plans (only 23 calories in a slice!) . . . about how it's made from a famous old Scandinavian recipe! So today let's just concentrate on how GOOD it tastes! Have you tried heating it a few seconds before serving? It has a hot-nut flavor I love, though it's so fresh and crisp, as it comes from the RY-KRISP box, it needs no warming for crispness sake! Spread RY-KRISP with your favorite canape recipes. See how they "cotton" to the rye-hearty flavor! Your Grocer can supply you. Ask him for RY-KRISP THIS WEEK!

Happy Birthday!

Do you have a long birthday list in April, too? It seems as if everyone I know was born this month under the lucky sign of Zodiac,—Aries. Birthdays always call for Birthday cards! . . . and you'll find every conceivable title or kind of greeting you need in better shops where RUST CRAFT cards are sold. Select a humorous card, a personal one or a very sentimental one, specially titled for that "special" person! Haven't you often received a card that reflects the thoughts of the sender so perfectly that it seems almost to have been specially written just for YOU? This is characteristic of RUST CRAFT verses . . . ask to see them!

When you check-up on the fashion-loot you've bought for late Spring . . . be sure to include a once-over for your hands! Are they as young-looking, as caressingly smooth and white in appearance as they should naturally be? Or are they roughened and red-looking . . . with skin coarsened from housework and from war and service work you've exposed them to? Then, lady, DO something about them . . . for they'll make you look older than you are . . . will give disenchantment to the new mood of charm you want this Spring. Let PACQUINS recipe for Hand-Beauty help you! Just smooth this fragrant, snow-white, creamy-textured cream on your hands, before and after exposure to weather extremes, and after working with your hands. REGULAR use of PACQUINS can help hands towards a smooth and lily-white appearance!

Don't "put off" that change-of-face you've been promising those sallow-looking rooms in your home! SPRED, the new paint that's made from soy beans, mixes with water instead of turps or other thinners especially for the woman who wants to beautify her rooms inexpensively, easily, HERSELF! Make your selection from the stunning range of colors at your GLIDDEN or Time-Tested Paint Dealer's, mix it with water, then start stroking it right onto your walls as they are. It covers wallpaper, is miraculously fast, dries in ½ hour without any "painty" odor! One coat is sufficient, so you can finish water-painting rooms the same day! Less than $3 buys a gallon in your choice of enchanting shades . . . and you'll have a prettier, more color-charming room by nightfall!

It's a shame to see people "cheating" themselves out of REAL value and lasting satisfaction through ignorance! That's why I say again . . . when you buy TOWLE Sterling you get 14 times as much precious silver for only a little over twice the cost of plate! Isn't that reason enough for insisting on TOWLE SOLID SILVER ONLY? Besides, a little over $20 brings you a place-setting with SIX essential pieces for one person, less than the cost of new draperies, or a new dress! Ask your Jeweler to show you the beautiful TOWLE sterling patterns . . . start buying Place-Settings, one at a time, in your favorite!

Gossip can be rewarding . . . if it's about useful, economical and practical BUY-LINES! So heed what thousands of smart women are saying about that wonderful facial you can give yourself right at home with EDNA WALLACE HOPPER'S Homogenized Facial Cream! All you do is pat it over face and throat with upward and outward strokes . . . leave on 8 minutes, then wipe off! Your skin appears marble-smooth, caressingly soft and glowing . . . for EDNA WALLACE HOPPER'S Facial Cream is more active and lubricates skin better because it's HOMOGENIZED! Faithful use helps bring dazzling beauty to face and throat . . . do try it!

How'd you like to work a bit of magic on your figure before you don your new Easter outfit? How'd you like to achieve a smoother, straighter, "head-up, chin-up, stomach-in" grace your Spring fashions will FIT? Then try my advice about the P. N. PRACTICAL FRONT CORSETS if you've any troubles with a protruding stomach or excess "girth and spread" you'd like redistributed! The famous inner-vest of the PRACTICAL FRONT CORSET "eases up" surplus flesh and gently lifts and supports the stomach in tugless, pinchless pleasure. Newest, lightest fabrics are used in this fashionable corset for mature figures . . . you'll find it comfortable and that it cuts inches from your figure! So why not invest in a P. N. PRACTICAL FRONT CORSET before Easter? You'll find it your smartest fashion investment!

"ZINNIA" by Yardley

Just a reminder of "Zinnia" . . . that wonderful YARDLEY face powder shade that's equally becoming to blondes and brunettes! Somehow, I feel that here's the shade you'll want to face the world with . . . just right for the new Spring "look" you want to give your skin! "Zinnia" is delicately golden peach in tone . . . smooth-as-mist in texture and softly clinging. Ask for YARDLEY'S "Zinnia". . . . but don't forget to see the other 7 shades of this famous English Complexion Powder. Cost is just $1 a box at finer shops everywhere!

No April-fooling about His Lordship's service . . . the special filter tip on VICEROY Cigarettes are made to check out tars, resins and irritants from every smoke! That's why VICEROYS are so mild and fragrantly smooth . . . with no sharp "tobacco bite" that offends in many other cigarettes. The round, smooth filter tip has other services, too . . . keeping all the tobacco IN the cigarette and OUT of your mouth, your purse, or on your brand new lipstick! Try VICEROYS . . . they're popular priced at your Tobacconist!

Lady, get off your knees! PRAYING to the demon moth is a waste of time . . . for answers to your prayers will be moth-eaten raggedness and fabric holes in precious woolen clothes, sofas, rugs, and decorative fabrics! But just add an "S" to your praying . . . try SPRAYING woolens with LARVEX and you'll have POSITIVE moth-protection for ONE WHOLE YEAR! That's because moth worms would rather starve than eat LARVEX-ed materials . . . which is the reason LARVEX has been used for years by big woolen mills and laundries. All you have to do to insure this year-long, moth-proofing service right in your own home is to get LARVEX from Drug or Department Store and spray it on your woolens . . . and that's ALL! No need for wrapping and storing, or even removing clothes from the closet. LARVEX is only 79c a pint . . . $1.19 a quart, and comes in economical, larger gallon and ½ gallon sizes . . . is odorless, and dry cleaning won't impair its SURE protection! Ask for LARVEX this week!

The War Time Bridal Gowns Still Romantic

By Rea Seeger.

According to important surveys and polls, informal bridal costumes, while not exactly taboo, are frowned upon by the men of the hour, the lads in uniform. Completely surrounded by G. I. jackets, blouses, coats, and hats, these men who are about to march down the aisle demand romance in the form of clouds of tulle, lace, gleaming satin, long gloves, veils, and all the prewar trappings of a big wedding.

So brides this spring are shopping for traditional bridal gowns, even if they plan only a week-end furlough wedding and two bridesmaids. Wedding gowns with long trains are at the top of the list as favorites. Whether of shimmering white bridal satin, lace, net, marganza, or airy mousseline de soie, skirts are wide and full, and trains are dramatically long. Such models cannot be worn for anything else but a formal wedding.

Veils of illusion are invariably short and the coronet or head dress arrangements to hold the veils may consist of realistic artificial flowers, crowns of seed pearls, halos of lace, or garlands of real flowers, such as bouvardia, valley lilies, baby gardenias, tiny rosebuds, and chaplets of buds and leaves.

Few bridal gowns are fashioned with anything but long fitted sleeves that taper down over the hands. The row of dozens of tiny covered buttons still march down the front or back of slim, streamlined gowns, and along the wrist closing of the sleeves.

Bridal satin in white or ivory remains the all-time favorite. Ranking in second place are the clinging, lovely creations of lusterless crepe; next are the beautiful young gowns of fragile looking sheers—marganza, organdie, mousseline de soie, and the all-lace or the lace with sheer. Lace this spring is used with satin, crepe, net, or other sheers.

Some of the most romantic bridal gowns are for young brides. They are gowns made of marquisette and other sheers. These models feature swirling skirts, defined, narrow waist lines, and elbow length or wrist length sleeves, either bell shaped, fitted or shirred down to the wrists.

Included in one large spring collection of new bridal gowns are the three beautiful creations sketched. Others of varying prices are available in a Chicago shop. For further information call Superior 0200.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

Hot Springs Plans Easter Dawn Service

By Mildred Peterson.

Hot Springs, Ark. [Special].—A natural amphitheater in Hot Springs National Park will provide the picturesque setting for this resort's tenth annual community Easter sunrise service next Sunday. Due to war restrictions the ceremonies were held last year, for the first time, at the base of the mountain, but this year the crowds of townsfolk and visitors will again climb or ride, when possible, to the mountain's height.

When the Easter sun comes from behind tree covered Indian mountain the white robed singers, choric readers and trumpeters will file down one of the mountain trails to the amphitheater singing Easter hymns. The program, which will be broadcast, includes the singing of simple and popular Easter hymns and the worshipers are invited to take part in the service.

Some of the singers who will take part in the annual Easter sunrise service at Hot Springs National park.

The custom of greeting the Easter dawn with an hour of outdoor worship service, was begun in 1934 by Mrs. Elizabeth Bowe Sims, under the joint sponsorship of the National Park Service and the Hot Springs chamber of commerce, with the coöperation of local churches, organizations and individuals. Mrs. Sims annually trains the singers and participants for both the Easter and Christmas eve programs.

For months the over 100 singers, members of the Hot Springs Choral club, the High School Troubadors and various church choirs, have been rehearsing. Yearly the event grows in popularity and thousands of persons wend their way to the foot of the huge cross of native wood, where the service is held. National Park rangers and Boy Scouts will guide the worshipers, many of whom ascend the mountain in the early gray dawn pick their special points of vantage from which they will watch the sun rise and attend the religious service.

Spring is one of the loveliest of seasons in this national park where the flowering shrubs and trees add color to the evergreen trees and everywhere the wild grasses and flowers are in blossom.

Nature lovers and hikers enjoy the nature trails, with interesting trees, rock exposures and other natural features labeled along the wayside. The rangers also conduct regular hikes and walks over mountain trails covering the park's 1,006 acres.

If requests of the Arkansas planning board for post-war development are accepted by the National Park Service, Hot Springs National Park will be extended to the shore of Lake Hamilton and possibly to the proposed new lake which would be created by the construction of Blakely Mountain dam. This would more than double the park's present size. Post-war plans, according to John W. Emmert, park superintendent, call for the replanting of the famous magnolia and holly trees on Bath House Row, a formal development of a promenade joining the city of Hot Springs with Hot Springs National Park, and the building of a cooling system and storage tanks for cold water, similar to those containing the hot thermal waters used for the health baths.

Pinehurst Resort Is an Ideal Spot for Horse Lovers

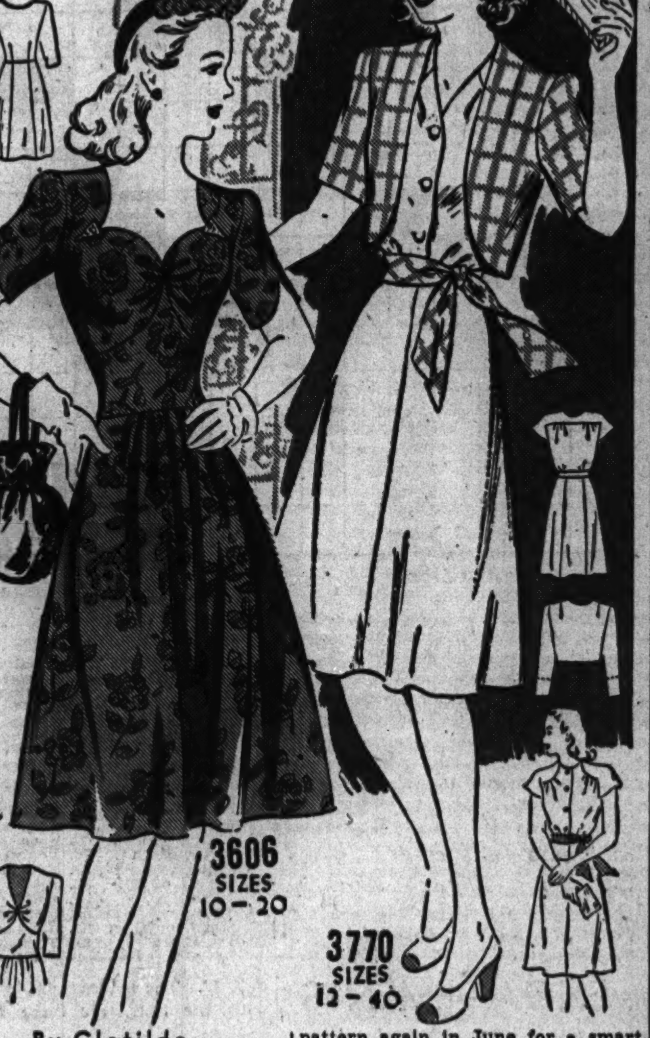
PINEHURST, N. C. [Special].—Equestrian activities at this resort are threefold, with interest divided between riding and driving horses, trotting horses and polo ponies. More than 50 trotters and pacers are now stabled at the Pinehurst race track to prepare for harness races next summer. The number of privately owned mounts in Pinehurst, particularly hunters, increases each year.

Pinehurst is one of the few places in the United States where polo continues. Top ranking goal players who are now in uniform compose the teams.

Train to Make Stop for Wisconsin Fishermen

The first spring "migration" of Illinois fishermen into Wisconsin opens the wall-eyed pike, pickerel, and crappie fishing in the Wolf, Rock, and Fox [Kenosha county] rivers the morning of April 15. To accommodate fishermen who will go to the Wolf river valley by train T. J. Nolan, city passenger agent of the Soo Line, announced this week that the train leaving Chicago at 5:50 p. m. on April 14, 15, 16, and 17 will make a stop at Weyauwega, Wis., one of the popular fishing spots on the Wolf river valley.

Patterns by Clotilde



By Clotilde.

Simplicity of line which allows the new spring fabrics a priority on fashion is the principal characteristic of these frocks. Both are designed for versatility, because they may be worn during a busy day and stay on in town for an evening's festivity.

The model with heart-shaped neckline, the scallops of which are echoed in the short sleeves, is a natural for the gay, splashy prints which are everywhere this spring. Add your favorite jewelry, and you're "all dressed up" with somewhere to go.

The revival of this spring, the bolero, gets into contrasting fabric to do extra honors for the softly tailored dress of No. 3770. It's the sort of dress which ideally bridges the seasons, going smartly into summer from spring. You can use the pattern again in June for a smart cotton ensemble.

Style No. 3606 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 39 inch fabric.

Style No. 3770 is designed for sizes 12 to 40. Size 16 requires, for dress, 3 yards of 39 inch fabric; for bolero and sash, 1⅞ yards of 39 inch.

Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Southern California
Previews the new Southern California now in the making—for you

The same year-round sun, peaceful deserts, indolent beaches and silent peaks up near the sky. All with a new meaning now, dedicated to Victory.

From green valleys flow rivers of orange juice, to keep English children alive...oceans of gasoline for bombers, to keep all children safe. Beaches made for play now witness myriad Victory Fleet launchings. Deserts echo the rumble of tanks, and rattle of guns, as our boys train for Victory.

Yes, a new Southern California in the making. You can't see it now. You can, when the guns cease firing. Hasten that day.

According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson
[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

One of the best reasons for being extremely sparing with doubles of slam contracts is to preserve the full significance of the doubles that are employed. In the following deal West's failure to lead the suit called for by his partner's double almost wrecked the defenders' ship.

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH
♥K 8 3
♣K J 10 7 6 4

WEST
♠9 6 4

♥6 5 2
♦K Q J 4

SOUTH
♠Q J 8 2
♥A 7 4
♦A 3
♣A Q 9 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 diam. [!]	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
6 clubs	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Redouble

East sensed that North had made a fake diamond bid, largely to forestall the lead of that suit, and doubled the final six club contract as an urgent demand upon West for a diamond lead. A penalty double under such circumstances strongly suggests that partner open a suit bid by the opponents, and since East knew that West could not interpret the double as a call for a trump lead, and since diamonds had been the only other suit mentioned by North or South, East was confident that his message would be understood.

North shared East's confidence to such an extent that he resolved to do everything possible to confuse the issue for West, hence the redouble that purported to say, "Go ahead and lead a diamond—I dare you!"

West refused to take the dare—he opened the heart queen. The king won, and declarer drew the outstanding trumps in two leads. Now the spade ace was cashed and the low spade was led toward the closed hand. Right here East had the chance to recover from his partner's initial error, and, to his credit, he rose to the opportunity. Observe that the play of the spade king at this juncture would have established two spade tricks in the South hand, permitting the discard of a diamond and a heart from dummy. East, however, boldly played low—and after that South was battling for a lost cause.

Wood violets speak of spring and their perfume, truly translated in a delightful fragrance series, is an unmistakably good choice for spring time wear and Easter giving.

If you're playing Easter bunny this year to some one who has a weakness for violets, give her one—or, if you're an extra generous rabbit—all of the items in a perfectly entrancing, wood violet fragrance set that has just made its debut.

We personally confess to being flagrantly pleased with it, perhaps because at this time of the year, like most city bound souls, we're a push-over for anything that captures the tangy sweetness of spring. But these, we know, are all incidental reasons, and the actual wellspring of our liking lies in the true and completely natural violet fragrance as translated in these perfuming agents.

A real wood violet has something more than the perfume of the flower; it has the scent of moist earth and spicy greenery hovering about it—the notes so often disappointingly lacking when the bloom is "packaged." They're present in all their appealing beauty in this fragrance series, each piece satisfying, as a bunch of the flowers themselves.

We'd be hard put to decide which of the items in the line we like best. There are the wonderful perfume itself and companion eau de toilette all done up in primly plain bottles, a perfectly delightful bath oil, and then there is an irresistible box of dusting powder. The powder itself is pleasantly fluffy and fragrant and the box is shyly elegant, topped with a corsage of violets intended to adorn the fair owner. Finally there are some exquisite hand sewn sachets in glimmering white satin, all heavily scented and ready to transfer their lasting perfume to dresser drawers and their contents.

Mrs. Violet Yates, San Diego, Cal.—Since oilcloth is less plentiful now, we must take extra good care of what we have. Wax both sides with a good paste or liquid wax. Then once a week, if necessary, wash with mild soap and water and "in between times" use only a damp cloth. You will see that the oilcloth will last much longer.

Mrs. Dorothy Schwinn, Los Angeles, Cal.—When I cook sauerkraut or bacon or anything with a strong odor I burn a teaspoon of powdered cloves in a little water, adding water as it evaporates. This is most effective and gives the house a fresh smell.

Mrs. Fred O., Lima, O.—This year we are giving the screening on the south side of our house a coat of thin white paint. In this way those on the outside can't look into our rooms, but we can still see outdoors.

Mrs. Andrew T., Chicago—Let's hope that this is the year when plastic awnings appear, since canvas is out for the duration. A plastic awning which is heat resisting and yet transparent would be a comfort since we could still have our rooms light and cool.

Mrs. Thomas G., Detroit, Mich.—When I find a first aid bandage raveling and soiling I apply a little colorless nail polish to edges and tops of roll. It is a help.

Now—your idea—please.

New Cut-Outs Come Pasted, Ready to Apply

By Edith Weigle.

There's a clever new way of decorating plain painted walls and it is so simple that any one can do it. It consists in applying ready pasted cut-outs of flowers or ivy in a design suggested by the manufacturers or in any manner that is pleasing to you.

These cut-outs come in a package containing seven pieces: a large center design and six sections or strips. They can be arranged in bouquets, garlands, or sprays for a border, or dado, or swag. Use them, for example, to frame the space about a picture or mirror, or paste them up over a bed or the fireplace.

Because they are nicely styled and beautifully colored they are fun to work with and will brighten any plain plaster or painted wall. [They are not satisfactory over calcimine.] As they already have paste on their back all you need do is to wet them, then apply them directly to the wall. Full directions are printed on each package.

Six floral patterns are available in this new type of decoration and among them you can find one that is suitable for any room in the house. For the bathroom, for instance, there is a lotus pool cut-out which includes not only the lovely blossoms with their wide green leaves, but also a design of white birds hovering overhead. If you wish, the birds may be cut from the strip and pasted separately on the door panel or a mirror or on the fronts of the drawers of a chest. Or use them as ceiling decorations.

Especially attractive is the package containing seven cut-outs of ivy. For the center there is a large, circular cluster of ivy leaves and the accompanying, separate strips, each numbered, show graceful branches of this trailing plant.

For the living room there's a Victorian floral in blue, rose, green, and cream tones, and for the bedroom, a charming design of morning glories.

Besides enlivening plain wall surfaces the ready pasted cut-outs are a clever idea for decorating waste baskets, screens, paper or parchment lamp shades, canisters, painted furniture or door panels, and cupboards. Use them, too, on wooden or composition valance boards over windows, or as frames for the window trim. They lend themselves to many different treatments.

It's planned to add to the first six floral patterns, which are now on the market, and which are priced at 59 cents a package. At this price you can afford to experiment with them and you'll find it as much fun as a game.
